Report Queen May Restore Windsor Income

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Feb. 18 (CP)—The Duke of Windsor's income was again the subject of speculation in the British press Sunday.

The Star takes up the theme which has been mentioned by other columnists since the death of the King and Windsor's trip from New York to attend the funeral.

The Star makes these two observations:

1. It is generally believed that the duke, who draws nothing from the civil list since he gave up the throne to marry Wally Simpson, received a yearly allowance of £25,000 from the personal fortune of the late King.

2. This allowance is believed to have stopped with the King's death, giving rise to the question of whether the new Queen will maintain it.

The Star says that if the Queen decides to continue the allowance, all or part of it must come from her own fortune. The Queen is known to be fond of the Duke.

The Associated Press, in a dispatch from Carter L. Davidson, says Elizabeth is also known to be fond of the Duchess, and says some court observers believe she may influence Queen Mary to relent in her rejection of the Duke's wife.

The Star says there is one consolation for the Duke, whatever happens. It estimated that publication of his memoirs in America alone has produced £250,000.

Two Sunday newspaper join the Star in speculating that Windsor may even come back to live in England with his wife.

The mass circulation Sunday Pictorial and the Reynolds News both cite the King's long-standing friendship with Prime Minister Churchill, who invited the Duke to dinner last week.

The Pictorial says many people believe the Duke is anxious to take on some official job again. During the Second World War he was governor of the Bahamas. Since then he has offered his services, but has not been called on.

Will things be different now that Churchill is Prime Minister? the Pictorial asks.

New R.C.A.F. Training Area Northern Bushland And Muskeg

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

EDMONTON, Feb. 18—(CP)—A sparsely-settled chunk of bush and muskeg country along the Alberta-Saskatchewan boundary 175 miles northeast of Edmonton is being converted into a super-bo[illegible]rg and rocket range for the R[illegible]

The $14,0[illegible]0,000 project will provide a mammoth airport which will have an ultimate population of 5,000 air force personnel and their families. It will be the operating base for pilots training on the bombing zone.

A five-mile railway extension, concrete runways 1½ miles long and a big water and sewer system are planned for the airport area which is about 200 miles northwest of Saskatoon and about 80 miles north of Lloydminster, Sask.

The great increase in speed and firing power of modern warplanes compared to Second World War models has made former training areas obsolete. It was necessary to find a huge area, comparatively unsettled but still having full communication facilities with settled areas. These conditions dictated choice of the Cold Lake-Primrose Lake site.

The Alberta section of the range area now is not too productive except for furs. At present there is no mineral development in the area, which looks "less promising" than most other parts of the province.

To depopulate the bombing zone, the Alberta Lands Department is not issuing new permits to trappers, fishermen and lumbermen as the air force makes the sub-marginal area into an aerial counterpart of the army's huge Suffield experimental area in southeastern Alberta.

A government official is arranging financial compensation for the 90 trappers, 35 lumber operators and the few fishermen and settlers now in the Alberta section. Similar steps are being taken in the Saskatchewan section.

Barred From Range

All trappers and fishermen must be off the range by Sept 15 this year, but lumbermen will be allowed to continue operations next winter on the west side and in the southeast corner of the Alberta section.

For the short time remaining, regulations have been relaxed. Trappers, normally limited to a catch of 10 or 12 beaver, now can take as many as they can. Fishermen's quotas have been waived.

No concern is felt about depletion of these natural resources. If is expected that ultimately the areas will be returned to the Alberta and Saskatchewan governments. Alberta officials don't know when that may be but they say that by then wildlife will have reproduced back to normal levels.

The bombing range area is one of sand, bush and muskeg. Between the water areas, there is timber on the ridges but it is not a high production zone for lumber. However, it is an excellent fur-producing region and the loss of these furs will be felt.

The 4,600-square-mile bombing range is 40 miles from north to south and 115 miles long—51 in Alberta and 64 in Saskatchewan. The airport, 10 miles southwest of Cold Lake, is set apart from the bombing range.

"The area won't be ruined," an Alberta official said. "We visualize the air force setting up fire-protection guards. Bombing will be done in a confined area."

Canadian National Railways is biulding a five-mile spur line into the eight-square-mile airport area from Beaver River, Alta. A 12-inch water line will run about 10 miles from Cold Lake to the airport.

They're often a sign that your body needs the kind of help Kruschen Salts can give in promoting the healthy action of the intestines, where food is digested, and the kidneys. You see, Kruschen is not simply a gentle but effective laxative—it is also a diuretic, which means it has the property of aiding the kidneys, too, in their job of getting rid of waste matter. Bancroft Pupils Declare New Allegiance

BANCROFT, Feb. 18 (ENS)—Throughout North Hastings special memorial services were held in tribute to the late King George VI. in all elementary and secondary schools Thursday afternoon.

Bancroft Public School assembled its 350 pupils and staff for a ceremony in the lower hall. Led by Mrs. Mary Schram the gathering sang "O God our Help in Ages Past" and "Abide With Me." Mrs. Frances Twa read the special prayer that had been requested by Queen Elizabeth II. and Mrs. Margaret Musclow gave a brief address on the subject "Our Late King." Preceding the National Anthem, everybody (led by Principal J. W. C. Hutton), saluted the flag, at the same time repeating a pledge of allegiance to Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth.

At North Hastings High School four local ministers assisted with the special service. The Rev. Kingsley Cutler, St. Paul's United Church, was the officiating clergyman. An address, "The Late King," was given by the Rev. Walter Smith, St. John's Anglican Church. The lesson was read by Rev. W. W. Stevenson, Bancroft Pentecostal Church, and Mr. Simon Bronson, Brethren Church, led in prayer. Also on the platform were Principal W. R. Robinson and Alexander W. Smith, Inspector of Public Schools for North Hastings. Carol Wiggins, a Grade 13 student, was pianist for the hymns.

Labor Legislation Program Placed In Important Spot

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 18 (CP)—The heaviest program of labor legislation in several years is planned for the session of parliament opening Feb. 28.

Indications are the government will propose changes in two key measures administered by the labor department, those dealing with unemployment insurance and government annuities. Industrial relations machinery also may be overhauled.

Apart from a controversial change in government annuities legislation temporarily shelved at the last session, the main proposal likely will be one to cut the statutory waiting time required before jobless persons can collect unemployment insurance benefits.

At present, the waiting period for which no insurance is collectible is a minimum nine days any given year. A proposal expected to go before cabinet from the labor department is that this time be cut to five days.

Reduction in the waiting time would be a large step towards meeting demands of labor unions, who have been insisting for some years that the period should be substantially sliced.

While the insurance act is opened up, there also will be some other changes made. It is expected these will deal largely with administrative procedures.

Annuities Act

Major amendment to the Annuities Act will be to increase to $2,400 from $1,200 the amount of the annuity that can be bought under the government plan. This bill, introduced at the fall session of parliament, ran into heavy opposition and was dropped temporarily when it appeared the controversy might stretch the late-year sitting into 1952.

Labor organizations have favored the larger amount, but it has been opposed by insurance companies. Another point of controversy in the government bill was a provision for cashing in annuity contracts, not now permissible. Some Progressive Conservative members took exception to one or another of the new sections.

There is some probability that the cash-surrender proviso will be dropped from the bill — for the coming session, at least — to smooth the way for passage of the higher maximum amount for annuities.

The Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act, kingpin of Federal labor legislation, has not been changed since its passage in 1948 and has been under study for some time with a view to revision in the light of four years of operation. Labor organizations have been pressing for several changes, including extension of its scope to take in more industries.

The bill now applies only to certain inter-provincial industries such as railways and communications.

Barber Presents United Nations New Problem

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—The United Nations has a new problem—a Third Avenue barber It may take an act of Congress to end their dispute.

The U.N., already grappling with such vital issues as Korea and world disarmament, now must contend with Tom Fucarino—occupation, barber — address, Third Avenue, New York, U.S.A.

Fucarino, whose shop is in the east side area of the new U.N. headquarters, went to the county clerk back in 1946 and registered the name of the shop as "United Nations Barber Shop."

But just a few days before the registration, the U.N. General Assembly adopted a resolution against the use of its title for commercial purposes.

Nobody Knew

The barber didn't know about the U.N. resolution, and the world organization didn't know about Fucarino. The county clerk's office apparently was in the dark, too. Then a couple of weeks ago someone reported the barber to V. J. G. Stavridi, a U.N. official.

Stavridi promptly dispatched a letter to the Third Avenue barber requesting that he "cease using the name."

But Fucarino, who has been barbering for 32 years, said he had no intentions of changing his shop's name until some one proves he is breaking a law.

That's where Congress comes in. There just isn't such a law in the United States, although the U.N. has asked Congress to back up its resolution with federal legislation.

Stavridi admitted that, for the time being, he just can use persuasion on Fucarino.

Remember when you got

The Most Wonderful Bike in the World?

Sure you do!

Even now you can picture how your first bike looked in all its glorious, sparkling newness . . . how the other kids envied you . . . and how, suddenly, you felt that you had wings!

And do you remember how you got the money for it? The dimes and quarters you saved out of your allowance weren't enough. So you earned extra change doing chores. Slowly, so slowly, the total grew. Then, one great day, the bike was yours!

You learned then about the necessity for saving to get some of the things you want most. But has time dimmed your memory of the lesson you learned so long ago?

If so, remember — nothing has changed your needs for money in the future. Nor has any magic substitute been found for thrift.

Today, millions of Canadians are practising their good habit of thrift by keeping up their life insurance payments to protect their families, while saving for the future. They've discovered that, to reach their goals, they must put money aside regularly.

Are you following their example?

Life insurance works for you these other ways:

Every dollar you set aside in life insurance (or save in bank deposits or savings bonds) helps to check inflation, thus protecting the value of all your money.

Life insurance helps improve your living standards, too. For a large part of each dollar you pay in premiums is invested for you in ways that help provide new homes, schools, highways, power plants and other vital projects throughout the nation.

Thus today, when you put aside money in life insurance, you are providing security for yourself and your family . . . working to check inflation . . . and promoting progress for all.

Ford Agreement Expected Within Hours, Daley Says

Battling To Save 33 Survivors On Tanker's Stern

CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 19. (AP)—Rough Atlantic seas boiled anew today under freshening winds as the Coast Guard cutter Eastwind neared the stern of the severed tanker Fort Mercer which has 33 survivors aboard. Nine men were believed lost from the tanker Pendleton, which suffered the same fate as the Fort Mercer in Monday's blinding snowstorm. Nine others are unaccounted for. Thirty-two were saved Monday night. The drifting wreck of the Mercer was about 50 miles off Cape Cod.

At Coast Guard headquarters it was considered probable the Eastwind might throw a line aboard the Mercer and tow her into Boston rather than attempt a rescue in the rough sea.

The cutter Yakatat, meanwhile, reported taking four survivors off the bow of the Mercer before it overturned in heavy seas. The message said the Yakatat planned to sink the wreckage with gunfire.

Among those rescued by the cutter were the Mercer's captain, Frederick C. Paetzel of Houston, Tex., and Purser Edward E. Turner, Jr., of New York city.

Weather Worse

The Yakatat reported the weather was growing worse and that she was unable to remove two other survivors by boat. She said she would try to shoot a line aboard and use a raft to effect a rescue.

The Eastwind replaced the cutter McCulloch which was ordered back to Boston. The McCulloch reported no sign of life aboard the bow of the Pendleton which was aground 1,500 yards off the Pollock Rip Lightship.

First word that 33 survivors were aboard the stern half of the Mercer came from the military transport Short Splice just after rescue operations resumed at dawn.

"We have just contacted the stern of the Fort Mercer," the Short Splice messaged coast guard headquarters. "There are 33 survivors aboard. They all seem o.k. The stern is riding good."

Among those feared lost in the bow of the Pendleton was her skipper Capt. John Fitzgerald, 38, of Boston.

Thirty-two seamen were rescued from the fourth section by the light of flares in a daring, split-second operation carried out in the face of a screaming northwest storm off perilous Chatham Bar.

A moment after the rescue, that section of the split tanker was smashed against Chetham Bar by breakers 25 or 30 feet high.

The two American tankers — the Pendleton and the Fort Mercer—apparently broke up at almost the same time Monday in the winter's worst storm off this little fishing port.

Five, and possibly six, men perished early today when they leaped from the tossing bow of the Fort Mercer and missed the bouncing life rafts put out by the coast guard cutter Yakutat.

One man was lost while coast guards were taking the 32 seamen from the stern of the Pendleton.

Military Chiefs Refuse To Cut NATO Forces

LISBON, Feb. 19 (AP)—Militarfy chiefs of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization refused today to approve sharp reductions in 1954 goals for the international defence force the west is raising.

The cuts were recommended by N.A.T.O.'s temporary council committee under U.S. mutual security administrator W. Averell Harriman. Its job was to recommend how much force could be supported by Europe's hard-up economies.

N.A.T.O. informants said the committee urged a 15-per-cent cut in land-force goals and up to 20-per-cent reduction in air force plans.

Generally-accepted estimates of what the military men are demanding by 1954 include a land force of 100 divisions, either on active duty or in immediate reserve.

Financial Decisions

N.A.T.O. sources said the final decisions between military requests and economic resources now will have to be made by the N.A.T.O. council of foreign, defence and finance ministers, which begins meeting Wednesday.

A joint committee of economic and military men and a session of the full Harriman committee with the military committee Monday night tried to iron out differences but apparently failed to agree.

Delegates Agree On Final Clause

MUNSAN, Korea, Feb. 19 (AP)—Negotiators agreed today on the final clause of a Korea armistice, but two major hurdles still blocked a truce settlement.

Today's agreement: To recommend that belligerent governments hold a high-level political conference within 90 days after an armistice to consider "withdrawal of all foreign forces from Korea, the peaceful settlement of the Korean question, etc."

Other staff officers are working on two other uncompleted clauses. But they are skirting around the two big unsettled questions:

1—Voluntary repatriation of prisoners of war.

2—Rebuilding of Red airfields during a truce.

The wording of the political conference recommendation was drafted by the Communists, including the "etc."

Staff officers working on the prisoner-of-war clause "continued to make slow progress," a U.N. communique said.

Most of the two-hour and 20-minute session was devoted to "meticulous details of phraseology," said Col. George W. Hickman. He said they were "just about in complete agreement" on the last five paragraphs of the nine-point clause. But he would not guess at when they would be through.

Impose Landing Tax At British Airports

LONDON, Feb. 19 (CP)—Imposition of a landing tax on all fare-paying passengers arriving at British state-owned airports, has been announced by the ministry of transport and civil aviation.

The charges, effective May 1, will be five shillings for those arriving from European destinations and seven shilings six pence for each passenger from Canada, the United States and other parts of the world. No charge will be made for transit passengers who continue their journey without a break.

A ministry statement said the tax was being introduced as a contribution to the mounting cost of providing services and facilities for passengers at airports. During the last financial year these operations resulted in a heavy deficit, spokesmen said.

Canada Downs Czechs

OSLO, Feb. 19—(CP)—Canada overcame a stubborn Czechoslovakian team to win 4-1 today in the Olympic hockey championship series.

Land Of No Taxes!

LONDON, Feb. 19. (AP)—The government told its envious subjects today about the land they all are looking for—a group of sun-bathed tropical islands where there is no income tax, land tax or estate duty. All that is to be found, the colonial office said in a report, in the three Cayman Islands, a British dependency of Jamaica. The islanders live by exporting turtles and rope.

Settlement Establishes Precedent

Believes Contract Forms Basis For New Relationship

WINDSOR, Feb. 19. (CP)—Labor Minister Daley of Ontario said today he hoped an agreement would be reached this afternoon between the Ford Motor Motor Company of Canada and its 9,000 striking employees.

Mr. Daley issued his statement at 10 a.m. EST, following a one-hour meeting with negotiators for the United Automobile Workers (C.I.O.-C.C.L.). Monday night and today he met with the union and its committee. It is understood he also acted as a go-between to the Ford negotiating committee.

"The agreement between the parties which I hope will be consummated this afternoon should form the basis for a new relationship in this industry," said the minister.

Establishes Precedent

Mr. Daley said he believed his presence in Windsor, "not as an individual, but as a representative of the government," established a precedent in labor-management disputes of this kind.

It was expected that recommendations for settlement of the strike would be presented to the union membership at a 2 p.m. meeting.

It was believed both sides had made concessions on the monetary matters which led to the work stoppage.

The Ford strike climaxed a dispute that started 11 months ago and was marked by a 12-day wildcat walkout in December and by several minor work stoppages.

Negotiations here and in Toronto narrowed the issues in dispute to fringe monetary items. These included union requests for eight paid statutory holidays instead of six, an increase of two cents an hour in the premium for afternoon shift workers, a guarantee of an additional three cents an hour during the second year of a two-year agreement, company-paid $1,000 life insurance policies for Ford pensioners, and a five-cent premium for about 1,000 workers classified by the union as semi-skilled help.

The union previously reduced its wage boost demand from 21 cents an hour over the basic pay of $1.35 to the 15 cents an hour the company offered.

Inquiry Soon Into Army Fires

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 (CP). — Defence headquarters said today plans to establish a commission to make a full-scale inquiry into the large number of fires in military establishments still haven't been put into effect but should be shortly.

The number of fires across Canada has been such in recent months to lead to plans to launch a probe into the causes and the adequacy of normal steps taken to meet fire hazards.

The plans were originally made after a rash of fires at Christmastime but a spokesman said today they have not yet been put into effect.

Eniwetok Tests May Bring Atomic "Bargain Bombs"

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)—The United States may be planning to test "bargain" bombs—that is, A-bombs packing full-scale power but with lesser amounts of precious atomic explosive.

This is an unofficial view, because the atomic energy commission and the defence department, in announcing Monday that a new series of atomic tests will be held at Eniwetok, offered no clue as to their nature. Not even the date of the start of the tests was announced.

The unofficial view goes this way:

The United States, at its Nevada proving grounds last fall, successfully tested a series of weapons generally presumed to be relatively small atomic bombs, perhaps designed for tactical uses in support of troops.

And, from lessons learned in the development of such smaller-type bombs, America's atomic experts may well have found theoretical ways of using less explosive and yet getting as much explosive wham as was produced by the full-scale models previously tested at Eniwetok. If so the now may be planning to put these theories to a test.

The A.E.C., in describing results of tests at Eniwetok last year, said information was gained on the effects of weapons "several times more powerful than the Hiroshima and Nagasaki weapons."

If this unofficial view is correct—and the Eniwetok tests pan out successfully—the significance would be this:

The United States would, in effect, have substantially expanded its atomic arsenal at a "bargain" rate, so far as expenditure of precious uranium and plutonium is concerned.

Immigration Official In Germany Fired

Discover Irregularities In Issuing Visas At Karlsruhe Centre

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 (CP) — A Canadian immigration official in Germany has been dismissed for irregularities in issuing visas for entry to Canada, the Immigration Department said today.

A spokesman said the official —at the immigration-processing centre of Karlsruhe—had been discovered taking "fees" to sidetrack normal immigration machinery for some Germans.

Only a few days ago the department confirmed that a few of its officials in Italy and Canada had been forced out of the service because of fraudulent issuance of visas in connection with the operation of a ring to bring large numbers of Italians to Canada.

However, an official said today the Karlsruhe operations were on a much smaller scale, though he did not disclose how many illegal entrants were involved. Unofficial estimates of the number of Italians involved ran up to 400.

So far as the investigation has disclosed, only one man—a relatively minor official—was involved in the Canadian immigration office at Karlsruhe, one of two centres where prospective immigrants to Canada are screened in Germany. He was recalled home and dismissed in October.

Most of the Germans in the case, the department spokesman said, got only temporary permits to visit Canada.

Name of the dismissed Karlsruhe official, like those in the Italian ring, was not made known. The department said the names would not be made public unless prosecutions resulted.

500,000 Bushels Of Wheat Given To Greece

OTTAWA, Feb. 19 (CP). — The government announced today that Canada will help famine-stricken Greece with a donation of 500,000 bushels of wheat valued at $825,000.

The wheat is low-grade No. 5, which Canadian authorities said is suitable for flour.

The wheat will be given to the Canadian Red Cross Society and the Society will mill it in western Canada and ship to Greece. It is expected that the flour—about 10,000 tons — will reach Greece in April.

The flour will be distributed to the most distressed areas in Greece under the supervision of the Greek Red Cross Society and the Canadian Embassy in Athens.

Goes To Northern Greece

Other shipments of Canadian flour recently have been made by the Unitarian Service Committee of Canada which has launched a "bread-for-Greece" campaign in Canadian cities.

The committee reported today that its first shipment of flour is being distributed to famine victims in Grammos mountain villages of Northern Greece.

A Greek Army mule corps has been enlisted to get the flour into the starvation area.

In the Greek province of Macedonia, about 22 of the famine-ridden villages will share in the Canadian shipment. The committee hoped that there will be sufficient flour to provide 25 pounds a person each month until the end of next June.

3 Red Planes Shot Down

SEOUL, Korea, Feb. 19 (AP).—U.S. Sabre jet pilots today shot down three Red jet fighter planes in two air fights over Northwest Korea.

Other Allied jet fliers reported they destroyed four locomotives on the Communists' North Korean supply network.

It was not disclosed whether there were any Allied losses.

The North Koreans' Pyongyang radio, meanwhile, reported the Communists have devised new methods with mobile "plane hunting units" in an effort to check the Allies' daily bombing of Red transport routes and supply centres.

However, Communist flak, night fighters and searchlights tried unsuccessfully on Monday night to break up an attack by five B-29 Superforts on the Sinanju rail bridge in Northwest Korea.

On the ground three Allied raiding parties and one counter-attacking U.N. force ran into stiff opposition Monday. Tanks supported two of the raiding parties.

Red attacks dropped down to three probes, each by about 40 men, along the entire 150-mile front.

Hail Of Police Bullets Fails To Stop Man

TRENTON, Feb. 19—A hail of police bullets failed to stop a Stirling man fleeing from two policemen Sunday morning. Eight miles and several hours later, the man, 31-year-old Delbert Ashley, was captured.

Also charged is Frank Ventrcek of Batawa.

Ashley was captured in the woods between Wooler and Frankford after a chase that led through the town and over a railway bridge. Both men are charged with breaking and entering, and theft.

Report Obstacles Removed Germany Taken Into Fold

LONDON, Feb. 19. (AP)—The foreign ministers of the three western powers and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of Western Germany said today they have removed obstacles to Germany's entrance into the European community.

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States, British foreign secretary Anthony Eden and foreign minister Robert Schuman of France listed in a communique seven points which they said assured a successful conclusion of talks now going on in Bonn and Paris.

The three ministers and Adenauer have been engaged in conferences here since Saturday in an effort to smooth German-French relations, open the way for creation of a European army in which German and French armed forces would be unified, and pave the way for a "peace contract" between Western Germany and the occupation powers.

Points In Statement

The foreign ministers' conferences here were a prelude to a full-dress meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Lisbon, Portugal.

Points in the four-power statement were:

1. They have decided to set up a series of meetings to deal with the problem of re-establishing armament production in Germany.

2. Have agreed on methods for dealing with war criminals now held in the West German republic.

3. Received the report of the N.A.T.O. temporary committee of "wise men" recommending that West Germany contribute $2,677,500,000 to western defences and said they were certain final agreement will be reached by the end of the current week.

4. Welcomed agreements toward establishment of the European defence community with its integrated European army and said this would provide the "solid foundation" for a peace contract between West Germany and the Allies. The two treaties, the communique said, will constitute a "single structure" to bring West Germany into the free world.

5. Agreed on recommendations to be made at the meeting of N.A.T.O. in Lisbon this week on the relationship between N.A.T.O. and E.D.C.

6. Pledged the four countries would "ensure the preservation and the progressive strength" of the E.D.C. as a "partnership for peace."

7. Declared continuing efforts should be made to unify Germany by democratic and peaceful means.

Decisive Turning

"The four ministers are convinced," the communique concluded, "that their meeting has removed the obstacles which have hitherto delayed conclusion of the negotiations and has thus marked a decisive turning in the cause of peace."

Acheson, Eden, Schuman and Adenauer spent several hours in informal talks at Eden's residence last night after a whole day of formal discussions.

They had another meeting early today before departure of Acheson, Eden and Schuman for Lisbon and Adenauer's return to Bonn.

Main Settlements

Their main settlements so far concerned some, but not all, of the points which German parliamentary demands added to their problems only 10 days ago.

More Snow Predicted For New England

BOSTON, Feb. 19 (CP)—More snow is on the way for New England where 30 persons died in the blizzard which ended early Monday.

While the northeastern states were still digging out of their worst storm in years, the weather bureau predicted snow or rain in the south and snow in the north for Wednesday.

The howling northeast blizzard deposited from about eight inches of snow in Boston to 31 inches in parts of New Hampshire. The 26-inch snowfall in Lewiston, Me., was the heaviest since the blizzard of 1888.

More than 1,000 persons were marooned by the storm in 350 cars and nine buses on Route 1 near Biddeford, Me.

Bus With 43 Falls Into River

CHATEAUGUAY, Que., Feb. 19 (CP)—Death took a holiday Monday night when an autobus, loaded with 43 passengers on their way to attend a closed retreat at a monastery near here, slammed through a bridge guard-rail and plunged into the frozen Chateauguay River.

Some 25 of the passengers were injured, several of them seriously. Most of those seriously injured are in Montreal hospitals suffering from fractures.

Chateauguay is some 15 miles southwest of Montreal.

An eyewitness said the bus, skidding on an icy pavement, ripped through the guard-rail and fell 12 feet into the river.

The nose of the bus plunged through the ice, leaving the rear wheels spinning in the air.

The majority of the passengers scrambled to safety through windows but some of the passengers were trapped for a time in the water-filled front of the vehicle.

Towing trucks from a nearby garage pulled the heavy vehicle, owned by the Soulange Cartage Company, from the river. The operation took more than an hour.

Police Still Seeking Nursing Sister

MONTREAL, Feb. 19 (CP). — An army spokesman today said that Army Nurse Lieut. Elizabeth Sansom, missing from Kingston since December 24, still is being sought here.

Miss Sansom was last seen at the Kingston railway station on December 24. She told friends at the station that she was going to Sherbrooke, Que., to spend the Christmas holidays.

She never turned up there, and has not been seen since.

Top Bank Robber In U.S. Caught Posing As Miser

NEW YORK, Feb. 19—(AP)—Fugitive Willie (The Actor) Sutton emerged today from the role of an obscure miser with a $6-a-week room, and was called before a judge as the most-sought bank robber in the United States.

Two alert young policemen recognized Sutton on a Brooklyn street Monday, ending a vast five-year manhunt launched when he made the second prison break of his career.

Police were taking special precautions today as Sutton, 51, was to plead before Judge William B. Groat on indictment accusing him of a $64,000 bank holdup here in March, 1950.

Sutton, whose exploits and disguises have become criminal legend, also has been mentioned by police in many other recent big jobs—including the $1,500,000 robbery of Brink's, Inc., Boston Armored Service.

When asked about the Brink's job Monday, Sutton told reporters:

"Hell, I don't know anything about it. I'll probably be blamed for anything unsolved in the books."

Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan said the arrest "ends the greatest manhunt in history."

Sutton was spotted while tinkering at his automobile battery. He did not want to pay a garage mechanic $1.50 to do the job for him. But police found $7,000 in cash in his pocket and another $2,000 in his $6-a-week room.

Asked how he eluded capture Sutton said he kept away from police, never ate twice in the same restaurant, avoided old friends and "ducked women" who "can also get you in trouble."

Sutton earned his name of "The Actor"—as well as "Slick Willie" —from the disguises he used in his bank jobs.

Coe Hill Postmaster, Wife, Belleville Couple Killed On Florida Trip

Truck Veers Onto Wrong Side of Road Crashing Into Canadian Sedan, Impact Drives Car 40 Feet Down Highway

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 19. (CP)—A Belleville couple and a couple from Coe Hill were killed in a head-on collision between their automobile and a truck Monday in Pennsylvania while on their way to Florida for a four-week holiday. Killed were William J. Harrison, 62, and his wife, Elsie, of Belleville; Richard P. Gunter, 57, of Coe Hill, 75 miles northwest of here, and his wife, Laura, 56. Pennsylvania state police said a truck driven by Stewart Ridgeway of Harrisburg, Pa., veered onto the wrong side of Route 11 near Berwick, Pa., and crashed into the sedan in which the Canadians were travelling. The impact drove the car 40 feet down the highway. One of the women was thrown clear of the wreckage.

Ridgeway was treated at Berwick hospital for severe shock.

Gunter, lifelong resident of Coe Hill, was postmaster there and once owned a general store and a lumber business. He was a veteran of the First World War. His wife, the former Laura Empey of Eldorado, near Madoc, taught school at Eldorado before her marriage.

Gunter Survivors

The Gunters leave three sons, Ivan, 31, of Coe Hill; Blake, 29, of Oshawa, and Dale, 21, a teacher at Coe Hill; and a daughter, Mrs. Shirley Turner of Blackstock, Ont.

Harrison spent all his life in Belleville and was on his first trip to Florida. A doctor had advised him to take a month's holiday as a rest. He had a heart condition.

He was sales manager for J. B. Boyce Motors, a company for which he had worked 25 years. He served many terms on the Belleville School Board, to which he was first elected in 1923, and was its chairman in 1943. Since 1945 he acted in an advisory capacity to the board.

The Harrisons leave two sons, Eugene, 29, and Donald, 25, both of Belleville.

Expect Tax Refunds To Total 60 Million

OTTAWA, Feb. 19. (CP)—The Revenue Department said today it expects this spring to make 1951 income tax refunds totalling approximately $60,000,000 to more than 2,000,000 of the estimated 3,500,000 individual Canadian taxpayers.

It estimated that taxpayers in Montreal and Toronto likely will claim refunds totalling $11,000,000 in each city. In Hamilton and Vancouver, the refunds expected to be claimed will be in the neighborhood of $4,500,000 in each city.

Forced Landing

TRENTON, Feb. 19—(CP)—A Mustang fighter aircraft made a successful forced landing three miles south of this R.C.A.F. air station today. Air force officials said the pilot was FO. R. E. Neill, a student at the air armament school. He escaped injury.

Give Qualified Approval On German Plan

PARIS, Feb. 19 —(AP)—The French National Assembly today gave hesitant and deeply qualified endorsement to the European army plan for rearming Germany.

The assembly's action came on a vote of confidence in the government of Premier Edgar Faure, who had staked the fate of his cabinet on the army plan.

The vote was 327 to 287.

But the resolution endorsing the army proposal was so hedged with "ifs" and "maybes" that many observers say it only as a device to delay German rearmament and an indication that the Socialists eventually will kill the plan.

Break Discipline

Faure's concessions to the Socialists had gained the party's unenthusiastic support in today's vote, but on the ballot some 20 Socialists led by Daniel Mayer and Jules Moch broke party discipline and voted against the government.

Previous debate made clear that many deputies, possibly a majority, oppose almost any scheme for rearming Germany.

The resolution would not permit raising German forces until the army treaty is ratified by the parliaments of all six members—France, Italy, West Germany, Belgium, Luxembourg, and The Netherlands. The treaty still is some way from being drawn up, and even further from being signed and ratified.

The way the assembly resolution binds the French negotiators cast doubt whether it can be concluded.

Toronto Skater In 4th Place

OSLO, Feb. 19. (CP)—Peter Firstbrook of Toronto ranked fourth today when the first phase of the Olympic figure skating competition ended, with Dick Button of the United States well in front and considered a sure winner.

When all five compulsory figures had been completed, Button had piled up 111.1 points in the scoring among the 14 entries.

Helmut Seibat of Austria was second with 106.4, followed by Jimmy Grogan of Colorado Springs, Colo., with 103.0 and Firstbrook with 99.0

Even before today's school figures, in which the contestants skate according to prescribed patterns, world champion Button was the red-hot favorite to retain his 1948 Olympic title. He is expected to be well in front also on points in the free-skating phase, to be held Thursday.

The school figures count 60 per cent in the final judging and free-skating 40 per cent.

Firstbrook surprised the experts with his fine performance today and now is considered a sure point-winner for Canada when the competition ends.

Fake Surgeon Offers Life Story As Movie

LAWRENCE, Mass., Feb. 19 — (AP).—Ferdinand Waldo Demara, 30, who as Lieut. Joseph Cyr, surgeon of the Royal Canadian Navy, operated on many Korean war wounded before he was unmasked as an imposter, returned from Hollywood Monday, where he said he had offered his life story to the films for $100,000. Demara said he had signed a contract with a Hollywood agent.

Likely Choose Summer For Coronation

LONDON, Feb. 19 (CP). — A court official said Monday plans for the coronation of Queen Elizabeth II are not likely to be announced until after the period of official court mourning ends May 31.

But though an early announcement of the date is not expected, the young Queen Monday received the Duke of Norfolk, who as Earl Marshal organized her father's funeral and is responsible for coronation arrangements. She personally will set the date.

Usually, the coronation of a sovereign is not performed until a year after his or her accession to the throne. But many observers believe Elizabeth will be crowned in summer because fine weather is needed for the gala procession through the streets of London.

If the Queen is crowned this year, she and her husband will be free to make their postponed tour of Australia and New Zealand next year.

The Royal family, meanwhile, returned to its normal daily tasks after a weekend rest following the funeral at Windsor Castle.

For the first time since the King underwent a lung operation last fall, the Brigade of Guards band played in the forecourt of Buckingham Palace for the colorful changing of the guard.

Will Cut Pine On Reservation

Fifteen natives of Curve Lake Indian Reservation will soon be employed in cutting pine on the Chemong Lake-side shore of their land.

The contract was let to W. F. Tedford of R.R. 2, Lakefield, who expects to move a portable sawmill to the spot as soon as sufficient timber is felled and skidded. The operation will continue to give employment to the Indians until late spring.

Department of Indian Affairs' nurse, Dr. Amanda Gerulaitis, who has been posted at the Reservation for the past 38 days, moved her portable equipment to Hiawatha where she will work for the next two weeks. Dr. Gerulaitis will go to Alnwick Reservation from there.

Norway Widens Olympic Lead

OSLO, Feb. 19 — (CP).—Norway today widened its first-place margin in the unofficial Olympic team standings, with one victory and high placings in the two finals on the program.

The United States went pointless for the third straight day, but remained in third place.

The standings (based on 10 for first and 5-4-3-2-1 for the next five places):

Norway	94
Austria	51
United States	34½
Finland	24
Holland	24
Italy	20

Boon For Municipalities

Ottawa May Aid Centres Burdened By Immigrants

TORONTO, Feb. 19 — (CP) — Immigration Minister Harris said Monday that the federal government may give assistance for social and welfare services for new immigrants to relieve the burden on municipalities.

He told the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities that the government is aware that many municipalities are heavily burdened by social services costs and that measures to relieve the situation are being considered.

Despite criticism of continued immigration when unemployment is heavy, more immigrants were needed "if we are going to maintain production."

Need Skilled Workers

He said more skilled workers still are needed for defence production. Every effort would be made to bring them from Europe but the government would not hesitate to tell people if they were not needed.

"I hope you will find in the near future that we have not forgotten the immigrants when they have arrived in your municipalities."

The association decided to petition the Highways Department for a 50-per-cent subsidy for the buying of snow blowers to clear county roads.

Two resolutions were voted down. One sought an increased subsidy on county roads and the other suggested that suburban and county roads be amalgamated under one body and paid for by a uniform levy on cities and towns.

Claims Britons Indifferent To Moral Issues

TROWBRIDGE, England (CP) —Philip Fothergill, president of the Liberal party, said in a speech here that one of the most disquieting features of life in Britain today is the prevailing indifference to moral issues.

Fothergill singled out the case of Rev. Michael Scott, who had given evidence before the United Nations in Paris concerning the plight of a native tribe in Southwest Africa.

"There was a time," said Fothergill, "when Britain would have been aflame over this case, when the sight of this frail, saintly figure championing the cause of an inarticulate and persecuted minority not only against the brutal tyranny of authoritarian power but also in the face of official British opposition would have united all the moral and sporting instincts of the nation in a fury of righteous indignation.

"What has happened to Britain? Is one government after another to be hypnotized by Malan? (Prime Minister Malan of South Africa). Have we all reached such a low ebb that no iniquity or injustice can move us?

"If anybody believes that the price of peace in Africa is our acquiescence in the exploitation of native populations the sooner this utterly foolish and dangerous impression is dispelled the better."

(Britain has supported South Africa's stand on Southwest Africa, basing her argument largely on legal grounds.)

Battling To Save

Still another, although clad in a lifejacket, was swallowed up by the angry seas when he leaped from the Pendelton's bow in an attempt to reach a nearby coast guard lifeboat.

Positive identification of the lost men could not be determined immediately.

One of the survivors of the Pendleton, Douglas B. Potts, 31, of Pasadena, Tex., said the ship "broke in half—all of a sudden — about 5:50 a.m. (E.S.T.).

"I looked out and saw the bow of the boat floating to port," he said.

Ray Sybert of Norfolk, Va., the Pendleton's chief engineer, said the noise of the vessel breaking up sounded "like the roar of thunder."

Had No Warning

"The seas were breaking in every direction," he said. "The tanker cracked right through No. 8 hold, just forward of midship. Right up to that time we had no warning anything was wrong."

Sybert had great praise for the coast guard rescue crew.

"Their work was nothing short of miraculous," he said. "Here were four young men (off the coast guard lifeboat crew) working in the dark against terrific odds. We will be indebted forever to the coast guard."

The rescue crew braved buffeting seas to make repeated passes at the Pendleton's stern as a plane dropped flares to light the scene.

Each time the lifeboat passed, one man leaped off the derelict stern.

Rocky Bringing Korean Lessons

WITH THE CANADIAN 25TH BRIGADE IN KOREA, Feb. 19 — (Reuters). — Brigadier John M. (Rocky) Rockingham today said he would bring to his new job as director of training for the Canadian Army "one or two techniques of fighting in Korea which can be usefully applied to the Canadian Army."

News of Rockingham's appointment was released here Monday. Brig. M. P. Bogert, present director of training, will take over as Commander of the 25th Canadian Brigade in Korea.

In a tribute to the Brigade, Rockingham said: "I feel there have been no finer troops and I can only hope that I can have the privilege of serving with them wherever it is necessary for the Canadian Army to fight."

Reaction to Rockingham's new appointment was summed up by a Canadian private who had just come out of the hills to take a much-needed bath.

"'Rocky' is good enough for my money," he said. "I'm sorry he's going, but he'll sure whip the boys into shape back home."

Moscow Charges U.S. Sends Lepers To Korea

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP)—Moscow radio accused the United States Monday of sending lepers into North Korea as part of a campaign to undermine the civilian population.

The broadcast in the Korean language, said that in addition to sending spies and destructive elements into North Korea, "American interventionists" are "poisoning wells and spreading smallpox and typhus bacteria in various places. . . . One of the most villainous methods practiced by the American interventionists is the sending of lepers secretly into North Korea."

Second Robbery Report Same Method

Police are investigating a second weekend break-in today. They report the same method was used to enter Chung Quon's laundry at 348 Charlotte St., as at Mather's garage on Simcoe St., a rear window was broken.

Mr. Quon was away for the weekend and when he returned, found his laundry had been broken into and about $10 taken from the cash drawer beneath the counter.

Detective Sergeant Bud Clarke and Constable Douglas Farthing are investigating.

See Orange Globes

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19 (AP)— The air force said today it is looking into reports from Korea about some strange-looking orange globes. A spokesman said bomber crew members reported they saw "globe-shaped objects" of an orange color on flights over Korea on the nights of Jan. 29 and 30. The spokesman said these stories were being "investigated only."

Indians and Eskimos Attend School In Hospital Ward

EDMONTON (CP).—In classes without classrooms 374 Indian and Eskimo patients in the Charles Camsell Indian Hospital here are receiving a formal education denied them previously through circumstances of environment and geography.

Their classroom is a hospital ward. Their desk is a hospital bed. There is no age limit. In fact, 233 of the pupils are adults and 141 children.

There are more than 500 patients in the hospital, but as school doesn't begin until they reach six years not all of them are enrolled.

Lessons are conducted by a principal and four teachers on the tutorial system. Teachers move from bed to bed. Nurses, orderlies and other members of the hospital staff help. Some of the older pupils assist in teaching the younger ones.

Students come from all over Alberta and from the Alaskan border to the eastern reaches of the Northwest Territories. Twenty-five of them don't speak English at all. A number can just make themselves understood.

Magnitude of the job facing the teaching staff is indicated by the fact that approximately two-thirds of the pupils are in the first three grades of school.

Fort he children, teaching follows closely the Alberta course of studies, with emphasis on reading, writing, language and arithmetic.

With adults, there is a different approach. Many of them have had no education and to these the fundamentals are offered just as they are to the children.

Broaden Outlook

But an effort also is made to impress upon them a broader outlook so that when they return home they will want to see that their children are given an opportunity for an education and that they will take advantage of it.

School principal Fred N. Dew, a former Edmonton school teacher, said special attention is paid to "directing education to rehabilitation."

"We are forced to face the fact that many of these patients cannot return to trapping or laboring jobs," he said. "We don't try and stop them going home when they are released from hospital. In fact, they want to go home and we want to help them.

"Many have the old Indian philosophy of taking things as they come, but with a little help they can fit into jobs in offices."

The school was organized with a dual purpose. The therapeutic angle was to make the school a morale builder for bed-ridden patients, most of whom are suffering from tuberculosis.

The other reason was to carry on or begin studied for the patients who previously either had no opportunity to attend school or at best a limited opportunity.

The Indian affairs branch of the Department of Citizenship and Immigration and the Northwest Territories administration are establishing a number of new day schools to increase opportunities of education for Indians and Eskimos in remote areas.

Some pupils in the hospital classes accomplish the work of two or three grades a year. They are rated above average in artistic ability and at least the equal, if not superior, to their white counterparts in mechanical ability.

Uphold Ideals Queen Pledges

LONDON, Feb. 19—(Reuters) — The Queen pledged to the House of Commons today to uphold the ideals her father set of "peace and freedom and the happiness of the great family of which I am now the head."

She was replying to a message of condolence sent to her by the Commons on the death of the King.

Her message read: "I thank you from the bottom of my heart for the loyal and affectionate address which the House of Commons presented to me on the sad loss I have suffered and on my accession to the Throne.

"I value highly the warm expressions of your attachment to my person and of your confidence in my determination to follow my dear father's example of devotion to the service of his peoples throughout the world.

"I pray that with the blessing of Almighty God I may ever justify your trust and that aided by your Counsel and sustained by the strength of the affection my peoples, I may uphold the ideals that my father set before me of peace and freedom and the happiness of the great family of which I am now the head.

Sault Council Defers Action On Tax Levy

SAULT STE. MARIE, Feb. 19 —(CP). — City Council Monday night deferred action on a request from General Hospital for a three-quarter-mill tax levy for a $1,000,000 expansion program.

Council must decide whether to make the grant on its own authority or put the matter to a public vote. A vote already is planned for March 31 on a $600,000 debenture issue for another city hospital.

Big Ben Stops

LONDON, Feb. 19 (Reuters).— Big Ben stopped striking today for the first time since 1936. Four men climbed the 334 steps to the top of the famous clock tower of Westminster's Houses of Parliament to give the bell an overhaul and to replace the rubber buffers on which the giant hammers fall.

Charge Murder Planned On Honeymoon

HULL, Que., Feb. 19 (CP) — Rheal Leo Bertrand of Ottawa, charged with the murder of his wife, was described today as a man who was contemplating the death of his wife while still on his honeymoon.

Noel Dorion of Quebec, chief crown prosecutor, said that a few weeks after his marriage, Bertrand had asked another girl "to wait for me."

Mr. Dorion spoke in summing up for the 12-man jury the evidence heard during the trial.

Mr. Dorion said the marriage of the 37-year-old Bertrand to the 52-year-old Rosa Charette, a widow, was not a marriage of love. For Bertrand it was a business proposition.

No bans were published before the marriage. Even close relatives were not invited to the wedding. Bertrand wanted to keep the marriage as secret as possible.

Dies In Camp

They were married Sept. 7, 1951. Mrs. Bertrand died in a lonely hunting camp Nov. 10 at Lac Ste. Marie, Que., 65 miles north of Hull. The crown contends Bertrand killed his wife, drenched her body with cleaning fluid and then set the camp on fire to destroy the body. Bertrand had told police his wife died when an explosion followed her attempts to light a gasoline lamp while he was away from the camp.

Mr. Dorion said that before Bertrand had married he told a co-worker that he was keeping company with Mrs. Charette. Bertrand had said that if he married her it was possible she would die before him because she was older. Then he would inherit her property and be able to live comfortably.

Three or four days after his marriage he took his bride to a notary and there the couple agreed to joint ownership of their belongings. Bertrand had nothing. Mrs. Bertrand had some $25,000 in real estate, $500 in bonds and a small bank account.

Mr. Dorion said Bertrand had made his wife continue to work after their marriage. But about a month after the wedding Bertrand himself stopped working allegedly because of an abscess on a tooth.

Bertrand bought a Cadillac car with no apparent source for down payments other than from his wife's property.

Mr. Dorion said that before and after his marriage, Bertrand had continued to keep company with 20-year-old Ruth Boucher of Gatineau, Que., to whom he had told nothing of his marriage. When Miss Boucher mentioned the question of marriage, Bertrand had asked her to "wait for me."

Prices Dip Sharply On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 19 (CP). — Prices dipped sharply today in early afternoon stock market dealings as mid-session support weakened steadily. Trading was active.

Papers, utilities, constructions, steels, foods, liquors, refining oils, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues led industrials lower with a broad list of losses ranging from fractions to more than a point. Textiles and retail stores slipped steadily.

Western oil losses ranged from pennies to about $1. Calgary and Edmonton, Calvan Consolidated, Federated Petroleum, Gridoil, Home Oil, North Canadian and Canadian Williston were among the heaviest losers.

Base metal leaders dipped abruptly. Consolidated Smelters, Falconbridge, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, Normetal, Noranda and Steep Rock showed losses ranging to 50 cents. Ascot, Barvue, United Asbestos and Yukeno eased pennies.

Senior golds were mixed. Junior producers, prospects and holding companies declined.

Present Wands To Wardens Of St. George's

Two wardens' wands, an emblem of office, were presented to the wardens of St. George's Anglican Church on Sunday evening. The dedication ceremony was conducted by the rector the Rev. H. J. Scuse, who later presented them to the rector's and people's wardens. Something unique in the Anglican churches in Canada, the wands were sent to St .George's from England.

They are five feet six inches long with a small ball and cross on the upper end. Tradition says they were used in the early days of the church to keep troublemakers quiet and awaken those who might go to sleep.

The wands were presented by Miss Winifred Barnard, Norton, Worcester, England. Miss Barnard was a visitor to Peterborough last summer and visited St. George's then she indicated she would like to help the congregation in some way so when she returned home she sent the two wands to Mr. Scuse.

The 72-year-old rich monarch is limited by Moslem rules to four wives at a time, but he is said to be responsible for about 120 ex-wives.

Cobourg Grocers Fail To Get Quiet Weekend

COBOURG, Feb. 19. (ENS) — Efforts of a group of Cobourg grocers to obtain a bylaw which would permit all such stores to close all day Monday instead of just the half day on Wednesday, came to naught with the ruling of council Monday night that it was not sufficiently signed.

Town clerk Jack Ewart informed the council that there were only 14 signatures to the petition asking for the closing bylaw and he had listed 25 stores, of which the classification of two was doubtful, leaving 23 of certain listing. In view of this total, the 14 signatures did not constitute the required three-quarters majority, the clerk said.

On motion the petition was received and filed.

The closing proposal was fought by one chain store which pointed out that it would work a hardship on market farmers who had to get their produce to the stores without delay in the ripening season, and that it would be a hardship on many to have to stock up for such a long weekend. Some merchants, who were opposed, felt that the public should have the choice of when the stores would be closed.

Two tenders were received for construction of a 72-inch drain to service the ordnance depot. One was for $42,500 and the other for $40,900 but council decided on the first tender because the extras cost considerably less.

Permission was given to a local group to hire the opera house on March 3 for a conservation club show. A petition for a sidewalk on Munroe street was referred to the clerk to check the signatures. Request for a grant from the Northumberland Music Festival was referred to the finance committee. A request for a grant of $1,500 for the public library, was referred to the finance committee. This is $500 more than last year but it was stated that cost of operation had increased very much.

Councillor Cedric Smith said that blasting on the D'Arcy street sewer project was breaking windows and cracking plaster in nearby houses. Council instructed the town engineer to look into the complaint.

COBOURG, Feb. 19 —(ENS)— John Adair of Port Hope, charged with attempted murder, was remanded until next Monday to appear in Port Hope police court, when he appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter Monday. The 78-year-old is charged with having fired a revolver at 57-year-old William Lingard at Port Hope on Feb. 1. Lingard has recovered from a bullet wound.

William Bright of Colborne received six months definite and three months indefinite in the reformatory, to run concurrently, on each of four charges of breaking and entering. He pleaded guilty to theft of a chain saw and breaking into a garage in Cramahe township, theft of tires from a Cobourg garage and theft of $600 worth of wire from Brighton Public Utilities. The offenses occurred last month.

Dog's Barking Raises Alarm

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 19 — Frantic barking of a spaniel was credited today with saving the lives of five persons early Sunday morning when they woke to find their apartment hallway ablaze.

Eight people were driven from the apartment house until firemen were able to bring the fire under control. By then it had done $1,000 damage.

Living in the apartment were: Mr. and Mrs. George Hammett and their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCracken, and small daughter, Barbara. In another apartment on the same floor were Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Andrews and Mrs. Andrews' mother.

The fire started in a small alcove at the top of the stairway and spread though a doorway into the hall of the Hammett apartment. Barking of the dog woke the McCrackens, who phoned in the alarm.

Thieves Steal Theatre Safe

OSHAWA, Feb. 19 — Thieves stole more than $1,000 from an Oshawa theatre Sunday after smashing through a gallery exit to get in.

The thieves, thought to be four in number, stole the theatre safe, which was found abandoned Monday on a side road. Janitor Walter Cockerill said the theatre was in order when he visited it at 4 p.m. Sunday.

He returned at 10 p.m. to find the break-in made and the safe missing. It had been trundled across the carpet and out an exit on the west side of the building.

2 Freighters Aground

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 19 — (AP)—Whipping winds drove two freighters aground on the mud flats of the western bank of the Delaware River near Thorofare, N.J., Monday. The tug boats were dispatched to free the vessels. One freighter was the 7,212-ton Sapho, bound for Chester, Pa. The other was the 2,304-ton Besseggen, a Norwegian registered vessel, in-bound from Cuba with a cargo of sugar.

Demand Investigation

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala, Feb. 19—(Reuters)—Union leaders representing 6,000 employees of the United States and British-owned International Railway of Central America today demanded a "complete investigation of the financial position" of the company. In answer to requests for wage increases, Thomas Bradshaw, president of the firm, had told the employees that the company was "on the verge of bankruptcy."

Jury Returns Suicide Verdict

SAULT STE. MARIE, Feb. 19 —(CP)—A verdict of suicide was returned Monday night by a coroner's jury inquiring into the death of Francis Jean, 59-year-old recluse found dead in a snowbank Saturday, shotgun wounds in his head. A discharged shot gun lay beside the body.

The jury heard evidence that Jean had made elaborate plans for his death.

Police said that the two-room cabin where Jean lived alone was spotlessly clean. Jean had cancelled his postoffice box and mailed his valuables to his brother, Peter, in Flint, Mich.

In the letter, he had sent the combination to the lock on his cabin door.

Neighbors testified they had heard Jean threaten to kill himself. One said Jean had done a large washing Feb. 2—something he had never done before.

Police went to the cabin after they were contacted by Flint police on the request of Peter Jean. Peter had received letters from Francis in which the recluse said he would kill himself when his money ran out.

When Jean cancelled his postoffice box, he was asked if he wished to leave a forwarding address.

"Where I'm going I don't need one," he said.

80,000 Acres Open In North

REGINA, Feb. 19 —(CP)—The Saskatchewan Agriculture Department said Monday three blocks of land totalling nearly 80,000 acres are being opened for settlement in the Tisdale and Hudson Bay areas.

Two smaller projects are being opened near Chiceland, northwest of Nipawin, and near Big River, northwest of Prince Albert.

The land will be leased on a 33-year basis with provision for passing it from father to son.

Agriculture Minister I. C. Nollett said the provision of economic units for farmers is emphasized in the allocation of the new land.

Farmers in adjoining settlements on plots of land too small or too unproductive to provide an adequate income are encouraged to move to the new land. Their uneconomic units would then be added to adjoining units needing more land.

Farmers on uneconomic units will receive first allocation of the land. The remainder, if any, will be allocated to farmer applicants wishing to establish new farms. Veterans will receive preference in the allocation of the remaining land.

War Bride's Relatives Believed Found

Relatives of an English war bride, now living in Winnipeg, a Mrs. Maksymchuk, are believed found.

Mrs. K. Kavanagh, Norwood, reported that her grandfahter, the late Albert Wigmore, raised three sisters, relatives of Mrs. Maksymchuk, in Norwood.

Before they were married the three sisters' names were Harriet, Elizabeth and Margaret Lambert. Mrs. Kavanagh still corresponds with Elizabeth, Mrs. Edward Senior, 1942 Pandora St., Vancouver. The other two sisters, Mrs. Kavanagh believes, are living in Kingston. She said that Mrs. Senior moved to Vancouver after her marriage and lived there some 25 years before coming back to Norwood for a visit six years ago.

Start Negotiations

TEL AVIV, Feb. 19—(Reuters) —Israel has formally accepted West Germany's invitation to start negotiations on reparations, a foreign ministry spokesman announced Monday night. Israel has claimed $1,500,000,000 as reparations for Jewish property looted by the Nazis during the Second World War.

Takes Examination

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 19—(AP). —Dick Contino, who made as much as $4,000 a week as an accordionist before his conviction as a draft dodger, is trying to reenter the armed forces. The husky 22-year-old took his pre-induction physical examination Monday and said afterward "I hope I passed." He said if he passes the physical he'll probably choose the army.

Provincial Road Subsidies To City Inadequate

The City Council has reported to the Department of Highways, as usual, its expenditure on 1951 street building and maintenance. It totals $264,157. The city makes such an annual report in the expectation of receiving a statutory grant from the Department for a third of the amount. If the account is approved in all its items, the city will therefore receive $88,052. The Provincial Government has been increasingly liberal in these grants, raising the subsidy to a third and generously approving virtually the whole bill as a basis for the subsidy. Yet officials in many Ontario cities are questioning whether this compensation from the Department of Highways is at all equitable.

* * *

The grants are made in lieu of direct receipts from the gasoline and licensing taxes on automobiles in the city. The Bureau of Statistics has estimated that the average amount paid in taxes on each vehicle in Ontario is $78 a year (for licenses and gasoline tax). Last year the Peterborough licensing office registered 16,221 vehicles of the city and district. If, as is likely, 11,000 of these vehicles are owned by people who live in Peterborough itself and by Peterborough businesses, then the Provincial Government collected $858,000 last year in gasoline taxes and licenses from Peterborough people. Yet the maximum which the Department of Highways will be returning to Peterborough for road maintenance is $88,052—only a tenth of the money it took out of the city.

* * *

In a recent Toronto address, Mr. J. H. Irvine, the city of Ottawa's Commissioner of Works, gave sound reasons why the Province should make larger payments towards the construction and maintenance of main thoroughfares in cities which are links in the provincial highway system. At present, in rural communities, the province pays the whole cost of provincial highways running through them, and half the cost for suburban and county roads. In cities it pays only a third of the cost of roads that are used as main thoroughfares. However, the Department of Highways has, as we noted, been increasingly generous in its interpretation of this; for instance, Peterborough is likely to get a third of the cost of all road construction and repair within the city limits. But that third amounts to only ten per cent. of what the Province gets out of city residents in vehicle licence revenue and gasoline tax.

Peterborough has now to undertake the care and repair of a couple of miles of Highway 7 (Lansdowne Street) at the south end of the city; a good chunk of Highway 7 at the north end, another mile or so of Highway 28 (Water Street north) and Highway 28 southwest (Clonsilla Avenue). The Department of Highways pays not a cent directly towards keeping these roads up. It is for this reason that highway entrances and exits in towns are often allowed to deteriorate. An example most Peterborough drivers know has been the deplorable state of Number 2 through Bowmanville. Why should Bowmanville be charged with keeping it up, even if part of it is their main street? Most of the heavy traffic bounces through the town without stopping. Similarly, in Peterborough, there is a great deal of through traffic on Lansdowne Street—but Peterborough must keep the road in repair. It speaks well for the consideration of the City Fathers for the tourist business and the convenience of travellers, that Lansdowne Street has been well maintained.

The Ontario Department of Highways could consider applying some American practices to their treatment of towns and cities. The costs of U.S. federal highways through cities are born entirely by the Federal Government. (Canada does not have a Federal Highway as yet—until the Trans-Canada comes into real existence.) In the U.S.A. the costs of state highways are borne by state highway departments, and in addition some states make a contribution towards the construction and maintenance of all city streets.

Are Peterborough and other cities getting an equitable share of the gasoline and licensing taxes? Is ten per cent. just? Many residents cannot think so, considering the $800,000 or so which the Department of Highways takes from them in a year. An example of inequity is this: Peterborough's city buses (operated by a private company) pay the full Provincial gasoline tax, as well as heavy licence fees—yet they never set wheel on the highways, and operate entirely on city streets.

Squelch The Klan

We read with satisfaction that the U.S. Federal Bureau of Investigation has arrested ten members of the North Carolina Ku Klux Klan, including their Exalted Cyclops. The Klansmen abducted and flogged a man and a woman of whose conduct they disapproved; they have been charged with kidnapping and violations of civil rights. As we are not within the jurisdiction of the courts which will deal with the Klansmen, we are free to say that we hope they are treated with the utmost severity.

There have been few organizations in modern times so utterly contemptible, obscene and repulsive as the Ku Klux Klan. When men of dirty and twisted mind wrap themselves in sheets, and attack their fellow citizens in gangs, using moral indignation as an excuse for perverse and sadistic behaviour, there is nothing whatever to be said in their defence; a Klansman is, by definition, a vicious hoodlum. There is no breach of the peace or offense against public morality which has not its appropriate punishment under the law. For private persons to band themselves together to impose further restrictions on private conduct, by terrorist methods, is utterly indefensible.

We recall that an attempt was made to extend the Klan to Canada, in 1925-26. It was a complete failure, but for a month or two there was some parading in sheets and a little terrorism, which the police quickly put down. Of late the U.S. has been free of the Klan nuisance, but now that it has popped up again it should be put down with a strong hand.

Indexing The World

The World Almanac of 1952, published by the New York World-Telegram came to our desk this morning. It is the 67th year of publication of this famous paper-covered 900-page volume. It is both an almanac of the events of 1951 and a book of facts. For instance it tells you in the sports records for "La Crosse" in 1951: "Canadian Championship (Mann Cup)—Peterborough Petes, Peterborough, Ont., defeated Vancouver Combines." You can recall on one of its pages that thirty people were killed, 350 injured when 467 tons of ammunition on four barges blew up at South Amboy, N.J., May 19th. You can verify that Badouin of Belgium assumed the King's powers as Prince Royal on August 11th.

The record of 1951 events, and the tabulation of historical facts are naturally weighted on the American side. For instance, it is probably of little use to most Canadians to have four pages of New York City Tide Tables for 1952. But you never know—if you expect to sail on the Elizabeth from New York on July 1st next at 11:37 p.m. you won't; that is low tide; too low for the big ship.

It is a remarkable book both for the compression of hundreds of thousands of dates, facts, events, figures and headlines of the year, and for the comprehensive index to them. The index runs from "Abbey Theatre (burns)", through the "Alaska Historical Library", and "Algeria: Area, population, capital, telephones, Trade U.S.", up to the "Alps: ascents, fatalities, avalanche 1951"; it scours "Aluminum cooking utensils", runs through "Authors, Estates, British", into Automobile Accidents; rises into Aviation "Airlines see Airlines", early balloon flights, guided missiles and interplanetary flight and comes to rest on "Azores". All these, and a thousand others are indexed under A.

The index is not question-proof. For instance, the world population is not listed under either world or population; one must track it down under "Continents—population." The world population (midyear 1949, U.N. estimate) is 2,367,737,000. The index of last year's Almanac is even less informative about world population. We could not find it under any listing, which is annoying, for we know that the figure is to be found in some of its 1951 pages; we have seen it.

NOTES AND COMMENT

A judge says that "a lot of people have an irrational attitude toward common affairs." Yes, m'lud, and a lot of them are driving cars.

"Does Prayer Pay" is the heading of an article by a syndicated columnist. Frankly, we are disgusted with the number of articles which discuss religion in terms of whether or not it "pays."

There are more women than men in the U.S., says a statistician, because women in general outlive men. Let's see, what was that song? "Old scolders never die"?

Somebody with a biological and statistical turn of mind estimates that every one of us had only one chance in 73,000,000,000,000,000 of being born at all. Weren't we clever to seize it!

A contemporary carries an article headed "Nursing, As a Career For Men". There is an unfairness about it though, for although female nurses are permitted to give men baths this privilege does not work the other way for the male nurse.

Battling Faiths In Oaxaca

By J. HALCRO FERGUSON (in Mexico)

BEFORE the Spaniards came, the site of the Mexican city of Oaxaca (pronounced Wa-ha-ca) was the battleground of inimical races and conflicting beliefs. It has not changed.

To the casual eye it is a pleasant, peaceful town of some 50,000 inhabitants, lying in a fertile valley. Through it runs the National Route No. 190, otherwise known as the Pan-American Highway. As in all Mexican cities, life centres around the Zocalo, or main plaza, a pleasant place of flowers and trees and sidewalk cafes, dominated by the municipal buildings and the Hotel Margues Del Valle. The Cathedral, whose booming clock is always wrong, lies a little retired, half-hidden by the hotel.

* * *

LIFE in the Zocalo moves peacefully under the clear sky. Business men meet at street corners, talk, and sit down to have a coffee. Children play around the band-stand. Big Chevrolets and Cadillacs nose around for a place to park. Middle-aged ladies from the United States sit on the hotel terrace and discuss how much they paid for their Mexican curios.

* * *

ALL, however, is not prosperous. Ragged, barefoot Indians, men and women, with heavy loads on their backs or on their heads, plod through the square on their way to the market, sometimes having trudged for three days from their mountain villages with what little they have to sell. Elderly beggars of both sexes come up to the American ladies on the terrace and hold out their hands wordlessly. Sometimes they are crippled or blind, sometimes just old. A few blocks away from the plaza the lesser streets cease to be paved, the buildings become smaller and more crowded, and a ditch, three feet wide, runs down the middle of the roadway, like an open drain.

* * *

OAXACA was the home town of Benito Juarez, who became President of the Republic, and ousted the French puppet-Emperor Maximilian. If he revisited Oaxaca today he would find much to commend, but also much to deplore. One wonders what he would think of the nearby Church of Santo Domingo, which his soldiers turned into a stable, where cavalry horses trampled and neighed under the magnificent ceiling, watched by the mutilated statues of the saints.

* * *

FOR forty years the Army occupied the church and the monastery next door, until at last a grudging Government handed it back to its original owners in the condition which one would expect. The church itself has been restored (I was shown round by a Spanish priest, in civilian clothes, because clerical garb is forbidden in Mexico) but next door a decrepit old woman looks after the two grass-grown courtyards whose walls are pitted with bullet holes and bear inscriptions like "Second Battery" and "Guard of the Watch". From across the wall comes the sound of bugles. The Army still occupies the rest.

Juarez was an Indian, and he opposed the Church because he thought that its temporal representatives were oppressing his people. Yet the Indians, who are deeply devout in a strange, private way of their own, still come to pray.

* * *

A FEW miles from Oaxaca, is the adobe village of El Tule, whose chief claim to fame is an enormous tree, said to be two thousand years old. There I heard a great wailing coming from inside the little church, a sound like the lamentation of a whole people. Four Indian men were kneeling before the altar, holding candles, sometimes prostrating themselves, and moaning in union. Then one began to pray rapidly in Spanish, "Lord, be merciful unto me, a sinner" and another at the same time started to recite the Lord's Prayer.

* * *

BUT religion in the valley goes back further than the struggle between the church and anti-clericalism. Thirty kilometers to the south of the city is Mitla, the burial place of the Zapotec kings, whose proper name in Zapolu (the language still spoken by the inhabitants) is Leopa, the place of rest. The great stone temples with their geometrical friezes still stand largely intact, and the Zapotec who showed me round kept pointing out with pride that they were the work of his ancestors.

One of them, however, was pulled down to make way for a Christian Church (to which my guide referred superciliously as "the Catholic Temple") because the people refused to go to the new place of worship down in the village and continued to come up stubbornly to the burial place of the Kings. But the pendulum has begun to swing back. The sacristy was found to cover one of the most interesting parts of the original structure, and Mexican Government archaeologists had it pulled down.

* * *

ONE evening in the Zocalo I had the opportunity to hear a deafening manifestation of Oaxaca's ideological warfare. A saints' day was due soon, and the faithful were announcing the fact by firing of rockets sounding like anti-aircraft guns. The State Band in the middle of the plaza struck up a Germanic military march, twice as loud as usual, and almost, but not quite, drowned out the noise of the rockets.

The Cathedral took up the challenge and began a continuous clanging of its unmelodious bell. Then a loud-speaker car of the National Committee for Revolutionary Action, which supports the present Government and has no love for the Church, drove into the square and began to blare out advice to the citizens to "Vote for Comrade Ruiz Cortines and the Future of Mexico".

* * *

AT last they all gave it up, and the field was left clear to a marimba band, playing the quite unideological folk-music of the region. There was no other sound except the murmur of voices, and the footsteps of the young men and girls strolling round and round the square, as they do every evening in every town in Latin America, under any political or ecclesiastical regime.

JUST A MIRACLE

"Miracles," was the day school subject, the teacher, a comely spinster, explained them to the best of her ability. Then asked: "Now, can any of you tell me what is a miracle?"

One little boy answered promptly, "Please, miss, my mother say if you don't marry the new minister inside three months, it'll be a miracle."

An American Opinion: THE ETERNAL OPTIMIST

Letters To The Editor

AGRICULTURAL SOLUTION IN FREE TRADE

Sir: Your editorial regarding margarine deals with the problem confronting the Canadian farmer very superficially. The fact is all the major countries except Canada and Australia have an agricultural policy. The United States has her program of buying surplus production when prices drop below certain levels. They have agriculture banks where loans up to a maximum of $100,000 may be obtained. Britain has guaranteed prices to her farmers. Most of them at least three times as high as Canadian prices. Credit to her farmers is practically unlimited. New Zealand has a ten year contract with Britain for dairy products and lamb. New Zealand veterans were given loans of $26,000 as compared with the Canadian V.L.A. of $5,520 which included their postwar credit, sometimes amounting to $1,000. Denmark has her contracts with Britain and Danish farmers have no difficulty of obtaining loans up to $50,000 for 50 year periods. In Canada there is practically no mortgage or commercial money available to farmers.

Some of these facts make it apparent why there are more people of the Maritime provinces stock living in United States than in Canada. Why there are roofs caving in on farm houses and barns from the Atlantic coast to Vancouver. Why the young people have been and are compelled to leave the farms and go to the cities and to the United States. Why there were more new houses built in the city of Peterborough in the last five years than there were in the whole of rural Ontario.

Why Canadian farmers now barely balance imports with exports when a few years ago they were shipping 600 milion pounds of bacon and 150 million pounds of cheese to Britain in a year. Why within the next ten years Canada will be importing $500,000,000 a year in food stuffs. Our mines will not pay for this. We have never yet taken iron ore or oil from the ground which would equal in value the above exports to Britain nor are we likely to. We still import more iron ore than we export. We do not provide more than ⅓ of our oil needs. As for the future Belle Island mines which have been in production since the 1800's have never meant a great deal in our economy although they have 10 times the reserves of any of the recent discoveries.

Canadian farmers are now at the crossroads and an important decision must be made. Shall we live on vegetable oils and allow the dairy industry which provides employment for one out of six in the population to disappear? Margarine is not the only threat. Soon we shall have filled milk, filled cream and ice cream. We can of course produce large quantities of edible oil here in Canada, but we cannot grow cotton or compete with oils which are not a main crop but only a by-product. We do not wish to deprive the Canadian people of these things if that is what they want, but we have watched an inept and gutless government give away our markets and assets for years now for a pat on the head.

What about a deal—a new deal for Canadian agriculture. An agriculture bank with loans up to a maximum of $25,000 over a reasonable period. An embargo on imported vegetable oil, citrus fruits, vegetables, potatoes, etc. And then a deal item by item with the United States. A market for fluid milk in the Boston and New York markets for the Maritime provinces. Those cities now bring milk from as far west as Kansas and Missouri. This together with a free market for Canadian cheese and butter in return for a free market for citrus fruits in return for removal of all tariffs on Canadian beef cattle, and so on down through the list, with the ultimate objective, absolute free trade in all agricultural products. These things should benefit everyone in both countries. We would nominate Mr. Abbott to carry on negotiations for Canada.

Yours truly,
J. R. ROBERTSON.
R.R. 11, Peterborough.

NO CONCERN OF OURS?

Sir: As Canadian representatives for Penguin Books we are not too happy about a recent editorial of yours in which you blame us as Canadian jobbers for the local price of these books. We also note that 'Peter Piper' in his column 'Musical Notes' refers to 'the rapacity of the agents'. As Canadians we always respect the freedom of the press, but hope that this type of review is not the forerunner of a series of articles specifically naming various Canadian companies and their agents!

Although we feel it is really no concern of yours, we believe we owe it to the Canadian public to set the record straight with a few pertinent facts concerning our Company and Penguin Books:—

(1) As of February 1st, the Canadian price for two shilling Penguins was reduced from 60c to 50c, or a mark-up of some 78 per cent. It might interest you and the public to learn that such a mark-up is not considered exorbitant on imported goods, a fact which is only too apparent on articles imported from countries as close as the United States, for example.

(2) After paying our publisher, allowing the standard trade discount to Canadian bookstores and paying the ridiculous 10 per cent. Federal Sales Tax (a relic of the Dark Ages!), we have exactly 18c out of every dollar to operate coast-to-coast distribution, including a sales and office staff, free advertising and display material to the bookstores, local business taxes and all other overhead!

The alternative, would be, of course, for the public to order direct from England. This could be further expanded: cars direct from Detroit, perfume from Paris, watches from Switzerland, and cigarettes from the United States (that's a joke, son!). This would eliminate all agencies and imports and in fact, would eliminate foreign trade completely. In conclusion, Penguin Books are not just reprints. Over 70 per cent. of the educational-Pelican series were specially commissioned for the Penguin Company and are originals. We would appreciate it if this letter could be made public in your newspaper, as it should help all concerned, especially your local bookstores.

Yours truly,
R. G. FLYNN,
(General Manager) Riverside Books.

(Ed. Note: Being interested in books, we object to Mr. Flynn's statement that their price is no concern of ours; it concerns us as much as it does other members of the Canadian public. We agree with him about the ten per cent. sales tax applied to books; it is an evil. We do not presume to pry into his firm's profit and loss account, but must again point out the large spread between the English and Canadian prices of the excellent Penguin and Pelican books. Within a month we bought a Penguin; the price printed on the cover was 1/6 i.e. 22 cents; we paid 50 cents for it. A Pelican which we bought at the same time had the printed price of 2/6, i.e. 37 cents; it cost us 75 cents. English and Canadian bookstores and distributors have the same sales processes to go through (rents, business taxes, advertising, discounts to bookstores and the like). Apart from higher operating costs in Canada, the extra expenses incurred in selling Penguins here are the ten per cent. sales tax (is there not a heavy sales tax also in England?) and the bulk shipping charges. Yet there is more than a hundred per cent. difference in the retail prices.)

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

O Lord, how great are thy works! and thy thoughts are very deep. A brutish man knoweth not; neither doth a fool understand this. (Ps. 92: 5, 6.)

* * *

Woe unto them that seek deep to hide their counsel from the Lord, and their works are in the dark, and they say, Who seeth us? and who knoweth us? Surely your turning of things upside down shall be esteemed as the potter's clay....Is it not yet a very little while, and Lebanon shall be turned into a fruitful field, and the fruitful field shall be esteemed as a forest?....

The meek also shall increase their joy in the Lord, and the poor among men shall rejoice in the Holy One of Israel....They also that erred in spirit shall come to understanding, and they that murmured shall learn doctrine. (Isa. 29: 15, 16, 17, 19, 24.)

* * *

And Jesus being full of the Holy Ghost returned from Jordan, and was led by the Spirit into the wilderness, being forty days tempted of the devil....And the devil, taking him up into an high mountain, shewed unto him all the kingdoms of the world in a moment of time.

And the devil said unto him, All this power will I give thee, and the glory of them: for that is delivered unto me; and to whomsoever I will give it. If thou therefore wilt worship me, all shall be thine.

And Jesus answered and said unto him, Get thee behind me, Satan: for it is written, Thou shalt worship the Lord thy God, and him only shalt thou serve. (Luke 4: 1, 2, 5-8.)

Japan Joining In Study Of Pribilof Seals

OTTAWA, Feb. 19—(CP)—For the first time in more than a decade, Japan is joining Canada and the United States this year in their perennial studies of the great Pribilof seal herds of the northern Pacific.

Japan's re-entry into the continuing seal-research program ranging across the Pacific has given officials here expectations that she again will become a signatory to the Alaska fur-seal agreement which she abrogated in 1951.

The agreement imposes rigid controls on the killing of seals among th 300,000,000 that breed in the U.S.-owned Pribilof islands north of the Aleutians. Canada and the U.S. now are the only signatories to the treaty, which protects about 80 per cent of the world's fur seals.

Japan withdrew from the agreement before she entered the Second World War. She claimed the herd, migrating along the Japanese coast, was devouring huge quantities of fish.

That is one of the questions which this year's three-way research program is aimed at settling. One of two expeditions financed by the U.S. will cruise the Western Pacific taking about 3,000 seals and examining them to see what they eat.

U.S. authorities have contended that earlier, but smaller-scale investigations show seals live largely off non-commercial types of fish.

The Western expedition and one based on this side of the Pacific—there will be two ships in each—also will dig into the long-standing puzzle of just where the seals go when they leave the far-northern breeding grounds. They disappear for about five months a year.

Canada has a sizeable stake in the research program, since she splits the yearly seal harvest with the United States. The U.S. gets 80 per cent of the controlled kill and Canada the remainder. Last year, Canada got 12,000 pelts worth about $660,000.

The Canadian share in this year's research program will be to provide scientific workers for the operations starting about now and ending in June. The Canadians will be F. H. C. Taylor, J. I. Manzer and B. M. Chatwin, all of the Fisheries Department's Pacific Biological Station at Nanaimo, B.C.

Campbellford Hospital Stays Out Of Red

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 19 (ENS).—The Campbellford Hospital Board have released their annual report for 1951, revealing that the hospital, with the aid of the Hospital Auxiliary, has again been able to keep out of the red.

A resuscitator and a new delivery table were purchased during the year and the present operating room necessities are in excellent condition and will be available when the staff moves into the new Campbellford Memorial Hospital, which has been in the process of construction for a number of years.

A total of 520 persons were admitted to the hospital during 1951, making a total of 4,380 patients' days. There were 202 births and no deaths during the year. The X-ray machine, added about two years ago, took 75 X-rays last year, almost all emergency cases. The machine netted the hospital $379.45, after fees to the operator had been paid.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK, now 65, appears in excellent health and spirits, but is deeply moved over the condition of Chinese POW's in Korea. Here he greets Dr. George A. Fitch, whose wife was granted an exclusive interview with the generalissimo.

Chiang Won't Repeat Offer Of Troops To Help In Korea

By GERALDINE FITCH
NEA Special Correspondent

TAIPEH, Formosa — (NEA) — Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek will never repeat his offer of free Chinese troops to fight in Korea.

His troops would not fight there if Chinese prisoners of war are returned to Red China.

Chiang made these facts clear to me in an exclusive interview at his home here.

"If there is a cease fire in Korea," I asked him, "do you believe there is danger that Formosa will be invaded?"

Mme. Chiang, who was present at the interview, quickly interjected her opinion that there was such a danger.

The president nodded gravely and said, "As far as the Communists' desire to take Formosa is concerned, it is always there."

Want to Return to China

I mentioned the Chinese POWs on Kope Island and told him that I had been told by American officers in Korea that 80 per cent of them want to return to "Free China." Some have even had Chinese characters tattooed on their backs reading: "I am anti-Communist."

The Generalissimo spoke very seriously:

"I have offered 35,000 troops Korea and have repeated the offer. I do not intend to repeat it again or press it.

"But if the Chinese POWs who want to come to Formosa are forced to return to Red China, our soldiers of Free China will not want to fight in Korea.

"And if those POWs are forced to return to Red China, their deaths will be charged not to the Communists, but to the United Nations."

In Excellent Health

Chiang sopke with a soft but resolute voice and appeared to be deeply moved by the POW situation now being debated at Panmunjom by the truce delegation. At 65, he appears in excellent health and spirits.

Mme. Chiang told me that she derives great satisfaction from her hobby of painting, which she took up about eight months ago at the suggestion of the wife of Formosa's governor, K. C. Wu, herself an accomplished artist.

Dean Wang Chung-pih of the art department of Taiwan's Normal College told me he was amazed at the boldness of Madam Chiang's strokes.

Mme. Chiang told me that she finds in painting a relaxation from her strenuous life and a way to forget a skin disease, for which she is now taking ACTH. She does not regard it as a waste of time, because she dictates or receives reports from her secretaries while painting.

Explaining that she planned to get a new teacher, she laughed: "I paint like a man; my teacher paints like a woman."

Joke On Churchill

At luncheon with the Chiangs, I was told an interesting anecdote by Gen. J. L. Hwang which concerns Prime Minister Winston Churchill who omitted it from his memoirs.

At the Cairo conference, during World War II, Churchill called upon Mme. Chiang, whom he had not met previously.

As he was ushered in, he said: "Well, Mme. Chiang, I suppose you think I am a wicked old fool."

The others present held their breaths until Mme. Chiang turned the tables by asking, "Mr. Churchill, whatever could make you think that I think you are wicked old fool?"

The Prime Minister ducked the answer.

On another occasion at Cairo, according to Gen Hwang Churchill said, "Mme Chiang, you have never been to my country. You should come because we have much to show you."

"You have never been to my country either," retorted Mme. Chiang. "You must come some time and I think we will have some things from our culture and history to show you."

Adjudicator Finds Flaws In Presentation

MONTREAL, Feb. 19—(CP)—"Shadow and Substance" was presented Monday night by the Federation of English-speaking Catholic Teachers, third presentation in the Western Quebec Regional Drama Festival.

Adjudicator Pierre Lefevre praised the effort but also found some flaws.

The play, by Paul Vincent Carroll, was a difficult one to portray because of the mixture of comedy and pathos that it contained.

AMONG THE WINNERS in the Peterborough Skating Club championships held Feb. 3 were these four skaters shown with Ernie Ferguson, with the Examiner trophy won by Dorothy Kingston and Loran Hale, who judged the contests. The winners were all presented with their trophies Sunday. Maritime Lumbering Industry Making Big Comeback

By KINGSLEY BROWN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Maritimes' lumbering industry is making a comeback and, as far as Nova Scotia is concerned, the boom is on.

Indications are that the province's production this season will top any since the Second World War.

Producers have already laid plans for a large-scale program that will develop into a brisk export trade with the United States. Britain will, however, take the bulk of the raw lumber.

On the province's eastern shore, old-time residents look on the boom as a worthy successor to the once-great gold mining industry that has since petered out.

Spencer Brothers and Turner Ltd. of Truro, N.S., a branch of the George Eddy Company of Bathurst, N.B., recently bought a 40-square-mile tract of virgin timber country from the Scotia Lumber Company, a smaller outfit.

It already has some 200 men preparing the logs for the drive down Guysborough county's St. Mary's river. Modern diesel-powered mills have been built at Two Mile lake and Glenelg.

Another will be built soon at Meager's Grant, in the famed Musquodoboit valley range.

Sold To U.S.

The logs will be shipped by rail to Bathurst, where they will be turned into finished products and sold on the U.S. market.

Some 302,300,000 board feet were produced in Nova Scotia last season, about 40,000,000 feet more than the previous year and a 40 per cent boost over the 1939 annual production.

And the 1950-51 season was a relatively poor one for operations. There was little snow during the mild winter and logs were hauled out over bare ground.

The important pit-prop trade, vital to the part-time woodsmen, also was expected to get a boost this season. Indications are that Britain will buy more than it had earlier been expected.

The British market collapsed in 1950 for pit-props and Maritime producers were forced to ask for a federal subsidy.

"Yes," said one Halifax exporter, "it looks like a good season all right . . . but I only hope it stays cold."

Frame Post Office

OSHAWA, Feb. 19 (CP)—This city will have a frame post office while a new one is being built. City council Monday night decided to rent the federal government a parcel of land for the temporary post office because the department could find no other suitable accommodation.

Quinte Juniors Victors 5-2 Against Oddfellows To Open Semi-Final Series

Belleville and Oddfellows opened their best-of-five semi-final series for Central Ontario junior "B" hockey honors Monday night before over 1,200 enthusiastic fans and Hawks edged out a 5-2 margin over Johnny Godfrey's battlers by virtue of a strong third period drive with the breaks a big factor. Both teams stumbled over chippy ice dotted with many holes when the surface seemed to suddenly give out late in the play.

On the whole, it was typical playoff hockey, cautious and close checking, with neither team too reckless, and the first two periods found little to choose between the strong rivals. In the final frame Lloyd Doran's speedy crew managed to pot three counters against one for Links as play opened and closed at a terrific clip, despite the ice, and thus salted away important win number one. Ted De Gray, Duke Doran, Hec Lalande, John Munroe and fleet winger George Jacklin, recently up from a sick bed, were the potent factors in the final drive, with the first two dangerous and very effective throughout, particularly when Hawks were shorthanded.

An Early Lead

Oddfellows took the early lead in the first frame when Leo Sullivan fired a long low shot from the right blue line that found the lower left corner; Kevin Heffernan drew an assist on the play. Hawks flew back and play continued on a fairly even keel both ways until the three-quarter mark when Belleville found the range with Gilmour the marksman on a 30-foot centre drive from Doran and De Gray. Links were a man short on the Hawk thrust. Late in the period, Pete Green dented the twine on a short left-wing drive as Wilson fed him a nice pass.

The second period proved a ding-dong, close-checking session during which neither team could solve the other's defence. Rival sharpshooters strove in vain to beat both Barclay and Wasson. The latter proved very effective. Play roughened up in the mid-frame with Hawks arousing the ire of Referees Reason and Casterton for four miscues. But despite the advantage in manpower, Links found Barclay and his mates impregnable, in a fine defensive showing. Hawks, on the other hand, scored twice in the game with Links short.

Drive Hard

John Munroe, burly defenceman, gave Hawks the extra step early in the third after a sustained attack on Links' citadel, as he swooped in for a loose puck and whipped it to the open side after Wasson had turned several dryes aside. Puck control became increasingly difficult as hockey turned to golf and skill to chance, as the hectice battle continued apace with Oddfellows taking chances. Luck frowned as Lalande scored the insurance marker from Jacklin with Links again short. Bill Stewart tallied on a brilliant rush later with Jensen and Sullivan feeding the disc on the getaway and Bill flicking a fast backhander past Barclay. Pesky Lalande with Jacklin clicked again, however, late in the frame on nice combination, and the hard-fought duel ended.

IOOF: Goal, Wasson; defence, Clapper, Armstrong; centre, Robinson; wings, Ferguson, Buckton; alts., Jensen, Stewart, McCracken, Bigford, Sullivan, Twist, Coyle, Heffernan, Batley (spare goalie).

Mulvihill Leads Scoring Race

TRENTON, Feb. 19 — Brian Mulvihill, speedy left winger of the Belleville Glen Roys, widened his scoring leadership in the Trent Valley Southern Division to 18 points and, with only one game to play, is almost certain to wind up as the league-scoring champion. Len Beatch, veteran centre of the R.C.A.F. Flyers, has moved into second place with 40 points, one more than Earl Cousins of Belleville.

It is a closer battle in the Northern Division with at least a half-dozen players still in the race. Malcolm (Ace) Reid, Havelock leads with 27 goals and eight assists for a 85-point total, followed closely by teammate Hal Willshaw with 15 goals and 19 assists for 34 points, and Bergen Payne of Norwood with 21 goals and 12 assists for 33 points.

The Central Division race is strictly between Ken Trumble of Marmora and Joe Scott of Wellington. Trumble leads with 15 goals and 17 assists for 32 points, while Scott has 19 goals and 11 assists for 30 points.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Something new in sports in this district will be tried tonight in Campbellford — lacrosse on skates. Yes, Red Creighton is taking the Timbermen lacrosse champs (or most of them) down there to play the All-Stars at 8.30 in a puck exhibition. And they'll follow it up with a 15-minute lacrosse show on ice. Gutted stick aces like Nit O'Hearn, Bobby Thorpe, Dootch Vitarelli, Arn Dugan, Creighton, Mick Magee, Curly Mason, Ross Powless and some more will strut their stuff for a crowd which may amount to 1,500 fans. A lot of hockey as well as lacrosse talent in that bunch which helped bring the Mann Cup here last autumn. Such a show might go over well here, too.

Leafing through the 1951-52 O.H.A. manual the other day we got quite a jolt. In the back part of this annual publication there are lists of O.H.A. champions in the various divisions going back more than half a century. Peterborough is mentioned here and there as provincial champions in certain sections different seasons, but in senior "B" the Legion winners of 1949 are not given a mention at all! The list records Sarnia as champs in 1948 and then jumps to 1950 when Brantford beat Legion out for the title. Yet not a peep of the 1949 series when Legionnaires trimmed Sarnia to take the title and O.H.A. trophy. Won 11 straight playoff games that season. Tch, tch, such an oversight.

Hawks Meet The Petes

Belleville Hawks tangle with the Petes here tomorrow eve in an O.H.A. senior "B" scrap. And it should be quite a scrap. Hawks have been running into rough luck lately and skidding somewhat from their former exalted position atop the group. Petes presently hold down first place but are being crowded by the other clubs, also. It's quite a hectic race as they round the last turn and head into the stretch. Likely a photo finish coming up at the wire two weeks hence. Apart from a couple of exhibitions, the Petes have been idle quite a spell, so they'll have to hustle hard to down the Hawks in this encounter. It is the last senior struggle here this week, and rates a big midweek crowd of fans.

* * * * * *

Eagles beat Kingston 7-6 here last night but they had to work overtime to do it. Should have won over the regulation route but some of 'em were just out there for a skate. Over-confidence, maybe, as they've been rolling right along lately. They're just half a game out of first place now and may take over top spot ere the end of the week—provided the Petes don't have other ideas. Red Creighton handled 'em last eve at Ned Vitarelli was ill, and the K's and McGillis men dished up a tight duel. An Apsley-sized crowd viewed the tight tussle, and the club lost money again in winning a home game. Samalenko and Hill led the snipers, while Monty and Crowley were in on a pair each. Nick did okay in goal for the winners.

Juniors Drop First

Junior "B" Oddfellows came out on the short end of a 5-2 count in Bella Villa last gloaming. They face the Hawklets down there again on the morrow ere returning here Friday for the third of their best-of-five group semi-final series. So the Godfrey gang will really have to dig in on their next effort. 'Twas pretty even for two frames but Belleville finished stronger with DeGray, Doran, Jacklin, Lalonde and Barclay standing out for them. For the Links, Armstrong, Sullivan, Heffernan and Coyle toiled hard. Manager Len Symonds was pretty burned up at the ice which got right bad after one period of play. Too bad.

O.M.H.A. playdown games are billed for Civic Arena on Thursday night, return duels in the points-to-count series with Oshawa teams. Al Watkins' juvenile Marines dropped a 3-1 tilt last eve in the Motor City but should wipe out that deficit in the return joust. The midget Martin-Hewitt chaps (with Moon Wootton coach and Angus Bradley manager) whitewashed their opponents 3-0 in a dandy showing. And Pat Doherty's bantam St. Peter's hustled hard to yank out a 4-3 verdict o'er strong Oshawa opposition. Nice work by the local lads, but they'll have to hustle again Thursday if they hope to advance into the second round of provincial puck playdowns. The Thursday triple-header rates a crowd.

M-H And Saints Get Wins To Open Series

Peterborough teams won two of three games to open their O.M.-H.A. playdown "A" series last night in Oshawa. The local Marines dropped a 3-1 decision to their Motor City rivals, while Martin-Hewitt midgets won 3-0, and St. Peter's bantams were victorious 4-3 in fine play. Return games will be staged here Thursday evening.

Brodie scored two and Johnston one for the juvenile Oshawa squad, while McGrath tallied the lone marker from Pammett for the Outboards. The latter were a bit slow in clearing the puck out in a very even and rather rugged tilt, but they feel they can beat the visitors—who have several junior "B" players aboard—in the next number. Teams:

Marines: Delahaye, McGillen, Byrne, Kearns, Frizzelle, Dodd, Corbett, Spencer, Doris, McGrath, Pammett, Cupoli, McCormick, Jones.

Oshawa: Courtney, Johnston, Dykstra, Kellar, Layton, Brodie, Bonham, Woodinsky, Hughes, Scero, Fisher, Zadic, Burr, Rorabeck.

A Good Chore

Masterson came up with fine netminding for Martin-Hewitt midgets to earn his shutout, and the whole crew clicked in swell form. After a scoreless first frame, the visitors tallied twice in the second on goals by Godfrey and Brooks, as Floyd and Gardner had an assist each. Gardner shoved in the only marker of the third to draw a hand. Play was fast and classy, as well as being quite clean. Teams:

M.-H.: Masterson, Blodgett, Pafry, Cane, Gardner, Strickland, Smith, Brooks, Roberts, Stewart, Heffernan, Godfrey, Chambers, Floyd.

Oshawa: Knight, Steffen, Chasczewsk, Grant, Rahm, Fenton, McIlwaine, Oldfield, Wallace, Malloy, Nichol, Puckalski, Taillon, Thompson, Collins.

Fought Hard

St. Peter's fought themselves to the point of exhaustion in yanking out the tight win in the nifty bantam battle. Murphy clicked for two of their goals, and Atkinson and P. Baker got the others, an assist apiece going to Douglas, Coombes, Naish and Scharfe. The whole bunch turned in a nifty effort on the big ice surface. Tureski notched two of the Oshawa counters, Muir getting the others, with an assist apiece going to Payne, Vaughan and Gremond. Play was quite clean throughout the fast tussle. Teams:

St. Peter's: Hickson, R. Baker, English, Murphy, Scharfe, Stewart, Mahoney, Naish, P. Baker, Pace, Atkinson, Drury, Coombes, Douglas.

Marmora Gets First Against Stirling 5-3

MARMORA, Feb. 19 (ENS). — In their opening T.V.L. playoff fixture with Stirling Monday evening Marmora defeated their old rivals by the score of 5-3. The game was watched by over 400 spectators and was waged at a fast speed. Good performances in the nets by the goalies kept the score down. Stirling obtained a two-goal lead in the first half of the second period as Garvin beat Killian in the first with a shot which gave him no chance to clear and Harden netted on Tanner's pass. But before the period closed, Jones put Stewart's pass to good effect and Trumble scored in a melee on Forestell's assist. As the third period opened, Lavender beat Bates on Forestell's pass and some minutes later added to the score with Trumble assisting. B. Mason shortly after reduced the lead with Bastedo's assistance and one more goal was tallied by Trumble on combined play with Lavender. The issue of the game was uncertain to the end, each team engaging in fast rushes.

Teams:

Stirling: Goal, Bates; defence, Mowat, Tanner; centre, Wright; wings, Harden, Wannamaker; alternates, Bastedo, Hunter, Garvin, R. Mason, B. Mason, McCrory.

Marmora: Goal, Killian; defence, Maynes, Gray; centre, Forestell; wings, Lavender, Trumble; alternates, Jones, Mantle, Stewart, Smith, Brown, Kerr, Darrah, Doyle. Spare goalie, Drummond.

Referees: C. Puffer, R. Garden, Norwood.

Eagles Take Kingston 7-6 In Overtime Contest To Close In On First Place

Eagles climbed to half a game back of the league-leading Petes here last night by edging Kingston 7-6 in overtime in a tight O.H.A. senior "B" tilt before a slim crowd. The loss kept the K's in bottom spot. While play was fast and close most of the way, it was quite scrambly. Each side drew six penalties in fairly clean tussling. It was 1-1 in the even first frame, but Eagles piled up a 3-0 scoring margin in the middle chukker. Kingston fought back hard in the third to earn a 4-1 edge and send the game into an extra inning with the score tied at 5-all. After Eagles tallied twice, the visitors came back late to score a marker in the overtime period and press hard right to the final gong before bowing in defeat. The only injury suffered in the joust was a cut by the eye for Jed Wilson when he was tossed into the boards in the third stanza.

Got Two Each

George Samalenko and Bert Hill dented the hemp twice each for the McGillis men, as Reg Stewart, Bill Berwick and Dootch Vitarelli scored the others. Two assists each went to Keith Montgomery and Bill Crowley, with singles marked up by Jed Wilson, Vitarelli, Freddy Mortimer, Toodie Greenlaw, Samalenko and Hill. Don Murray led Kingston with three goals, Cliff Aitken, Jerry Wagar and Jim Larmer having one each. Aitken, Stan Stewart and Sammy Mulholland had an assist apiece. Both goalies kicked out a flock, and they were kept quite busy in some fast travelling throughout.

Eagles had an edge in the first heat but lacked finish when in close in fast, clean stepping. It was speedy shinny as passes misfired and players were caught out of position most of the way on both sides. Samalenko finally opened scoring when he took Wilson's drop pass at defence and blasted it into a net corner. Murray got that back shortly on nice in-close combination with Aitken and Stewart. Vitarelli and Tinkess were gated for roughing it, and White followed for tripping as Montgomery drew a slashing penalty on the same play. As the gong sounded to end the period, Montgomery tangled again briefly with White and was given an additional penalty for high-sticking.

Eagles Move

After a slow start in the second, all the sinners were back in the fold and it pepped up considerably. Hill took Vitarelli's corner passout with a slap shot to put Eagles up 2-1. Latimer was off for kneeing when Stewart made it 3-1 from Greenlaw and Mortimer on a foxy and fast shot in close. Latimer returned and Eagles added one when Hill tipped in a corner slant from Crowley after Montgomery built up the play. Munroe was chased for tripping and Bender then went for kneeing but nothing happened in their sojourn in the sin bin.

Latimer climbed the wall early in the third for holding and while he was off Aitken checked, recovered and roared in to score a smart goal, finishing it off ala Max Bentley. Later it was fast, even and still scrambly. Richlark's holding penalty cost two goals as Kingston ganged up hard. Murray's angle shot beat Nicholls first and then Wagar slapped in a close-in pass from Mulholland before Richlark returned. Samalenko put Eagles in front with a quick slap at Montgomery's passout at point-blank range after some nifty stickhandling in by Monty. Kingston fought back and Larmer tied it up with a backhander inside as they ganged up. Wilson got cut near the eye just before the bell.

Crowley drew an early hooking penalty in overtime but was back when Berwick scored from Samalenko after a faceoff near Kingston's cage. Sweetman went over next for tripping and Vitarelli banged in a neat one from Crowley and Hill on good combination right inside. Murray's angle backhander counted with little more than a minute to go and, with Kingston at full strength again, the K's pressed hard but in vain for the equalizer as the seconds ticked off to the gong.

Kingston: Goal, Anderson; defence, Stewart and Sweetman; centre, Murray; wings, Mulholland and Aitken; alternates, White, Larmer, Bender, Wagar, Tinkess, Goodfellow and Latimer.

Eagles: Goal, Nicholls; defence, Montgomery and Fennell; centre, Hill; wings, Crowley and Vitarelli; alternates, Samalenko, Berwick, Wilson, F. Mortimer, Greenlaw, Stewart, Munroe and Richlark.

Referee, J. Crombie; linesman, W. Ronhanyi.

Howe Scores Two Goals As Wings Clip Bruins 4-2

DETROIT, Feb. 19. (CP)—Right winger Gordie Howe, the National Hockey League's top scorer, scored two goals in the final eight minutes of play here Monday night to cap a third-period Detroit Red Wing rally that brought a 4-2 victory over Boston Bruins. The win was the pace-setting Red Wings' sixth straight, boosting their lead over the runner-up Toronto Maple Leafs to 15 points. The Bruins remained deadlocked with New York Rangers in fourth spot. Boston took a 1-0 first-period lead and held a 2-1 advantage by the finish of the middle session before going on to their 4-2 final.

Glen Skov and Johnny Wilson scored Detroit's other goals. Dave Creighton and Ed Sandford were the goal-getters for the losers.

Spotlight Shifts

Though the Red Wings may be grabbing just about all the honors there are to grab in the National Hockey League the spotlight has shifted from them to the battle going between Montreal and Toronto.

The upsurging Canadiens caught up with the Leafs in team standings during the week and this without the services of high-scoring ace Maurice (Rocket) Richard, sidelined by injuries for 13 games.

Reason for the Montrealers' climb is the fact that the Habs had two victories in three starts during the week while the best the Leafs could do in three games was a single tie.

Upshot of the whole thing is that the Red Wings pace the pack with 74 points while Toronto and Montreal are tied for second with 61. Tied for fourth place, at 48 points apiece, are New York Rangers and Boston Bruins.

'The standings and individual statistics are official ones released today and include games up to and including Feb. 17).

In the individual scoring department, Detroit's Gordie Howe continues to show the way with 58 points, made up of a record 31 goals and 27 assists.

Montreal's Elmer Lach holds down second spot with 53 points —12 goals and a pace-setting 41 assists. In third spot is Ted Lindsay of Detroit who has a 19-28 mark for 47 points while fourth is Don Raleigh of New York with 14 goals and 32 assists—46 points.

Sid Smith of Toronto comes next with 42 and Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion of Montreal and Johnny Peirson of Boston are tied with 41.

Among the goalkeepers, Detroit's Terry Sawchuk continues to hold the spotlight with 11 shutouts and an average of 1:81 goals —against in the 53 games in which he has participated.

Al Rollins of Toronto and Jim Henry of Boston have five shutout apiece, Rollins having a 2:07 mark and Henry 2:55.

The Leafs are the most penalized club with 582 minutes spent in the penalty box and Rangers have the least—421 minutes. The individual bad man is Guy Kyle of Boston who has spent 115 minutes in the cooler.

Andersen Breaks Own Record In Speed Skating

OSLO, Feb. 19 (CP).—Amazing Hjalmar Andersen of Norway virtually completed a triple grand slam in speed skating at the Olympics today when he broke his own world record in the 10,000 meter race by 11.6 seconds.

The mercury-footed, 28-year-old athletic hero of the Norseland sped around the Bislett Stadium track in 16 minutes, 45.8 seconds to the thunderous cheers of more than 25,000 fans including Crown Prince Olav, and his son, Prince Harald.

Andersen's sensational mark bettered his own recognized world mark of 16:57.4 set last year.

Winner of the 5,000 meter event in Olympic record time and victor in the 1,500 meter race Monday, Andersen seemed a cinch to become the first winter Olympic star ever to win three gold medals in consecutive days.

His time was far better than the Olympic record of 17:24.2 set by another Norwegian sports hero, Ivar Ballangrud, in 1936 at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany. Ballangrud captured three gold medals that year but not on successive days.

Great Ovation

The crowd chanted his nickname, "Hjallis, Hjallis" (pronounced "Yallis") as he toured the track in long, rhythmic strokes. When his time was announced the fans gave his a tremendous ovation.

Andersen was in the third pair to go on the ice but his time was not even expected to be approached by the remaining 24 skaters left in the competition.

Andersen's companion in his record-smashing effort was Kasuhiko Sugawara of Japan. The little Oriental turned in a respectable 17:34, second best time of the first six racers, but was left far behind by the flying Norseman.

Other times turned in so far included Gothe Hedlund, Sweden, 17:39.2; John Hearn, England, 17:41.5; Joseph Merenyi, Hungary, 18:09.00; and Theo Medina, Germany, 18:24.4.

Knocks Toronto Press For Curling Comment

The following letter was received Monday from Ford Moynes of Lindsay:

Sir,—Sometimes I get sick — possibly you do, too—at the backhanded compliments (?) handed out by Toronto newspapers to outside sportsmen.

I saw this heading and picture (Clark's Peterboroughs Win Consols, Use Five Ends to Defeat Kingston) in the Globe, and read the article. Instead of a picture of the Peterborough rink and an appropriate heading for a quartet of champions, the above was put on the article.

Here in Lindsay we have watched the quiet doctor and his experts curl on different occasions, and he has always been a formidable opponent. He is good and his rink, also. They must be good to win the premier curling event in the province, the British Consols, and they will journey on to take a whack at the Dominion championship.

The Globe and Mail could very well have given the Peterborough rink a boost, but sometimes Toronto sports writers go all out for their home town or favorites.

Recently, the Lindsay Collegiate curlers, a young schoolboy quartet, won the provincial championship at Kingston, and they, too, go on to try for the Dominion championship. This is no mean accomplishment. The Toronto Star however, gave the boys one of those backhanded compliments, mildly criticizing their style of delivery, instead of complimenting the boys on a victory.

The attitude of the Toronto press toward "outsiders" might be very much improved.

Witness Told To Keep Quiet About Body

KITCHENER, Feb. 19 (CP). — Clayton Bechtel, who said he discovered the body of 21-year-old Donald Fowler of Stratford outside a trailer last Nov. 21, said in court Monday he was told to say nothing about his discovery.

Bechtel testified at the murder trial of Alvin Lebold and Albert Deleary, accused of slaying Fowler in a shooting outside a trailer shared by Lebold, Deleary and Fowler.

Bechtel said he went to the trailer about 8 a.m. to find out whether Fowler intended working for him that day. He said he found Fowler lying on his stomach outside the trailer, apparently dead.

When he opened the door of the trailer, he saw Lebold sitting on a chair and Deleary standing beside a stove, said Bechtel.

"Lebold turned and said, 'Don't say anything.' Then he repeated, 'Don't say anything.' Deleary remained silent."

Summon Police

Bechtel said he went immediately to the nearby home of Robert Hallman, for whom Lebold and Deleary worked. Accompanied by Hallman, he returned to the trailer. Then they called police.

Defence counsel A. W. Boos asked Hallman if Lebold and Deleary had been drinking. Hallman said he didn't notice.

Asked if he had ever seen them drinking, Hallman replied that he had seen them drink but "they were always sober on pay days."

Earlier, Crown Attorney Harold Daufman, outlining the crown's case to the jury, said the crown would try to prove there had been a drinking party at the trailer the night before Fowler was found dead with a bullet in his neck.

The trial is continuing.

FAREWELL TO OTTAWA—Viscount Alexander, Lady Alexander and their 12-year-old son, Brian, wave farewell to Ottawa as they leave for Halifax en route to Britain. The Alexanders were given a rousing send-off by thousands of Ottawans who turned out to see them leave. The former governor-general sailed from Halifax Sunday for Britain to become Defence Minister in Prime Minister Churchill's cabinet.

Single Girls Outnumber Film Bachelors

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 19 (AP)—Why are there so many unmarried actresses in Hollywood?

There are far more bachelor girls than bachelors among the film famous. To name a few: Katharine Hepburn, Lizabeth Scott, Mitzi Gaynor, Piper Laurie, Jean Peters, Ann Blyth, Patricia Neal, Yvonne De Carlo.

The list grows greater when you consider the unattached divorcees: Betty Hutton, Joan Fontaine, Barbara Stanwyck, Ginger Rogers, Kathryn Grayson, Marilyn Monroe, Ann Sheridan, Joan Crawford, Ann Miller, Paulette Goddard, Marilyn Maxwell, Rhonda Fleming.

Asked about this social phenomenon Marta Toren said:

"Why haven't I married? Because I'm old-fashioned. I just want to be married once, not 10 times. That's why I've waited.

The Swedish miss admitted that being a movie personality is not too conducive to romance.

Dates Scared

"Many men hold an actress in awe," she explained. "They are afraid to ask her for a date."

Marta agreed with Joan Fontaine that it is difficult to find a man who can live happily with a movie star.

But she didn't agree with Miss Fontaine's statement that she won't marry until she gives up her career.

Marriage would be very difficult," said Marta, "but not impossible. I would have to find a man who would be very sympathetic to the kind of work I do and understand it. Preferably, it would be someone in this business, but I don't think I would marry an actor.

"I think another problem in an actress marrying is that she would often be making more money than her husband. I think that would be a very hard situation for a man. As for myself, I still think the man should be the provider."

WELCOMED BY FAMILY — Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, Canada's governor-general designate, is greeted by his son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Massey, on his arrival at Trenton, Ont., from England, Sunday. Press reports say Mrs. Massey may be official hostess for her father-in-law when he moves into Rideau Hall at Ottawa.

Toronto Pupil Bears Scars Of Atomic Blast

TORONTO, Feb. 19—(CP)—A Toronto high school student bears the scars of the Hiroshima atomic bomb blast.

He is Joe Ohori, a Vancouver-born Japanese who went back to Japan for his education and was in Hiroshima when the atom bomb fell. "Souvenirs" are his term for the scars on his left hand.

Joe told his story Monday when he met Kayoko Saito, a student visitor from Japan, one of 24 students representing 15 countries who are visiting North America under the auspices of the World Youth Forum.

The students left Monday night for Washington after a nine-day stay here. Here are some of their comments on Canada and Toronto:

Ami Tal, editor of a labor youth paper in Tel Aviv, Isrrael: "Here I notice that everyone is interested in himself. It is an "I" kind of society. A year or two of compulsory military training would put a little more Canada and not so much 'I' into the minds of your young people."

Hamida Akhund, of Pakistan: "People here take time to enjoy themselves. They do not work as hard trying to have a good time as the people in New York do."

Rajendra Nath Bara, of India: "I have visited Sunnybrook Hospital and the Hospital for Sick Children. They are the most civilized things I have seen on this trip, either in the United States or Canada."

Speakers were the Rev. John McKibbon of St. John's, the Rev. J. M. Ritchie of St. Andrew's Presbyterian, the Rev. A. B. Moffatt of the Free Methodist Church, and the Rev. H. G. Lester of St. Paul's United.

Armored Vest Saves Soldier

By MILO FARNETI

CENTRAL FRONT, Korea, Feb. 19 (AP)—Shrapnel from a Chinese mortar shell hit Pte. M. Nijs above the heart Monday during his company's assault of a hill south of Pyonggang. But it didn't kill him.

Nijs wore one of the new model armored vests which Allied troops are testing.

All the jagged metal did to the vest was tear the nylon casing and scar the alloy plate inserts.

"I did not want to wear the vest," Nijs said. "But now they will never have to order me again. It saved my life."

Pte. James Wilson, of Dundas, Ont., demonstrated "how well the weight is distributed" by putting on the armored cage. "I like it," he said.

The vest weighs about eight pounds.

Generally, the vest will stop "burp" gun bullets and mortar fragments, but not heavier calibre bullets and other missiles.

The main issue is what will save more lives: armor plate or mobility?

Dumping Charge On Clothing Not Yet Proved

OTTAWA, Feb. 19—(CP)—The government has sent investigators into the Unitd States for a first-hand inquiry into claims that U.S.-made women's wear is being dumped on the Canadian market at distress prices, it was learned Monday.

However, officials said the investigations up to now have failed to disclose evidence that U.S. products are being dumped—sold to Canada at less than their fair market price at home.

Anti-dumping checks were intensified following an appeal by unions to the federal government a month ago for action to halt a flood of low-prices women's clothing from the U.S. The unions contend the imports threaten the employment of 50,000 needle-trades workers, concentrated in Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg.

The unions—Trades and Labor Congress organizations in the dress, millinery and handbag industries—charged U.S. shippers were circumventing Canada's anti-dumping laws under which the customs duties on dumped goods are jacked up to bring them to a fair price level.

Claimed Information

They claimed to have information that U.S. manufacturers with surplus stock on their hands were beating the anti-dumping law by selling relatively small quantities in the U.S. at low prices to establish a cheap valuation for Canadian tariff purposes.

A government official said Monday a number of specific examples cited by the unions have been investigated in the U.S. without proof of dumping being obtained.

The investigators still are carrying on a spot check at the manufacturing plants in the U.S., largely in the chief garment-making centre of New York. They are checking women's wear prices, looking over shippers' invoices and examining the books of those sending articles to Canada.

Meanwhile, an informant said no action to hold up the import of U.S. goods is being undertaken by the federal cabinet at the moment. It appeared unlikely cabinet would step in unless proof of dumping were obtained.

Film Producers Facing Suit

MONTREAL, Feb. 19—(CP)—Producers of the French film "Little Aurore, Child Martyr" now may continue showing the film but still face suit in Superior Court for $75,000 damages. This was decided by a court of appeal Monday.

The film, depicting the 30-year-old story of the life of a child following continual beatings and deprivations by her step-mother in this province, had been shown in many Quebec theatres in the last 20 years.

The child's mother was sentenced to be hanged for murder after a sensational trial 30 years ago. The sentence was reduced to life imprisonment after she gave birth to a child in prison, where she later died.

The father, given a prison sentence after being convicted on a manslaughter charge, joined nine other members of the family to enter suit against France Film Co., after being released several years ago.

The company had stopped screening the film pending a decision from appeal court.

Warble Fly Control Discussed At Cavan

CAVAN, Feb. 19 — (ENS). — The warble fly control meeting for Cavan Township was held in the Community Hall, Cavan, on Thursday afternoon.

Warble fly control was discussed at the Cavan Township nomination meeting, and there was a favorable standing vote to proceed with the scheme this year. At the monthly meeting of the Durham Federation of Agriculture executives and directors, those who attended from Cavan Township requested that a meeting be held in Cavan as soon as possible.

R. H. Graham of the Livestock Branch, Toronto, was present and discussed the project. Mr. Graham has assisted with organizing warble fly control in more than 80 townships of Ontario. Some counties are having all of the cattle treated under the Warble Fly Act.

If 60 per cent of the cattle owners petition to have their cattle sprayed for warble fly, the other cattle owners will be compelled to have the work done. As well as controlling the warble fly the two sprays will kill practically all the cattle lice.

No Progress In Oil Problem

TEHRAN, Feb. 19 (AP).—Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh and representatives of the international bank for reconstruction and development got nowhere again Monday in their search for an oil agreement.

With five members of the Iranian parliament sitting anxiously on the sidelines, bank delegates held two more talks with Mossadegh.

"There still is no sign that Mossadegh is willing to accept even the principle of temporary bank management of the Iranian oil indutry," said Hector Prudhomme, the world bank's loan consultant.

Negotiations were reported to have broken down Saturday between the prime minister and the bank but alarmed members of the Iranian Senate intervened for the first time and prodded Mossadegh into further talks.

Meanwhile, doctors planned a second operation in an effort to save the life of Hossein Fatemi, former deputy prime minister, shot in the chest by a would-be assassin last Friday.

Order New Trial For Monette

TORONTO, Feb. 19 (CP)—The Ontario Court of Appeal Monday ordered a new trial for Richard Monette, 29, of St. Catharines, sentenced to be hanged April 8 after he was convicted of the November slaying of Harper Harris, 84-year-old farmer.

Monette's appeal was based on the assertion that the charge of the trial judge to the jury was incomplete. J. Sedgwick, Monette's counsel, maintained the jury should been instructed to determine whether Harris had met his death as the result of an unlawful act of Monette's.

The body of the aged man, a bachelor, was found at the foot of his cellar steps.

The appeal was granted on consent of Crown Counsel W. C. Bowman. He did not argue the appeal.

Mr. Sedgwick said the evidence against Monette "was purely circumstantial."

"But the charge to the jury contained no instruction as to how circumstantial evidence should apply and be considered," he said.

THORNDALE, Ont., Feb. 19 — (CP)—James Brown crawled on hands and knees from his burning barn, three miles southwest of here, Monday night, after saving 30 head of cattle. Loss in hay, feed, implements and the building was estimated at more than $10,000.

Cattle Rustling Becoming Rampant

TORONTO, Feb. 19 (CP).—Cattle rustling "is becoming rampant" in various parts of the province, the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities was told Monday when it opened its two-day meeting here.

Members from Stormont, Glengarry and Dundas counties placed a resolution before the convention asking the attorney-general to institute severe punishment for cattle thieves.

Another resolution charged that reforestation is being discouraged by provisions of the Assessment Act. It said forest owners are being penalized by being obliged to pay taxes for many years so that the total value of the forest may be consumed in taxes.

City To Entertain Visiting Actors Of Drama Festival

Facing a balanced division of the council Monday night Mayor Hugh Waddell cast the deciding vote for the reception committee's proposed entertainment of the visiting members of the theatre groups participating in the Eastern Ontario regional festival of the Dominion Drama Festival at the Collegiate Institute, Feb. 26 to March 1.

Mayor Waddell lined up with Aldermen Young, chairman of the reception committee, Aldermen Longhurst, Graham, Dewart and Burrows. On the other side were: Aldermen Gillespie, Rehill, Black, Miller and Anglesey.

Competing in the Central Ontario section of the Dominion drama festival are: Ottawa Little Theatre, Brockville Theatre Guild, Belleville Theatre Guild, Trenton Drama Club, Kemptville Agricultural School and another group from Kemptville, and Peterborough's Little Theatre, Normal School and Blue Triangle Players.

Buffet Supper

The entertainment proposed by Ald. Young was a buffet supper at the Empress Hotel Saturday, March 1 with sandwiches and coffee after the conclusion of the festival that night. He said the dramatic companies would be in Peterborough five days of that week, that the planning had entailed a great deal of effort by the local committee, and the reception committee wished to recognize the participating theatre players.

Ald. J. E. Gillespie asked Ald. Young how many persons would be at the supper.

"Somewhere between 65 and 85," Ald. Young replied. To Ald. Rehill he said that visiting and local casts would be invited.

Ald. Miller said he wondered wherein the council was responsible for the entertainment.

"It may cost $125," Ald. Miller roughly estimated. "I'm not against it, but I know the council often raises questions about matters of even $50."

Ald. Graham remarked that Ald. Young "does not go out of his way to spend money. Peterborough gets recognition out of this festival and I think we should approve the resolution".

Desirable Publicity

Ald. Young said the drama festival would bring desirable publicity to Peterborough. Other festivals were being held throughout Canada. "The committee has done a lot of organizing and preparation to bring the Central Ontario festival to Peterborough, and also there is the work that has been done by three local groups".

As Mayor Waddell called for the vote, Ald. Miller repeated that he was not opposed, "but I feel that I would like to have some more information".

When Mayor Waddell scanned the council and counted five hands raised in favor of the Young resolution, he knew that the council was evenly divided. Briefly he declared that the resolution had carried, with his vote.

Must Have Seaway Power Or Pay More For Hydro Says Robert H. Saunders

A forceful plea for support of the proposed St. Lawrence seaway and power project was made Monday by Robert H. Saunders, Q.C., chairman of the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario. Mr. Saunders was the guest speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary club at the Empress hotel. Approximately 150 attended.

"If the demand for electrical power continues to increase in the next four years at the rate it has increased in the past few years, by 1954 Ontario will be using up all its available potential power," the Hydro chairman said.

"There will be no reserve. All present power developments will be taxed to their capacity. For the security of the province we should have a 10-15 per cent reserve of power.

At Crossroads

"The hydro commission is at the crossroads right now, and this great question of developing the St. Lawrence power potential must be decided in the next few months. Even if and when the project is started it will take five years before power can be obtained from the St. Lawrence."

Mr. Saunders explained that in the past two years, Ontario's increased demand for power has been about equal to what will be available to the province if the St. Lawrence project goes through —1,100,000 horsepower. The total potential capacity of the river is 2,200,000, of which Ontario and United States will each get half.

What the result to the ratepayer will be if the St. Lawrence project becomes a reality or otherwise was also forcefully outlined by the hydro chairman.

In short, the failure to build this power project will mean money out of the ratepayers' pocket. And this is why.

More Expensive Method

If the project is turned down, the demand for power in Ontario will necessitate the supplying of power from steam plants. To produce the 1,100,000 horsepower, which will be available to Ontario from the St. Lawrence the cost per year will be $18,900,000. However if the equivalent of this power has to be supplied by steam plants, the cost will be $45,000,000, or about 2½ times as much.

"This increased cost will fall on the shoulders of the ratepayer," Mr. Saunders said.

The hydro chairman made several references to Peterborough as indicative of what has happened in communities all over the province.

"In the past six years, domestic consumption of electricity in Ontario has increased 97.4 per cent, commercial use by 79.4 per cent and industrial consumption by 24.9 per cent. The farm use has jumped more than 100 per cent.

Costs Less

"Nevertheless, unlike nearly all other commodities, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario is producing its commodity at less cost than before the war."

To substantiate this statement, the speaker explained that in 1938 the Peterborough Utilities Commission paid $33.78 per horsepower. In 1950, $30.20 was paid.

The speaker paid tribute to the local commission and especially to Manager Ross L. Dobbin for "the tremendous achievement" in meeting the ever-increasing demand for power in the city at a cost which has decreased in the past 12 years.

"This giving people power at cost is a great incentive to industry."

Money Runs Out Dam Work Stops

Work will stop on the main dam project of Lovesick Lake on Wednesday night. The financial allotment of the Trent Canal for this particular job has been expended.

Sixteen men have been employed on the work steadily for the past several months, most of it casual labor, and, though the structure will not be complete, no more work will go forward on it until the time of summer water levels. Then the south spillway and half the deck will be finished and the preliminary work possibly started on Number Three dam, the third north of the Smith township shoreline.

High Water

The winter's first snowstorm during the second week of November has caused an unusual high rate of water flow through the system since December, Trent engineers say.

On Monday water from the upper lake storage basins was being released through the system's dams at the rate of 3,600 cubic feet per second. On Feb. 9 the flow reached the 4,500 rate, a high for the winter run-off.

Water will continue to be drawn off until mid-March when the lakes will have attained minimum levels to receive the spring freshet.

At the three-flight locks at Burleigh, workmen have removed leaking valves in the centre gate and are replacing them with new units. Top timbers are being replaced on the upper gates at the same time.

The removal of winter ice in the stoplog grooves of dams has been a long tedious process. Major control dams were equipped with portable housed steam plants that were used to thaw the ice. Until very recently portable flame throwers have been put to use with great success.

Utilities Given Permission Borrow $600,000

Borrowing of $600,000 for the Utilities Comission was authorized in two bylaws introduced by Ald. T. D. Miller at the meeting of the council Monday night.

The amount of each issue is $300,000 for expansion of the electrical and waterworks departments, as already announced and published. Major items for the electrical and waterworks departments, as already announced and published. Major items for the electrical branch are the two substations on High Street, which have already been erected. Other work for that department has also been done.

Enlargement of the filtration plant of the waterworks is planned for this year, probably in the early fall. Increase in the filter capacity is estimated at 50 per cent.

For Funeral Home

Removal of a restriction against funeral homes in the area bounded by Simcoe, Hunter, Rubidge and Stewart Streets is the purpose of a rezoning bylaw which requires the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board.

City planning board has given its assent to the change in zoning category which would permit transfer of the Anglesey funeral home from its present premises on Simcoe St. to the residence of Dr. F. P. McNulty at the southwest corner of Hunter and Stewart Streets.

City Solicitor W. F. Huycke, Q.C., explained that this bylaw, introduced by Ald. Norman Graham, could not become effective until it was reported to the Ontario Municipal Board, who in turn would provide an opportunity of hearing objections from any residents of the area who were opposed to the new zone category.

Ald. P. J. Anglesey, personally interested in the bylaw, retired during its reading, after asking Mayor Waddell for permission to do so.

Two funeral homes are already established in the Rubidge-Hunter locality. Comstock funeral home is at the southeast corner of Rubidge and Simcoe Streets; and the Lane funeral home is on the south side of Hunter St., between Bethune and Aylmer Streets.

It is understood that Ald. Anglesey has purchased the property at Hunter and Simcoe Streets from Dr. F. P. McNulty.

Choral Club Wins In Festival

Place First, Second In Choir Classes 2nd In Double Trios

The Choral Club of P.C.V.S. Monday won a first and a second in two girls' choir classes in the ninth annual Toronto Kiwanis Music Festival. The collegiate's double trio, part of the 75-voice choir, won a second in their competition.

The choir won first in the open class for first and second soprano and alto girls' choirs. It placed second to Toronto Bishop Strachan school's choir in first and second soprano and alto girls under 21 years class, losing out by three points.

Last year, in first entry in the open class, the choir placed second, losing by one half of one per cent.

Directed by M. J. Curtis, the girls sang the test piece, As Torrents In Summer, by Elgar, in the high school class and received 82 points, the highest. They then sang Slumber Song by Challinor for another 83, a total of 165.

Won By 5 Points

Aurora High School's Glee Club, directed by Illtyd Harris, were five points behind P.C.V.S. this year. The same group tied the Choral Club last year. The third group was from Bloor Collegiate of Toronto, receiving a total of 158 for its two selections.

Monday's triumph was not the club's first win at the Toronto festival. Two years ago the girls' choir placed first in the class for choirs from cities under 75,000. For better opposition they entered the open class last year and Monday.

John M. Hodgins conducted Toronto Bishop Strachan school's choir to first place in the first-second soprano and alto girls under 21 years choir class, only three points ahead of P.C.V.S.

This class was open to any girls' choir, from schools, churches and other groups. All had to sing the test piece, Orpheus With His Lute, by Edward German.

The P.C.V.S. Choral club received 86 for their presentation, one point more than the third place Leaside United Church girls' choir, directed by Isobel Woodward. Mimico High School's Glee Club was fourth with 80, Queen Anne Singers of Woodbridge fifth with 78 and the Toronto McMurrich Public School choir sixth with 76.

One Point Difference

Only one point separated the Bishop Strachan school's double trio and P.C.V.S. double trio, known by the students here as the Six Hits and a Miss. The Collegiate group included Anne Grant, Anne Gordon, Barbara Woodcock, Anne Webb, Catherine Waterman and Mary Lou Waterman.

The test piece was the Evening Prayer from Hansel and Gretel by Humperdinck. Bishop Strachan school received 81 points, P.C.V.S. 80, Toronto Kiwanis Girls Club 77, Queen Anne Singers (A) 76, Loretto College School 75, Willodale Double Trio 75, Queen Anne Singers (B) 73.

In all three classes the P.C.V.S. singers' work was adjudicated by Alec Redshaw, conductor of the Grimsby Philharmonic Society and recently appointed conductor Lindsay Opera Company. He has adjudicated at festivals throughout Britain besides three appearances in Toronto.

Shot "Best Friend"

"I've had to shoot the best friend I had," lamented a Burleigh Falls man today as he left a written plea of guilty at the police station. The "friend" was his 11-year-old dog, blind in one eye, and crippled in one leg, but still spry enough to help another dog kill a deer. The owners of the dogs, Thomas Sedgwick and Mark Edwards, both of Burleigh Falls, were each fined $10 and $2.50 costs for letting dogs run at large during the closed season for deer, in a locality deer usually inhabit.

2 Fairs Protest Peterborough September Date

Peterborough's decision to hold its 1952 Exhibition in September drew protests from representatives of two district fair boards Monday night.

Delegations from Sunderland and Beaverton attended a meeting of Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board in the agricultural office and urged the local board to reconsider its decision to switch from its usual August dates to September 9 to 13.

F. G. Christie of Port Perry, chairman of district 4 of the Ontario Fairs Association and district 4 secretary Don Ross were also present to back up the two-man delegation from Sunderland, and the three representatives from Beaverton.

Was Perfect Set Up

Mr. Ross said Peterborough was upsetting "a perfect set up. For the first time in a number of years," said Mr. Ross, "no fairs were overlapping. The change will interfere with midway set ups and exhibitors too," he charged.

"We have just got out of what we are getting into again," declared K. H. Boe, president of the Beaverton board. "Oshawa was conflicting badly with us, and they have moved into August with benefit to both."

"Some exhibitors want to attend both fairs," said Angus Grant of Beaverton. "When fair dates conflict, everybody suffers."

"We are just going back to our traditional dates," replied C. E. Moore, a director of the local board. "Until the war disrupted us, our fair always followed Toronto for over 40 years."

District secretary Don Ross' claim that he had not been officially notified that Peterborough intended to switch its date before January 20 when he sent out a list of district fair dates, touched off a discussion among the local board.

Agreed To August

Mr. Ross said that at the November meeting of district 4 fairs in Port Perry, the Peterborough delegation agreed to its usual August dates.

"Our delegates were given the dates, September 9 to 13, follow-

Gets 2 Years For Breaking Into Cottages

Youth Pleads Guilty To 10 Charges In Chemong Park

Nolan Jacobs, 25 of Curve Lake Indian Reserve, pleaded guilty to seven charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit theft and three charges of attempting to break and enter today.

Monday he pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the Gail Park store on Chemong Lake February 2 and stealing a quantity of merchandise. He was remanded until today for sentence.

Sent To Reformatory

Magistrate W. R. Philp sentenced Jacobs to two years less a day definite and one year indefinite on the charge of breaking and entering the store and the same on each of the other charges of breaking and entering with intent. On the charges of attempting to break and enter, Jacobs was given one year definite. All sentences are to run concurrently.

Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw submitted Jacob's record of two previous convictions on the same charge and said Jacobs should receive a penitentiary term.

In sentencing Jacobs, Magistrate Philp reminded him he could receive life imprisonment for the offences. "I appreciate the seriousness of the offence," he told Mr. Bradshaw, "but having in mind the calibre of the accused, I do not believe it is a case of a professional criminal."

Admitted Charges

Jacobs admitted breaking into cottages on Chemong Lake, owned by James E. Girven, John Russelle, H. M. Yudin, J. Crookshank, William Barrick, Harry Bartlet and Stanley Tuft. He also confessed to attempting to break into the cottages of Ira B. Moore, Mrs. Mary Clarke of Toronto and Dr. W. S. Fitzpatrick.

All the offences were alleged to have taken place during February.

Court Clears Times Of London Of Corrupt Act

LONDON, Feb. 19 (AP).—The Times of London was acquitted at Old Bailey Monday of corrupt practices—a charge that stemmed from publication of advertisements criticizing the Labor Government during the 1951 election campaign.

The Tronoh-Malayan group of tin-mining companies, which paid for the advertisement, also was acquitted.

"I don't think this is a case I can properly leave to a jury," said Justice MacNair. "I have reached the conclusion that no reasonable jury, on the evidence, could find that the advertisement in question was an advertisement presented to the electors of any particular constituency for any particular candidate."

Sharply Critical

The advertisement consisted of a 4,800-word financial report of the tin group. It was put in the Times six days before the Oct. 25 election and contained a sharp criticism of the Labor Government's financial policies.

Christmas Humphreys, the prosecutor, said the case was an important test of the 1949 election law which strictly limits the amount of money any party or candidate can spend. The advertisement took up five columns. The penalty for violating the law ranges up to a fine of £200 and a year in jail.

Justice MacNair said the law does not apply to "expenditure, the real purpose and effect of which is general and political propaganda even though the general propaganda does, incidentally, assist a particular candidate against others."

OWN COAL MINE—Elmer Evans, 32 year old postal employe of Pottsville, Pa., peers at his wife and daughter from an abandoned coal mine under his house on the city's main business street which he uncovered while excavating his cellar. A six-foot high tunnel running more than 150 feet which he examined still has a good vein of coal. Although the entrance to the 100-year-old mine is just a few feet from his furnace, Elmer doesn't fear his house is in danger. And look at the money he'll save!

At the conclusion of the address Mrs. Sherman Northey, president of the Lakefield United Church Women's Association expressed to Mrs. Wood the appreciation of the ladies of the society.

With the members standing Mrs. Northey then read an act of dedication and the members then gave the "Declaration of Witness" in response.

Replacing the usual evening sermon was the "Cathedral Film", in the series dealing with the life of St. Paul, "The Third Missionary Journey".

Waterworks Valued At $2 Million

Total plant value last year of Utilities Commission's waterworks reached $2,018,186.24, an increase of 3.6% over 1950. Of that increase, 86% was money spent on the distribution system.

Total assets dropped 7.5% in 1951, due to the withdrawal of $352,208.95 from the sinking fund to pay off debentures due, which were issued primarily to construct the existing filter plant.

From the operating statement, total expenses of operation were $264,218.35, an increase of 2% over 1950. There was a 7.5% increase in operation and maintenance. However, the decrease in interest and sinking fund charges due to the filter plant debentures being paid off in mid-year, reduced the overall increase.

Total revenue of the department increased 6.5% over the 1950 figures. Of this increase 69% was in revenue from consumers, 9% from power rentals, and 21% from public fire protection.

$5,610 Profit

The net operating profit of $5,610.46 is a distinct improvement over the previous year, when a deficit of $6,708.97 occurred.

Total water pumpage for the year was 1,601,410,000 gallons, a 1% decrease from last year. The population of the city being 37,192, water consumption per capita per day was 118 gallons as against 121 gallons in 1950. The cost per 1,000 gallons of treating and supplying water rose from 16.0c in 1950 to 16.5c in 1951.

Preliminary plans have been drawn up for a filter plant extension to provide a 50 per cent increase in water treatment facilities. This project has been approved by the Ontario Department of Health, and plans are under way to commence the work in the fall of 1952.

In the distribution system, 1.94 miles of new main were constructed this year, to bring the total mileage of mains to 83.93 miles.

Last year 296 new water services were laid; 46 were relaid; and 23 were repaired. This required 2.02 miles of trenching be done, or a total mileage of trenching of 3.96 miles.

Total hydrants in use at the end of the year was 505 Commission owned, and 59 private.

Indo-China's Pope Heads Army In War Against Communists

By LARRY ALLEN

SAIGON, Indo-China, Feb. 18 (AP) — A religious army under the orders of His Holiness Pham Cong Toc, the Pope of Caodism, is one of the main military forces fighting the Communist-led Viet Minh in the Cochin China area of Indo-China.

Some 20,000 Caodaist troops, equipped with French and American-supplied arms, are waging an unceasing war to help the French destroy Viet Minh units.

The Caodaists are a powerful political and religious sect. They have their own government, finances, and the military force that has been aiding the French since 1945.

The Pope exercises spiritual and temporal powers over 2,000,000 persons in Northwestern Cochin China.

Headquarters of the Caodaist army are located around Tayninh, 62 miles northwest of Saigon. The commander-in-chief is 30-year-old Gen. Niguyen Van Thanh.

The general says the Caodaists are aiding the French on condition "that we remain autonomous." Technically, the Caodaists support the regime headed by Bao Dai, Vietnamese chief of state.

The Caodaists seem to be doing a good job against the Viet Minh, for the road leading to Tayninh is one of the few "safe" ones in Cochin China.

HOW TO FLOOR A SWIMMING POOL—These carpenters at Natick, Mass., are biulding a floor atop the ice on None Such Pond—and theyre' not as mad as you think. The plan is this: they'll load the wooden floor with sand and hen the ice thaws (they hope) boards and sand will sink neatly to the bottom of the pool, thus giving next summer's bathers a smooth, sandy bottom in place of the treacherous mud that has made swimming hazardous.

Previous to the opening of county lodge the brethren sat down in the waiting room to a banquet prepared by the ladies of the Millbrook L.O.B.A.

Wor. County Master Ken Moncrief thanked the brethren for their splendid attendance, the largest he had ever seen. During his past two years as county master he had visited all the lodges at least once and some of them several times.

The reports from the primary lodges showed a substantial increase in membership.

Fallis Line J.O.L. since its organization has always sent forward a good report, and the guardians, Steve Morton and Mrs. Cliff Fallis, received some fine words of approval for their good work.

Exhibition Pulls Out Of Horseshow Assoc.

On motion of Burritt Mann, Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board decided not to renew its membership in the Canadian Horseshow Association Monday night.

Mr. Mann said that the local board had not derived any benefit from its membership fee in the past and with every effort being made to cut down expenses, here was an opportunity to save $50.

Director Hugh Stewart admitted that membership in the association had not been of any benefit as yet, but said it was the board's own fault for not taking advantage of the association's services and felt that the board should renew its membership.

Don Millburn seconded the motion and it carried, with two directors abstaining.

A SHORT DISTANCE FROM THE CHURCH they were married in, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Magee, R.R. 2, Omemee, are today celebrating their golden wedding anniversary. Couple Married 50 Years On Farm In Family 120 Years

One hundred and 20 years ago John Magee settled on a farm two miles west of Fowler's Corners; today his grandson is celebrating his golden wedding anniversary on the same farm.

Walter Magee clearly remembers his wedding day 50 years ago in St. John's Anglican church, built on the northwest corner of the farm. There he married L. Elizabeth Elliott, another descendent of pioneers in that district.

The Rev. J. H. Tenny performed the marriage ceremony with Elva Hannah, the bridesmaid, and George McCague, the best man.

With a glance at the kitchen clock Mr. Magee said, "We were married in just about five minutes time. There was just about four feet of snow on the level and the cold, Oh Boy!"

The oldest member of St. John's Anglican church, Mr. Magee and his wife are hosts today to relatives and neighbors. More than 20 relatives will attend a dinner at noon, followed by an open house to neighbors from 3 p.m. until 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. until 10 p.m.

Made Preparations

All Monday a few relatives and neighbors were making preparations for today's celebration on the homestead. They made sandwiches and salads as well as cooking the fowl.

Recalling their courtship, Mr. Magee laughed, "It was quite a race, but it was all on foot in those days. My wife lived the second farm over."

During their 50 years on the farm, Mr. Magee added, "My wife has been a very important factor in my life, giving me good sound advice."

All their married years have been spent on the pioneer farm where John Magee settled when he came to Canada from Ireland near Belfast more than 120 years ago. There they raised one child, a daughter, Mrs. Mildred McBain, Peterborough.

Mr. Magee's golden wedding is not the first in the Magee family or the first in the Elliott family. His brother, Frederick William Magee, and Mrs. Magee's sister, Sarah Jane Elliott, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary in 1936. They were married in the Elliott homestead, now occupied by Harold McCall.

Summing up their married life, Mr. Magee said, "We've travelled along pretty smoothly."

Historical Work Fenella WI Topic

ROSENEATH, Feb. 19 (ENS).—"The past is the only guide to the future," said Mrs. Frank Brown, district convener of historical research of West Northumberland Women's Institutes, as guest speaker at the February meeting of Fenella Women's Institute.

The speaker chose as her subject, "Historical Research," and said in part: "The children of urban homes today grow up almost entirely unaware of the dependence of the city on the farm, and the fact that no factory wheel can revolve until a furrow has been turned. Their ignorance is a result of our emphasis on forward thinking instead of looking back now and then, and on the entirely false belief that the resources of Canada are limitless." Mrs. Brown concluded her remarks by saying: "A nation that does not appreciate and venerate and learn from its past is not worthy of a future." The speaker was introduced by the president, Mrs. Frank George, and thanked by Mrs. Gordon Jewell.

The meeting was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Waldie, Fenella. The president, Mrs. Frank George, presided, with Mrs. N. C. Leach as pianist. Owing to the absence of the secretary, Mrs. Percy Macklin, Mrs. Ross Macklin was appointed secretary pro-tem.

The meeting was given to historical research, and the program was in keeping with that subject. Mrs. W. I. Montgomery was in charge of a memorial service for King George VI. Mrs. N. C. Leach read the National Anthem; Miss Ruby Herrington presented a historical sketch of "A Trip Across the Plains"; Mrs. Donald George sang a solo, with Mrs. Frank Down playing piano accompaniment; Mrs. Gordon Jewell conducted a quiz on old favorite songs and their authors; a vocal quartette by Mrs. Ambrose Fanning, Mrs. Roy Cowling, Miss Ruby Adams and Mrs. Charles Childs, singing "Let Me Call You Sweetheart"; Miss Ann Fanning contributed a piano solo. Mesdames James Curtis and Gordon Jewell were conveners of the historical research program.

During the business period, the financial statement showed a balance on hand of $88.79, after having purchased new card tables for the community hall.

A donation of $10 was made to the Northumberland T.B. Association.

On motion, it was decided to purchase a new "Lady Tweedsmuir Village History Book," to record all historical research information available.

At the conclusion of the meeting the hostess, assisted by her sister, Mrs. Roy Cowling, and Miss Ruby Adams, served refreshments.

CARL WALZ and his six sons were hoping for a girl. When the stork came there were three. Mrs. Walz and her triplet daughters, lower photo, are scheduled to go to their farm home near Vermillion, S.D., in a day or so. All are doing well.

Rainmaker Suits Ruled Out In NY

NEW YORK, Feb. 19—(AP)—A judge's decision Monday in effect ruled out more than 100 suits seeking $1,000,000 for damages allegedly caused by New York City's former rainmaker.

The rainmaker, Dr. Wallace E. Howell of Harvard University, flew over upstate areas in 1950 seeding rain clouds with dry ice and chemicals in an effort to cause them to precipitate over the city's thirsty reservoirs.

The suits were brought by upstate residents who claimed Howell caused excessive rain which damaged their property.

State Supreme Court Justice Samuel H. Hofstadter granted a motion by the city to vacate the service of the summonses in the suits—on the ground that the City of New York was not named in the summons title.

At the same time, the judge ruled against a motion by the lawyer for the plaintiffs, Herman E. Gottfried of Margaretville, N.Y., who sought to amend the summonses and complaint to include the name of the city.

"Though I am persuaded that the omision of the city's name from the title was a mere oversight," the judge ruled, "I feel constrained to deny the motion to amend the title."

Swerve To Miss Bricks, Collide

LINDSAY, Feb. 19 (ENS) — Two hundred bricks caused $200 damage on Highway 7 late Monday afternoon just west of Fowler's Corners. According to Provincial Police, a truck driven by Michael Woods of Brooklyn was loaded with bricks. As the vehicle went over the brow of the hill, bolts on the left rear dual wheels broke and the truck took a sudden sag spilling bricks on the road.

The truck continued on its way. An hour and 20 minutes later there was a line of four cars going over the hill. Two unknown cars slowed down and pulled out to pass the bricks as did Kenneth Robertson of Peterborough.

Mrs. Isabell Whitehouse, also of Peterborough was unable to stop in time to avoid a collision with Robertson's car resulting in almost $200 damages to the vehicle. No charges will be laid. Investigation was by Constable Frank Linklater of the Lindsay O.P.P. detachment.

Capt. Kurt Carlsen Wins Niche In Spring Fashions

By PEGGY MASSIN

PARIS, Feb. 19 (Reuters). — Capt. Kurt Carlsen, the skipper who stayed aboard the Flying Enterprise for two weeks before it went down in the Atlantic, has commandeered a niche in the spring fashion scene.

"Capt. Carlsen's hat in white pique with a visor of black bakou, leads off the spring hat collection of Svend, one of Paris' top milliners.

Other models stress types of cloches and slouched brimmed hats, which Greta Garbo made famous. Dramatic effects are achieved with chiffon scarves or merry-widow veils, or flowers growing through the floppy brims.

A novelty note appears in white pique printed with scribbles from blotting paper. Svend's own signature, in reverse, is used on one model, which completes the theme with a large feather quill pen speared through the crown.

The nautical note is continued by Paulette, who sticks to the French navy. Little berets, complete with topknot and ribbon streamers, are featured in fabric and straw. Other models are copied from Breton-brimmed sailors with the neat small brim bent back against its crown.

Tiny Sailor

A tiny Gibson Girl sailor is literally anchored on the head in the back, with a wired scroll in the shape of an anchor, extending down from under the brim.

Pauelltte features a new approach to spring with wool and jersey hats. Even grey flannel appears in a pert little cloche, paired with its own stole.

Trimming is restrained, and if presented to all, is handled with a light-as-air touch. For the last word in feminine flattery, Paulette takes yards of wispy tulle and drapes it round the shoulders, or allows it to fall unrestricted down the back.

Other effective tricks are seen in untrimmed hats, which are matched with their own special bunch of posies, pinned at the waist or on the shoulder.

FALSE TEETH
That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH the alkaline (tho-acid) powder on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Free Yourself from laxative slavery

Try this delightful family breakfast treat! Eat a generous bowlful (about ½ cup) of crisp toasty Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with sugar and cream. Drink plenty of liquids. ALL-BRAN is the natural laxative cereal that may help you back to youthful regularity, lost because of lack of bulk in your diet. It's the only type ready-to-eat cereal that supplies all the bulk you may need. High in protein and iron . . . not habit-forming. Why don't you try it? Kellogg's is so sure you'll like ALL-BRAN that if you're not completely satisfied after 10 days, send empty carton to Kellogg's, London, Ont., and get DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

Scout Mothers' Auxiliaries At Joint Meeting

A hastily arranged meeting of representatives from nine Cub and Scout Mothers' Auxiliaries of this city took place Monday afternoon in All Saints' parish hall. Speaker was the assistant Provincial Commissioner of Ontario Mrs. Standing of Toronto.

The meeting had been scheduled for this time by the local association of Boy Scouts but the auxiliaries were not notified of it until late Friday. An attendance of more than 60 ladies was therefore indicative of great interest in this movement. However, it was feared that some auxiliaries had not been contacted.

Main outcome of the meeting was a resolution that an Executive Board be formed to act as liaison between headquarters and the Scout Auxiliaries of Peterborough, to be formed by the local association. The motion was made, after considerable discussion of the matter, by Mrs. W. R. Philp and Mrs. H. Beresford.

Of the nine organizations represented two are just in the progress of organization — Sacred Heart and St. Alban's. The former has already made $50. for the treasury without holding an executive meeting.

A variety of ideas for making money and suggestions on how the auxiliaries can serve the scouts were given by the speaker. An Auxiliary rating quizz served as a prompter for officers and members alike.

One thing Mrs. Standing asked of the ladies: "Remember to make your gossip only of the kind that is beneficial to someone." She remarked "we are all prone to repeat 'they said' which, as Bacon said, is 'half a lie'."

After a questioning period, which brought forth further ideas, the ladies enjoyed a social hour and refreshments provided by the local association and served by members of All Saints' Auxiliary. Packages of cake mix were given as favors through co-operation of the manufacturer.

The speaker was the guest of Mrs. W. Beard, president of All Saints' while in the city.

Matron of honour was Mrs. Lee Wildman, sister-in-law of the groom. She was frocked in powder blue georgette creye, and wore a matching head-dress. She carried a nosegay of pink carnations.

Mr. Lee Wildman was groomsman and the ushers were Harry McNabb, brother of the bride and Laurie Smith of the R.C.A.F.

The reception was held in the church parlor, where the bride's mother received wearing a suit in nut brown shade with accessories of pastel pink. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

The groom's mother who also received wore a dress of slate grey with accessories of deep mauve, and a corsage of talisman roses.

Later the bride left for a short honey moon trip. Travelling the bride chose a rust velvet dress with matching hat; and accessories of navy. Her corsage was of Johannahill roses.

Major Bennett Chapter's annual Valentine Ball lived up to the high tradition of the past, in spite of certain difficulties, through the efforts of the ladies pictured here. Left to right are Mrs. Ronald Kemp, Mrs. Donald Murray, Mrs. J. Ralph Clark and Mrs. Gordon Pammett in party dress as they arrived at the Brock Ballroom Monday evening. Mrs. Kemp and Mrs. Clark were co-conveners of the event, Mrs. Pammett was a member of the dance committee and assisted in handing out favors at the door. Patrons Thoroughly Enjoy Major Bennett Valentine Ball

Maintaining the tradition of their dances of past years became difficult for the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., this year because of the sudden death of the King to whom all members had sworn their allegiance on joining this patriotic organization. However, their Valentine Ball on Monday evening at the Brock Ballroom came through as one of the loveliest dances of all.

Comment throughout the evening and today from many of the 450 guests who attended gave evidence of thtorough enjoyment. The ballroom was delightfully decorated with lacy hearts and Valentine greetings, streamers and flowers in a befitting color scheme. Centrepiece on each table was a large red heart with a paper rose on white lace and the favors to the ladies were a new shade of nail polish, and a bottle of hair shampoo.

Prizes were lovely too. There were three draws, won by Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Melville and Mr. and Mrs. Doug. Hamilton. The novelty dance winners were: Mr. and Mrs. T. Gaskell, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Armstrong, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton and Mr. and Mrs. Hislop.

Co-conveners Mrs. J. Ralph Clark and Mrs. Ronald Kemp had the assistance of a committee of 14 members, Mrs. Doug. Hill, Mrs. Gordon Pammett, Mrs. Gerald Bryett, Mrs. Murray Metcalfe, Miss Betty Castle, Mrs. R. M. Elliot, Miss Joyce Alexander, Mrs. R. Gibbons, Mrs. T. MacMillan, Mrs. Don Craig, Mrs. Don Wood, Mrs. A. E. Thompson, Mrs. T. F. Atkinson and Mrs. William Aggas. The favors were given out by Mrs. Pammett, Mrs. Lenore Drummond and Miss Jessie Johnson.

Mayor and Mrs. Hugh Waddell gave their patronage to the dance and assisted in receiving the guests. Also Mr. and Mrs. Gordon K. Fraser and Lt.-Col. and Mrs. W. Gordon Hall. Regent Mrs. Donald Murray and Mr. Murray were first to extend their greetings and Mrs. Murray thanked the crowd for their attendance in spite of the change in date.

Ballroom manager Mr. James Laidlaw is also receiving thanks of the I.O.D.E. members since he made special arrangements so that the event might be a financial success. Numerous cancellations of tickets were received when it was announced the dance was postponed from Friday evening because of the King's funeral.

Top London Model Places Time Limit On Career

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 19 — (CP)— Modelling is a glamorous profession but it's a "dead-end street" in the belief of a woman who has been one of Britain's leading mannequins for 20 years.

"Your days at this game are numbered," says smooth, Spanish-styled Dolores, top model for royal designer Norman Hartnell. "What comes after that? For myself, I'm too scraggy to start modelling middle-aged styles."

Dolores is a tall, slender model with an exotic Spanish look, although she was born in prosaically British Bromley, Kent, and hasn't a drop of Latin blood in her veins. Admittedly a veteran —she'll soon appear in her 3,500th mannequin parade—she isn't really too worried about the future.

LEADING MANNEQUIN — Dolores, mannequin for 18 years to Norman Hartnell, designer to the Queen, wears a black sequin dinner suit Hartnell designed in 1938 and could not bring himself to sell. Tall, slender and with an exotic Spanish look —although she is English-born, with not a drop of Latin blood —Dolores will soon appear in her 3,500th mannequin parade.

She has a distinctive style and a reputation acquired through 18 years as Hartnell's chief model. Her appearance recently drew favorable comment from Queen Mother Elizabeth.

Dolores has also modelled clothes for other members of the royal family, from Queen Mother Mary to 15-year-old Princess Alexandra, daughter of the Duchess of Kent.

Before last autumn's Canadian tour she accompanied Hartnell to Clarance House to show special designs for the selection of Princess Elizabeth, now Elizabeth II.

Modelling No Sinecure

Of English parents, Dolores' real name is Dorothy Stephenson. Of her professional name, given her by Hartnell to point up her dark looks, Dolores says: "It's a hard name to live up to. People expect extra polish." And with 16 to 17 changes in a one-hour show, this is sometimes difficult to keep.

Dolores says Hartnell is wonderful to work with, and surprisingly even-tempered. But Hartnell is still an artist. Like many famous painters, he has one "masterpiece" he can not bring himself to sell.

This is a black, two-piece dinner suit composed entirely of hand-sewn jet sequins and called "Blackmail". Designed originally in 1938 and still exhibited as the piece de resistance at certain shows, it has a skin-tight skirt and three-quarter jacket with flared peplum, cummerbund waist and long tight sleeves.

This once attracted the attention of film star Marlene Dietrich. She however, had to be satisfied with a copy. Hartnell still refuses to sell the original.

EVENING SHORTIES—Left, white soutache braid and ball fringe embroidered bolero effect for a late day dress of white pique with a full gored skirt. Right, for the debutante, this strapless evening gown is a nice springtime choice. Made of brilliant grass green lace it is contrasted with a criss-cross belt of pink satin and pink satin gloves. The side draping is a high fashion touch.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Training For Nurse Experience

I have a story to tell you.

I have been saving it until Marianne made her first visit home after going into nurses' training school.

As you know she took Day Nursery Teachers' training last year and worked in a City Day Nursery for six weeks, until more than half of the children were absent with mumps, whooping cough or pink eye.

She had three weeks in which to take stock of herself and analyze her feelings. She wound up thinking her talents (my word) were not being extended to the limit.

She had the required credits and three weeks of grace to make arrangements, and managed it in record time, and was accepted.

Last night she burst through the door radiant and bubbling over with sheer joy and enthusiasm.

"Oh mother, when I think how close I came to missing this glorious experience!"

She had so much to spill out she stood with her elbows resting on top of our high oven (it was hot too) while I prepared dinner and talked without even taking off her coat or gloves or pausing for breath for nigh onto 30 minutes. Her classmates, her big sister nurse, the wonderful cafeteria, swimming pool, skeleton (!), supervisors, good-looking internes, recreation room, rules, rules, rules—even her red-lined cape—all are thrilling.

Not even black stockings dampen her spirits.

"It's the most wonderful profession in the world. Every girl should be a nurse." (Notice, I quote.)

It may be alright to be a doting mother but this is a cookery column—not a nursing column. But who wants to cook when there is so much fun to be had? That's how I feel just now—but I have just had my lunch!

Some of you want to cook in a big way, for read this letter from Violet M. M.

Dear Mary Moore: The women of our church wish to put on a luncheon towards the end of the month. We would like to serve "chicken a la King" on hot biscuits. This project is to help raise money for church expenses, so could you please help us out by sending recipe (an inexpensive one) for 150 people. We enjoy your recipes very much and thank you in advance for your help.

Violet M. M.

Answer to Violet M. M.

I think I have exactly what you are after. The only extras besides chicken are condensed mushroom soup and canned pimientoes.

Chicken A La King (for 150 people)

Size of each serving is one-half cup.

Eight cups unsifted flour, 2 teaspoons pepper, 8 quarts rich chicken stock, 1 105-oz. tin condensed mushroom soup (buy this from grocery wholesale where it is stocked for hotel, restaurant and hospital use), 6 cups water, 4 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce, 24 oz. chopped canned pimiento (this is roughly 3 cups), 8 or 10 lbs. cooked and diced chicken weighed after it is diced. Blend flour and pepper, and stir them to a smooth paste with some of the chicken stock, then add all of the chicken stock and stir until thick. If chicken stock is hot the thickening time is speeded up. Use 4 large double boilers if you do not have kettle big enough to hold this. Add soup, water and Worcestershire sauce, heat through. Add pimiento and chicken, heat through. Half diced veal may be used in place of chicken.

DOROTHY DIX

Nagging, Replies Husband; To Correction

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a young (21) wife and mother of a three-year-old boy, with another child on the way. My husband has a steady job, but after paying all our bills there is seldom anything left to put away. I do my best to economize and never spend money on myself without consulting him first. He considers most of my personal expenditures, such as money for cosmetics, foolish. Lately, our neighbors, mostly older men, have been asking my husband to go hunting and fishing with them. He has been more than glad to go, but wanted all the equipment they had. First came fishing. He bought a cheap outfit, but had hardly used it before he purchased an expensive one. Then it was hunting, for which he needed expensive guns, clothes, etc. All this he has bought without consulting me. All this is taking money we need for our things.

Besides the finances involved, he spends so much time on these hobbies, with various trips and long evenings with the neighbors discussing them, that I seldom have a chance to talk with him.

WENDY.

ANSWER: It's a fine thing for a man to be interested in masculine activities, but like most good things it can be carried too far. When the sporting goods budget runs into the housekeeping or savings account money, a halt should be called. The perfect financial setup in any family calls for mutual consultation on any major, and most minor, expenditures. Your husband is greatly at fault for spending so much money on his hobbies, yet allowing you so little for small feminine luxuries.

Insist On Your Rights

You have a right to insist on this much consideration. Naturally your husband will accuse you of nagging; that's the usual male response to any form of correction. The only way you can put your finances on a sound basis is to agree mutually on a budget for hubby's sports, and one for your own personal expenditures. These amounts should not come out of savings, but be budgeted along with regular household expenses.

Your husband's lavish display of expensive equipment is misleading to the neighbors, too. They probably think he has unlimited money to spend. If you know these people very well, you might drop a gentle hint to the effect that you would like a little more of your husband's time, attention, and money.

The expenses that come along with a new baby may also act as a deterrent to your sportsman's spending.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: When I was married two years ago, I did not love my husband, but yielded to his pleading and promising. Now I discover that all his promises were empty. I have no faith in him. He is insanely jealous and won't let me have a friend, yet he continues to see his. I have been a good, faithful wife, but am miserable over the treatment I get. Should I stay with my husband or get separate maintenance?

ROSELLA.

ANSWER: Is your husband entirely at fault? You married him without love, and have probably never let him forget it. Since he knows you don't love him, he can scarcely be blamed for suspecting you may love someone else. You made a bad bargain, then didn't have the gallantry to stick by it. If you can't bring love to a marriage, there is little you deserve to get from it.

Under the circumstances, I can't see where you are even entitled to separate maintenance, but since the law has its own ruling on that subject. better let it dispose of your case. Both you and your husband will be happier apart, under the unfortunate circumstances existing.

DEAR MISS DIX: My late husband, who was an invalid for many years, passed away six months ago. Our two children are both married and I live alone. An old friend of ours, a widower of many years, has asked me to marry him. I have very strong feelings for him, trust and respect him thoroughly, so I am sure we will enjoy a happy life together. He has no children, and mine wholeheartedly approve of the proposed marriage. Our mutual friends, too, we are sure, will be pleased. There is only one thing we feel uncertain about. With due respect to my late husband, when will good taste permit me to remarry? MILLICENT W.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: It is pleasant, indeed, to know of two people who can enter the last years of their lives with so much happiness and contentment around them. While a year is considered the proper elapsed time between widowhood and a new marriage, shorter periods are not unusual. The six months since your husband's death is a sufficiently long wait, especially since the coming marriage has such unqualified approval of all immediately concerned. Bless you both, and may you have many years of happiness ahead.

Smith Opposes County Control Of Tree Cutting

Smith township is opposing control of the cutting of trees in the Peterborough area as considered by the county council.

Reeve Gordon Fitzgerald and Deputy Reeve Robert McAdam were instructed by their council last Saturday to vote against the restrictive bylaw when it comes before the county council. Official Smith opinion is that this move toward regulation of the cutting of timber is premature.

Township road rate for 1952 was set at 5.5 mills, the same as last year. The township levy plus the government subsidy will provide $31,000 for road expenditure under the direction of the township. It was dcided to place 10,000 cu. yds. of crushed gravel on township roads. The clerk was directed to advertise for tenders.

Pending approval by the Department of Education, School Section No. 1 is being divided into two sections. The new section will be SS No. 14. Its organization will be proceeded with when authority comes from the Department. Three trustees will be elcted, and will be commissioned to provide necessary school accommodation for the area.

With The Boy Scouts

By G. E. GROOMBRIDGE

Salvation Army

On Sunday a divine service was held in the Citadel at which more than 100 Scouts, Cubs, Brownies, Guides and officers were in attendance. The speaker for the occasion was Captain Joe Craig, Scout and Cub director of the Salvation Army for Canada. District Commissioner Dr. G. R. Langley read the responsive lesson on the order of service. A large number of parents of the group members were present to support their sons and daughters in this service.

Sacred Heart

The Cub pack attended early mass on Friday morning in full uniform and afterward renewed their promise affirming their loyalty to the Queen. During the week Garry Garvey, Paul Harding, Garry Rogers, Douglas Seabrook and Larry Woodcock passed their knotting tests toward the first star. On Saturday evening a very successful social evening was held under the auspices of the group committee and ladies' auxiliary.

St. Luke's

The Cub pack attended fathers' night at the King George Home and School meeting during the week and demonstrated the game of Cubbing to all present adding one or two skits into the program of the evening. Their efforts were well received by all.

St. John's

Members of the troop and pack joined with the regiment and the members of the city council at the memorial service held at St. John's Church on Friday last. Ross Reid was taken to hospital for an emergency operation. He is making good recovery. Keep smiling, Ross.

All Saints'

At special meetings last week the troop and Rover crew in simple ceremonies took their promise of allegiance to the Queen. Also at the request of the church authorities, two members of the crew or troop will be on duty every Sunday morning to assist the wardens as sidesmen. Good work fellows.

Due to the passing of the King very little actual activity took place in Scouting during the past week as all pack and troop took part in the national period of mourning. Many activities will be taking place in the coming week Friday being one of parents and sons banquets at three units.

St. John's will be holding theirs at 6:30 p.m. with the guest speaker being the Rev. Pat Blagrave. Trinity Church hold theirs at the same time as also does St. Paul's, Graham Carruthers, assistant district commissioner being the guest speaker at St. Paul's. On Tuesday next St. Luke's will hold their father and son banquet at 6:30 p.m.

All groups in the city are now registered with an advanced roll over last year of 113, the total registration this year being 645 Cubs, Scouts, Rovers and officers. Apparently the spade work done during 1951 is giving results.

A special invitation is extended to all Scouts and Cubs to attend the open house of the Peterborough Ski Club being held at Bethany Saturday. A train will leave the C.P.R. station at 10.10 a.m. the fare being 45 cents return. Free towing facilities will be extended to those attending.

Swollen Glands Look Like Mumps

Several children in the city may be needlessly missing days at school according to Dr. R. A. Kelly, M.O.H.

Dr. Kelly said today that there has been a substantial increase in the number of reported cases of mumps in Peterborough this month. However the medical officer of health has suspicions that several of the reported cases are not mumps, but rather a type of glandular infection which is also characterized by swelling of the neck.

In a great many cases of this type of glandular trouble, the children do not need to stay away from school the required 16 days —quarantine period for mumps.

Dr. Kelly is recommending that if a child shows signs or symptoms of what may appear to be mumps, the family physician be contacted immediately and a correct diagnosis obtained.

There have been 16 cases of mumps reported to the department to-date in February.

Early User

Going back to the early history of hydro in the city, Mr. Saunders explained that Peterborough was one of the early hydro users in the province. Hydro power was first used here in 1884 and at that time the city had one of the three hydro plants that generated electricity in North America. Of the other two, one was in the United States and the other at Cornwall, Ontario.

In his concluding remarks, the hydro chairman made a direct prophecy in reference to hydro rates. He said that there will be no general rate increase for power to municipalities in the province during 1952.

"However, I will not make a prophecy beyond the end of this year," Mr. Saunders said.

The guest speaker was introduced by Ross L. Dobbin, manager of the Peterborough Public Utilities Commission, and thanked by His Worship, Mayor Hugh Waddell.

President S. J. Black introduced the following, who were seated at the head table: Mr. Dobbin, Ald. A. B. Burrows, Ald. Douglas Miller, Fred Hills, Gordon K. Fraser, M.P.; Mayor Waddell, Gordon R. Langley, J. E. Girven.

The following visiting Rotarians were introduced by T. Taylor: Dr. W. Scharwz, Lindsay; E. G. Gurnett, F. C. Adsett, P. C. McGuire and O. H. Scott, all of Belleville.

The remaining approximately 50 visitors included guests of the P.U.C. and guests from Belleville and Toronto.

Get Two Years

strong said he was investigating a complaint that a cottage on Chemong Lake had been broken into February 16. He said tracks led him from the cottage to Long Point on the east side of the lake, where he lost track of them.

He said several of the cottages had been broken into, by someone breaking locks and clasps on doors and that storm windows had been removed from some and shoved under the buildings.

Farmers in the vicinity were questioned and constable Armstrong said one informed him he had Jacobs working for him. Jacobs admitted being in trouble some time ago for breaking and entering, and after further questioning, Constable Armstrong said Jacobs confessed to the series of break-ins and pointed out the cottages to him. He said a rifle, taken from the cottage of J. E. Girven and a hunting knife taken from the Russelle cottage were recovered at Jacobs' home on Curve Lake.

Protest Tax Rate

FORT ERIE, Feb. 19 — (CP)— Councils of the Townships of Crowland and Stamford and the town of Thorald have endorsed a protest of Fort Erie against increased Welland county tax rates. The three have agreed with Fort Erie council to ask county council to call a halt to expenditure.

Uneasy Singapore Marking Surrender With Wary Eye

By JACK MACBETH

SINGAPORE—(AP)—Six British officers strode from their sheltered headquarters into the blazing afternoon sun and climbed into two waiting staff cars.

The procession moved slowly down from a gently rising hill in the heart of smoking Singapore. Distant gunfire gnawed at tired nerves.

At the wheel of the lead vehicle, sat Capt. John K. Gwinnell. In the car behind rode Lt.-Gen. A. E. Percival, general officer commanding, Malaya.

From both cars streamed huge white flags. The date: 10 years ago.

Less than an hour later Percival established his fateful rendezvous with Japanese Gen. Yamashita—the "Tiger of Malay".

On the grounds of the Ford Motor Company of Canada factory in Singapore's northwestern outskirts, the British General affixed his signature to Yamashita's surrender terms—the shooting stopped at 8:30 p.m. Feb. 15, 1942.

So ended 10 weeks of bloody, bitter fighting which began when the Japanese invaded Malaya through southern Siam on Dec. 8, 1941. And so began an enemy occupation which never will be forgotten by the inhabitants of this little island and of the jungle land beyond the Straits of Johore.

Retracing Percival's route to the Ford factory today little evidence can be seen of war's physical destruction.

But, further along the famed Bukit Timah Road toward Johore, is a grimmer reminder: the Kranji Military Cemetery. In it, 4,000 Britons Indians, Australians and Malayans lie beneath green sod and neat flower beds.

In Back Door

The Japanese, after moving down the 400-mile length of the Malay Peninsula at heavy cost, struck across the Johore Straits Feb. 8. Overnight, they landed 12,000 troops and the number was doubled the next day.

In his official summary of the Malayan campaign, Percival estimated that the enemy used 100,000 men in taking Singapore, compared with 70,000 British combat troops on the island. The enemy struck with all its force on a narrow front and through the back door.

Percival decried Britain's unpreparedness for war in the Far East in 1941, declaring:

"This unpreparedness is no new experience. It is traditional in the British Empire."

Now, 10 years later, Singapore is leading a peaceful, though strained life. Many of its residents look with fear on the Communist campaign of terrorism along the whole Malay peninsula. Newspapers here, talk of the present limited jungle war as a possible forerunner to a Chinese Communist invasion of Southeast Asia.

British ground forces in Singapore and Malaya are fewer in number than they were in 1941. This is no secret. It is no secret, either, that the Chinese Reds have numerical air superiority in Korea at present.

Here in the colony, they remember the Japanese came overland from the north. They know, too, the the island's defences are no stronger now than they were 10 years ago. In fact, they are weaker.

Throughout Singapore and Malaya there are some 30,000 British army troops. Also there are an estimated 150,000 federatic police, constabulary men and home guards.

Superintendent Gives Sunday School Seals

ROSENEATH, Feb. 19—(ENS) —On Sunday morning, following the lesson period at the United Church Sunday school, superintendent Andrew Brown presented diplomas and seals to the teachers and pupils for regular attendance during the year 1951.

Diplomas were presented to Mrs. Thomas Sandercock, Douglas Coyle, Shirley Brown, Bernice McNab, Linda Horner, Jean Davidson, Ross Davidson and Catherine Davidson.

Seals were presented to Norman Sherwin, Mrs. Norman Sherwin, Doris Robins, Beverley Robins, Donald Robins and Marie Robins, Helen Sandercock, Mrs. Charles Sandercock, Walter Gallagher, Eva Gallagher, June Gallagher, Allan Gallagher, Mary Skuce and Mrs. Flex McMillen.

When a pupil has completed one year's perfect attendance, a diploma is presented, each year afterward a seal is added until the diploma is full (seven seals). Then another diploma is presented by the superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Shewin had 18 and 17 years perfect attendance, Doris Robins also had 17 years' perfect attendance, Beverley Robins 14 years, Donald Robins 10 years and Marie Robins seven years. The latter four are the family of Mr. and Mrs. O. J. Robins.

Cigar Store Closes, 63 Years Operating

A cigar store that has been operating for 63 years, the last 13 under Vern Fisk, has sold its last cigar. The store closed Monday.

The Canadian Pacific Railway has rented the store at a healthy increase in rent and has been making alterations. The railway will have its downtown ticket office at this location, for many years on George St. near Charlotte St.

The cigar store was originally opened by Sam Ray, father of Charles Ray, insurance broker. Mr. Ray came to the city as a cricket player with the local team.

HISTORIC MILL

The first cotton-thread spinning mill in the United States was established in 1790 on Rhode Island.

Couple Honored

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 19 (ENS) —About 25 friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Ruttan on Wednesday night to honor them on the occasion of their 19th wedding anniversary.

Progressive euchre was played and during the evening Mr. and Mrs. Ruttan were presented with a silver flower basket. The presentation was made by Mrs. Ross Pollock and Mr. Ruttan responded to the address.

Euchre prize winners were Mrs. Rhoda Campney, Mrs. Sadie Mann, Mrs. H. McDonald and Mr. Reginald Dooley. Lunch was served.

Suggest Amendments Submitted To Bylaw

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 19 (CP)— Owen Sound Police Commission Monday decided to ask Mrs. Carroll Davey to submit amendments she would like to see made to the commission's taxi bylaw.

Mrs. Davey and her husband own Scenic City Bus Lines, operating the city's bus service. They maintain the service has been losing money.

Earlier Council declined to subsidize the service or buy it. The bus owners have contended some taxi operators are infringing on Scenic Bus Lines' franchise and operating taxis contrary to regulations.

Nepheline Reports Higher Profits In 1951

American Nepheline Co. estimates operating profit last year at $350,494 as compared with $341,096 in 1950.

Both figures are before deductions for income taxes, depreciation and deferred development.

Sales tonnage in 1951 was up 5.63 per cent over 1950. Approximately 15 per cent of the company's sales are made in Canada, 75 per cent in the United States, Mexico and Puerto Rico, and 10 per cent overseas.

American Nepheline is a Peterborough county industry located at the east end of Stony Lake. They produce material for use in the glass and ceramics trade.

City Streets Not So Bad?

In the fervor of penitential experience meetings, a staff writer in the Oshawa Times beats the civic breast in acknowledgement of culpable omission in the maintenance of streets. "Residents of Toronto are moaning about the condition of streets in that city. They should come to Oshawa.

"Seldom, if ever, have the thoroughfares been in such an appalling condition. In one serious accident, the driver assrted that a pothole threw his vehicle off the road. King (main) Street is the worst. Gaping holes there cause even the heavy buses to lurch, and heaven help the tiny English cars!"

After such foreign testimony, bus and other reference to Romaine St. specimens of traffic pits will probably be silenced.

Concern of some of the ratepayers in Peterborough is largely about the hacking of holes into good, sound pavement.

Two Fairs

ing the C.N.E., at the Port Perry meeting," said President Norm McConkey.

Secretary-manager G. A. Gillespie explained that he and the other Peterborough delegate, Melville Johnson, accepted the old August dates, "feeling we were doing the right thing from the standpoint of keeping the association in smooth running condition."

Then, Mr. Gillespie read a letter from the president of the Ontario Fairs Association, who was unable to attend the meeting Monday night because of illness. He quoted the association president as stating that the association had a code of ethics, and for that reason felt that any board should give a year's notice of its intention to change dates.

Harold Millen of the local board said that the board put it to its two delegates plainly, September 9 to 13. Both men were not in favor of the change themselves and therefore were not anxious that the dates be changed.

"I object to that," interrupted Mr. Gillespie, but before he could continue, Angus Grant of Beaverton sprang to Mr. Gillespie's defence.

Argued Strongly

"Both Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Johnson argued quite strongly for the new dates. Finally, Mr. Gillespie was converted in the interests of the harmony of the entire district," said Mr. Grant.

President McConkey explained that the change was not motivated by a desire to "harm our neighboring boards. We have been operating on the same dates as Ottawa—a class A fair." Mr. McConkey said that this resulted in Peterborough getting only second string sheep exhibits, and that the overlapping seriously affected the Guernsey cattle show in both cities.

Don Millburn cited other reasons behind the decision to change. "We feel we should cater to the rural community," Mr. Millburn said, adding that the August dates were right in the harvest season and resulted in many farmers being unable to attend and exhibit.

Less Effective

Also, Mr. Millburn said farm machinery companies had informed the board that lack of rural attendance was reducing the effectiveness of their displays, and unless a change were made, they would be unable to continue supporting the fair.

Attendance and revenue were dropping, Mr. Millburn said, and it was decided to try the old September dates to "make the fair come up again. I think everyone realized it would cause some confusion, but it has been discussed since September. I feel that is fairly good notice to the rest of the fairs."

Emphasizing it was not the intention of Peterborough to "create any hardship on other fairs," Mr. McConkey said, "I feel that in 1952 we will have to carry these dates. Conflict with the Central Canada Exhibition in Ottawa and the C.N.E. in Toronto resulted in Peterborough receiving only "makeshift" manufacturing exhibits, Mr. McConkey said, because exhibiting firms only prepaerd one "top exhibit," and by changing the dates they will be able to show them here.

Jump Off Truck Two Uninjured

LONDON, ONT., Feb. 19—(CP) —Two men jumped from a loaded three-ton truck when it crashed down a 60-foot incline just west of Thorndale Monday. Both escaped injury.

Victor Powell of RR1, Courtland, owner of the truck jumped into a snowbank and Douglas Dunseith, also of RR 1, Courtland, the 28-year-old driver, leaped onto the slush-covered road.

The truck's wild rush was halted 40 feet down the embankment when it slammed into large tree after plowing through heavy bush. It would otherwise have plunged into the north branch of the Thames River at the foot of the hill. The vehicle was a total wreck.

Dunseith said the steering gear locked and he lost control at the top of the hill, on the First Concession of West Nissouri Township.

He shouted to Powell to jump and attempted to hold the heavy truck on the road but failed and had to leap to safety himself.

Car Theft Charge Reduced In Court

A charge of car theft against Daniel McGregor, 27, 581 Simmons St., was reduced to joyriding when he appeared in police court today.

McGregor pleaded guilty and wsa remanded until Wednesday for sentence.

A private in the Royal Canadian Mechanical and Electrical Engineers, McGregor was charged with stealing a car owned by William Ralph, 4 Knox St., from Simcoe St., Monday night.

Shortly after it was reported stolen, Patrol Sergeant Claire McGillen found the car parked on Armour Hill.

Fresh tracks in the snow led police to McGregor's home and he was arrested.

Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw said he would be offering no evidence on the charge of car theft, after McGregor pleaded guilty to the reduced charge of taking the car without the owner's consent:

Live In Riverbank Buy Water In Pails

MONTREAL—(CP)—With one of the world's largest rivers at their doorstep, housewives in Ville Jacques Cartier buy drinking water at 10 cents a pail.

The town across the St. Lawrence from Montreal, with a population now about 22,000, has boomed since the war and its growth has far outstripped its public utilities.

Backyard pumps freeze up in winter, and well-water becomes too muddied for drinking. The great river itself, of course, is frozen solid at this point.

"Bucket of water today, madam?" is a familiar greeting, perhaps accompanied by the remark, "You should have put your card in the window alongside with the card for bread."

Waterman J. A. Peladeau has been supplying the community for seven years. He himself buys the water from an aqueduct in a nearby community and carts it in a tank on his truck. If the housewife wants a bucket or two, she puts a card in hr window just as she would for bread.

A new waterworks being constructed by Ville Jacques Cartier actually is helping the waterman's business, for a time at least. Ditches for water pipes are being dug deeper than most wells in the community, and thus draw off even this muddy supply.

Exhibit Model Of Town Clock Across Canada

SAINT JOHN, N.B. — (CP) — When the Empress of France made her February trans-Atlantic crossing to Saint John, the most unique shipment aboard the liner was a model of the former town hall clock at Preston, England.

It will be displayed in the city halls of many major cities across Canada and the United States during the next seven months— the first Canadian showing in Montreal. Plans called for a westward journey to British Columbia, with San Francisco chosen as the starting point for the United States portion of the tour. The trip back east will end in New York.

The exhibition was planned with the aim of attracting former Prestonians to the guild celebrations in Preston next September. An illuminated scroll and invitation accompany the model. It is hoped the scroll will be the means of collecting the signatures of every old Prestonian now living on this side of the Atlantic. The invitation is for them to attend the celebrations.

Brief Ceremony

Before the Empress of France left Liverpool, there was a brief ceremony aboard the liner. Mayor J. W. Taylor of Preston placed the model in the charge of William Hartley, an old Prestonian and the vessel's chief bedroom steward. Councillors of Preston also were present for the event.

The small-scale replica was carved from wood salvaged from the Preston Town Hall after fire destroyed the building in 1947. The expert piece of workmanship is about 18 inches high and five inches wide.

The celebrations at Preston, until interrupted by the Second World War, had been held every 20 years for the last 400 years. They were last previously scheduled for 1942, but had to be postponed until this year.

The event dates back to early Anglo-Saxon days, when a guild was granted to Preston by Royal charter.

Britons Requested Share Bath Water

MANCHESTER, England (CP). — Economy tip for fuel-short Britain—share your bath water.

Mrs. Mary Hargreaves, chairman of the National Council of Women, said husbands and wives could easily share the same water.

"Of course," she said, "we don't think more than two people could properly do so."

In the case of a family of small children, however, the practice would do no harm.

Here are some other economy suggestions made by family women:

Calendars and greeting cards should be smaller, and thinner paper should be used for letter writing; paint just the initials "B.R." or "B.R.S." on state transport instead of the full "British Railways" and "British Road Services"; and use flint lighters for gas instead of matches."

Spring Training Under Way For Ball Clubs

NEW YORK, Feb. 19 (AP). — The spring training season was underway today amid pep talks by managers, sulking stars who refuse to come to terms and assorted rookie prospects—both of the hot and cold variety.

The almost-victorious Brooklyn Dodgers pitched camp in Vero Beach, Fla. When the entourage arrived, it was greeted by Gil Hodges, home-run king of the team, young infielder Rocky Bridges and pitchers Ralph Branca, Carl Erskine and Clyde King.

The only player on the train was Carl Furillo, who joined the group of writers and club officials at Philadelphia.

New York Giants, who beat out the Brooks for the National League pennant in a playoff, got a one-day start along with the St. Louis Cardinals, Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates.

Get To Work

The Giants arrived in Phoenix, Ariz., Monday and no sooner did they check in than manager Leo Durocher had the batterymen out drilling. But with all his men, Durocher probably is worrying more about the absent Sal Maglie than anyone.

Maglie remains at Niagara Falls, N. Y., determined to get more money than the National League champions have offered so far.

President Horace Stoneham apparently is just as determined as his 23-game winner to stand pat.

"We haven't heard a word from Maglie and we don't intend to make any further overtures at this time," said Stoneham. "The weather is fine here, and it's cold, I understand, in Niagara Falls."

Combines Triumph

KEENE, Feb. 19—(ENS)—The Combines dumped St. Peter's 13-5 here last night to wind up their E.P.H.L. schedule on top of the heap. Combines open league semi-finals with Lakefield here on Monday night. A fair crowd saw a lively tilt last evening, rough in spots, with Crough in the second drawing a minor, a misconduct for beefing too much. The same fate happened O'Connell in the first for similar reasons. Combines drew seven of the 13 penalties.

Cowie and Heafield each scored two in the first frame, an assist each going to Burns, Whalen and Cowie. Farley and Heffernan were St. Peter's snipers. Neither side counted in the middle heat. For Combines in the third, Stock got three and two assists, as Gooley tallied two and aided on a pair. Brown, Burns, Cowie and Kempt got the others, and Whalen had an assist. For Saints, Vyse, Conway and Heffernan hit the mark, the latter also having two assists. Teams:

St. Peter's: Hickson, Conway, Crough, Berry, Bacon, Vyse, Farley, Heffernan, O'Connell, Killen, O'Donnell, Collins.

Combines: Mackness, Close, Brown, Whalen, Cowie, Heafield, Stock, Gooley, Davidson, Locke, G. Burns, Kempt, Thompson, Houle.

Referee, R. Bell; linesman, P. Burns.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

The ban on American amateur boxers fighting in Ontario will continue to be enforced, according to a letter from Douglas Roby, president of the United States Amateur Athletic Union, to Don Buddo, of the South-western Ontario branch of the A.A.U. of Canada.

Buddo said Monday night in London, Ont., that he had "felt certain that the matter was going to be settled." Now it appears "as if it will never be settled."

The American A.A.U. slapped the ban on its amateur boxers appearing in Ontario rings two year ago for what they termed "inability of Ontario A.A.U. officials to uphold amateur standards in boxing." At various times, however, U.S. fighters have ignored the ban and displayed their wares in London, Sudbury and other Ontario points.

Just what the situation will be if any Ontario boys make the Canadian Olympic team is a problem that will have to be faced, Buddo said.

"Undoubtedly the Americans will protest to the International Olympic Committee, but we'll cross that bridge when we come to it."

Norman Boland, 54, secretary of Toronto's Lakeview Golf Club, collapsed and died Monday while discussing club business with Lakeview president Bill Pertie. Well known in Toronto golfing circles, he was the son of the late Edward T. Boland, for many years secretary of the Toronto Rowing Club.

Canada's doubles team of Lorne Main and Brendan Macken advanced to the third round of the United States indoor tennis championships in New York Monday night with a pair of easy victories.

Murph (Hardrock) Chamberlain, suspended coach of Buffalo Bisons, will attend a hearing on Wednesday before American Hockey League President Maurice Podoloff. Chamberlain, a former National Hockey League left-winger at Toronto and Montreal, was suspended and fined $150 on February 16, when he refused to leave the players' bench after being ordered to do so by Referee Walton Russell.

Jean-Pierre Roy, who in 1945 pitched Montreal Royals to 25 International Baseball League victories, said Monday in Montreal he has received his release from Drummondville Cubs of the Provincial League, and may pitch for Ottawa Athletics of the International League this coming season.

Fred Young of Chippawa announced in Niagara Falls that the Ontario Baseball Association's annual meeting, scheduled for St. Catharines April 18-19, has been postponed one week until April 25-26. Lack of hotel accommodation was given as the reason.

Condition of Jimmy Davis, Simcoe Gunners right winger seriously injured in a hockey game with Tillsonburg Chevwood in Simcoe Thursday night, was reported improved Monday by the club physcian, Dr. D. S. Forster. Davis suffered severe concussion and temporary loss of hearing when struck over the head by a stick in the hands of Arn Sayeau, Tillsonburg defenceman.

Robert (Red) Rolfe, manager of the Detroit Tigers Baseball Club, was discharged from hospital on Monday after an appendectomy.

French Lad 12 Youngest Entry In Figure Skating

OSLO, Feb. 19 (CP).—Alain Giletti is almost undistinguishable from the hundreds of Norwegian small fry who press around the gates to collect from competitors in the winter Olympic games.

But Alain goes right through the gates. He's the only starter from France in the men's figure skating which opens today, although he just turned 12 year old —the youngest entry in the games.

Alain is the French senior champion in figure skating, and with a 10-year-old partner won the junior pairs title, too.

He is not reckoned to throw any scares into America's Dick Button, who has won the world championship for the last four years and is the defending Olympic champion. But Alain still could be the darling of the crowd no matter where he finishes among the starting list of 14 skaters.

Alain beat four competitors for his French title, and finished fourth among the 11 entries in the European championships about two weeks ago.

The medals he has won look pretty but Alain's greatest prize is the pocket knife he was given after he skated an exhibition in Vienna.

Bush Leaguers Tie

YOUNG'S POINT, Feb. 19 — (ENS). — A crowd of over 200 watched Saturday night as Apsley and Young's Point fought to a 4-4 overtime draw in the local rink.

The game was fast, with each team striving for the opener. At 10:02 G. Watson put Apsley one goal up for the only count of the period.

In the opening minutes of the second, J. Darling from D. Jacobs tied it up for the Point. G. Watson scored on a pass from B. Howden for Apsley's second goal. Once more Young's Point evened the score when D. Jacobs capitalized on a fast break-away. Nearing the close of the period D. Heard and K. Delahaye went off together for roughing.

The teams continued their rapid pace in the third frame as tension mounted. I. Church's goal put the home team ahead for the first time in the game. They held their goal lead with Apsley trying desperately for the eqqualizer, until, with a minute to go in the game Howden from Houle tied it up.

In the overtime period the gruelling pace continued. Howden from Houle again counted one at 1:10 for what looked like the winning goal. But the Point boys fought grimly and at 6:10 Church once more evened the odds to make the final score 4-4. Howden received a hooking penalty, and at 8:10 J. Murray was waved off for elbowing. He refused to leave the ice and attempted to start what probably would have ended in a free-for-all, by striking at the referee. For this he was given a match penalty.

The final meeting between these two teams as scheduled for next Thursday at Young's Point.

The teams:

Apsley—Goal, G. Spencely; defence, K. Delahaye and J. Murray; forwards, G. Watson, B. Howden, and B. Houle; alternates, L. Smith, K. Brown, V. Tucker, J. Tucker, D. Martin, A. Wagner, and J. Post.

Young's Point — Goal, B. Kyle; defence, S. McNaughton; forwards D. Heard, J. Church, and C. Russelle; alternates, J. Darling, D. Jacobs, D. McIsaac; R. Freeburn, P. Heard, and D. Hogarth.

Referee—T. Birch.

A married man with two sons, Jacklin was driving east on Highway 2A in Whitby, when he crashed into a cement abutment.

Button Sure-Fire Favorite Among Figure Skaters

By JACK SULLIVAN.

OSLO, Feb. 19 (CP).—Supporters of the stop-Norway movement at the 1952 winter Olympic games took heart today with the first appearance of the men figure skaters.

You could canvass the whole Olympic village—even the Canadian headquarters — and find scarcely a dissenter from the opinion that Dick Button of Englewood, N. J., will successfully defend the championship he won in 1948.

Although pulling strongly for Peter Firstbrook, the 18-year-old Toronto boy who is Canada's only entrant, Canada's little band of supporters feel that only a broken leg or something equally disastrous can keep Button from repeating.

The men figure skaters go through the compulsory, or school, figures today. The free-skating phase is scheduled for Thursday.

Despite this reasonable assurance of "foreign" championship, the immediate business in hand was still to stop Norway.

Norway Clicks

All the Norwegians did Monday was walk off with the three championships that were settled and romp to the point-scoring leadership.

Norway's speed-skating and winter-sports idol, Hjalmar Andersen, streaked to victory in the 1,500-metre race, his second championship in two days. Sunday he won the long 5-000-metre grind. Today he went after the 10,000-metre title.

Rounding out Norway's triple slam Monday with Andersen were Simon Slaatvik and Helgeir Brenden.

Slaatvik, a locomotive engineer, built like a prizefighter, won the Nordic combined—the duel event of ski-jump plus cross-country race. He was far ahead on points after the jump Sunday. Monday, although he placed 15th in the ski marathon, he still collected enough points to give him the combined championship.

The 18-kilometer race counts as a separate Olympic championship, and that's where Brenden, the favorite, made good. He went the distance in one hour, one minute and 34 seconds. Three Finnish skiers took care of the next three places.

Claude Richer of Ottawa and Jacques Carbonneau of St. Romuald, Que., who entered only the cross-country half of the event, placed far back—Richer 49th and Carbonneau 67th.

Fared Better

Craig MacKay of Saskatoon fared much better. Skating in the 1,500-metre race won by Andersen MacKay placed 16th beating out Ken Henry of Chicago, winner on Saturday of the 500-metre race.

MacKay and Henry were paired in the race against time and they had to battle a heavy snow which began falling after Andersen had finished. The track was slower, as a result, but both made the distance in 2:25.0, which is 1.4 seconds better than the Canadian record MacKay holds.

At the finish line MacKay was inches in front, and Henry was placed 17th. Early reckonings had given them 14th and 15th places but a recheck of the times of late starters in the big field of 80 meant that MacKay and Henry each had to move back a couple of notches. Canada's only other entrant in the race, Ralph Olin of Calgary placed 29th.

Vim Van Der Voort of Netherlands, one of Andersen's strongest rivals, placed second to the 28-year-old Norwegian star by only two-tenths of a second.

When Monday's three championship events were completed, Norway had moved into top place in the unofficial standing of the countries with a total of 74 points. Austria, without a placing among the first six in any of the three events, remained at 41. The United States, going pointless for the second straight day, still held on to third place with 34½.

Just Workout

The hockey teams in the Olympic round-robin championship got down to cut-throat business.

The Canadians had an easy time Monday night, shutting out Poland 11-0. The game proved only a workout for the Mercurys.

The Poles, woefully weak in every department of the game, had only seven shots on goal against 39 for the Canadians who looked as if they could have run up a much higher score had they tried. George Abel, centre for the Mercurys, fired three goals, and the other eight went to eight different players.

The United States had trouble with Finland's willing workers except in the second period when Bob Rompre of International Falls, Minn., scored three goals and sent the Americans well on their way to an 8-2 victory. He added a fourth goal in the final period, the only one the Americans could score then against both of Finland's tallies. Had the Finns come through with better marksmanship on the nets they could easily have narrowed the score margin.

Two other undefeated teams won Monday night. Sweden, with no byes in the four rounds, won 7-3 over Germany, and Switzerland's good looking club scored a 7-2 victory over Norway, the team the United States barely squeezed past, 3-2, in the opening round.

Suicide Becomes Top Secret Russian Zone Of Germany

By TOM REEDY

BERLIN, Feb. 19 (AP)—Suicide has become "top secret" in the Russian zone of Germany.

The Communist government has impounded all records of suicides, has forbidden all newspapers to list suicide ever as the cause of death, and in many cases has compelled doctors to falsify their reports.

An East Zone doctor ventured an opinion that the suicide rate is "very high" but only the tight-lipped people's police have any idea what it is.

The "outlawing" of suicide is in keeping with the Red philosophy that such things just don't happen in a Communist "paradise." The orders to keep up such a facade apply to Gerhart Eisler's propaganda ministry which controls the press; to the interior ministry which governs the police and to the central administration which handles statistics.

The ministry of health gets into the act by frequently certifying a suicide as a death from heart attack or merely old age. Known tuberculosis cases are never listed as such.

East Germans, still not accustomed to such tinkering with obvious truths, say that almost three-fourths of the suicides in the Russian zone are traceable to "the hopelessness" of life under tyranny.

No Hope

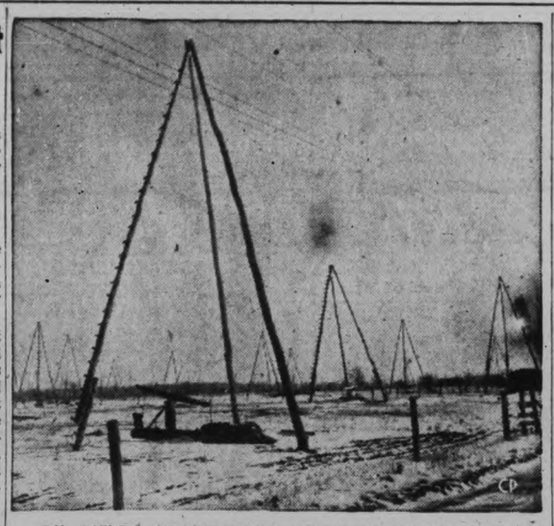
A clergyman commented:

"It is the hopelessness of the psychic, the spiritual and the economic situation which makes men and women throw their lives away so easily."

A farmer, for instance, cannot meet the Communist-imposed quotas. It may be that the quotas for him were deliberately fixed so high he couldn't possibly meet them. His farm would then be subject to seizure and reassignment to a favored political friend. He gives up in the face of what appears to him to be certain defeat.

Little business men or mechanics who have been squeezed out by the encroaching "nationalized" industry; the teacher fired for "political unreliability," the pensioner who can't make ends meet, are other candidates for suicide behind the Iron Curtain.

The harsh economic laws—five years in prison for tiny infractions—frighten the public and those too weak to resist or to flee to the west frequently take the suicidal way out.



OIL FIELDS ABANDONED—These abandoned oil fields are a reminder of Canada's first big oil boom which exploded into existence with historic force some 90 years ago at Petrolia, Western Ontario. The fields petered out after producing richly for many years and now the district is nearing the end of its oil era.

Western Ontario Sees Close Of Oil Era Started In 1860

By JACK GEARIN
Canadian Press Correspondent

PETROLIA, Ont., Feb. 19 (CP)—Ninety-nine years ago today Hugh Nixon Shaw struck a gusher in swampy flatland some eight miles south of here and touched off Canada's first big oil boom.

The flow of oil from the hundreds of wells which followed Shaw's first spectacular strike in 1862 now has dwindled to a mere trickle. But before the field dried up it gave birth to the boom town of Oil Springs, another called Oil City and this substantial town of some 3,500 persons. It set in motion the chain of circumstances which has made Sarnia, 15 miles to the northwest, the booming centre of Canada's chemical industry.

Oil shot high above the tree tops from Shaw's well. It flooded the surrounding area. In some places it was more than a foot deep.

Such news travelled fast, even when communications were slow. Overnight Oil Springs—then a community of six or seven houses—became a bustling boom town. Hundreds flocked in. Fortunes were made and lost or spent almost vernight. Church services in the crowded community were held in a saloon—a curtain cutting off the congregation's view of the bar.

At the peak of the first Oil Springs boom, more than 500 wells were operating. One yielded 7,500 barrels a day for several months. In one year the field's output was more than 5,000,000 barrels.

Shaw, who had been a miner in California, was a wealthy man in four months. He died penniless Feb. 14, 1863, almost a year later.

The Oil Springs wells dried up rapidly. But the scores of experts and fortune-hunters it drew from the United States and elsewhere turned up fresh wells at nearby Oil City and then around Petrolia.

Closes Refinery

Now the area is preparing for the end of its oil era. The Canadian Oil Company is closing its 50-year-old refinery here to move to a new $18,000,000 plant at Froomfield, on the southern outskirts of Sarnia.

Shaw's strike wasn't the first in the district. In 1854 Charles Tripp accidentally found an oily substance in the gum beds of Enniskillen Township—in which both Oil Springs and Petrolia are located. He used it to make asphalt. The first well at Oil Springs was drilled in 1856 by James Miller Williams, who came from Camden, N.J. This was two years before the first oil well was drilled in the United States, at Titusville, Pa. Tripp and Williams carried the fame of the area to Europe where they won awards at exhibitions, Tripp for asphalt and Williams for kerosene.

A flowing well was tapped in 1860, two years before the Shaw gusher. A Captain King from St. Catharines, Ont., hit another flowing well in 1866. The oil poured out so fast that refineries in the area could not supply enough barrels to hold its output, let alone haul it away.

The boom attracted prominent figures including J. W. Fairbanks, a brother of Charles W. Fairbanks, a one-time vice-president of the U.S. His descendants still live in Petrolia.

One of Ontario's most famous roads was born of the boom. Known as the Plank Road, because it was built of planks, it ran from Sarnia to Petrolia and Oil Springs. Built in 1859 it was reputed to be one of the busiest roads in North America from 1862 to 1864. Sarnia provided half the $40,000 cost, private individuals the rest. Tolls were collected at three toll gates. By 1870 it started to break down and in 1875 the planks were removed and it was gravelled. Now a toll-free gravel road, it is still known as the Plank Road.

World Oil Search

As the boom died down in this area, men from Petrolia spread out. Its drillers hunted oil around the world—in Burma, China, Australia, the Argentine, Peru, Turkey and Russia. A Canadian from Petrolia brought in the first well in the fabulous Iran fields. Others drilled in Mesopotamia.

Some won wide fame. William Henry McGarvey, a former Petrolia mayor and son of a grocer in the tiny community of Wyoming, Ont., made millions from European oil. He sought oil unsuccessfully in Hannover, Germany, in 1881, and then struik it rich in Austrian Galicia. He owned many refineries in Europe. His favorite daughter Mamie married Count von Zeppelin. He loved to surround himself with folks from this area, and once 200 of them, mostly drillers, joined him in Vienna for Christmas dinner. He died in Vienna in 1914 at the age of 71.

The Petrolia men developed and perfected the now obsolete pole-toll system of drilling. They used a 36-foot bar of iron, three inches in diameter, as the cutting agent. Ash poles, also 30 feet long, were attached to this as the bar moved downward. This system since gave way to the cable method developed in the U.S. in which thet drilling tools are suspended by cable.

Oil Springs now is a sleepy country village, Oil City a collection of three or four houses. Petrolia, still a substantial community, takes most pride in its past. Although Sarnia did not get too much out of the first boom, it got the long-range economic advantages because of its convenience to the Great Lakes and water transport. When the local fields died out, oil could be shipped into Sarnia handily.

Has New Queen Favorite Poet Laureate?

By CARTER L. DAVIDSON

LONDON, Feb. 19—(AP)—The Queen has literary lights guessing on who eventually will replace John Masefield as poet laureate in her reign.

She has no known favorite among contemporary English poets. Leading candidates for the job that pays a barrel of wine a year are two playwrights:

T. S. Eliot, American-born author of "The Cocktail Party," and Christopher Fry, who wrote "The Lady's Not for Burning."

Both go for dialogue in abstract poetics but don't carry verse as far as Shakespeare did.

Masefield, now 74, was given the symbolic laurel in 1930 by King George V. His most recent works were a smiple quatrain on the death of King George VI and a longer commemorative on the day of the funeral.

Palace circles won't speculate on whether the Queen has a favorite poet. But they point out that the laurel traditionally goes as an award of merit to the realm's outstanding poet at the time of the death of the reigning laureate rather than as a gift to a monarch's favorite.

The historic exception, and a precedent if one is needed, is the celebrated snub of Rudyard Kipling by Queen Victoria.

When Laureate Alfred Lord Tennyson died in 1892, Kipling was unchallenged as the outstanding contemporary poet of Britain and probably the world. Victoria was furious with him, however, because of his poem entitled "The Widow At Windsor." It was in the British soldier's aitch-dropping vernacular and contended that while she owned "'alf of creation," the cost was reckoned in bitter life and death of her soldiers.

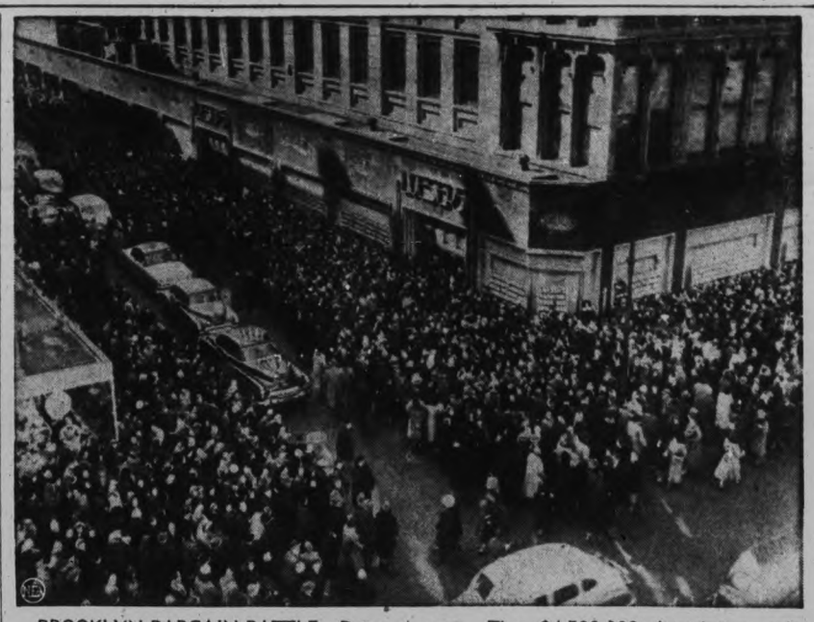
Kipling's "Recessional," a reverent piece on the greatness of the Victorian Empire, failed to offset the disfavor he won with "Missus Victorier," as he called her in "The Widow."

Victoria left the post open four years after Tennyson's death, then gave it to the relatively-unknown Alfred Austin, author of "In Veronica's Garden," and other pieces inspired by nature study.

The job is strictly honorary but its prestige makes it a great plum.

Beginning with Geoffrey Chaucer who wore the laurel from 1328 to 1400, it traditionally has earned its holder the barrel of wine and sometimes a small yearly allowance.

Masefield is still hearty and healthy. His newest book is an autobiography — "So Long To Learn"—to be published March 10.



BROOKLYN BARGAIN BATTLE—Determined bargain-hunters mob the street in front of Loeser's, an old Brooklyn, N.Y., department store that is going out of business. The $4,500,000 liquidation sale drew an estimated 15,000 persons, who were controlled by a detachment of police. At one point, the crowds were so big the police barred the door.

Vote $100 Bonus To Teachers

SYDNEY, N.S., Feb. 19 (CP).—Cape Breton County Council Monday voted a $100-cost-of-living bonus to striking village and rural school teachers.

The 243 tetachers, who struck Jan. 31 and said they would remain out until their demand for a $300 yearly increase was met, will meet later today to consider council's move.

About 5,500 pupils were left without classes by the strike, first of its kind in Nova Scotia.

Council's resolution also asked the province to pay the other $200 requested by the teachers, most of them members of the Nova Scotia Teachers' Union.

An amendment to the motion that council approve $200 increases to unmarried teachers and $300 to those married was defeated.

Council earlier rejected the teachers' demands, saying the matter was a provincial responsibility. After the teachers walked out, a special meeting was called to reconsider.

Judge Dies Addressing Jury

HULL, Que., Feb. 20. (CP)—Mr. Justice Paul Ste. Marie today ordered a new trial for Rheal Leo Bertrand, charged with murdering his wife. The seven-day trial of the 37-year-old Ottawa man came to a dramatic conclusion Tuesday night when the presiding judge, Mr. Justice Valmore Bienvenue of Quebec, suffered a heart attack and died while delivering his final charge to the jury. Mr. Justice Ste. Marie said it would not be legal for him to take over the trial at this stage and attempt to complete the charge to the jury begun by Mr. Justice Bienvenue. He dismissed the jury.

The judge did not order a new trial, however, for Gerald Ryan, 22-year-old camp chef accused of strangling his wife to death at Temiskaming, Que., Sept. 15 last.

Ryan was found guilty of manslaughter at the same assizes and was to have been sentenced at the end of the assizes by Mr. Justice Bienvenue.

Remanded For Sentence

He was remanded for sentence March 6, and Mr. Justice Ste. Marie adjourned the court until that date.

It had been considered possible that new trials would be ordered on both the Bertrand and Ryan cases.

Bertrand, 37, is charged with the murder of his 52-year-old wife of less than two months. The crown alleged that Bertrand killed her in a lonely hunting cabin at Lac Ste. Marie, Que., 65 miles north of Hull; that he saturated her body with an inflammable cleaning fluid and then set fire to the cabin.

Sudden Collapse

Mr. Justice Bienvenue had reached a point in his charge where he was telling the jury if there was any reasonable doubt

Must Forget Prejudices Pearson Says

Forget Self-Interest If NATO Plan To Be Successful

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 20. (Reuters) — L. B. Pearson, Canadian External Affairs Minister, told the Atlantic Pact council today that Pact countries face a "political, military and spiritual menace" which cannot be overcome by any single country.

Pearson is chairman of the Council, which opened its ninth session today. Delegates from Greece and Turkey attended for the first time.

While emphasizing the importance of this session, he said it was unfortunate and unfair that every time the council meets people should expect quick and dramatic decisions.

In trying to satisfy public demand, he added, the council might be tempted to act hastily—"to seek for paper to cover the cracks, rather than for ways of strengthening the fabric."

Many Prejudices

"We are looking for means of developing that collective existence and collective action which we know is essential if we are to solve the new problems which face all free states today as they confront a political, military and spiritual menace which cannot be removed by any one of them alone," he said.

"In our search for good and strong solutions to new problems, a search which is impeded sometimes—as was that of the Portuguese navigators for new worlds—by old concepts, old prejudices and old fears.

"We will need the courage and the imagination and the perseverance that the names of Magellan, Da Gama and Diaz bring to our minds.

"Especially is this true now, because what we do or what we do not do, at this session of the council, will have an important influence in determining whether our North Atlantic coalition is to develop into an enduring and strong association for the defence of the peace and the progress and welfare of closely-knit peoples, or whether it will become merely a fretful and uneasy alliance, held together by a feeling of common danger, without much depth or conviction beyond that incentive."

FORMER HEALTH MINISTER, Russell T. Kelley, 74, died today in Hamilton. He had been in ill-health for the last two years.

Russell T. Kelley Ex-Health Minister Dies

HAMILTON, Feb. 20 (CP). — Russell T. Kelley, 74, former Ontario Health Minister died today. He had been in ill-health since he suffered a stroke during the 1950 spring session of the Legislature.

Progressive Conservative member for Hamilton Wentworth, he was appointed health minister in January, 1946, in George Drew's Cabinet. He continued in that office until August, 1950, and was succeeded by Dr. Mackinnon Phillips. He remained in the Cabinet as minister without portfolio.

Mr. Kelley did not stand for re-election in the provincial election last November 22. He was first elected to the Legislature in 1945 and was re-elected in 1948.

He established an advertising agency here in 1913 bearing his name and gradually developed it into one of the foremost in Canada.

Mr. Kelley's last public appearance was less than three weeks ago when he attended an anniversary banquet of the Advertising and Sales Club of Hamilton.

Energetic In Cabinet

He was one of the best liked and most energetic members of the Ontario Cabinet. He rarely appeared for a sitting of the Legislature without a red rose in his lapel.

He once said that, when he died he would rather have made a million friends than a million dollars.

He was born at Teeswater, in Bruce County, and at an early age showed some of the ability that was to make him head of his own advertising company. Because of his early devotion to music, he started selling eggs—in those days at 10 cents a dozen—to buy an organ. When the money didn't come in fast enough, he started advertising eggs for hatching—at 50 cents a dozen.

He entered politics in 1943—at the age of 64—but was defeated in his first bid for a seat in the Legislature. Seven months after his election in 1945 he was appointed health minister to succeed Dr. R. P. Vivian, retired.

City Rates Go Up 15-20 Cents

Business Phone Cost Boosted $1.05; Centres Reclassified

Peterborough telephone users will be paying 15 and 20 cents more for their house telephones starting March 1. The Board of Transport Commissioners today authorized an increase in local telephone rates in Quebec and Ontario.

People on a two-party line will be paying $3.30 a month as compared with $3.15 they are now paying. One-party phone users will pay $4.15, an increase of 20 cents over the existing rate.

For those who have a business phone the rate will be raised from $7.35 to $8.40.

The Peterborough increase is somewhere in the middle between the minimum 5-cent increase allowed and the maximum 35 cents.

The board granted in part an application of the Bell Telephone Company for increases aimed at yielding the company $10,000,000 a year. It did not say how much the authorized rates would produce.

Business telephones would bear the heaviest burden of the increases, which follow "interim" increases granted last November. Residential-service boosts are lighter, and in a few cases residence rates are not boosted.

Rates Unchanged

Long-distance rates were not hoisted. These were raised in the November decision, and the company in its later application did not seek to have them go higher.

Depending on the size of the community, residential increases range from five cents to 35 cents a month. Business-phone increases are as much as $1.75 a month.

The board told the company it could put the rates into effect March 1, after giving three days' notice.

Order Schools Cut Frills, Athletics In Fall—Dunlop

TORONTO, Feb. 20. (CP) — Education Minister W. J. Dunlop promised today that by next fall Ontario schools will have received a department directive calculated to put the "Three R's" back into education. "I am anxious about time spent in activities that have nothing much to do with real study," Dr. Dunlop said in an interview. "I have discovered that in some of our schools an inordinate amount of time is spent on athletics."

The interview was a follow-up to statements by the minister on Tuesday at a meeting of the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities when he urged a shift from "fancy subjects, frills and fads" in the schools and more stress on the Three R's. By "fancy subjects" he said he meant music, art and athletics.

Today Dr. Dunlop promised that what he termed the tendency to "sugar coat" education with athletics and "useful" activities will be curbed in Ontario schools "before it is too late."

"These activities must be brought into their proper perspective and I intend to see that this is carried out," he said.

Little Support

The minister further indicated that school boards seeking "unnecessary expansion" of existing school facilities would receive little support from his department.

The interview was given almost at the same time as students at Ryerson Institute of Technology protested publicly that Dr. Dunlop has "gagged" a student-sponsored campaign to replace the 100-year-old main building and wartime emergency frame buildings that constitute the institute's quarters.

"This is just like being under a dictatorship," said Ron Evans of Toronto, second-year journalism student and editor of the student newspaper, The Ryersonian. "We must jump when Dunlop cracks the whip—and this is what they teach us is a free press."

Edward Schrader, journalism instructor at the institute, said H. H. Kerr, Ryerson's principal, had issued a directive to stop the present student campaign for new buildings. He said officials of the education department had advised the principal to call off the drive.

Principal Kerr declined to comment on the charge that the minister had personally intervened.

Neither Dr. Dunlop nor his deputy, Cecil Cannon, would comment on student claims.

Ryerson, a government-operated institute, offers two-and three-year courses for a variety of occupations. It has 1,120 day students and 1,300 attending night classes.

Ford Strike Ended, 2-Year Contract

WINDSOR, Feb. 20 — (CP). — Ford of Canada production lines hummed again today, signalling the end of a strike of some 9,000 workers which lasted less than three days.

This industrialized city breathed a sigh of relief Tuesday when Local 200 of the United Automobile Workers (CIO-CCL) voted overwhelmingly to accept a Ford offer which included pay boosts totalling—by June 15, 1953—21 cents an hour in a two-year contract.

When picket lines were withdrawn and the night shift started back to work at midnight, faces brightened. The new contract may augur a new era of industrial peace in the strife-torn Ford Motor Company of Canada plant on which much of Windsor depends for its livelihood.

During the strike merchants reported a business drop running as high as 70 per cent. Many had feared that the walkout—like the Ford strike which lasted 99 days in 1945—would cripple the city for many months. Forty feeder plants are largely dependent on Ford.

It was in a way a personal triumph for Labor Minister Daley who hammered away at a theme of conciliation until the strike ended Tuesday in a few dramatic hours. When Daley-sponsored conferences failed in the Minister's Toronto office, he came here for further persistence efforts.

Pay Tribute

In statements both the company and union paid tribute to his attempt to end what could have been a bitter and costly battle if it followed the pattern of the 1945 walkout.

Colorful Newspaperman James Curran Dies At 87

SAULT STE. MARIE, Feb. 20. (CP)—James B. Curran, publisher of the Sault Ste. Marie Star, and one of Canada's best-known newspapermen, died today. He was 87. Mr. Curran, famed for his stories about the wolves of Algoma district, in which the Sault is the only city, had been ill for years. He suffered a stroke in 1941 but until a year or so ago maintained an active interest in the newspaper he took over as a sickly weekly 51 years ago and built into a thriving daily.

He offered a $100 reward to any person who could prove he had been attacked by an Algoma wolf—and never had to pay off. He coined a widely-quoted phrase to back his theory that wolves don't bite: "Any man that says he has been et by a wolf is a liar."

An active newspaperman for some 65 years, he worked on two Ontario weeklies — The Essex Chronicle and The Orillia News-Letter, both owned by his father—before joining the old Toronto Empire as a reporter in 1890. He served as city editor of The Empire before it was amalgamated with The Toronto Mail in 1895.

Ont. Legislature Opens Thursday

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP)—The first session of Ontario's 24th Legislature opens Thursday with the largest government majority since Confederation and with several major legislative moves already mapped for it.

The Progressive Conservative government of Premier Frost has promised one major piece of social legislation—financial assistance to needy disabled persons between the ages of 18 and 65.

This was promised by Welfare Minister Goodfellow at last fall's special session and is expected to take the form of $40 monthly allowances to bridge the gap between the end of mothers' allowances and the start of old-age pensions payments.

Another bill, affecting a large part of the province's residents, will deal with rent controls.

The government last spring fell heir to federal rent controls, a confusing jumble of parliamentary acts and orders-in-council dating back to 1941. Legislation this session will be chiefly a job of consolidating the federal regulations but is expected to permit a fairly wide field for individual landlord-tenant agreements, appraisers and rent boards to set individual rental ceilings.

The Nov. 22 general election which swept the Progressive Conservatives back into office with 79 of the legislature's 90 seats also brings a large number of new members to the House.

Plans No Change

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP). — Provincial Secretary Welsh said today no changes are contemplated in Ontario's liquor regulations. He was commenting on published reports that revision of existing legislation to permit establishment of cocktail bars in cities of less than 50,000 population without a vote of the citizenry will be made at the forthcoming session of the legislature.

Egyptian Talks Begin Soon

CAIRO, Feb. 20 (AP) — The pro-Wafdist newspaper Al Misri said today that British-Egyptian talks toward solving the two countries' dispute over the Suez and the Sudan will start in Cairo Saturday.

The newspaper said Prime Minister Aly Maher Pasha and British ambassador Sir Ralph Stevenson would do the negotiating.

The British embassy here said it had "no comment" on the report.

Maher Pasha said Tuesday night Egypt is ready to start negotiations with Britain on the basis of British evacuation of the canal zone and unification of Egypt and the Sudan.

Al Misri, organ of the party whose government last October ordered Britain out of the Suez and Sudan, said talks earlier this week in London between Egyptian ambassador Abdel Fattah Amr Pasha and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden "have resulted in a great step being made toward an agreement."

3 Soldiers Injured When Truck Upsets

OWEN SOUND, Feb. 20 (CP)—Three soldiers injured when a truck turned over Tuesday night were reported in satisfactory condition today in hospital. They are to have X-rays taken today, but their injuries are not considered serious.

The three—Sgt. W. M. Pilot, 25; Cpl. John Dolighan, 18, and Pte. Kenneth D. Alexander, 18—were pinned for more than an hour under a three-ton army truck loaded with ammunition after it skidded off a slippery road and overturned.

Nine other soldiers in the truck escaped injury.

Won't Accept Russia As Neutral Inspector

MUNSAN, Korea, Feb. 20 (AP)—Communist insistence that Russia be invited as a neutral power to help supervise a Korean truce stalled armistice talks today.

The Allies offered "in the interest of progress" to pare their troop rotation figure from 40,000 monthly to 35,000. But the Reds would not even talk about it.

Red negotiators were insistent that the Soviet Union be the third neutral national nominated by the Communists. The United Nations command already has approved Poland and Czechoslovakia.

U.N. negotiators refused to indulge in a debate on the neutrality of Russia in the Korean conflict despite repeated Red hints they would like such an argument.

The Allies said simply that Russia, as sponsor of Red Korea and Communist China was "not acceptable" as a neutral supervisor.

U.S. Housewife Scores 2nd Win

OSLO, Feb. 20 —(AP)—Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence, 19-year-old skiing wizard from Rutland, Vt., completed an Olympic double today by winning the women's slalom ski race with an amazing second run after taking a tumble on her first descent.

The flying housewife was clocked in 1:03.4—fastest of the day—for her second trip down the difficult 508-yard Rodkleiva course which drops 196 yards from its summit and winds through 49 control gates.

Her time for the two runs was 2:10.6. She was clocked in 1:07.2 for her first trip, 1.2 seconds behind the pace-setting Ossi Reichert of Germany.

Mrs. Lawrence won the first gold medal for the United States by capturing the giant slalom race on opening day.

Miss Reichert took second today with 2:11.4 on runs of 1:06 and 1:05.4. Mrs. Anna Marie Buchner, another Germany, was third with 2:12.3 on runs of 1:07.6 and 1:05.7, followed by Celina Seghi of Italy, 2:13.8 on 1:06.5 and 1:07.3.

Send Vote Of Thanks

WINDSOR, Feb. 20 (CP). — City council has passed a unanimous resolution thanking Labor Minister Daley of Ontario and his deputy, James B. Metzler, for their part in bringing about settlement of the Ford of Canada strike which ended Tuesday.

Said Alderman Maurice Belanger Tuesday night: "After two very blue days there is much joy running in the city with the settlement."

The Labor Minister arranged the conference which brought the end of the strike. He came here last week with Mr. Metzler.

Finn Captures Olympic Race

OSLO, Feb. 20—(CP)—Veikko Hakulinen, hardy, Finnish foreman of a wood-cutting gang, appeared to have won the 50-kilometer (31 miles, 120 yards) Olympic cross country ski race today when he finished the snow marathon in three hours, 33 minutes and 33 seconds.

The leg-weary, gaunt-faced Finn brought his country its first gold medal of the current Olympics. He won by four minutes, 34 seconds over Eero Kolehmainen, another Finn, who slogged home to the base of the giant Holmenkollen ski base in 3:38:11.

Norway's Magnar Estenstad, who had been the winner's closest pursuer through most of the second half of the grind, took third in 3:38:45 followed by Olav Oekern, Norway, 3:38:45; Kalevi Mononen, 3:39:21 and Nil Karlsson, Swedish defending champion, 3:39.30.9.

It was the second fastest time ever recorded for the distance in Olympic competition. Elis Viktfund of Sweden won in 1936 at Garmisch-Partenkirchen, Germany, in 3:30:11. Nils Karlsson of Sweden captured the 1948 grind at St. Moritz in 3:47:48.

$2,000 An Acre Too High—Mayor

BRANTFORD, Feb. 20 (CP). — Mayor Howard E. Winter said today he hopes that the real estate committees of both the city council and the Six Nations Indian Council can agree on a lower price than $2,000 an acre for the proposed sale of a 98-acre tract of land owned by the Tribe.

The Indian Council has proposed to the reservation residents that the property be sold to the city.

Nearly a year and a half ago the residents voted on a proposed sale at $2,200 an acre but a majority of the eligible voters failed to endorse the transaction. Under the new Indian Act a majority of the total ballots cast now is sufficient to endorse or reject the sale of land.

No indication has been given when such a plebiscite will be held on the latest proposal.

3 New Paper Mills To Be Built In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—The defence production administration today approved the building of three new multi-million-dollar paper mills which will boost the United States output of newsprint by more than 20 per cent.

The agency issued certificates of necessity—which provide for federal tax benefits—to aid the construction of the projects.

Beer Drinking Said Up 533%

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP)—The Rev. Albert Johnson of Toronto said today that in 15 years Ontario has witnessed an increase of 533 per cent in beer consumption and 300 per cent in spirits.

Convictions for drunkenness rose by 269 per cent. Convictions of women for drunkenness increased 242 per cent.

"It does seem pertinent to ask what has the church to say about all this," Mr. Johnson said in his general secretary's report to the annual meeting of the Ontario Temperance Federation.

Generally speaking, he said, the church has shown little appreciation of the magnitude and seriousness of the liquor problem. It has not yet been seized "with the need for strong co-operative approach" in the realm of temperance.

6 Trucks Fail Free Driver Giant Rips Cab Apart

HOUSTON TEXAS, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A giant negro walked out of the night on the highway about 10 miles northwest of here early Tuesday, saw a man trapped in the cab of his smouldering truck-trailer and ripped the cab apart to save the driver.

The unconscious driver fell free into the arms of waiting and astonished police, and the Negro disappeared as quietly as he appeared.

"No one knows his name," said Deputy Sheriff Don Henry, "but he did a job I couldn't do with six trucks and a wrecker. It was a terrific display of human strength."

Truck driver Roy Gaby Jr., 26 was trapped inside his telescoped truck. Police, trucks and a wrecker congregated. But the men couldn't budge the crushed metal with cables. A call went out for cutting torches.

The giant Negro appeared.

"Can I be of help?" he asked.

Then he walked up to the cab, placed his hands on the door and wrenched it off. He climbed into the cab, planted his feet on the floor and his neck and shoulders against the top.

"You could hear the metal give," said Henry. "The top bowed out, the seat buckled down and the dash broke under the pressure."

In the excitement of rescuing the driver, still unconscious, no one thought to thank the Negro. He walked off into the night.

No Country Strong Enough To Play Lone Hand—Harris

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Feb. 20 (CP)—A Canadian cabinet minister reminded the United States Tuesday night that no country in the free world is strong enough to play a lone hand in current affairs.

Walter Harris, minister of citizenship and immigration, said in the first of the University of Rochester lecture series on Canada that the U.S. "is giving heartening leadership to the free world, and no plan for the resistance of aggression is likely to succeed without your seal of approval."

But, he added, "all the free nations will need each other—none of us is strong enough to go it alone."

Harris described Canada as a country growing rapidly in international stature and facing the future with calm confidence.

Canada realizes she is not a great power and makes no pretensions of being one, he said. But she was pursuing a policy she believed most likely to be an effective means of preserving world peace.

In a world facing the prospect of a third world war, Canada was striving for peace alongside the U.S. "because we, too, are idealists though perhaps not in the grand manner that you are." Canada, as well as the U.S., saw its young men die in two wars in western Europe "and we want to make sure that those losses were not in vain.

Discussing Canada's part in world affairs, Harris said it was Canada that first suggested the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. She had been a consistant supporter of N.A.T.O. ever since it was formed. Canada was also resisting aggression in Korea.

Declaring that "Canada evolves her policies in the light of geography and resources," Harris noted that the Dominion has a larger area than the U.S. with less than one-eleventh of the population. The Canadian communications system, in relation to the country's population, was the most extensive in the world.

2 Migs Shot Down Tally For U.S. Jets

SEOUL, Korea, Feb. 20 (AP)—United States Sabre jet pilots today shot down two Communist MIG-15 jets and damaged five in two furious fights over Northwestern Korea.

Two MIGS also were damaged i nthe afternoon clash between 25 Sabres and 70 Russian-built swept-wing craft over Sinuiju. The fight lasted 15 minutes.

Allied jet pilots damaged three MIGs in a morning battle.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said 26 F-86 Sabre jets clipped the MIGs in a seven-mile-high battle over Sinuiju. Seventy MIGs were spotted, but only eight were engaged.

Australian meteor jet pilots said they destroyed eight Communist trucks and four large supply buildings west of Haeju.

See Little Chance Of Butter Shortage In 1952

OTTAWA, Feb. 20. (CP)—A well-stocked larder of government and commercial butter, bolstered by another shipment of 2,500,000 pounds from New Zealand, has virtually put an end to the possibility of last year's panicky butter shortage recurring this year. Federal agricultural authorities are confident that Canada will weather through the off-season winter months with butter prices remaining fairly steady at about 70 cents a pound retail for the creamery product and with the possibility of even a slight surplus when the new producing season opens in the spring.

Fearing repercussions of last winter's scarcity when prices for a short period shot up rapidly by about 15 and 20 cents a pound to 85 and 90 cents, the government decided to depend on foreign countries to bolster domestic stockpiles.

Government purchases of 10,000,000 pounds from New Zealand and West European sources are being increased by another 2,500,000-pound shipment from New Zealand. This shipment, expected to be the last from foreign sources this winter, is expected to be unloaded at Halifax shortly.

Total Imports

The commercial dairy industry, in addition to the government's purchases, imported 4,500,000 pounds late last year before the government took over the monopoly in butter imports. Thus total imports have climbed to 17,000,000 pounds since the new butter season opened in April last year.

These heavy imports strengthened the slim stockpiles arising out of the summer production. Feb. 1, the country's stockpile totalled 35,712,000 pounds, up more than 10,000,000 from 25,579,000 on Feb. 1 a year ago.

But the government is in no hurry to get rid of its stocks worth $8,000,000. It has announced no selling policy. It appears likely shipments will be made available to areas where any local shortage may develop. It also appears likely the government will use its stocks as a weapon to block any move by the commercial interests to push up butter prices unnecessarily.

Importation of butter is not to the Canadian producers' liking, but the producers have reasoned that it would be better to have it that way than have chaos in the butter market. The government recently temporarily boosted its floor price to 63 cents a pound from 58 in order to offer the same price to the domestic industry as it has offered for imports.

Libya Voting Shows Prestige

TRIPOLI, Feb. 20 (AP).—A 55-man House of Representatives was chosen for the new Kingdom of Libya Tuesday in voting marked by scattered violence. The results, a possible barometer of western prestige in the Arab world, are expected Thursday.

The campaign in this former Italian colony was a fight between two parties—one pro-Western and the other anti-Western—involving 153 candidates.

The well-organized National Congress Party campaigned to kick out all westerners and close down western bases, such as the U.S.-operated Wheelus Air Field.

The bigger Independence Party, aware that this North African nation of 1,250,000 persons is one of the world's poorest, seeks continuance of the economic and political benefits that began under the post-war administration by Britain and France.

Under the constitution, King Idriss I will name a 24-member Senate to complete parliament within 20 days after the election. A cabinet already is functioning under Premier Mahmoud Bey Muntasser.

About 400,000 men filled the qualifications for voters — over 21, sane and free of debt. Libyan women are not authorized to vote.

Iran Dispute Partly Settled

TEHRAN, Feb. 20 (AP)—Premier Mohammed Mossadegh and an International Bank mission Tuesday night issued a joint communique saying that partial settlement of the Iranian oil crisis has been agreed on. But no details were disclosed.

In a last meeting before the bank's special mission leaves for Washington today, the negotiators agreed to continue efforts for full settlement of the dispute with Britain over operation of the nationalized oil refineries.

The negotiations were reported to have broken down last Saturday, but members of the Iranian parliament oil committee intervened directly and saved the talks.

Discussions have centred on the bank's proposal to manage the idle Iranian oil industry temporarily until a final settlement of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. operation dispute.

Court Fines Joyrider $75

Donad M. McGregor, 581 Simmons St., was fined $75 and $2.50 costs in police court today for taking a car without the owner's consent.

McGregor pleaded guilty to the joy riding charge Tuesday and was remanded until today for sentence.

He admitted he was "a bit" intoxicated Monday night, when he drove a car which had been left with the motor running on Simcoe St., to Armour Hill.

Patrol Sergeant Claire McGillen said the car was located on Armour Hill shortly after it was reported stolen. He said footprints in the snow led him and Constable Ted Stephen to the door of McGregor's house on Simmons St.

McGregor said he had "nothing to say," when Magistrate W. R. Philp asked him why he took the car, but agreed with Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw that he took it to go home.

Base Metal Prices Climb On Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP)—Base metal prices climbed steadily today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections wavered irregularly.

Industrial activity maintained a wide spread from leading issues but western oil, base metals and penny golds turnovers were generally moderate as speculators waited for the market pattern to develop. Volume for the first three hours was 1,147,000.

Refining oils led industrials' recovery while liquors also drew firm support. Agriculture, steels, banks, manufacturing companies and retail stores held gains and losses in balance but utilities, foods and papers remained weak.

Base metal gains outnumbered losses about two to one. Changes were slight as Barvue, East Sullivan, Falconbridge, International Nickel, Mindamar, Noranda and Steep Rock climbed slowly.

Western oils were mixed. Calmont, Calvan Consolidated, Calnorth, Consolidated Cordadsun, Canadian Williston, Scurry and Trans Empire strengthened but Calgary and Edmonton, Kroy, Western Leaseholds and Wilrich weakened.

Senior golds were firm while junior producers climbed strongly. Prospects and holding companies made little headway.

Coast Guard Cutters Head For Port With 25 Seamen

CHATHAM, Mass., Feb. 20. (AP)—Coast Guard cutters steamed to port today with 25 survivors from the broken tanker Fort Mercer. Thirteen other seamen passed up rescue Tuesday night, electing instead to stick with the Fort Mercer's stern as volunteers in a salvage attempt. Efforts will be made to tow that half of the ship to port.

The Fort Mercer was one of two 10,000-ton tankers which broke in halves about the same time in a terrific northwest storm off this little fishing port Monday. The other tanker was the Pendleton. Both her halves have gone aground.

The latest batch of survivors brought to 57 the number rescued from the four drifting sections. Six are listed as dead and eight are missing and presumed dead.

Eighteen of the 25 men rescued Tuesday night were due in Boston this morning aboard the coast guard cutter Acushnet. The cutter had been due to reach port at 7 a.m. but had to revise its estimated time of arrival because of rough seas.

Three others, also rescued from the Fort Mercer's stern, were on board the cutter Eastwind standing by at the scene.

Different Methods

The other four were taken off the bow section of the Fort Mercer and put on board the cutter Yakutat, expected to reach Portland, Me., some time tonight.

Two of the four taken off the bow were hauled aboard the Yakutat from life rafts floated by the tossing derelict. The other two were saved by the breeches buoy method.

The Achusnet and the Eastwind teamed up to rescue the 21 men from the stern half of the Fort Mercer.

The two rescue vessels floated life rafts to the Fort Mercer—through 15 to 25 foot waves—and then pulled the men to the Eastwind.

When that operation proved "too slow," the Achusnet made two dangerous passes alongside the Fort Mercer. She took five men off the first pass and 13 on the second pass.

The rescue operation was carried on 53 miles south southeast of Nantucket. The bow of the Fort Mercer capsized after the men were rescued from it some 30 miles from the stern.

Five men lost their lives from the forward section of the Fort Mercer in an earlier rescue attempt. The sixth was crushed between a rescue craft and the stern end of the Pendleton.

The eight seamen presumed dead were washed overboard from the bow of the Pendleton.

Chief Justice Gives Slander Ruling

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP) — Slander actions by Ontario residents resulting from radio broadcasts from the United States should be tried in Ontario, Chief Justice J. C. McRuer said Tuesday.

In an action described by lawyers as precedent-setting, Clifford Reginald Jenner, Toronto broker, is seeking damages from Sun Oil Company, Limited, a Canadian firm, and the Sun Oil of New Jersey; Ray Henle and Ned Brooks, United States radio announcers and radio station WBEN of Buffalo, N.Y.

He claimed defamatory statements were made about him in radio broadcasts on an NBC network last March 12, 13 and 14, and they were heard by residents of Ontario centres, including Toronto.

After noting that counsel in the case had not been able to refer him to cases decided in Canada or in Great Britain "where the subject of defamation by radio broadcasting from abroad has been satisfactorily dealt with," Chief Justice McRuer warned:

"It is necessary for judges and lawyers to realize that statements in judgments written before modern methods of communication were developed, or even thought of, must be read in the light of the known circumstances under which they were written."

Ford Strike

An estimated 8,000 union members voted 87 per cent in favor of the proposed settlement, as recommended by their leaders.

George Burt, Canadian director of the U.A.W. told them the negotiating committee felt it wasn't wise to continue the strike in face of the company's offer, despite its failure to win some union demands.

Both Mr. Burt and Rhys M. Sale, Ford of Canada president, expressed the hope that the agreement will lead to a better relationship and lasting stability.

The strike officially ended at 4:30 p.m. E.S.T. when the U.A.W. announced the result of the secret ballot.

Contract Terms

Specifically, the contract provides: an immediate 15-cent hourly wage increase, partly retroactive to June 1, on a basic $1.35, with automatic three-cent hourly raises on June 15, 1952 and June 15, 1953; an improved contract seniority clause, an improved wage-scale for semi-skilled workers and compromise agreements on afternoon and night shift premiums.

Two items the union asked for are not provided in the agreement. They are: $1,000 company-paid life insurance policies for Ford pensioners and eight, instead of six, paid statutory holidays annually.

The contract seniority clause—union officials described it as the best in any U.A.W. contract in Canada — gives company-wide seniority of 14 days. This means that in slack-period layoffs of more than 14 days, senior men may not be displaced with men of less service with the company.

Under the new wage scales for semi-skilled workers, about 1,700 men will receive increases of 10 cents an hour and about 300, of five cents an hour. The union had been asking for 10-cent increases for about 2,400 men.

Under the new off-shift premium rates, afternoon and night shift men will receive seven-cent hourly boosts. Previously the differential was five cents. The union had asked a seven-cent differential on the afternoon shift, 10 cents at night.

City Rates

Simultaneously with the judgment, it issued an order making changes in the company's "rate groupings," the classifications into which communities are grouped for rate purposes according to size. About 50 communities are boosted into higher rate categories, thus taking a double rate boost.

These include Brockville, Chatham, Guelph, New Toronto, Sault Ste. Marie, and Valleyfield, Que.

Some Decreases

While most rates were increased, some were scaled down from the rates set in the November judgment. These included residential extensions and some business-phone extensions, as well as service connection charges and directory listings.

The board confirmed its interim November order whereby the company was authorized to boost to 10 cents the long-standing five-cent call from public phone booths in Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa, Quebec, Windsor, London and Chatham. The increase will be made effective when the company gets the pay-phone mechanism changed.

The straight increases in business and residential local service are heaviest in the largest cities, generally dropping in size through the smaller communities.

In the top rate group—Montreal and Toronto—the rate for the two-party residential phone, the most common type of service, goes to $4.15 a month from $3.95. The one-party residential rate goes up 35 cents from the current $5—the largest residential hoist.

Business phones in the two biggest cities go to $14.35 from $12.60 for one-party lines.

In the next-highest group—Ottawa, Hamilton and Quebec City—the two-party residential service stays unchanged at $3.70 but the one-party charge will be $4.65, an increase of 15 cents. One-party business service will be $11.25 instead of $10.

Next Group

The next group of increases takes in such communities as Brantford, Kingston, Kitchener, Waterloo, Niagara Falls, Peterborough, Oshawa, St. Catharines, Sarnia and Sudbury, in Ontario, and Sherbrooke and Three Rivers in Quebec. Their two-party residential rate will be $3.30 (now $3.15) and the one-party home rate will be $4.15 ($3.95). One-party business phones will be $8.40 ($7.35).

Guelph and Chatham are boosted to this group from a lower group. Their rates will be: two-party residntial, $3.50 (now $3); one-party residential, $4.15 ($3.70); one-party business, $8.40 ($7.40).

Belleville and Brockville in Ontario are in the next-lower group, with Brockville taking a double boost as the result of moving up from a lower-rate class. Belleville's new rates will be: two-party residential $3.10 ($3); one-party residential, $3.90 ($3.70); one-party business, $7.50 ($6.60). Brockville will have the same new rates, increasinf from $2.90, $3.45 and $5.80.

Russell T. Kelley

During his first year in office Mr. Kelley made as many as nine speeches a week and travelled 50,000 miles. When he collapsed during the 1949 session of the Ontario Legislature with a heart ailment his cabinet colleagues did not expect he would return to his office.

Back At Desk

After a spell in hospital, however, he was back at his desk and continued to take an active part in the affairs of his department until his illness in 1950.

He was often dubbed "Ontario's goodwill ambassador". He was chosen in 1944 as Hamilton's "outstanding citizen".

In 1946 while returning by plane from a chamber of commerce convention in Winnipeg he volunteered as baby sitter for a young woman with two children. When the plane arrived here and the young woman found she had missed her connection with the Montreal plane, he arranged a room for the family at a downtown hotel and even instructed the hotel staff on preparing the baby's formula. When the woman thanked him, the minister replied:

"Madam, of what use is a minister of public health if he cannot do something for the most important part of this country—the rising generation?"

Acted As Waiter

Another time when a Toronto-bound train was snowbound at Uxbridge, Mr. Kelley donned an apron and for three hours helped the dining car's sole waiter serve bacon and eggs to the stranded passengers.

He was proud of his good health and boasted in 1946 that he had never been ill a day in his life except for the odd bout with 'flu. His mother had never been ill, either, he said.

"My father died at the age of 98—but not of old age", he said. "He was gored by a bull".

In 1910 he married Grace Powis of Hamilton and they had three children, Russel Temple, Hallett Powis, and Patricia Ann.

Mr. Kelley was an accomplished pianist and a great lacrosse fan. He was president of the Hamilton Lacrosse Club for 21 years and was a past president of the Ontario Lacrosse Association.

Newspaperman

Then he went to Montreal as city editor of The Herald, then published by the late J. E. Atkinson, former owner of The Toronto Star.

Bought Weekly

He came to Sault Ste. Marie in 1901 on a reporting assignment for The Herald, intending to travel farther west. He liked the city so well he stayed for six weeks, wrote 33 columns of copy which The Herald used in a special edition—then quit his job to buy The Star, a weekly with 2,000 circulation.

In 1912, he turned his newspaper into a daily. In 1917 he became a charter member of The Canadian Press when the national news agency was formed. He retained his membership until 1947 when ill-health led him to pass it along to his son, Robert L. Curran.

Fought For Causes

He and his newspaper fought for community and district causes. He helped lead a successful campaign for the highway between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie. He played a major part in getting an Ontario government bounty on iron mined in Algoma which led to the opening of the new Helen Mine at Michipicoten. He launched in 1923 an annual Sault celebration known as Community Night which thousands attend to contribute to crippled children.

Twice in his busy newspaper career, he found time to publish books—both printed in his own plant. One was on his favorite theme, "Wolves Don't Bite." The other, "Here Was Vinland," supported his theory that the Hudson and James Bay area was the Vinland of the Norsemen.

He was a great friend of the Ojibway Indians of the Sault district, who made him an honorary chief with the name Kitche Mezenuhwa, the Great Courier.

Abbott Defends Budget Surplus, Checks Inflation

OTTAWA, Feb. 20 (CP). — Finance Minister Abbott asserted Tuesday night that his top-heavy and widely-criticized budgetary surplus has been "an important element in bringing inflation under control."

Rather than "a bad thing," the surplus has been "an excellent thing, not just for the government, but for each and every one of you," he said in an address prepared for delivery over the C.B.C.'s free-time political broadcast "The Nation's Business."

The surplus, which totalled $721,000,000 at Dec. 31 against last year's budget forecast that it would total only $30,000,000 for the whole of 1951-52, had enabled the government to meet certain cash disbursements without "invading the already tight capital market" with new bond issues.

Bigger Balance

He said that to date this fiscal year the government has used $300,000,000 of the budgetary surplus to meet non-budgetary expenditures, leaving about $400,000,000 available for paying off some of the national debt and increasing the government's working cash balances.

In the nine months ended Dec. 31, the government paid off or withdrew from the market about $260,000,000 of the national debt and, in addition, transferred to the Bank of Canada $70,000,000 in cash to meet bonds and interest coupons which had matured but had not yet been presented for payment.

Had the government not had the big budgetary surplus, Mr. Abbott suggested, it would have had to borrow some $300,000,000 of new money and refund most of its maturing debt instead of paying it off.

Pleads Guilty To Three Charges

Noble Edson Zinston, 416 Rogers St., pleaded guilty to three theft charges in police court today. He was placed on suspended sentence for two years, and ordered to make restitution of three sums of $5.75 and pay $35 in court costs by February 23.

Zinston was charged with appropriating the three sums to his own use which he had collected from customers of a local tea wholesale firm. The alleged thefts took place several months ago when Zinston was a salesman for the company.

In suggesting suspended sentence, Crown Attorney John A. Bradshaw said Zinston had no previous record and was agreeing to repay other money he converted to his own use in addition to the sums alleged in the three charges.

British Political Parties Differ On Economic Crisis

By ALAN HARVEY.

LONDON, Feb. 20 — (CP) — How Britain's main political parties differ in their approach to the economic crisis was clearly demonstrated Tuesday night.

On the one hand, Lord Balfour of Burleigh argued for the Conservative government that the country faces the most critical six months in its history, that the welfare state hangs by a thread, that unless the pound sterling perks up there is no future for 50,000,000 persons on these islands.

For the Labor oppostion, Lord Pakenham protested against economies which he claimed were merely a redistribution of wealth in favor of the rich. He disputed Lord Balfour's assertion that in six years of Socialism the welfare state had gone too far and too fast.

This debate in the House of Lords crystallized the attitude of the two parties —one of the government that severe cuts are necessary however much they hurt, of the labor opposition that social services must be undisturbed.

Attitude Important.

"The oppostion's attitude will be of great importance if the budget, due to be presented March 4, contains severe measurers which many observers predict.

Lord Balfour of Burleigh is chairman of Lloyds Bank. His published views on current economic problems are known to be in close accord with those of many Canadian economists, including Finance Minister Douglas Abbott. Tuesday night Lord Balfour said:

"We have achieved a higher standard of living than most countries outside North America. Therefore we can afford certain cuts if cuts are necessary to prevent the collapse of the entire (sterling) system."

For Labor, Lord Pakenham criticised partial charges imposed recently on sections of the free medical program. Does anyone really suppose, he asked, that charges for filling teeth, for medical prescriptions, for surgical belts and hearing aids are going to help the balance-of-payments position?

"All that is effected by this vaunted cut in expenditure is a transference, a redistribution of wealth within the community. That means, I suppose, a redistribution in favor of the rich against the poor, and quite certainly a redistribution in favor of the general population against the sick."

Plan Jet Centre

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)— General Electric has announced plans for construction of a $30,000,000 jet engine research centre at its jet engine plant in Lockland, Ohio. G.E. officials also reported, at a press conference Tuesday, the development of a new process for fabricating jet engine compressor blades.

Can't Agree On Where Fowler Died

KITCHENER, Feb. 20 (CP) — Did Donald Fowler die inside or outside the trailer near which his body was found last Nov. 21?

Police reconstruction of his death, disclosed in testimony Tuesday at the trial of two men charged with Fowler's murder, differed from the version contained in a statement made by one of the accused.

Alvin Lebold of Wellesley, Ont., and Albert Deleary of the Muncey Reserve are jointly charged with murder in the slaying of the 21-year-old Stratford youth.

Lebold, in a statement admitted as evidence, told Police Chief Hilbert Schedewitz of Waterloo township that after receiving a blow from Fowler, he picked up a rifle. He "didn't know it was loaded and it discharged." The chief quoted Lebold as saying: "Donny staggered out of the trailer."

Evidence In Trailer

But Inspector Thomas Wright of the Provincial Police told the Supreme Court jury that a hole inside the cabin trailer in which the three had been living showed powder burns. On the outside the wood had been splintered.

The inspector said the hole outside was at the same height as the hole in Fowler's neck. He testified the hole inside was a foot short of the wound in the neck, indicating Fowler was either standing or walking outside the trailer when the gun went off.

Prof. Jocelyn Rogers, medico-legal consultant to the attorney-general's department, indicated the bullet came from inside the cabin and passed through the wall. He said there was no evidence of powder burns on the flesh of the corpse.

A statement from Deleary also was admitted. It said the three had been drinking the night before. He didn't know how he got home. When he went outside he saw Fowler lying near the trailer.

When he went back in he asked Lebold concerning Fowler and the latter told him: "I guess he is dead. We had better report it."

The inspector said the statement was made by Deleary in the county jail after he had been fully warned.

Motion put to the council and carried unanimously was that the government be advised it could secure the site it needed for a nominal rent on the understanding that work on the permanent post office start immediately.

Communications from the post office have been indefinite about a date for starting work on the permanent building. They have indicated merely that they are seeking a site for a temporary building.

Members of City Council remarked that the question of a post office has been outstanding for several years."

Geologist Tells Of Iron Search

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 20 — (ENS)—A large turnout of members of the Campbellford Kinsmen Club on Monday evening heard a talk by Irvine Beckworth of Iron City, Michigan. Mr. Beckworth is a geologist and geophysicist and spoke to the club about the search for iron in certain sections of the country between Campbellford and Marmora, notably in the vicinity of Allan's Mills.

Mr. Beckworth explained there are two types of iron deposits—sedimentary deposits and contact metamorphic deposits, the latter being explored locally. Limestone country, he said, was generally considered to favor mineral deposits of this nature.

Much of the preliminary investigations concerning locations of iron underground is done by an airborne magnetometer, which in this section of the country, was flown at an altitude of about 500 feet. The use of this led to diamond drilling on Seymour west properties to find the true worth of the deposits there. Here, the low grade mineral has been reached at a depth of about 500 feet, whereas in the Marmora area, the deposits were found at about 100 feet below the surface.

Operations west of Campbellford have been suspended for the present until reports on samples taken are received from the U.S. The speaker stressed that ore from this area is very low grade and if any company did decide to proceed with mining here, it would be necessary to build a factory to process the ore on the spot, before a single ton could be shipped. It would take about 30 months after the breaking of the top soil, before the first ore could be brought to the surface, in the event a company did decide to go into operation.

Kinsman Murray Campbell extended the thanks of the club to the speaker.

Kinsman John Hill gave a first-hand report on the condition of President Gordon Walroth, who underwent a serious operation in Kingston General Hospital on Friday last.

The club officially observed Founder's Night by the reading of a communique from Founder Hal Rogers. The club members drank a toast in his honor.

Final plans for Millionaires Night at Edgewater Park were laid before the close of the meeting.

Past President Forrest Dennis was in charge of the meeting. Guests of the meeting were Douglas Gibson of Kingston and Art Dollack who recently was given a position at a local theatre.

Campbellford Midgets Wallop Stirling 11-5

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 20 — Campbellford Midgets continued their winning ways, taking the first game of a total-goal series from Stirling in the latter village on Monday night by the comfortable margin of 11-5. Now Howard Wilson's starlets will carry a six-goal lead into the return engagement in Campbellford on Friday night of this week.

Ray Hermiston was easily the pick of the Stirling squad on Monday, while the entire visiting team turned in a bang-up performance with the line of Wilson, Garvey and Doohler dominating the scoring. It was unfortunate that Jack Garvey's shot connected with goalie Ross Ray's nose forcing a replacement in the Stirling nets late in the game.

Mother Struck Before Slaying Boy Testifies

KINGSTON, Feb. 20 — (CP).— Prosecution witnesses continued to testify today in the trial of Alan Vernon Lyons, charged with murder in the butcher-knife slaying of his wife.

A silent courtroom on Tuesday heard Howard Joyce, 12-year-old stepson of the accused, tell of the quarrel that ended in his mother's death in the Lyons kitchen on November 10.

The boy said his stepfather was beating him for being late with his newspaper deliveries when 31-year-old Mrs. Elda Lyons intervened. Turning on his wife, Lyons struck her in the face and left the room, slamming the door.

"Mother was wiping the blood off her face and neck," the boy testified. Shortly afterward, Lyons returned to the kitchen and grabbed a butcher knife and said to his wife:

"If this as what you want, you are going to get it."

Howard said he didn't see a blow struck with the knife because things happened too quickly.

Dies From Wound

Mrs. Lyons died of a chest wound before police arrived.

Provincial Police Constable Donald McRady testified that he was greeted by the accused at the door of the Lyons bungalow with the words:

"I'm it. I'm the one. I did it."

Dr. G. C. Lindsay, who pronounced Mrs. Lyons dead, said he bandaged a small wound on Lyons' thumb. Lyons had told him he was bitten by his wife during their quarrel.

Other witnesses said Mr. and Mrs. Lyons had been drinking beer in a downtown hotel on the day of the slaying, but that there was no indication of a quarrel. They had planned to return downtown after supper.

It was announced that the public would be allowed in each day until Sunday night.

Little Human Relationship Between Owner, Employees

The human relationship that has ceased to exist between the owner of a business and the people who work for him has become like a cancer, a New York grocer told members of the Sales and Advertising Club Tuesday night.

The grocer, Patsy D'Agostino, whose stores do an annual $3,000,000 business, argued that the search for profit had made owners forget the people who work for them.

If a retailer doesn't use the human touch in selling, and if he tries to fool his customers, he is not building on a sound foundation. "You must get business on the basis of your product, and the service you give," said Mr. D'Agostino.

Responsibility To God

Besides losing the human touch, he declared, too many people have forgotten "our responsibility to God. Without respect for God, how can we respect our own families?"

"If you love people and treat your customers and employees in a human manner, that is one step to success," he declared. "Price alone will not always be the reason for success in the retail business."

The retailer must ask himself, "Would I buy this if I were the consumer?" Mr. D'Argostino said: "Remember, the man you look at in the mirror is the only man you can't fool."

Would Start Here

Turning to Canada, he recalled briefly his arrival in the United States as an immigrant boy of 16. "If I had to start over again at 16, I'd come to Canada."

Canada, he said, was one of the most important countries in the world, even with only 14,000,000 population. It's future was great, if the country could get immigrants who would contribute their work.

Mr. D'Agostino was introduced by Meyer Cherney and thanked by Howard Doolittle. Chairman for the evening, the club's retail night, was Eric Howard.

Four new members were introduced by President Bert Cowan: Adolph Lemers, Frank Foster, John Bowes and Ed. Dorrington.

Music was provided by the Four Chords, a barbershop quartet from the East York S.P.E.B.S.Q.S.A.

Highlighting Hydro

The chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario, Mr. Robert Saunders, had some remarkable things to say about Ontario's remarkable Hydro system, when he spoke in Peterborough on Monday. The closest to the heart of Peterborough ratepayers—and a heart-warming statement it was—is that Hydro rates in Peterborough have been lower since the war than they were in 1938. Mr. Saunders based his figures on the price which the Utilities commission pays the Hydro for the power it buys. (In its provision of electric power to city consumers, the Utilities act really as a selling agent of Ontario Hydro power.) In 1938 the Utilities Commission paid $33.78 a horsepower. In 1950 it paid $30.20. What other commodity in this post-war inflationary period has cost less in dollars and cents than it did before the war? This low price is demonstrated proof that hydro-electric production is an economical method of making power, and that the Ontario Hydro System, a non-profit organization, has been operated well for the purse-benefit of the people.

* * *

The second remarkable Saunders' statement was that the demand for power in the Province has grown so great that in the last two years alone the increase in demand has been about equal to the Province's share of the St. Lawrence power, if that great river project goes through. The potential capacity of the river, according to the plans, is 2,200,000 horsepower. Of that, New York State would get half, Ontario the other half. This is only a few thousand more than the increased demand of the last two years.

* * *

The second statement is related to the first. What will be Ontario's plight if the St. Lawrence power is not developed? Ontario would have to rely more and more on steam plants, such as the new ones put up at Windsor and Toronto. In Ontario this is an expensive way to produce electric power. The annual cost of producing 1,100,000 horsepower through the St. Lawrence development would be, Mr. Saunders said, $18,900,000. If the 1,100,000 horsepower must be produced by steam plants, the annual cost would be $45,000,000. Thus Ontario would have to bid good-bye to cheap power. Mr. Saunders' statements must make us all boosters for the St. Lawrence development. Industrial and domestic power from split atoms is yet too far away and far, far too costly, to consider it now as an alternative to damming the St. Lawrence.

A Stunted Ceremonial Sense

Some dissatisfaction has been expressed in Ottawa with the national ceremony of mourning which was held in the Parliament Buildings last Friday; it appears to have been a flavourless affair, without satisfactory music, without prayer and without what theatre critics sometimes call "a sense of occasion." This is a pity, and it is important that we should learn to manage our national ceremonies better, for ceremonies are important. They are not mere pomp and show, but fitting expressions of great feelings. The bleak little affair in the Parliament Buildings was not good enough, and seems to have left many people with a sense of disappointment.

We Canadians suffer from a stunted ceremonial sense. We have no body of tradition to call upon, as the English have, nor have we the exuberance of the Americans, which puts plenty of true feeling into a somewhat disorganized frame. We mistrust ceremonial unless, as with the opening of Parliament or certain Church observances, it has come to us ready-made, from a road. But as we grow in nationhood, we need ceremonies of our own; that is to say, we need dignified and distinctively Canadian ways of doing a number of important things in such a manner that they fire the imagination, touch the heart, and fill the eye and ear.

When Napoleon became Emperor, he had the good sense to get the great actor Talma to teach him how to behave like an Emperor. Perhaps Ottawa would be wise to get a few Canadian poets and stage directors and musicians to make suggestions for such national ceremonies as days of mourning, days of rejoicing and other occasions which reappear from time to time in our national life. It is silly to say that we are without a sense of pageantry; such a sense is developed, and is not inherent in young nations. What we must do is to take care that our ceremonies are the best that we can devise, and not second-rate, cheaply theatrical, or merely puppet-like in their effect. And we can do it, if we realize the need to learn, and are no longer content with makeshift ceremonial.

Do You Know Canadian Authors?

We have been looking with interest at the list of Famous Canadians in the 1952 World Almanac; there are 44 of them altogether and of this number 30 are authors; we confess with shame that some of them are unknown to us, and of others we have never read a line. Whether our readers are better informed than we in this respect we cannot tell. For instance, do you know the work of James Hannay? He was a Maritime historian, it appears, of note. But who was Arthur G. Doughty, who died in 1936? Nor can we discover anything about L. P. Lucas, whose name is new to us. William Chapman we have never heard of, and discover that he wrote in French; this it not an excuse, but it is an explanation. Indeed, on the evidence of the World Almanac we are badly informed about Canadian writers.

It may be that all the people on the list are worthy of being remembered. It often happens that books compiled outside our own country give us a clearer picture of it than we have been able to form ourselves. And it is a fact that comprehensive information about Canadian writers is difficult to find, and that we have no authoritative book devoted to our own literature. But it shakes us to find that so many of these supposedly famous Canadian authors are unknown to us, while in the list of Irish Authors which follows it we can identify virtually every name.

Ad Profectum Britannici Imperii

At a memorial service for King George VI held at the University of Toronto, its president, Dr. Sidney Smith paid tribute "to the liberty and justice that Britons have taken to many quarters of the earth, discharging in public duty and in private virtue Their Majesty's service." He quoted the first words spoken by the Chancellor of the University when he confers degrees: "ad profectum Britannici Imperii"—for the advancement of the British Empire; a phrase deeply significant, touching the life and service of the King.

Physically, the Empire contracted rather than advanced during his reign. For instance, India became a Republic, outside the Empire but within the Commonwealth. But it was such changes as these, when peoples of the Empire were granted independence, that mark an advancement; they are fulfilments of the British conception of advancing empire.

The idea of profectum Britannici Imperii was given definition by the King himself—and authority by his own utterances—in his Christmas broadcasts. It is an ideal as well as a conception, realized not in territories conquered, but in the British attitude and rule, with King George as its symbol and essence. Let his Christmas message of a few weeks ago echo now:

"We are living in an age which is often hard and cruel, and if there is anything that we can offer the world today, perhaps it is the example of tolerance and understanding that runs like a golden thread through the great and diverse family of the British Commonwealth of Nations."

The King's own idea of the Commonwealth was phrased thus in his 1950 Christmas broadcast:

"Each one of us will have to determine whether to consolidate what past generations have achieved for us or to acquiesce in its being brought to naught; to preserve the spiritual inheritance common to our mother country and her kindred nations or to witness its extinction.

"That inheritance is not the product of any rigid system. It is something far more human than that. It is the collective expression of the lives of countless thousands of men and women, many of them quite unknown to fame, who have laboured incessantly for the good of their fellows. Like the great coral reefs in the Pacific, its growth has gone on silently and invisibly from century to century, strong to resist the surge and thunder of the tides of fortune and of time.

"As with such a reef, if some extruding peak should crumble away, there remains always a solid foundation on which to build anew.

"This foundation derives its permanence, its power to endure, from faith."

Ten years earlier, in Britain's dark days, the King spoke of the Commonwealth as a family:

"I think of you, my peoples, as one great family. For that is how we are learning to live. We all belong to each other. We all need each other. It is in serving each other and in sacrificing for our common good that we are finding our true life."

A noble conception of Empire is this: beyond anything a Caesar, a Ming or a Napoleon could have visioned. The ruler of this Empire was its first citizen, the King, serving and sacrificing for the common good, pointing by his example the way to true life—ad profectum Britannici Imperii.

Nehru Was Seen By Fifty Millions

By RAWLE KNOX (in New Delhi)

INDIA's general elections have proved a triumph not only for Congress but for the Administration. If unsuccessful candidates, alleging tampering with ballot boxes, are increasingly loud in complaint that the two triumphs were far too closely connected, the more honest of them will admit that, considering the inexperience of the presiding officers, the elections were fairer than could ever have been imagined.

Nowhere had candidates to fear intimidation. It was left to Moscow's "Trud" to pay India an unwitting tribute by commenting that Congress received fewer than half the total votes despite having the whole electoral machinery in its hands.

THE world was unprepared for the extent of the Communist gains in southern India, but so indeed was Congress, which is a northern growth with its maturest blossoms in Uttar Pradesh and only straggling roots reaching further south than Maharashtra. India south of the Godavari river is another world, and even the C.P.I. (Communist Party of India) was surprised at its successes there.

Did Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru tilt at windmills during that extraordinary election tour, in which he spoke to some twenty-five million souls and was seen by as many again? He attacked religious discrimination in other parties but could not prevent the voting by caste within Congress which, even according to Congressmen, was one of the most unsatisfactory features of the election. He wasted much scorn on rebel groups of ex-Congressmen who had anyway contrived to defeat themselves before the elections began. He lauded Congress as the protector of the Scheduled Castes and destroyed Dr. Ambedkar's Scheduled Castes Federation. He claimed that as a Congressman he was a good Socialist, and his words doomed Jaiprakash's official Socialist Party, containing some of the finest talent and selflessness in the country.

BUT the Communists also were keen to eliminate the Scheduled Castes Federation and the Socialists who were working on their own ground. In Bombay they urged voters in double-member constituencies to spoil their second vote rather than support any other anti-Congress Party but the Communists. Congress the C.P.I. is prepared to deal with; Congress it regards as the effete capitalist party which will one day sink to the ground of its own obesity. It is this belief which Nehru still has to dispel with the promised revitalisation of his party.

Nehru, from the honesty of his convictions, could not condemn Communist theory in his election speeches, only Communist violence. But also he could not disown retaliatory police violence which, according to the C.P.I., was responsible for much of its electoral success. The Communists thus won two quite distinct types of victory one with intelligent propaganda among the best-educated electorates in India—in Travancore Cochin and in Madras; the other by violence among the most ignorant—in Hyderabad and neglected Tripura.

A COMMUNIST-SHY world, however, has paid too little attention to several difficult triumphs which Congress achieved. West Bengal, where ever since independence the Government has been under heavy Communist fire—and where the electorate emphasized its particular dislikes by unseating six Ministers—is certainly one. East Punjab and P.E.P.S.U. (Patiai and East Punjab States Union) are two others. Here, as in Bengal, the communal parties tried to work on the feelings of refugees; yet Pakistan never became an election issue. The Sikhs' Shromani Akali Dal, demanding a Punjabi-speaking State (tacitly implying a Sikh-led State) found itself weakened by a strong Sikh Communist vote; and it frightened Punjabi Hindus almost more than the thought of Pakistan which, after all, is across a frontier. Akali Dal had hoped to form a government in P.E.P.S.U. and prevent Congress forming one in East Punjab. It achieved neither aim. Perhaps Congress's greatest victory was in Rajasthan, where it almost lost. It was a struggle to gain half the seats in the provincial assembly but it was a struggle against history. The meagre years in which the party has been allowed to operate in the Rajput States, the inevitable poverty of its material and the powerful opposition of such princely houses as Jodhpur and Bikaner, were terrible handicaps. It is incorrect to say that the landlords' successes in Rajasthan are a swing to the right; the true interpretation is that the Congress win represents a remarkable gain for the Left.

Victory has not given Congress undue complacency. This week in a "dead" Parliament which is meeting for the last time, Congressmen who have been campaigning in rural aras (visited in many cases after overlong absences) have reported their shocked discoveries. They have found that central planning, which so well accords with the metaphysical concepts approved in Delhi, has yet to have practical results on the ground. They have found that the black market in foodstuffs, of which their constituents have long complained, actually exist. They have found that the "grow more food" campaign has in fact grown rather less food than was produced last year, and against this, they set the knowledge that in 1952 India will have to import more food grains than ever before.

MANY of them have become Gandhians for the first time. What these Congressmen urgently understand is the need to show the peasant some visible prosperity in the next five years if Congress is to go again to the country with honour at the end of that period. India's big irrigation schemes, hampered always by lack of finance and occasionally by maladministration, are necessarily slow to be completed. Even when water begins to flow the new fields, if put under the customary Indian methods of cultivation, will not produce enough extra food to keep pace with the population, increasing by nearly four millions a year.

✧ ✧ ✧

IT IS intensified production on existing lands, which the Gandhian settlement at Wardha has been proving possible for many years, that rural politicians now feel will bring the best results. It is to the credit of Indian and American planners that America's 250-million dollar aid to India, recently agreed upon, will be primarily devoted to just such projects; like, for instance, Etawah, where under American guidance remarkable production figures have been achieved in the last two years. If the advice of Ambassador Chester Bowles is taken and more American money comes soon to India, this is the best direction in which it can be spent. It is too early yet to say that the politicians who have returned somewhat sobered from the countryside will see in increased Western aid the best hope of their own salvation. In fact, the "Patel Group" of Congressmen, who unashamedly believe in the fullest possible co-operation with the West, has been scattered utterly by the election winds. But its policy, less forthrightly expressed perhaps, is bound to linger in the new Parliament. It can also be safely predicted that Nehru will emerge from the next five years with even less liking than ever for the Communists within his frontiers. The shape and colour of the Opposition in the Indian Parliament is now unmistakeable, and its methods are likely to be rude, noisy and uncharitable. Nehru is not fond of opposition, even when of the gentlemanliest kind. While the C.P.I. is brushing up its best blue suit and talking as though it would never harm a fly, it is unlikely that its newfound respect for the Indian Constitution will last beyond the first thwarting of its fresh strength. As his next term as Premier proceeds, Nehru may be forced unwillingly to ponder more deeply the marked difference between what he says about the Communists and what they say about him.

Mr. Lester Pearson

A Profile of Canada's Minister of External Affairs by Politicus Atlantis

TODAY the North Atlantic Treaty Council will be called to order by its chairman, Lester Bowles Pearson, the Minister of External Affairs for Canada. This meeting at Lisbon over which he is presiding will set the future course of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) by deciding whether it is to move forward through a European Defence Community to a real and lasting Atlantic Defence Community, or whether it will be content with a temporary military alliance of completely sovereign states.

Of all members of the Council, Pearson is the most vehement advocate of the Atlantic Community, just as he and his Prime Minister, Mr. St. Laurent, were amongst the foremost architects of the Atlantic Pact, because Canada can exist and fulfil its national destiny only in such a Community. Alone amongst the members of NATO, Canada is a country which has grown to nationhood after the heyday of nationalism was past. A small power standing between two of the Great Powers, Canada has never been dazzled by the illusion of absolute sovereignty or a completely independent foreign policy.

No-one knows this better than Pearson because at the age of 54 he is old enough to have played a part in the very first formulations of a Canadian foreign policy. When Pearson was born in 1897, the son of a Methodist minister in Ontario, Canada's foreign affairs were wholly in the hands of Whitehall. Earl Grey declared war for Canada in 1914, and it was in a British war that Pearson joined the Royal Flying Corps. Even though Sir Robert Borden insisted on signing the Treaty of Versailles as a Canadian representative independently of the United Kingdom, Canada still had virtually no foreign ministry or foreign policy of its own for 10 years after the war.

BUT the fact that Canada was represented abroad by upper class Englishmen with little interest in Canadian needs (trade and immigration especially) became a source of friction, and in 1928 the Prime Minister, Mr. Mackenzie King, gave instructions that the External Affairs department should be expanded so as to provide a Diplomatic Service. Professor O. D. Skelton, of Queen's University, Kingston, was the talent scout. Amongst his first choices was Lester Pearson, who appeared exactly the sort of man Skelton wanted for his "kindergarten" which was openly modelled on Lord Milner's famous political forcing ground in South Africa. Pearson had lived in England, on a Massey Foundation Fellowship, at St. John's College, Oxford, he had a lacrosse "blue," was a first-class ice-hockey player, and academically was a rising professor of history at Toronto University. If he had been born in England "Mike" Pearson (so nicknamed when he was young because he looked like a cartoon Irishman) would probably have gone into politics, but Canadian politics for beginners were dull and provincial, so he gladly accepted Skelton's offer.

For the next 15 years Pearson learnt the arts of diplomacy and studied the science of world politics. He was lucky in his points of vantage, first at the League of Nations in Geneva, then for six long and eventful years from 1935-41 in London, where he passionately disagreed with official opinion that Hitler did not want war. When he returned to Ottawa shortly before Pearl Harbour he had seen at close quarters appeasement and defiance. He knew that the world, like Canada, owed its freedom to Britain, but must look for its future safety to the United States. It was in America that his next assignment lay first in 1942 as Minister and, in 1945, as Ambassador to Washington.

IT was during these war years that Canada became the essential Anglo-American link, and the Canadian representative in Washington became not just an appendage of the British Embassy, but the interpreter of the one to the other. Pearson's tact and youthful charm soon made him the Golden Boy of the diplomatic world and he was the almost unanimous choice of the western world for first Secretary-General of the United Nations. The Russians, however, blocked him and insisted on Trygve Lie. Five years later when they repented their choice a private Soviet offer of the job was made once more to Pearson.

At first after the war Pearson had great hopes of the U.N. and it was he who scored a brief but positive triumph in getting Russia and America to agree on the ill-fated plan for partitioning Palestine. However, he soon saw that the U.N. could not serve the essential interest of Canada which was the reconciliation in detail of the policies of the United Kingdom, the United States and to a lesser extent of a Europe uniting under French leadership. It was to finding a solution of this problem that he devoted himself when in 1946 he became Permanent Under-Secretary of State for External Affairs.

IN his search for a Canadian foreign policy he found himself working in close partnership with two men—Prime Minister Mackenzie King, and his successor-designate Mr. St. Laurent, who was the first Canadian to hold the post of Minister for External Affairs after it was separated from the Premiership. All three had learnt that Canada could be neither a wholly British nor a wholly American country. French Canadians objected strongly to any stress on the Imperial tradition; United Empire Loyalists repudiated Yankee-isation, and both groups spoke with authentic, historic, Canadian voices. It was in this political atmosphere that the first drafts of a North American Pact were made and discussions began in Washington in July, 1948.

Six weeks later, at the insistence of St. Laurent and the retiring Mackenzie King, Pearson joined the Cabinet as Minister for External Affairs and entered politics as a Liberal. In one way the change was easy to make for the temperature of Canadian politics is so low, and the hold of the Liberal Party on office seems so firm, that the Cabinet is more like a committee of senior civil servants than a caucus of politicians. But for Pearson it meant giving up a safe pensioned position, where he was widely popular, and where "Mike" was regarded affectionately as a brilliantly precocious schoolboy.

In politics he had to mature, to acquire gravity and firmness as well as tact and charm. Above all he had to learn to say "no". His opportunity to learn came unexpectedly soon. A year after the signature of the North Atlantic Pact, which seemed like the summit of his achievement, the Korean War broke out and by December of 1950 General MacArthur seemed to be leading America into a full-scale war against China, in spite of the violent protests of Britain and Europe. The Canadian nightmare of an unbridgeable split between London and Washington seemed to be coming true.

PEARSON'S reaction was swift, resolute and surprisingly effective. As early as October—when there were only quiet murmurs of dissent in Britain—Pearson said publicly "We hope that in Washington they appreciate having neighbours who are happy to tell them frankly and in the American idiom when they are going off the rails in their international policies." At U.N. where America was advocating a "tough" policy towards China, Pearson fought openly, and with less inhibition than the British delegates, for a moderate policy. He was aware that the Americans were especially angry with him because he was so close to them and so trusted, but he drew to the very limit on the credit he had built up in Washington; as one senior State Department official said "I would never have taken so much arm-twisting from anyone but Mike."

When the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference met in London during January, 1951, Pearson, who represented Canada, was hailed as something of a hero for his opposition to America at U.N. He at once drew on that credit account by using all his influence to budge the Commonwealth a little nearer to the American position. That the Commonwealth conference's resolution on Korea was also accepted by America and the U.N., was largely the result of Pearson's manoeuvring. The cracks had at least been papered over.

This whole episode had a deep effect on Pearson's thinking and outlook. It has matured him and, except for a puckish wit, there is nothing of the schoolboy to-day in the chairman of the North Atlantic Council. But his narrow and only partial victory has impressed most deeply on him the necessity of making NATO members "co-operating partners not camp followers" of the United States.

In the past year he has paid more attention than any other foreign minister to the problem of making NATO a working concern, in which disagreements are ironed out in private rather than fought out in public. He has also tried to stress the importance of the branches of NATO that deal with economic, cultural and political co-operation so as to avoid basing the Community solely on the fragile foundations of military alliance. For all these reasons Lester Pearson may well be chosen as the first Secretary-General of NATO, thus giving Canada her rightful leadership in that Atlantic Community which is her natural habitat.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

When I would have healed Israel, then the iniquity of Ephraim was discovered, and, the wickedness of Samaria: for they commit falsehood; and the thief cometh in, and the troop of robbers spoileth without. (Hos. 7: 1.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Israel hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him. They have set up kings, but not by me: they have made princes, and I knew it not: of their silver and their gold have they made them idols, that they may be cut off. (Hos. 8: 3, 4.)

✧ ✧ ✧

When Ephraim spake trembling, he exalted himself in Israel; but when he offended in Baal, he died . . . Therefore they shall be as the morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, as the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney.

Yet I am the Lord thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no god but me: for there is no saviour beside me. (Hos. 13: 1, 3, 4.)

✧ ✧ ✧

For my thoughts are not your thoughts, neither are your ways my ways, saith the Lord. For as the heavens are higher than the earth, so are my ways higher than your ways, and my thoughts than your thoughts. (Isa. 55: 8, 9.)

Margot Fonteyn's Return

(Manchester Guardian)

The dependence of the Sadler's Wells Company at Covent Garden on Margot Fonteyn has never seemed so clear as in these last six months during which this great dancer has been unable to perform. This has been a worrying time for all who wish well to our national ballet; it has provided a bleak reminder that though the general standard reached by the Sadler's Wells dancers (particularly the danseuses) is certainly improving and encouraging yet the company's recent choreography is such that without Miss Fonteyn to give it her own particular lustre it seems distinctly second-rate.

Miss Fonteyn, indeed, has been none too well served by the choreographers, but no ballet can seem quite second-rate when she performs it.

Miss Fonteyn appeared in Ottawa with the Sadler's Wells ballet last year.

WHAT GOES ON IN PARLIAMENT

Hungary Seizes Homes Of Capitalists

BUDAPEST, Feb. 20 —(AP)— Hungary took another major step toward complete state ownership Tuesday by nationalizing privately owned apartment houses and a big category of homes.

A decree from the Communist Government said that all houses owned by "capitalists, other exploiting elements and members of the former oppressive class," whether inhabited by the owners or rented, would be taken over by the state. Hungarian industry has been government-run for a long time.

As in the case of confiscation of industry, the state promised former apartment and house owners compensation. The rate has not been fixed but will be announced later, the decree said.

U.S. Legation officials said the new order affects 50 houses owned by U.S. citizens.

The decree does not apply to houses under six rooms owned by manual or white collar workers, retired people, retail merchants, artisans and peasants.

Property of a foreign state also is exempt, but the decree does apply to houses owned by individual foreigners.

Furniture Nationalized

Not only the house but furniture and other movable goods were ordered nationalized if the houses are owned by a "capitalist" who does not live in the dwelling permanently.

The decree gave an outline of owners who would be affected. It listed: Former owners and high-ranking officials of industrial undertakings, mines, banks and big land estates; wholesale merchants and brokers; former aristocrats ranging from knights to dukes; former officers of the army and police; former high-ranking government officials; members of the two houses of the former Hungarian Parliament; those convicted as warmongers or for "anti-people crimes" and the wives of all such persons.

The Hungarian Communist Government announced last June it had removed 924 families of persons in the above categories from their Budapest homes. It said Stakhanovites (pace-setting model workers) and other industrial workers would get the preference on the homes vacated.

School Students Take Over Music Festival

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP).— The school students of Ontario took over the Kiwanis Music Festival Tuesday with 50 school entries competing. Special buses brought many out-of-town contestants to the festival.

The kindergarten rhythm bands made a hit with the audience. Five-year-old Gregory Wagstaff of Lambton Park Public School, Toronto, conducted the winning band.

Dr. Roy G. Fenwick, director of music for the Ontario Education Department, said early musical training establishes a sense of rhythm, phrasing, tone and discipline in following the conductor.

Piano duet under 10—Joy Hoyhoe and Patsy Marks of Woodbridge, first.

Athol and Whip Both Out In Main Grapple Bout As Free-For-All Threatens

Whipper Bill Watson and Lord Athol Layton were both counted out of the ring in the final round of the main mat match at the Brock Arena last night in a floor fight which nearly touched off a free-for-all by exctied fans. Prompt police action, plus a few punches thrown by Layton and his trainer, Lou Pitoscia, kept it from boiling into a riot though a few chairs were broken before order was restored. Had the wrestlers not climbed back into the ring, there might have been a lot of trouble.

They had been at it just three minutes in the last round when Whipper jumped out of the ring to paste Lou, who had been interfering with him in a corner from outside the ropes and helping Athol. The latter jumped out, too, to assist his buddy and Referee Sammy Gotter counted both out and then came out to try to stop the wild melee. Fans swarmed around and many tried to get in a few licks at the villains before police pushed them aside. The matmen got back in and started to rough it some more—though the bout was over — till other wrestlers arrived to break it up. Layton and Lou had police protection going out after the wild finish.

Evened It Up

Whipper had taken the equalizing fall in 12 minutes with two whips and a mule kick after ducking a judo slash off the ropes by Athol just before. Whip then knocked Lou for a loop because he had been pounding Watson's leg from outside in a corner skirmish. Layton was his usual rough self with judo chops to the throat along the ropes but once Billy repaid him in kind with a series of vicious slashes after Layton had got away with plenty. The Whip was so peeved he tossed the ref around once, too, and was warned sharply for it. They dished up a red-hot fray that had the fans roaring.

Layton took the first fall in 23 minutes with a toss into the hemp and a hard slash as Whip came off the strands. They had started it cleanly enough with Whipper so fast and tricky that his rival thought he was plastered with grease. It wasn't long before Layton started bulling his shorter and lighter opponent into the ropes and slashing at his jugular. He also punished him plenty with a double reverse armlock. Watson retaliated later with punches and slams, and pushed Gotter aside in the hot going. Watson nearly had his nibs late in the session with a series of monkey flips till he slipped in one and banged his head on the floor. He was an easy setup then for Layton who promptly polished him off to the boos of the crowd.

German Wins

Huge Hans Hermann, 275-pound blonde German, strutted his way to a quick semi-final win over Warren Bockwinkle, scaling 246. He won it in four minutes with his "Prussian Squeeze," an unconscious hold. Booed plenty for his rough tackles, the towering and glowering Teuton gave the fans the Nazi salute and goose-stepped from the ring after the fall. Warren was game and faster for a few minutes but he was flung hard into the ropes and as he tried to tackle Hans off them he ran into a brick wall and fell like a ton of the stuff. The German was too strong but he won no friends during the brief bout.

Stan Mayslack, 248, gained the prelim over 226-pound Chief Suni War Cloud in 27 minutes when he tossed him out of the ring, kept kicking him back out, and got back in time to beat the count. It was unpopular, owing to Stan's illegal tactics throughout, and one fan tangled with a policeman, who was taking him out for trying to get into the affair on Suni's side.

There was a lot of mat stuff, the Indian favoring an armlock, while Mayslack yanked hair, threw elbows, did a bit of choking and worked in the knees at times. He ignored warnings from Ref. Sammy Gotter and, after taking a series of head butts, threw War Cloud out and kept him there long enough to get the doubtful decision.

"Y" Teams Open Hoop Series In Trophy Play

A basket by Flowers with less than a minute to go gave the Y-Jacks a 24-23 win in the Y.M.C.A. house league. In the first game the powerful Y-Knots tied Penguins in knots for a convincing 46-22. These were the first games in a round for the Chester Kemp Memorial Trophy.

The Normal School cagers started out with a bang as Roblin, Hulsman and Laundry sank 10 points on five baskets in the first quarter while Y-Jacks could muster only two successful foul shots. Despite a Y-Jacks' rally the Normals held their first quarter lead at half-time 14-9.

Led by Spragge and Flowers, the Y-Jacks continued to climb closer toward Normals in the third quarter, outscoring them 8-6. Then the Jacks burst wide open in the fourth. Huntley with Payne and Flowers gradually built up the score until the Jacks were only a point behind with a minute to go; then Flowers sank the winning basket. The Normals had a last-minute chance to tie but Hulsman missed the foul shot.

Normal's Laundry with a hook shot led the scoring with 12 points, evenly distributed throughout the game. Spragge of the Jacks helped by Huntley sank nine points and Flowers seven in a winning cause.

Wide-Open Tilt

The first game was wide open and the Y-Knots were drifting through the Penguins' defence practically at will. Armed with only five players, Butcher, Harwood, Stewart, Rye and Jamieson, the Y-Knots easily brused aside the Penguins 16-4 in the first quarter, piled it higher to 22-14, higher in the third 31-17, and finishing off withd a 15-5 barrage.

Stewart starred for Y-Knots; besides scoring 12 points, he fed his teammates throughout and steadily patrolled the backboards. Butcher, a push shot artist, whipped in 11 points while Harwood had 10 and Rye eight.

The Penguins' six-foot three-inch centre topped their performances with a strong defensive game, and working under the basket for six points. Bogue also scored six with set shots.

Lineups:

First Game

Y-Knots—Butcher 11, Harwood 10, Stewart 12, Rye 8, Jamieson 5.

Penguins—Motta 1, Bogue 6, Hurle 2, English 5, Outram 2, Canning 6.

Y-Jacks—Huntley 4, Spragge 9, Dunning 2, Payne 2, Flowers 7, Withard.

The stars of the game were Terry Doris and Art Smith, two clever St. Alphonsus forwards, and Carl Anthony and Wayne Foley of the East City club. The final score was St. Alphonsus 5, Immaculate Conception 2.

Belleville Hawks and the Petes do senior "B" puck battle at 8.30 tonight in Civic Arena. Petes lead the group parade now but only by half a game over Eagles, while Hawks are in third slot just a bit back of Eagles, so it's quite a race. The Quinte crew will be giving it the old college try in this clash, and the Petes will certainly shoot the works. These teams are pounding down the stretch now with less than two weeks to go in the schedule, so every game is a sizzler. Tonight's tilt should be a dandy, too, and deserves a big turnout of hockey fans.

* * * * * *

Baz Phelan has received some clippings from Clinton, N.Y., where the Petes won a couple of exhibition games over last weekend. One item said: "Clinton Comets ran into a band of youthful and big Peterborough Petes, a senior 'B' team of the O.H.A., and absorbed a 13-6 beating before 1,800 in the arena Saturday.. Comets play in the New York-Ontario League with Cornwall, Gananoque and Brockville. The victors Saturday blasted Goalie Johnny Bourada for three goals in the first three minutes of action and ended by giving him one of his worst nights in the nets. One of the snappiest sextets to appear in the local arena, the Petes excelled in all departments of the game.

They Liked The Petes

"They featured two outstanding backliners in Red Peters and Jake Wade. Arnold Dugan caught local fans' attention as a skater and playmaker, as well as producing two goals. Chum Fryia also had two scores, as did Wade and Peters. The Petes divided their goals among eight players with four others collecting assists. The game was marred by only one penalty. Dugan also is a member of the Peterborough Timbermen lacrosse team which last season won the championship of Canada." Baz reports that the club had an enjoyable two-day trip across the line and got in some good puck practise.

Minor hockey holds the spotlight in playoff action tomorrow eve in Civic Arena, starting at 6.30. Oshawa bantams battle St. Peter's first, and the Saints have a one-goal lead from the first O.M.H.A. contest Monday in the Motor City. Martin-Hewitt midgets have a three-goal bulge on Oshawa in their sawoffs. The juvenile Marines are down two goals to the potent Motor City pack, but feel they can wipe that out and sweep the series here on the morrow. Winners of these series proceed into the second "A" round of provincial playdowns, while the losers do a fadeout for this semester. Come and see some lively hockey and cheer the local boys along. Otonabee Wolves are in bantam "C" playdowns against Wellington, and open their series this e'en in Warsaw.

School Playoffs Set

Final standing for the Public School Hockey League are in tonight, as well as playoff dates. Junior semi-finals in two brackets go today with the finals on March 3. Intermediate semi-finals are tomorrow aft, with titular play on Feb. 28. Seniors start their two semi-final series on Feb. 25-27 with finals slated for March 5. Teacher coaches are to arrange for referees. This loop had 20 teams in three divisions, playing afternoons during the winter at Civic Arena. King Edward led the senior schedule over Prince of Wales, Queen Mary edged out Confederation in intermediate (with Prince of Wales a close third), and the "A" and "B" Prince of Wales teams topped the junior section. Some good hockey was served up, and the sawoffs should be plenty keen, also.

An unsatisfactory finish, maybe, but certainly an exciting one—that main mat bout last eve at the Brock. Whipper was out there on the arena floor whaling away at Lou the trainer, Layton came out to help Lou, the ref tried to break it up, a flock of fans did their darndest to get into it, some chairs were broken, and the police had quite a time restoring order. Both grapplers were counted out after each had taken a fall in the rough-house main event, a redhot joust all the way. Could have been a riot easily enough, but the matmen got back in the ring in time to prevent the "hey rube". Hateful Hans Hermann easily won the semi-final o'er Bockwinkle and goose-stepped disdainfully out. Prelim went to Mayslack over Chief Suni War Cloud.

Teepees Crush Galt 6-3; In Fourth Place

By The Canadian Press.

St. Catharines Teepees continued their upward surge in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A series Tuesday night by defeating Galt Black Hawks 6-3. The win gave the Garden City team sole possession of fourth place, breaking a tie with Toronto St. Michael's.

In the Senior A loop, a five-goal deficit in the first period against Owen Sound Mercurys was too much of a handicap and the Mercs lost 8-4 to the second-place Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen.

The Mercs still are likely to win a berth in the playoffs. They would have to lose both remaining games and Hamilton Tigers would have to win its three remaining if Hamilton is to replace them.

The St. Catharines victory was sparked by Bill Haas with two goals and Gerry Foley, Gord Myles, Henry Ciesla and Frank Martin placed the others. Galt scorers were Ed Switzer, Trader Horne and Jack Price.

Kitchener's eight goals were all singles, scored by Don Bauer, Ed Stankiewicz, Bob Schnurr, Maurice Levesque, Jim Osinski, Doug Verity, Bill Mitchell and Jim Pernfuss. Owen Sound marksmen were Andy Grant, Tom Burlington, Bill McComb and Buck Forslund.

Curling News

By HERB MARTIN

For the past 20 years we curlers have looked forward, with great interest, to the playing of the MacDonald-Brier games, no matter in what part of Canada the contest was held. This year our interest is more than ever as the rink representing Ontario comes from the local club. Th is an honor not only to the boys themselves, but for this club and this city. But this honor was not easily won. Dr. R. Clark and his rink had to work hard and play hard to win it.

It all began at Lindsay a couple of weeks ago when this rink won three straight games and then later, again at Lindsay, they met and defeated Agincourt in the final district game. They then went to Toronto, last Thursday, and won three straight games from the cream of Ontario curlers and they now go to Winnipeg representing Ontario in the all-week Dominion-wide MacDonald-Brier bonspiel.

Our club is naturally proud of the success of these boys and is backing them to the limit and to show just how they feel about this success, arrangements are being made for a big social evening Wednesday, February 27.

We have not all the details yet, but in the meantime, keep the date open, and we have to give these boys a real send-off: Burritt Harrison, Ken Bissett, Vic Brown, Dr. R. Clark, sk.

Men's scores—B. Grant 5, M. Metheral 11; W. Harvey 7, A. Ingram 10; H. Green 3, Dr. R. Clark 10; J. Hall 9, O. Steer 8.

Junior boys' scores—K. Butler 3, T. Saunders 9; D. Graham 10, L. Jones 2; D. Baptie 15, J. Clarke 2; T. Whyte 6, R. Hutchinson 5.

Lindsay Takes First One Over The Vics

LINDSAY, Feb. 20 (ENS)—In a rugged penalty-filled junior "B" tilt here Tuesday night the Lindsay Kin juniors battled for a 9-5 win in the first game of their semi-final round of playoffs. Twenty penalties, including match misconducts to Montgomery and Hegarty of Kingston were meted out by referees Jim Crombie and Dick Ouimet.

Lindsay opened the scoring at 4:17 on a goal by Vasey. The Vics got it back four minutes later on a goal by D. Senior. Powell and Macdonald tallied for the locals before the end of the period to make it 3-1 for Lindsay.

In the second period Lindsay scored four goals to Kingston's two. Kingston's goals were scored by Montgomery and D. Senior. Vasey, Smith, Schenkel and Deeth were the Lindsay marksmen to make the score 7-3. Both teams scored two in the final period, two by Kingston's Vallier and one each by Copeland and Deeth of Lindsay.

The win puts Lindsay one up over the Vics in the semi-final best-of-five series. Next game is in Kingston on Thursday with the same two again on Saturday night here.

Leafs and Rangers Battle To 3-3 Tie, Stewart Stars

By ED SIMON, Canadian Press Staff Writer

For almost half a season it looked as if Gaye Stewart was just another good hockey player who had gone sour. New York Rangers had acquired him in an off-season trade with Detroit Red Wings. It had cost them Tony Leswick, a fine defensive winger, but it seemed a worthwhile exchange for a man who had never scored less than 18 goals a season in eight years in the National Hockey League. The only hitch was that Stewart went through 22 games in a Ranger uniform without scoring a single goal. The word went around that the likeable 28-year-old forward from Fort William was on his way out of the N.H.L.

But Bill Cook, who had just taken over as Rangers' coach in mid-season, was ready to string along with his slumping star. And his faith has paid dividends.

Stewart fired home two goals in 22 seconds against Al Rollins in Toronto Maple Leaf nets Tuesday night as the teams played to a 3-3 draw. That brought his goal production to 13 for the season. With 15 games left, it looks as if he'll fill his scoring quota.

Both Benefit

Both Toronto and New York benefitted from the split in points. The Leafs moved a point ahead of Montreal Canadiens, with whom they had been tied for second place. The Rangers did the same at the expense of Boston Bruins, with whom they are battling for the fourth and last playoff spot.

Stewart's rapid-fire performance was only one of the highlights of the game, which was rescheduled from Feb. 6 because of the death of the King.

Before the final whistle, Rangers had blown their two-goal lead and dropped behind. It took a score by rookie Herb Dickenson with less than three minutes left to earn them their tie.

Max Bentley, Harry Watson and Ted Kennedy looked after the Toronto scoring.

Referee George Gravel had a busy evening, particularly in the second period, when he dished out 11 penalties including a major, a misconduct and a macth sentence.

Match Penalty

Defenceman Gus Mortson of Toronto drew the match penalty when Gravel ruled that he had deliberately attempted to injure Ranger defenceman Hy Buller in a stick-swinging incident.

Mortson won't play again until his case is dealt with by league president Clarence Campbell. The least that can happen to him is an automatic $100 fine.

Mortson's defence partner, Jimmy Thomson, was given the misconduct five minutes earlier for telling Gravel what he thought of a minor penalty for slashing. Eddie Kullman of the Rangers took a major for high-sticking George Armstrong of Toronto.

Tonight the Rangers go home for a date with the league-leading Red Wings in the only game scheduled.

Poland Tied With Laufman

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP). — Dashin' Danny Poland, the patched-up centre who plays for Toronto Marlboros when he's not in hospital, is gunning for the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League's goal-scoring record.

Official statistics released on Tuesday give Poland 57 goals and 69 assists for 126 points. He's eight goals short of the record set last year by Lou Jankowski of Oshawa Generals.

Poland, who has been playing with his left arm in a cast for about three weeks and who suffered a broken nose and two black eyes last week, has six games left.

He scored four goals and four assists last week to jump into a tie with Guelph's centre Ken Laufman. Laufman picked up a pair of goals and five assists.

The pair hold a comfortable 12-point lead over Ken Wharram of Galt Black Hawks. Wharram, injured in a game at Toronto Feb. 10 will be out for the rest of the season.

Don Head, Toronto Marlboros' goalie, tops the netminders with a 2.86 average and leads the shutout department with four.

Judges Reshuffle Ski Race Placings

OSLO, Feb. 20 (CP).—Judges of the Olympic men's slalom ski race today reshuffled some of the placings in Tuesday's event.

The first 10 finishers were not affected, but Bernhard Perren, of Switzerland, originally 11th, was penalized five seconds for deviating from the course and dropped to 21st. Hans Senger, of Austria, originally 12th, was disqualified for missing the control gate.

The effect was to move most of the finishers forward a notch. Bob Richardson of Montreal is placed 26th instead of 27th.

Canada Leading World In Foreign Trade On Individual Effort Basis

OTTAWA, Feb. 20 (CP)—Canada, on the basis of individual effort, led the world in foreign trade last year. Leader in total dollar value, of course, was the United States.

The trade department estimates that on a per-capita basis Canada in the 12 months ended September last achieved $536 worth of trade for every man, woman and child in the country.

Second was Belgium, and the United States was far behind with only $173 per capita, less than one-third of Canada's effort.

But with a population of 155,000,000 compared with Canada's 14,000,000, the U.S. led the world in actual dollar value, with total foreign trade reaching $24, 915,000,000. The U.S. maintained her lead established during the last half-century.

Despite a small population Canada provided keen competition as one of the world's major trading nations, and even on the basis of total dollar value, ranked fourth as an exporter and importer.

The previous year, 1950, she ranked third, but France, gradually recovering from the devastation of war, slipped into the third slot last year.

An astounding fact disclosed by a comparison of trade by the world's 10 top traders is that Germany, hard-hit by the Second World War, is making a rapid comeback. She ranked fifth in world trade, behind Canada. Before the war she ranked third.

Here is the department's survey on exports and imports for the 12 months ended last September, with all values in U.S. dollars:

	Exports	Imports
U.S.	$13,974,000	$10,941,000
U.K.	$7,168,000	10,134,000
France	4,116,000	4,102,000
Canada	3,529,000	3,841,000
Germany	3,210,000	3,417,000
Belgium	2,466,000	2,471,000
Netherlands	1,851,000	2,525,000
Australia	2,228,000	1,814,000
Italy	1,517,000	1,928,000
Brazil	1,688,000	1,742,000

Canada achieved her world trading position with only three-fifths of one per cent of the world's population.

Movie Stars Find Way Dodge Taxes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20 (AP)—The topic most movie stars are talking about these days is not the academy awards—it's the "18-month club".

The "18-month club" is Hollywood slang for the group of movie personalities planning to take advantage of a new provision in the tax laws.

The 18-month plan provides that U.S. citizens who are bona fide residents of a foreign country for 510 days in an 18-month period are exempt from paying U.S. income taxes for that period.

The provision was intended to encourage oil and aircraft workers to accept foreign assignments. Now movie firms and agents have been studying the plan as a means of landing huge, virtually tax-free salaries for stars and directors. Of course, the talent would be required to pay income taxes in the countries where they reside, but in many lands that would be negligible.

One star will bring 400,000 tax-free dollars home after an 18-month movie - making spree abroad.

Club Members

Among members of the "18-month" club are Gene Kelly and directors Anatole Litvak and John Huston. Mario Lanza and Gregory Peck have been mulling plans to join.

Here is some of the comment about the plan:

Gregory Peck: "I have been thinking about it. I had already decided I wanted to get away from Hollywood for a while. I plan to go to the Olympic Games, and I might stay over in Europe and make some pictures . . . but I wouldn't make just any pictures in order to get the tax benefits. Two or three bad pictures in this business and you're washed up."

A business manager of the stars and former internal revenue agent—"There might be loopholes which the government could invoke. After all, there is a lot of difference between an oil worker who is needed at an American refinery in Arabia and a movie star who wants to take a tax-free vacation."

A top Hollywood lawyer—"A big agency is manoeuvring these 18-month deals, just as it did the production-company setups a few years back. And just as it happened before, the excesses will probably bring a government crackdown."

Canada Waiting Orders For New Anti-Tank Shells

By DOUGLAS HOW.

OTTAWA, Feb. 20 (CP). — Quantity production of Canada's spectacular and powerful new Sabot anti-tank shell for three countries may be near at hand.

It is the steel agreed upon as a standard military item by the United States, the United Kingdom and Canada last year, a development hailed as a sign that Canada can produce arms her allies will use.

The shell is said to be unsurpassed in its ability to penetrate armor.

Discussions looking to quantity production of the shell in Canada for all three countries have been going on. The U.K. in particular is said to be interested in placing a large order. A substantial U. S. order also is in the winds.

None of these discussions has yet reached the stage where Canadian factories have been told to go ahead and produce.

Meanwhile the army said Tuesday samples of the shell, developed by the Defence Research Board have been sent to Korea for use against the Reds.

Nobody seems to know what happened.

The chances are they have not been used against the enemy because the enemy hasn't been using tanks that they could be used against.

The shell's name Sabot comes from the fact that after it is fired an outer casing falls off in flight. The casing looks like a Dutch sabot or shoe.

The shell was tested thoroughly in Canada and apparently proved its worth to U.S. and U.K. observers.

Robber's Mother Faces Heartbreak

NEW YORK, Feb. 20—(AP)—The 79-year-old mother of bank robber Willis Sutton told Tuesday of the heartbreak that a criminal son can cause.

Mrs. Mary Sutton, white-haired and tiny, said:

"It's such a terrible thing for a mother—three children, two of them wonderful and never in trouble in their lives and the other one in trouble all these years.

"I just can't understand it."

She sat in the Brooklyn flat she shares with the other two children and looked over the papers telling of Willie's arrest Monday.

"Oh, my God," she moaned. "Now the neighbors will know. The one thing we've been afraid of is they'd find out I'm Willie Sutton's mother."

Mrs. Sutton was told that Willie had been living within two miles of her for five years.

"My goodness," she said softly, "and he never got in touch with me."

US Congressman Asks Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20 (AP)—Predicting another boost in newsprint prices, Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem., N.Y.) urged the Justice Department Tuesday to "carefully scrutinize" present and past actions of newsprint producers.

Celler made the request in a letter to Attorney-General J. Howard McGrath.

He said a monopoly sub-committee of the House of Representatives Judiciary Committee he heads "has discovered evidence of cartel practices on the part of many important newsprint manufacturers in fixing prices and allocating tonnages throughout various markets of the world."

Another increase in prices, he claimed, "will be additional evidence to substantiate the fact that these prices are determined by collusion, not by competition."

St. Lawrence Rapids Great Power Source

CHATHAM, Feb. 20 — (CP).—The hydro potential of the St. Lawrence River's international rapids is "a reproach in unharnessed power," Transport Minister Chevrier said Tuesday night.

Development of the rapids as part of the St. Lawrence seaway project, the minister said, would make 1,100,000 horse-power available to Canada and provide new supplies of low-cost electricity for Southern Ontario.

The minister spoke in an address prepared for delivery to the annual banquet of the Chatham Rotary Club.

"Without the St. Lawrence power, further resort must soon be had to steam generation at about twice the cost," he warned.

Guilty of Manslaughter

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP) — John B. MacPherson, 30, Tuesday was sentenced to eight months' imprisonment when found guilty of manslaughter. The charge was laid after Johannes Joosten, 8, a Dutch immigrant, was killed by an automobile Aug. 11.

Boosts Reforestation

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP) — Kenneth Clark, of Toronto, president of the Ontario Federation of Hunting and Anglers, suggested Tuesday night that tree farming might forestall Communist infiltration north of Toronto. He told the Agricultural Institute of Canada that physical, moral and mental degeneracy in economically-depressed areas could be remedied by improving the area economically with reforestation measures.

Preliminary Plans

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP)—C. G. R. Armstrong, president of the Association of Land Surveyors, said Tuesday that preliminary plans for an all-Canada seaway now are being made in the special projects branch of the Federal Transport Department. He told the 60th annual meeting of the Surveyors' Association that seaway plans "are progressing far ahead of expectations. Archibald Gillies, of Timmins, was elected vice-president of the association.

Trio Pleads Guilty

TIMMINS, Feb. 20 (CP)—Three Timmins youths pleaded guilty Tuesday to a joint charge of armed "toboggan" robbery of the Aunor Gold Mine a week ago. They were remanded one week for sentence. The three—Calvin Craik, 21, Kenneth Eastman, 19, and Reuben Utrianen, 20—were charged with robbing the mine of 10 bags of gold precipitates which were carted off on a toboggan.

Pen Trouble

DOUGLAS, Isle of Man, Feb. 20 —(Reuters). — Members of this island's Parliament, oldest legislature in the Commonwealth, had to sign their loyalty address to Queen Elizabeth II. a second time. The ancient quill pens they used last week leaked, making the signatures illegible. The members signed again Tuesday—using their own fountain pens.

Extend Import Cuts

PARIS, Feb. 29 (Reuters)—France Tuesday extended its drastic import cuts of Feb. 4 to include food, raw materials and other essential goods hitherto imported freely. All imports from countries belonging to the organization for European economic co-operation now will require licences, giving the government power to control imports in the light of available foreign currency.

Would Ban Liquor

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP)—The Ontario Temperance Federation Tuesday presented a brief to Premier Frost urging that liquor advertising be banned completely, that hours of liquor sale be curtailed and that liquor education be started in schools.

Mr. Kidd noticed thick smoke, so he thought, around the Canadian Legion hall. Mr. Kidd also saw a light on in the hall, and was positive there was something wrong. Police Chief Garnet Samis, who also saw the so-called fire, said he thought it was a real one, until he investigated closely.

Driver Awarded $257 Damages By County Court

A Peterborough county jury Tuesday afternoon awarded Albert Whetung, of Keene village, $257 in compensation for damages he received in a car accident on the Old Keene Road, October 13, 1951.

Whetung's car collided with another car driven by Robert Keitel, R.R. 3, Peterborough, on a bridge a quarter of a mile south of Highway 7. His vehicle was struck on the left rear wheel and it continued on up the road for 65 feet and then turned over in the ditch.

He was uninjured and so were the occupants of the other car.

The other car, though driven by Keitel, was owned by Jack Barrie, R.R. 3, Peterborough. Barrie and his wife were defendants, along with Keitel, in the action.

75 Per Cent Negligent

The jury found Keitel 75 per cent negligent and Whetung 25 per cent. Whetung had claimed $503 damage to his car but this was reduced by the jury to $343. So on the basis of Whetung being 25 per cent in the wrong, the jury awarded him $257 damages.

In his statement of claim Whetung also sued for $450, in compensation for stone-mason contracts he had lost while his car was being repaired. However, Judge J. A. McGibbon, acting county judge, dismissed these claims as "too remote."

While being cross-examined by B. J. Thomson, solicitor for Whetung, Mrs. Barrie fainted in the witness box. She had to be carried from the courtroom and was unable to resume testimony.

W. J. Arthur Fair, Q.C., represented the defendants who entered no counter-claim.

The jury found that Keitel had not kept a proper lookout and that he was driving on the wrong side of the road. And Whetung didn't have his car under control considering the speed he was travelling.

This civil action ended the adjourned general sessions of the peace, interrupted by the death of the late Judge S. L. Smoke.

On the jury were Robert G. Aman, Gilmour St.; John Mervin, Smith township; Joseph Primeau, Elcome Crescent; David McMahon, Douro township; David Ahern, Bolivar St.; Herbert McIlmoyle, Smith township; Blaine G. Till, King St.; Harry Peters, Asphodel township; Rollie Stockdale, Harvey township; Frederick G. Parsons, McCannan Ave.; Clifford Robertson, Downer's Corners, and Roy F. Roode, Braidwood Ave.

Israel Official Predicts End Of Tension In 3 Years

A Canadian-born official of the Israeli government predicted Tuesday night that the present state of cold war tension between his country and neighboring Arab states will end within three years. On leave from his position with the Israeli Ministry for Foreign Affairs, Pinchas E. Lapide, visited Peterborough on Tuesday and addressed the local women of Hadassah in the evening.

"There is no such thing as Arab-Jewish hatred," Mr. Lapide said in an interview. He is on a three-month speaking tour of Canada to raise money for the rehabilitation of 100,000 Jewish children, orphaned by Hitler's extermination policies, who are still scattered throughout Europe and the Middle East.

Stirring Up Trouble

Emphasizing that he was speaking as a private citizen and not as an official of the Israeli government, he compared Arab-Jewish tension to a young couple anxious to marry who are forbidden to do so by their parents. Politicians are stirring up animosity between countries of the Arab League and the new Jewish state he said.

"There are 175,000 Arab citizens in Israel," an important minority in a country of a million and a half, Mr. Lapide pointed out, and "there are five Arab members in the Israeli parliament."

"The surrounding Arab states and Israel have dove-tailing economies—each produces what the other needs. Israel is highly industrialized and lacking in farms. The Arab countries formerly nomads, now have taken to farming and have a great surplus of agricultural products."

Terming the present relations between Israel and the Arab world a "silly state of no war, no peace," Mr. Lapide said that today, Israel is producing everything from tooth brushes to motor cars.

Imported From U. S.

"However, in Beirouth, capital of Syria, these products are imported from New York and Montreal. At the same time, hundreds of tons of fresh fruit and vegetables, rot in the sun, 60 miles down the road from the Israeli port of Haifa. Through this port, we import food and export our industrial products to highly competitive markets in Scandinavia and England."

"We are both wasting dollars for what we could have swapped," said Mr. Lapide in summing up his opinion that self interest will bring about a change of heart on the part of Arab leaders.

"Loss of face is as important in the Middle East as it is in the Orient," and Mr. Lapide believes that many Arab politicians realize their countries are suffering by not following the sound economic policy of trading their agricultural surplus for Israeli manufactured goods.

New Leaders

He added that as soon as present government leaders in the Arab states are replaced by new men who can bring about closer relations without loss of personal prestige, an improvement in relations will result, and trade between the Arab states and Israel will be encouraged with benefit to all concerned.

Mr. Lapide was born in British Columbia and ran away to Israel when he was 15. He joined a Jewish agricultural settlement in upper Galilea and fought with the Jewish Brigade in the British Eighth Army during the North African campaigns of World War II.

Returning to Palestine after the war, he served with Israeli forces in the Arab-Jewish fighting and later joined the ministry of foreign affairs as assistant to the director of the consular division.

He and five other Israeli civil servants have been given three months' leave to rally support throughout the world and obtain funds to "wipe out the last residue of the Hitler legacy."

Of the 100,000 waifs, strays and orphans scattered throughout Europe and the Middle East, many are in Iron Curtain countries. The majority are children whose parents died in the gas chambers of Nazi concentration camps.

Born After 1939

Born after the outbreak of war in 1939, these children have never known normal human living conditions. "They fall between two

Police Salary Agreement Not Reached

Commission's Offer Turned Down, Delegation Disagrees

The Peterborough Police Commission and the bargaining committee of the Peterborough Police Association failed to reach agreement Tuesday after conferring for three hours.

Three points asked by the city police (bargaining from deputy-chief down) were:

'Add the equivalent of the 1951 cost-of-living bonus to the basic pay and maintain a cost-of-living bonus of one per cent pay increase for each one point rise in the government's index.

A 40-hour week instead of 44 hours.

Three weeks' holidays after 10 years' service; at present it is three weeks after 15 years' service.

Commission's Offer

Offer made by Mayor Hugh Waddell and Magistrate W. R. Philp, Q.C., before the meeting broke up at 7.15 p.m. was:

A flat increase of $350 to everybody in the bargaining unit, plus a bonus of one per cent for each 1.5 rise in the cost-of-living index.

Also three weeks' holidays after 10 years' service.

No change in the work week.

The police commission's offer would raise the basic salary of a 1st Class constable from $2,850 to $3,200.

"This brings him within $80 of Kitchener and Brantford," said Magistrate Philp. "And he is $175 over a similar constable in Kingston, and $350 over one in St. Thomas"

Still using a 1st Class constable as an example, Magistrate Philp said: "The one per cent for every 1.5 rise protects us both in case of any violent fluctuation. At the same time you are protected from dropping below $3,200 by your basic pay."

(The cost-of-living bonus would be based on the January 1 index figure of 191.5.)

"Good Offer"

"Personally, I think it's a good offer," said Constable Douglas Farthing, one of the three-man bargaining committee.

But Constables Eldon McDonald and Harold Andrew disagreed.

"Give us a straight $500 across the board in lieu of the change from one per cent for each one point rise in the cost of living," said Constable McDonald. "Then you can forget about the cost-of-living bonus."

He contended that the police

Ontario Horticulturists To Honor Mrs. G. K. Fraser

Mrs. G. K. Fraser, president of Peterborough Horticultural Society, will be honored by the Ontario Horticultural Association at its annual convention in Toronto Thursday, March 6. The Association's Diploma of Merit and silver medal for "Leadership in the field of Horticulture," will be presented to Mrs. Fraser at the convention banquet in the King Edward hotel.

This award is made only on the recommendation of the provincial association to the person contributing most leadership in horticulture.

First In District

Mrs. Fraser is the first person in the entire district to receive the honor. She has been president of Peterborough Horticultural Association for years, and as a director of Peterborough Exhibition has been chiefly engaged in promoting its flower show.

Incidentally, at the meeting of the local society Monday, Feb. 25 at the Y.W.C.A., the speaker will be Mr. C. V. Phillips who has been for years warden of the National Park north of Prince Albert, Sask. He is here on an extended holiday and has a fine collection of horticultural pictures with which he will illustrate his address.

Who Should Pay For Car Storage?

Who pays for the cost of storage when a suspect has his car impounded by city police? And who is liable if the car is damaged while being stored?

These two questions were pondered briefly by the Police Commission Tuesday afternoon.

If the suspect is proven guilty then there is no problem. He pays. The storage charge is considered a lien on his car.

But if the suspect is proved innocent—what then? City Clerk E. A Outram was sure that, as long as the police acted in good faith, the suspect must still pay. Magistrate W. R. Philp, QC, was inclined to go along with this, but said the legal basis should be investigated a little further.

Impounded cars used to be left outside the old police station, by the market square. Now they are taken away and stored.

Car Damaged

The discussion started when a letter was received from a local solicitor indicating that his client's car, impounded by the police, had sustained $90 damage. Several fixtures were said to be missing.

Chief Thompson said the car had been stored by police at a local garage.

"I don't see how the police department can be considered responsible," said Chief Thompson.

Both Mayor Hugh Waddell and Magistrate Philp agreed and instructed the clerk to tell the solicitor so.

A brief on the whole subject of handling impounded motor vehicles will be presented by City Clerk Outram at the next meeting of the Police Commission.

Fell Through Ice Saves Rescuer

BANCROFT, Feb. 20 (ENS).—When Richard Peever fell through the ice into the York River Monday night, he had to rescue both himself and a pal Herb Spence, who tried to help him.

Peever and Spence were crossing the river just below the Station Road bridge, with Spence leading. The thin ice cracked and down went Peever into 20 feet of dark, fast-running icy water.

Yelling for help, his companion tried to pull Peever on the treacherous ice, but instead it cracked and the two went in over their heads. In order to escape the grip of his struggling companion, young Peever wearing a leather reinforced mackinaw coat had to dive below the surface for a few seconds. With Spence clutching his soaked clothing, he managed to break a path to thicker ice and crawl to shore.

Russell Creighton, Bancroft's police chief, who was directing traffic at the nearby arena, yelled directions from the bridge a few feet away as the ice was too thin to support his weight. After the rescue Mr. Creighton drove the shivering, half-frozen boys home.

Smash Betting Ring With 20 Raids

DETROIT, Feb. 20 (CP) — A large pari-mutual betting ring was smashed after a nine-hour series of raids on 20 places in the city, police said today. The ring was reputed to do a $20,000-a-day business.

They said they had arrested 22 men and 19 women in the raids. Seized were 12 late-model automobiles, nine pistols, $2,412 in cash and $75,000 in betting slips.

Police said they had been gathering evidence on the gang's operations for a year.

Wrong Attitude Harms Work Of Children's Aid

"The Children's Aid Society is too often used as the 'big stick,'" Miss Rachael Young, superintendent of the Peterborough Children's Aid Society said Tuesday in a complaint that not only mothers, but others in the community interpret the society's service not as something constructive, but as something to fear.

Miss Young was making her report to the society's board of directors at their regular monthly meeting.

As an example of the society's work being used this way, Miss Young referred to a visit made recently to a home in the city.

She explained that while a staff worker was in the home, a mother told her child, who was slightly disobedient that if she didn't behave, the worker would take her away.

"We do wonder," Miss Young continued, "if these people recognize the damage they do to their children by the groundless fears aroused in the child's mind and by the disrespect which these children have for their parents when they find the threat is without foundation."

Miss Young reported that 17 families were referred to the society during January by neighbors, lawyers, relatives, landlord, anonymously and eight were personal applications.

"While, as a society, it is our policy to investigate any complaint, the services of our society are less helpful when the name of the complainant cannot be used," the superintendent explained. There is no way of checking if a complaint is denied.

Miss Young went on to report that 153 office interviews had been held during the month and 431 visits made by the society's staff. Five children were made wards; two adoptions were completed and one ward reached her majority.

Nine unmarried parents cases were referred to the society service.

Staff members attended 46 hearings in Family Court of which 10 were in Juvenile Court.

During the month 322 cases were under the supervision of the society. Family situations totalled 144; 135 were children under care and 43 were unmarried parent cases.

Lacrosse Petes Win Exhibition Hockey

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 20 — (ENS).—Members of the Peterborough Petes senior lacrosse Canadian champions defeated a Campbellford team in an exhibition hockey game Tuesday night to raise funds for the Campbellford Arena.

Only a small crowd came out to see the event.

After the short hockey game, which the Petes won 10-5, the teams were mixed up and a lacrosse game was played on skates. The game was not played too seriously and everyone enjoyed the horseplay.

Deadlock Ahead!

Our Hero's Teetering On The Brink

By JIM ENGLISH

After plowing through fire, water, war and general danger, Steve Canyon has wound up in a pretty kettle of fish. It won't take too close a look at the comics to prove it, either.

This Summer Olsen has got her hooks into him, and if Canyon steps smartly forward another three paces, he'll walk smack into holy deadlock. This is nothing against marriage, except that on Canyon it won't look good.

For some time, he's been a dashing, bachelor-type hero, surviving more encounters with weapons and women than you'd care to shake a stick at. To date, war and the women have gone hitless, although in the latter bracket there've been a couple of near Mrs.'s.

On the other hand, Canyon is batting 1.000.

Settle Down?

Now he'll have to settle down and get a good office job and worry himself into ulcers the size of tractor tires to keep the family in meat and potatoes.

Can you picture Canyon fielding a porringer of unsalted porridge, or an over-sizzled steak? Nope.

Worst of all, can you imagine Canyon without his medals and his dreamy flyer's hat, bobbing his receding hairline over a large, flat desk? Again, uh-uh!

He was a grand Canyon while he lasted, but there's a black future, about the color of burned toast, ahead.

Remember when he was drifting about on the ocean with the Duchess of Denver, and she went wingy and tried to wrap an oar around his ears? That doesn't happen to married-type heroes. They don't go out in a boat with another woman.

And then there was the time he was flying with Doe Redwood. Now there was a girl with talent for you. What stenographer could handle a P-51 the way she did?

An Out?

And of course, you couldn't ever forget the time he . . . what's the use? The boy is trapped and there's no way out. Maybe there is, but it's such a long chance it could happen only in the comic strips.

Here's the gimmick, for the purpose of raising hopes among members of the Let's Keep Canyon Single Society:

Summer Olsen's husband, who has been missing since the good old days when he and our boy Steve were flying for the Chinese nationalists, could just turn up alive. Alive, that is, after wandering through miles of enemy country, starving in tiny huts with Chinese peasants.

While he's getting home, Summer and Steve have taken out the license, bought the ring, planned their house, their honeymoon, their future and their first meal, and are generally well on the way.

Twelve heart-rending weeks later, Oley Olsen turns up. Summer faints dead away, the little kid tears his crib apart, and our boy Steve walks off into the sunset that men who want to forget always walk off into.

That's the kind of theory that keeps comic strip artists in Cadillacs and $50 bills.

But if Canyon does marry the girl, I'm going to quit reading the strip, except on weekdays.

The final Pay Parade for the year 1951 will be held at the Armouries on Thursday, Feb. 21, 1952, at 2000 hours.

The president spoke for a few moments on the blessings which members of a British Dominion have been privileged to enjoy under the reign of the late beloved Sovereign King George VI, and a minute's silence followed in grateful memory. Miscellaneous business was attended to, and it was unanimously agreed that the allocation be met by free-will offerings this year.

Mrs. Boyd served a dainty lunch and was thanked by Mrs. Stewart Finnie.

Been Eavesdropping Lately

You hear it everywhere . . . in the shops, on the buses, at the super-market, on the telephone: "I wish I could think of something different for dinner". But pending an invasion from Mars or a wondrous new discovery from plant breeders, differences will have to be new twists of old favorites.

Did you ever, for instance, combine green beans with celery like this:

Green Beans With Crunchy Celery: Serves 4

One pound green beans, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 cup finely diced celery, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt.

Wash beans and french, if desired. Cook until tender in a little boiling salted water. Melt butter, add celery, saute about 3 minutes, or until hot but still crisp. Toss with green beans.

On a cold wintry night, if there's anything better than a roaring fire, it's a bowl of hot soup. Especially if you're hungry.

Celery Olive Consomme: Serves 4

1 can condensed consomme, 1 can water, 2/3 cup finely diced celery, 1 small onion chopped, ¼ cup chopped stuffed olives, 2 teaspoons lemon juice, ¼ cup cream, 1 teaspoon flour.

Add water to consomme and heat to boiling. Add celery and onion and simmer ½ hour. Add olives and lemon juice. Blend flour with cream and add to soup. Simmer very gently about 10 minutes. Serve garnished with sliced stuffed olives.

And a savory casserole dish for supper or lunch:

Celery Mushroom Casserole: Serves 4

Three cups diced celery, ½ can cream of chicken soup, ½ cup gtated Canadian cheese, ¾ cup sliced fresh mushrooms, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 cup cracker crumbs.

Cook celery in boiling salted water until just tender. Drain. Saute mushrooms in butter. Mix with celery and soup. Pour half into greased casserole. Cover with half of cheese. Pour in rest of celery mixture. Top with remaining cheese. Sprinkle with crumbs. Bake at 350° until bubbly.

Collection To Buy Christmas Gifts

Trinity W.M.S. meeting was held in the church parlour Tuesday afternoon. President Mrs. B. McFadden opened with the Call to Worship, "Blessed is the nation whose God is the Lord." Scripture readings were by Mrs. W. T. Cox, Mrs. W. Edmondson and Mrs. S. D. Carver. Mrs. H. T. Crosbie in giving the prayer asked silent prayer for the late King George VI. and also for two members who have died since last meeting, Mrs. A. Stanley and Mrs. Moore.

Mrs. J. N. Perry, corresponding secretary, reported on the number of cards and letters written and Mrs. W. Edmondson on the number of calls and attendance.

A special collection was taken to buy Christmas gifts for children in the north western part of Canada to be included with the bale sent from the Presbyterial.

Mrs. McFadden welcomed the members of Elizabeth Parker Evening Auxiliary and the Federated Group to this meeting. An appeal was made for assistance in the building of the new Training School in Toronto.

Mrs. H. T. Crosbie consented to read the scripture at the World Day of Prayer meeting.

Reports were read by Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy, Mrs. C. Spearin, and Mrs. Al Legon on the recent Presbyterial meetings.

A film was shown by Mrs. W. T. Fanjoy, with commentary by Mrs. A. Legon, entitled "From Sea to Sea with the United church in Canada," making clearer the study book for this year.

Mrs. H. T. Rehill, literature secretary gave a resume of some of the books available.

A pleasant social time was enjoyed with the guests after the meeting when Mrs. A. Legon and her group served refreshments.

ANCIENT DEVICE

The astrolabe for calculating time and latitude was invented by the Greeks, 2,000 years ago.

Dress May Take Lead Over Suit

NEW YORK.—News in the New York spring collections centres about changes in skirts and sleeves, waistlines and jackets, and the eager desire of the dress to nudge, and, if it possibly can, budge the tailored suit from in established style position in the American way of life.

Skirts concern themselves not so much with length this season as with width. The shape of the skirt keys the silhouette. Full skirts fluffed out over crinolines will continue and become more in evidence as summer invites their dancing coolness.

Fashion Flashes

HANDSOME and original ensembles dominate important spring collections. From one famous house comes a loose and moderately full coat done in salt and pepper tweed with wide black braid outlining the mandarin neckline and fronts. Self fabric ties fasten the coat, which has a lining of taffeta in bright green to match the color of the simply - styled sheen gabardine dress.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE EASY LOOK prevades in casual straw hats soon coming along for spring. Red, white and blue straws, woven in a checkerboard design, make a pretty little casual done on soft lines — with a turned-down, curved brim that is pleated at intervals for a rippled effect.

✧ ✧ ✧

WE NOTE more than a passing interest in the corde handbag, for it appears in several collections, as well as being shown in all-corde groups. Borrowed from the leather bag is a rectangular corde box with basket style handles and a gilt metal frame. And, for an extra touch, it is leather-lined.

MOISTURE CONTENT

The water content of many foods is surprisingly high with porterhouse steak for instance being about 60 per cent water.

Offer Variations

LONDON, Eng.—In Britain six variations of the jersey dress come into the spring utility range which is sold without purchase tax. All-round unpressed pleats give fullness to some skirts, while others are smoothly flared. The tiny turtleneck rolled over appears on some models, others have a mandarin collar, but most have a round or "vee" neck edged with ribbing.

Ask Poor Housekeeping Made Liable To Court Action

LONDON, Feb. 20 (Reuters)—If a woman's housekeeping is deliberately sloppy, she should be liable to court action. That is how the Married Women's Association sees it, anyway.

The association also proposes that "permanent sexual maladjustment" should be legal grounds for divorce.

These and other far-reaching proposals are included in a 14-page brief submitted today by the association to the Royal Commission on Marriage and Divorce.

The commission, formed last year to examine possible improvements in Britain's marriage and divorce laws, has enough briefs on hand to keep it busy until after Easter.

Other proposals of the Married Women's Association include:

A wife with income of her own should be obliged to contribute to the upkeep of the home.

A wife should have a fixed personal allowance based on her husband's income. However, "excessive expenditure upon gambling, smoking, alcoholic indulgence and the like shall not be deemed a proper outlay of such allowance."

Consistent use by either partner of contraceptive devices or methods should be grounds for declaring a marriage void.

Palm Beach Scout Reports On New Shoe Effects

Foot fashions, like feet, rarely stand still, and the latest rage reported by style scouts stationed in Palm Springs and Palm Beach are shoes with naked back effects. To aid fit, these elegant new shoes are lasted on clean-edged leather soles that conform to the natural contours of the foot, and are equipped with either very narrow strippings or slim straps around the back. More venturesome designers have conjured up models dispensing with either straps or strippings, designated with rare originality as "strip-tease exit," and "cool heel."

The extremely tapered toe that made a rather tentative entry last fall has caught on with a vengeance. Fashion pundits explain that the emergence of the shaped toe is part of the revival of greater elegance and Victorian feminity in clothes.

Aristocrat

We're also told that the long, narrow foot is the mark of the aristocrat. Right or wrong, here is good news on the comfort front; along with the long narrow look comes a "natural" feeling in shoes that contrast with the bone-crushers of yore. It is accomplished through the use of very pliant soles of genuine leather and uppers that fit as smoothly as gloves.

New styling has finally descended to the heels, and you'll see oodles of little, curved Louis types this season. Also shown are French or Spanish heels. No matter what their name, they all come in medium or midget heights and feature deep curves in back, flaring out at the heel lift and extending at the lip. Heels of all heights have been slimmed down for that daintier, more feminine look. Slight curves are featured for medium and low-heeled walking shoes and combined with finely-tooled leather soles, they create a subtle touch of elegance.

First Lady Of The Yukon Is Nearing 86th Birthday

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. —(CP) — Mrs. George Black, only American-born woman to sit in Canada's House of Commons, will celebrate her 86th birthday on Feb. 24.

"It is always difficult for me to realize that my life has been in any way unusual," the snowy-haired first lady of the Yukon said in a recent interview. "Possibly or probably, because I was taught by my parents, grandparents and the sisters of Notre Dame in Indiana (where I attended school for five years) and all taught me that our real duty was to meet each day to the best of our ability."

Life, said Chicago-born Mrs. Black, "has been a great experience." But she said she wouldn't like to live it over.

"I would probably make many more mistakes," she explained.

MRS. GEORGE BLACK

For 54 years the Yukon has been Martha Black's home. As the wife of George Black, former Conservative member of Parliament for the Yukon, she became familiar with life in Ottawa.

When her husband became ill Mrs. Black ran for election in his place and was elected to the House of Commons in 1935 where she remained until the general election of 1940.

In 1947 Mrs. Black was made a fellow of the Royal Geographical Society, London, England, for her overseas war work and lectures on the Klondike Gold fields.

She was awarded the Order of the British Empire in 1946 for her cultural and social contributions of the Yukon.

In 1912 she organized two chapters of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire and is a life member of the National Chapter. Some years later a third chapter was formed at Dawson and named in her honor, the Martha Munger Black Chapter.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Swiss Steak Offered Special-Purpose Menu

Attention Eileen M.—Dinner for Mid-Week Guests:

Fruit Cup Mixture in Grapefruit Cups (see notes)
Swiss Steak
Corn Fritters
New Beets Sliced
Ice-Box Lemon Pie
Coffee

Directions

The Corn Fritters are for Eileen M. She'll let you all share them though—I can tell from the nice letter she wrote. She gave me a recipe for Baked Frankfurters and Corn which I will try and pass on to you.

Use the leftover shells of halved grapefruit — used for breakfast and washed and for part of the fruit cup mixture—to hold your fruit. Top it with a halved maraschino cherry. Serve icy cold.

Swiss Steak

Buy a piece of round steak weighing 1½ lbs. cut 1½ inches thick. Mix together ¼ cup flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, and pound this into 1 side of the steak with steak pounder or side of saucer. Turn over and pound remaining flour into other side. Be sure all of the flour mixture is used up. In a large heavy frying pan melt 2 tablespoons fat or heat 2 tablespoons salad oil, and brown the beef in it quickly on both sides. Then add: 1½ cups canned tomatoes, 3 large onions, peeled and sliced, 1 finely chopped outer stalk of celery, 1 minced and peeled clove of garlic, 1 tablespoon thick condiment sauce. Cover and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 2½ hours or simmer on top of stove. Uncover for last few minutes to allow sauce to become thick. This is wonderful with mashed potatoes or fluffy boiled rice too.

Round steak may be even lower in price by the time this reaches you (it is 87 cents as I write this), but isn't it a relief to see the price of anything come down?

Corn Fritters

Three eggs, yolks and whites separated, 1 and two-thirds cups cooked or canned kernel corn, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ cup sifted flour, about 6 tablespoons fat or salad oil. Beat egg yolks until very light, then add the corn, seasonings and flour to them. Beat egg whites stiff and fold them in. Drop by spoonfuls into hot fat in medium-sized frying-pan. Turn over when under side is brown. These are often served with butter and syrup, but when beef gravy is around I want a little on them—so use your Swiss steak gravy for this.

Ice-Box Lemon Pie

This is made in a baked pastry shell or in a graham cracker shell (see below). One can sweetened condensed milk, one-third cup lemon juice (or lime juice), 2 egg yolks, 1½ cups well-drained crushed pineapple, 1 cup whipping cream, slightly sweetened. Stir the lemon juice into the condensed milk. The mixture will thicken. Beat the yolks thoroughly and add the milk and juice mixture to them. Beat a minute longer. Add the drained fruit and pour into prepared crust. Spread with the whipped and sweetened cream. Garnish with sliced cherries. Chill at least 4 hours or overnight.

Graham Cracker Crust

Mix together 1 cup finely rolled graham cracker crumbs, ¼ cup sugar, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Work into them 1½ tablespoons butter or margarine. Measure out 2 tablespoons of the left-over egg whites and beat them slightly then stir them into the mixture. Line a 9-inch buttered pie plate with this mixture, pressing it firmly to fit plate. Bake 5 minutes at 350 deg. Fahr. Cool.

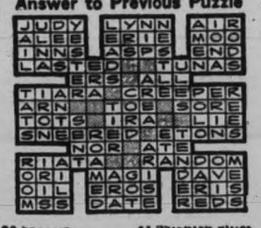
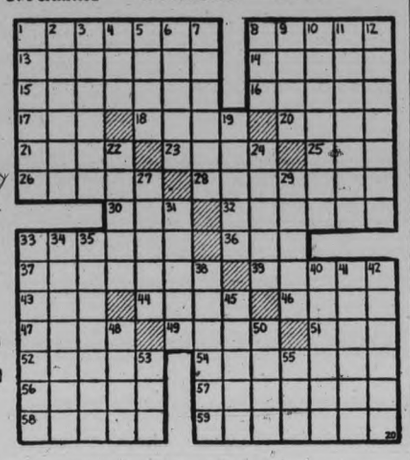
Answer to Previous Puzzle





DOROTHY DIX

Men Often Wed Second Time To Get Cheap Housekeeper

DEAR MISS DIX: Three years ago I began going with Bert; at that time he told me he loved me and asked me to marry him. Of course he is married, but said he was getting a divorce. On several occasions he told me he had started divorce proceedings, but I know he never did. He claims that, although he and his wife share the same house, they do not live together as husband and wife. He comes and goes as a single man—an arrangement he says has been going on for sixteen years.

Now he is also dating a woman who works with him. Several times when he said he was working late at the office, I have seen them together in a tavern or at her house. He has made many promises to me that haven't been kept. I have given up friends he didn't like; I gave up a job because my working hours conflicted with the time he wanted to spend with me and now I have no one but him. I love him very much and keep hoping the situation will change for the better. Right now I don't see much future for us.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You have got yourself into a sorry mess and the best thing to do is face the issue squarely, realize what you have to do, and do it. I appreciate the fact that life isn't as simple as this short solution sounds, but honestly, Edna, prolonging your present way of life will lead to nothing but greater heartbreak.

Face Facts

You know perfectly well by now that your sweetheart has no intention of getting a divorce. It's hard to admit this, even to yourself, but there simply is no other possibility. Get back to work, and build a new life for yourself throwing away even the ashes of the old one.

You are still a comparatively young woman and need not despair of the future. A man who would give three women as bad a deal as this man has can't have anything to evoke respect or admiration from anyone.

Jobs are not hard to find today, and if you are attractive enough to please one man, I'm sure you'll find others who will make much better companions.

All other considerations aside, doesn't the immorality of your life bother you? There is such a thing as sin, you know, and you can't go through life disregarding the fundamental principles of decent living without eventually paying a price. If you get out of this affair now, you'll be evading most of the tragedy that is bound to overtake you in time. Perhaps you will be lonesome and blue at times, but peace of mind and a greater chance for happiness in the right kind of life, perhaps with a decent man, will be your reward.

DEAR MISS DIX: I married John, a widower with three children. He does well at his profession, so money is no problem. He's a hard worker and a good provider, but is self-centered, inconsiderate and selfish as far as I am concerned. Although I love him, there are times when I am humiliated at the way he treats me. There's nothing he wouldn't do for his children or family, while I do all the housework and laundry and never have a cent to my name. I never go to a hairdresser, for I have no money, and look so shabby for want of clothes I'm ashamed to go out at all. What can I do?

SUZZIE V.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I'm afraid, Suzzie, that you share the fate of many second wives, namely, your husband married you simply to acquire a cheap housekeeper. This is one of the pitfalls to consider whenever a widower with children courts a capable woman. If you don't have the respect of your husband, you surely won't get any from his children. The minute they are grown you'll be out of a job and a younger woman will be ready to step into your shoes. Forestall that issue, and set out for yourself if you want any future at all.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I'm 19 and very much in love with a boy of 20. We went steady for six years until last summer, when we broke up because I moved to another city to work. I went out with other boys, he dated other girls, but we finally decided to resume our friendship where we left off. Now he is going to another city to school and I am worried. He's handsome and can have all the dates he wants. He comes home every week end but I know nothing of what goes on during the week. Perhaps I just have a jealous nature but I just can't trust him.

WANDA G.

ANSWER: Since faith is the essence of love, you can't have the devotion to your boy friend you think you have if you don't trust him.

After all, since you are admittedly pretty and not adverse to dates yourself, he has as much right to mistrust you as you have to doubt him. If you can't believe in each other during forced separations, your chances of a happy marriage are practically nil. Furthermore, a student doesn't have too much time to go out during the week; classes and study keep him pretty busy.

Revise your own thinking, and if you can't emerge with a more trustful attitude, better make another—and permanent—break with your young man.

What's Right?

Sudbury Recommends Fluorination Plant

SUDBURY, Feb. 20 — (CP) — Sudbury Board of Health Tuesday night recommended to city council that a plant be installed for fluorination of the city's drinking water in an effort to cut down tooth decay.

Capital cost of installing such equipment would be about $6,000 and it would operate somewhat like the chlorination of the present water supply. The annual cost would be approximately $4,000, or around eight cents per capita.

Dr. J. B. Cook, City Medical Officer of Health, presented figures to show that an annual saving of $23,400 in children's dental bills is possible if the system is adopted.

"I've been completely sold on fluorination of water for the past five years," he said. "Brantford's results in fluorination are out and they have a marked decrease in tooth decay there. I think we should push this."

Mrs. Norman Miller Buried In City

The funeral service for Mrs. Norman Miller of Toronto, the former Edna Pringle and one-time soprano soloist in Trinity United Church, Peterborough, was held Saturday.

Mrs. Miller died Thursday after a long illness. She was well-known in Newmarket as well as Peterborough as a church and concert soloist and pianist and as a teacher of voice and piano.

A resident of Los Angeles, California, for many years, Mrs. Miller was a member of the Opera and Fine Arts Club, the MacDowell Music Philharmonic Orchestra, the Women's Symphony Orchestra and the Hollywood Bowl Association. She was also chairman of the Parent Teachers' Association for the Los Angeles System for a period.

Surviving are her husband and two sons, Calvin St. Clair Miller of St. Thomas and Gordon Seymour Miller of Toronto.

Disabled Freighter Reaches Safety

NEW YORK, Feb. 20 — (AP)— The U. S. coast guard reported today that the disabled freighter Helen Stevenson had made a safe anchorage off Bermuda after wallowing in rough seas with her main deck cracked.

The 7,266-ton ship, with 35 aboard, reached Bermuda late on Tuesday night with the coast guard cutter Dexter as an escort.

A storm started battering the Helen Stevenson about two days ago when it was approximately 200 miles northwest of Bermuda. One report said the vessel was in danger of splitting in two.

Mrs. George Newton

HAVELOCK, Feb. 20—(ENS)—Funeral of Mrs. George Newton, of Belmont township, held under the auspices of the Lady McGill L.O.B.A. No. 471 and Crystal Chapter No. 36 L.O.A., was the largest ever held in this district. The Havelock United Church, where the service was held, conducted by the Rev. R. G. Newman, was crowded to the doors.

"Let not your heart be troubled" was the text on which Mr. Newman based his sermon. Burial was in Maple Grove cemetery.

Pallbearers were members of the Royal Black Preceptory: James H. Toms, Robert Peoples, Gordon Newton, Gordon Stevenson, Gordon Stinson and Thomas Anderson.

Flower bearers were: George Toms, Randal Toms, Gordon Toms, Willard Newton, Garfield Newton, Russell Menzies, Russell Keating, Burrell Keating, Theodore McArthur, Carl Free, Everett Gratton, Robert Wrightly, Gerald Wrightly and Ivan Ellis. Many friends attended from a distance.

Britons Want To Start Again Seek New Hope In Elizabeth

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Feb. 20 (CP)—Historians may remember the early days of Queen Elizabeth's reign as a time when Britons rose and snapped their fingers at the past.

Amid heartfelt mourning for the King, there gleamed a slender, irrational hope—a feeling bred in the bones that maybe Britain, having reached greatness under three queens, could look forward to doing so again.

The national mood was reflected in newspaper correspondence columns, in street-corner conversations, in earnest editorials pleading for a revival of religious feeling, for a new code of moral values, for longer and harder work.

One newspaper ran a series on the "New Elizabethans," profiles of blithe young spirits who would lead Britain back to a golden age in which the pound would be paramount and the imperial crown again a thing of beauty.

Deeply Rooted Discontent

As a psychological phenomenon, this wishful surge of sentiment, as it were a spiritual sigh, perhaps reflected more clearly than anything else a deeply-rooted discontent with the last 12 nagging years of anxiety and conflict, of crisis and frustration. John Bull wanted to start again from scratch.

What are the chances? Are things really as bad as they seem, or can Britain come back? The writers who asked these questions all agreed it can be done, given certain conditions.

New Spirit Needed

The Weekly Economist, for instance considered that if the people could respond with the spirit they showed under the great queens of the past, "hopefulness would be sobriety and optimism would be wisdom."

Arthur Bryant, author of "The Age of Elegance," reviewed the spacious ages of Queen Elizabeth I, Anne and Victoria, and predicted that under the second Elizabeth embodying the tradition and heritage of a thousand years, Britain would "show the world that it can equal and surpass the highest achievements of its ancestors."

Possibly not all observers would be so hopeful. The fact is that this trading nation faces an era of economic nationalism and economic self-sufficiency. The day of cheap food imports, part of the success story in the days of the industrial revolution, seems to be gone for good.

Things would be tough whatever happened. What perhaps complicates the picture, in view of many disinterested observers, is that a time when united national effort is needed people are more intent on individual rights and wrongs. Old grievances die hard; what the economist calls the "Bitterness bred in the sufferings of the '30s" helps justify restrictive practices in industry.

There are other problems, such as the government's difficulty in imposing really severe austerities against strong parliamentary opposition, and the gap between the thinking of those who know what should be done and those who only know what they would like to have done. If the Elizabethan spirit really is to be revived, it must overcome many obstacles.

$2,614,699 Taken In By Peterborough In 1951

Peterborough's municipal revenue amounted last year to $2,614,896.78.

Expenditure totalled $2,620,596.70 —leaving a deficit for 1951 at $5,699.92, as reported a week or so ago.

These are a few general figures from the operating statement of City Treasurer A. S. Couper, affording the taxpayer glimpses of his affairs as carried on by his elected deputies.

The estimated revenue was $2,571,732.57 or $43,164.21 more than the actual. Some items that exceeded their estimates amounted to $50,121.31, and others that were below the estimates totalled $4,132.89. The net excess obtained that way was the same sum of $43,164.21.

Total expenditure was $2,620,596.70 as compared with the estimated expenditure of $2,559,610.58, or $111,807.73 more than was anticipated. Items of less than expected expenditure totalled $50,821.61.

Net excess of actual expenditure over the estimated was $60,986.12.

Items of Revenue

Some of the details in the revenue column are quoted as follows:

1951 taxes, $2,189,407.84.

Central Mort. (in lieu of taxes), $33,327.26.

Revenue from funded debt — Utilities' debentures, $106,740.26, and schools debentures, $24,725.26.

Interest on tax arrears, $4,982.16.

Poll tax, $4,185.16.

Licenses fees, etc. — Rentals, $22,265.54, as against the estimated $19,000; bus franchise, $14,134, or $1,134 more than the estimated $13,000; police court fines, $27,678.62, as against the estimated $22,000; parking meters, $32,981.43, which was $981 more than was estimated; market tolls, $2,212, as against $2,000 estimated.

Rental, Licence Totals

There were several other license items in those brackets. Total of all rentals, licenses, etc., was $111,571.10, or $13,871 more revenue than the estimated $97,700.

Another group includes such items as provincial subsidies, Liquor Control Board, etc. They amounted to $139,957.80, as compared with the $109,150 estimated amount, a revenue excess of $30,807.

Some of the details were: Provincial subsidy on fire and police department costs, $37,770.09; road subsidy, $39,878.31; Children's Aid, $5,709.53.

Liquor Control Board, $8,201. County registrar, $2,196.33.

Sale of properties brought in $12,540.

On the expenditure side of the statement, summaries were: General administration, $150,818.95; protection of persons and property, $408,191.66.

Health and sanitation, $166,780.46.

Highways and streets, $270,799.84.

Parks and recreation, $83,948.98.

Public Library and market, $46,975.21.

Social services, hospitals, etc., $278,923.42.

Education, $639,172.91.

Debenture debt charges, $509,350.

Miscellaneous, $65,635.27.

And, the total again, $2,620,596.70.

No Agreement

are better off under the old agreement where their salaris are tied to the January 1, 1951, cost-of-living index.

By December the police were getting the full benefit of their clause that gave them a one per cent increase in pay for each one point rise in the index. During the year the index went up 19 points.

Will Lose Money

Calculated on this basis, Constable McDonald argued, the men will lose money if the new formula is introduced.

In their negotiations they have one trump card: the Police Act states that the old agreement remains in effect until a new one is reached.

(Last year, a 1st Class constable actually received $3,148, including the cost-of-living vbonus.)

"Nobody could foresee what was going to take place in January, 1951," said Magistrate Philp. "We might have thought it would go up a few points . . . nobody could foresee that it would go up 17 points."

Wants 40-Hour Week

Constable Andrew pressed hard for a reduction of the work week from 44 to 40 hours. He thought that more important than lowering the years of service limit on three wekks' holidays.

Magistrate Philp estimated that at least eight more men would be needed on the police force if the 40-hour week were introduced.

"I don't think an arbitration board would think that reasonable," he said.

Mayor Waddell agreed.

Constable Farthing argued for lowering the eligibility for a three-week vacation from 15 years' service to 10 years.

"A policeman is on duty 24 hours of the day," said Constable Farthing, "regardless of whether it's a 40 or 48 hour week. He can't leave the city without the permission of the chief or deputy chief. Police court cases often fall on his days off and sometimes he has to get out of bed to go down to court and testify.

"A policeman can't gauge his days off and he can't plan a holiday. Sometimes he is called off his holiday to attend police court."

He added that in industry there is compensation for night work.

"There's a lot of merit in that point of view," commented Magistrate Philp.

Encourage Men

By lowering the length of service so a policeman can get three weeks' holidays after 10 years' service, the Police Commission can hold the men to their jobs, said Constable Farthing.

"It would give them something to look forward to."

"You'll walk a long way around this city in the next five years," this city in th enext five years.," said Constable Andrew who was more interested in the 40-hour week.

The final Police Commission offer, before adjournment, was the straight $350 added to the basic pay and the cost-of-living clause. They also granted the request for three weeks' holiday after ten years' service.

"On this basis we would be better off to maintain last year's agreement," said Constable McDonald.

"But that agreement was made under peculiar circumstances," replied Magistrate Philp. "I think this is a fair offer."

Mayor Waddell said he, too, thought the offer was fair.

"I can't see cutting our salaries," continued Constable McDonald.

"I move we accept," said Constable Farthing. His two fellow committee members disagreed.

"No, I can't accept that," said Constable McDonald.

"Nor I," said Constable Andrew. "If the 40-hour week had been thrown in to compensate for the loss of money then I'd agree."

Another meeting will probably be held Tuesday morning. The Police Commission want the matter settled as soon as possible so the estimates can be submitted by March 4.

Newspaperman Dies

TORONTO, Feb. 20 — (CP) — Laurence (Laurie) Ellis Roe, 61, on the editorial staff of the Globe and Mail since 1934, died Tuesday. He began his newspaper career on The Daily News of Hull, England, and often recalled having been a reporter at a dinner celebrating the launching of the Titanic.

NEW POSTMASTER-GENERAL — Alcide Cote, Liberal member of parliament for St. Jean - Iberville, Napierville, Que., has been appointed to succeed Postmaster - General Rinfret. Mr. Rinfret has been named to the Quebec court of Queen's Bench. Mr. Cote first entered the House of Commons in the 1945 general election.

Frost Lauds Kelley's Work

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP)—Premier Frost said he learned "with very great regret" of the death in Hamilton today of Russell T. Kelley, former Ontario health minister.

Mr. Kelley during his lifetime had "devoted himself unselfishly to the public interest," the premier said.

"His lifetime is a record of activity in interests in one good cause or another. His contribution to the Red Cross was particularly outstanding.

"His record of service culminated with his election to the legislature in 1945 and his subsequent appointment as minister of health.

"There Mr. Kelley's great qualities of heart and mind were very apparent. A man of kindly, sympathetic nature, he was able to make an outstanding contribution to the welfare of the people . . ."

Health Minister Phillips, his successor, said Mr. Kelley "was always held in the highest respect by the government and loved and respected by all the members of this department. Mr. Kelley made a great contribution to his province and indeed his country."

Israel Official

chairs. They do not come under any U. N. organization because they are considered citizens of the countries they are living in. They are not being cared for by these countries, because they were born when no records were being kept, and clerically they do not exist."

As a result, they wander in the streets, homeless, begging for food and clothing, often eating refuse from garbage cans.

A team of psychologists and educational experts from the Hebrew University in Jerusalem visited 12 of these countries, including several satellites under Communist control last fall. On their return, they reported that unless these children could be "transplanted" to new surroundings before 1953, there would be nobody to save.

Will Turn Sour

Mr. Lapide says that the experts reported that children can take just so much punishment, then, they "go sour inside," and become professional thieves and criminals and nothing can be done for them.

Youth Aliyah was formed, an organization similar to the United Nations U.N.I.C.E.F., only on a national scale. Mr. Lapide is talking to audiences across Canada, trying to obtain support for rehabilitating these young victims of war.

Although his appeals are being directed chiefly toward the Jewish communities, he is trying to enlist sunport from other circles as well, and says he is well pleased with the number of English and French Canadians who have contributed.

So far 55,000 children have been picked up in these various countries and taken to Israel. After they are first taken under the wing of Youth Aliyah, they are given a two-month re-humanization course, then transferred to one of the educational centres in Israel.

Boys' Towns

Boys' towns and children's villages have been set up in these centres, and the children are given both psychological and psychiatric treatment. Gradually they are schooled in self-responsibility by being encouraged to govern themselves and electing officers to carry out responsibilities.

"Every dram of energy invested in them is a very good investment," Mr. Lapide says. "They all repay it fully, and make first rate citizens and very good pioneers."

Mr. Lapide says he has no ceiling on the amount he would like to raise. An indication of the amount needed can be gained from the fact that it takes between two and three years to rehabilitate each child. The cost is $600 per child and they are being brought into the country at the rate of 600 a month.

Lack Of Snow, Ice Hard On Loggers

FORT FRANCES, Feb. 20 (CP) —Lack of snow and ice in the Rainy River district of Northwestern Ontario is beginning to be a hardship to logging operators.

The district hasn't had a good snowstorm since New Year's Eve and many parts of Rainy Lake haven't been frozen over all winter. Some logging operators already are preparing to close their camps for the season because of uncertain ice conditions on the lake.

Sign New Contract

HAMILTON, Feb. 20 (CP)—A new contract between bus drivers and the Canada Coach Lines was signed Tuesday—six weeks before expiration of the old contract. Bus operators received a six-cent wage increase and a seven-cent cost-of-living bonus was incorporated into the basic rate, bringing it to $1.45 an hour.

Less Emphasis On Sport, Return To Three R's Minister Urges

TORONTO, Feb. 20.—Less emphasis on athletics and a return to specializing in "the three R's" of education was urged yesterday by Education Minister Dunlop at the Ontario Association of Rural Municipalities convention here.

"The tendency today is to have too many athletics when we really need the basis of it all," he said. Teachers should be reminded that young people must be equipped for the jobs they are to take; they must be prepared to earn a living.

A lot of experts who should know better, declared Dr. Dunlop, say: "We should teach how to live a good life." But, he said, "How can you live the good life if you can't earn a living?"

Young people like to work hard, they like a stiff lesson, something to test their ability. He said there was not the competition in schools "the way we used to have it."

He said he did not see anything wrong with the old-style report card which showed students where they stood in relation with the rest of the class. "They will have to face competition when they go out into the world."

He would also like citizens of tomorrow "to know whence they came." He wanted them to know what British institutions mean, "what a privilege it is to live as free citizens, how to resist the evil ideologies that come seeping into our free countries in the attempt to destroy our liberties, how much democratic government cost our forefathers, our fathers and our brothers."

He said he would like today's students to have a chance to salute the Union Jack once in a while. He would like to see a good-sized Union Jack in every school in the province.

Children should be taught to cherish British institutions, "and I have no objection to them calling this country the Dominion of Canada," he declared.

Boys' Work Board Revived At Rally Of Youths At Y

Revival of the Peterborough Boys' Work Board was started off officially Tuesday night as 50 former members of the Ontario Older Boys' Parliament and Peterborough Boys' Work Boards held a rally at the Y.M.C.A.

Purpose of the re-constituted board is to promote sport and leadership training among boys of the city. Already the board has representatives from 15 churches that have an estimate affiliation of 600 boys.

A leadership training course was held last spring, and during the winter 200 boys played hockey in the Church Hockey League. The league consisted of bantam, midget and juvenile teams.

New Executive

A new executive was installed Tuesday night and a guest speaker, the Rev. C. D. Daniel of Ingersoll, formerly pastor of Mark St. United Church was invited.

On the 1952 executive are John A. Hunter, president; C. M. Krug, vice-president; C. Stuart Saunders, recording secretary; Stuart C. Laing, treasurer; and Robert Peebles, acting corresponding secretary. Committee chairmen are C. M. Krug, sports; William MacFarlane, Y.M.C.A. Boys' Work secretary, leadership; Robert Peebles, finance; and S. C. Laing, program.

Mr. Daniel, a former president of the Ontario Boys' Work Board, spoke on the "need for leadership."

He said there has been a slump in boys' work activity right across the country. And this situation must be rectified if the boys are not to organize in vicious gangs and join the zuit-suit crowd.

Need Leadership

The first thing required to change this situation is leadership, he said. The desire to guide the natural gang-spirit of boys into healthy and constructive activities must reach the point of a "magnificent obsession."

But even this is not sufficient, said Mr. Daniel, unless the leadership is capable and efficient.

Among the guests at the rally were Howard Hall and Alderman Harold Rehill, both members of the original Boys' Work Board organized in 1929.

The hockey League was extremely popular among the church boys, it was reported. An attempt will be made to raise money so games can be played next year at the Peterborough arena.

This should boost the number actively participating in the league from 200 to 350, Board officials estimate.

Ball, Basketball

The next sports activity will be softball; and in the fall a basketball league is planned.

In all these sports the board co-operates with the Recreation Commission and the Y.M.C.A.

A bond selling campaign will finance the Board's projects — Boys' Parliament, Summer Camp, and leadership training. It is scheduled to begin Feb. 27. Some of the money will also go to the various groups participating in the campaign.

Another leadership training course will be held March 19-21, under the guidance of William MacFarlane. Selected boys will be sent to leadership camps this summer.

The old boys' work board became inactive when the Second World War broke out. This present set-up is designed to start it up again on a larger scale than before.

Woman 75, Saves Her Father's Life

BELLEVILLE, Feb. 20.—Prompt action by Mrs. Jean Karryhart, 75, was Tuesday credited with saving the life of her 94-year-old father, Charles Sargent, when a fire swept through his house on the 7th Concession of Eyendinaga.

Mrs. Karryhart, who acts as housekeeper for her father, was the first to notice the fire and rushed him to a neighbor's home.

Neighbors formed a bucket brigade which kept the blaze under control till the arrival of the Bellevile Fire Department. The fire, started by overheated pipe stoves, caused damage estimated at $1,800.

HONG KONG, Feb. 20 (Reuters)—Miss Gertrude Cone, 50-year-old American Methodist missionary, died today two days after being carried out of Communist China on a stretcher.

Doctors would not reveal the cause of death, but said her illness had been made worse by lack of food and medical care.

Miss Cone, who had spent 25 years in China, was brought to the Hong Kong border Monday. The Chinese doctor and nurse who accompanied her litter on the 250-mile journey from Nanching said they gave her pain-killing injections on the way to ease her suffering.

Foil Attempt To Burn American Building

BELGRADE, Feb. 20 — (AP)— A pre-dawn attempt to burn down the quarters of the American Information Service here was prevented today by the early arrival of a Yugoslav employee.

It was the second attempt within 15 months to destroy the headquarters —a building separate from the embassy and housing a reading room and a showroom displaying pictures of life in the United States.

The Yugoslav employee extinguished the blaze without damage.

Three bottles, wrapped in waste and containing a liquid fuel, apparently had been pitched through an iron grill outer grate behind the guard wall.

Doctors Restore Organs In Body

PENDLETON, Ore., Feb. 20 (AP)—A girl born in Ione, Ore., with all organs of the abdominal cavity on the outside of the body has been restored to normal condition and is believed to be on the way to recovery, her doctor reported Tuesday.

Dr. Clifford Wagner said Deborah Kaye Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Warren of Ione, was born Feb. 7.

The doctor said the child probably developed normally in the embryo except that her stomach failed to close in a small area over the stomach wall. During pressure of the birth, he said, the force apparently ruptured the small opening, causing the exposure of the organs.

"We rushed the infant to surgery and replaced the organs through a long incision in the side," the doctor related. He said he believed such births and operations had a previous 100 per cent fatality rate before the advent of the new antibiotic drugs.

"I would hate to have to look for her appendix in 25-30 years," the doctor said.

"During the operation we were forced to place it somewhere on the left side of her body."

Bridgenorth Scouts Father, Son Banquet

Bridgenorth Cubs and Scouts held a father and son banquet Tuesday evening with about 90 attending, including 15 members of the Curve Lake Scout troop with their leader Mrs. Cecil Knott. The meal was served in the United Church basement from tables in colorful Valentine array

The Rev. D. P. Morris as chairman, introduced special guests: new district commissioner Dr. G. R. Langley, past scout commissioner George Groombridge, past cub commissioner Peter Dominik, Queen's Scout Roy Strickland of Lindsay, Sea Scout Ken Jakins of Lakefield, Bruce Patterson and Jack Cocks, Bridgenorth Cub leader and assistant, and Ernie Clark, new Scout leader.

Dr. Langley spoke after dinner referring to the "smallness of the universe as to a grain of salt and the largeness of the Scout movement throughout the world." Roy Strickland related experiences of his trip and proceedings at the seventh annual jamboree in Austria last summer, and appropriate following to this was singing of several Austrian folk songs by Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Seidel.

Entertainment included an act and selections on accordion and piano by Al Tucker, music comedian from Peterborough. Mrs. L. Hale sang two solos, "Deep River" and "I Come From Alabama" and Mr. Morris sang "We'll Never Let the Old Flag Fall" and "Grandfather's Clock" with Mrs. C. Telford accompanying at the piano.

Ray Harding extended sincere thanks to the speakers, visitors and entertainers and to the group committee for planning and arranging the banquet, under convenership of Mrs. Earl Blewett.

Beattie Rink Leading In Ont. Bonspiel

TORONTO, Feb. 20 (CP). — The 25th annual Ontario bonspiel today hit the half-way mark with more than 200 games under its belt.

The first two sessions of the five-day 'spiel—127 games on Monday and 75 Tuesday—placed the some 500 curlers far into play for the Royal York, Henry Birks, Selberling and North American Life trophies. Six consolation awards plus the prized Royal York trophy will be awarded by the close of play Friday.

The 1951 Royal winners, the Toronto Curling Club rink skipped by Tom Beattie, appeared well on the way to a repeat as they slid into the fourth round. In the first round they knocked over J. W. McFadyen's Tiverton rink 17-10; edged Dr. A. E. Walkey of Hamilton Victoria, 6-4 in the second, and topped W. Govenlock of Forest 10-9 in Tuesday's third round.

Two other former winners were eliminated from Royal York competition Tuesday. Dr. J. C. Malcolmson of Toronto C. C., 1951 Birks winner, slipped under 14-13 to L. E. Ross of Agincourt and Henry Sifton of London, Parker Pen trophy winner last year, took the short end of a 10-9 count to Dr. H. H. Hetherington of Brampton.

Gives Welcome

At Tuesday night's annual curlers' dinner Mines Minister Welland S. Gemmell, welcoming the curlers on behalf of the province, termed the sport the only one in which "men throw stones for friendship sake." He said no greater contribution has been made to human relations in the line of sport than in curling.

Booming Jim Shaw of Sault Ste. Marie, representative of the Northern Ontario Curling Association, announced the 1953 N.O.C.A. bonspiel will be held in Sudbury on the rebuilt Granite Club sheets and the 1954 'spiel in Sault Ste. Marie, with 18 sheets on both sides of the border.

Today's schedule of 125 games moved competition through two rounds of the Royal York and Henry Birks trophies to the semi-finals in each. Two rounds of the Selberling, the complete first of the North American Life and the first and second rounds of the Seagram were also run off.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

Trygve Lie, Secretary-General of the United Nations, is willing to tackle the diplomats of the world at cross country skiing.

In Oslo for the Olympic winter games, he was asked what he thought of the idea of gathering world politicians in Olympic games competition rather than in political conferences.

The U.N. meeting in Paris was Olympic enough, he said, but if such a competition is ever held, "I would have as good a chance as anybody in the assembly to win the 50 kilometer cross country ski race."

Lie is from Norway where everyone skis.

Back in Hamilton from a winter in Florida, Carl Voyles, coach and general manager of the Big Four Football Union Hamilton Tiger-Cats, made a few comments on Tuesday on proposed changes in Canadian Rugby Union rules. He doesn't want to see the number of playing imports increased from seven to eight. "We should encourage the Canadian players, not the Americans."

Value of 21 stake races, headed by the $100,000-added Belmont June 7, will be a record $447,500 for the spring meeting at Belmont Park, it was announced on Tuesday in New York by the Westchester Racing Association. The 36-day meeting, opening April 29, ends with the 84th running of the mile and one half Belmont stakes.

Kitchener Park Board's plans for a $40,000 roofless grandstand at Victoria Park hit a snag at Kitchener council Tuesday. A Park Board delegation, with William Taylor as spokesman, in effect asked council to permit the board to prepare to call tenders on the grandstand. Mayor Weber said "No," with determination. He urged council to withhold decision at least a week.

Lorne Main of Vancouver advanced to the quarter-finals of the United States indoor men's tennis championships Tuesday night in New York with a 6-1, 7-5 victory over Hal Burrows, Charlottesville, Va.

Cadet R. J. Stetten Monday night won the gold cup, top honor in the Royal Military College boxing show at Kingston when he captured the novice and open middleweight titles in two bouts with Cadet C. L. Griffin-Beale. Cadet A. S. Derrick of Kingston won the open welterweight title over Cadet P. N. Warren.

A Toronto rink skipped by Mrs. Robert Amell defeated Wauwatosa, Wisc., No. 5 by a lopsided 18-1 Tuesday in the Wauwatsa-Granite trophy competition at Utica, N. Y. They were among 30 rinks competing in the fourth annual bonspiel of the United States Women's Curling Association.

Yonkers (N. Y.) raceway will get an additional two weeks of grand circuit harness racing this year, it was announced Tuesday in Yonkers, by William H. Cane, president. Cane said they would be held during the final two weeks of the Yonkers spring meeting, May 12-25. Yonkers opens a 35-night spring session April 15.

Western Boys Win 6 Games, Ontario Lost 6

MONCTON, N.B., Feb. 20 (CP) —Gary Thode skipped his powerful Saskatchewan rink to a 10-3 win over the red-hot Nova Scotia foursome today to brin westerners their sixth stra... ...ay in the Dominion schoolboy curling championships.

Jim Florian's Sydney rink, playing strong after earlier defeats, was no match for the 19-year-old Thode and his crew.

In another match, Alberta got its fourth victory by walloping Ontario 16-8.

In other sixth-round match today aMnitoba downed New Brunswick 11-8. British Columbia defeated Prince Edward Island 11-7 and Quebec outclassed Northern Ontario 12-5.

The championship ends Thursday with the victorious team being presented with the Sifton Trophy.

Manitoba was in second place with four wins and a loss, which was handed them by Alberta's rink from Mossleigh, a village of 78 population some 50 miles west of Calgary.

Quebec, Alberta, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia each have won three and lost two.

Nova Scotia started poorly but went on to defeat Quebec and Ontario by wide margins.

Ontario fared the worst, losing all five games. British Columbia has lost two and won three. Prince Edward Island and Northern Ontario's rink from Sudbury have only one victory each.

Manitoba, skipped by Ron Gray who led his Belmont rink to victory over 196 rinks in the provincial playdowns, had been undefeated until they lost 16-7 to Alberta in the fourth round.

In the fifth, they managed to edge Prince Edward Island 8-7.

Manitoba will meet New Brunswick in the sixth round today. The Moncton team humbled Ontario's Lindsay rink in the fourth round and then downed Alberta 13-7.

Newfoundland is the only province not represented in the annual championship.

Prince Edward Island's rink from Charlottetown fared the worst of the Eastern Provinces and against Alberta and British Columbia in today's draw.

Bandy Popular With Norwegians

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 20 (AP)— In these parts, it developed today, bandy is a game played on ice instead of the way your legs get from riding horses.

Foreigners here for the sixth winter Olympic games have been mystified by the frequent occurrence of the word in Oslo sports pages.

Not a few, whose minds run in a certain direction, even assumed it to be a reference to the justly-famed after dinner drink, with the "R" left out through a quirk in Scandinavian spelling.

Actually, bandy is soccer on skates. Three teams from Norway, Finland and Sweden stood ready to demonstrate it in a series of exhibition games starting today.

Bandy was invented by Britons in the late 1800s. It was so much the rage by 1891 that a national bandy association was formed. After the turn of the century the Britons became preoccupied with Canadian hockey and let bandy get away from them.

Olympic Ski Champion To Enter U.S. Meet

OSLO, Feb. 20 (CP).—Nearly all the Olympic ski champions may compete in the United States' national championships at Stowe, Vt., next month.

Members of the U.S. Olympic team said today that Neil Starr, wealthy American insurance man, has offered to fly the Olympic winners to Stowe for the American national meet.

Most of the Olympic gold medal winners already have accepted, it was reported.

Canada Down In Points, Courtesy At Oslo 1952 Winter Olympics

OSLO, Feb. 20 (CP).—Already sadly deficient in points in the 1952 winter Olympics, Canada now has been caught with its courtesies down.

It all happened Tuesday night before 10,000 people in the Jordal Amfi Stadium.

Just before the Czechoslovakia-Canada hockey game started, the Czech captain skated over and presented the Canadians with a Czechoslovakian Olympic flag.

There was an embarrassing moment. The Canadians had nothing to present in return.

Then the two clubs went out and put on the roughest game this tournament has seen, Canada winning 4-1. Slashing, hooking, holding were thrown in; even a mild fistic display by Canada's Gordie Robertson.

Coach Lou Holmes had his hands full directing the club. He must have found time for a little extra curricular work too.

When the game ended he asked the Czech players to line up at centre ice. He shook hands with each one, then dug into his pockets and presented every Czech player with a Canadian Olympic pin.

Game Sizzler

The game was a sizzler. Unlike other European teams Canada's players—Edmonton Mercurys — have met, the Czechs play more of the Canadian-style game. They lack only one thing—a knowledge of solid body-checking.

The Canadian supporters were worried when the Czechs scored their first and only goal before the Mercurys got themselves sorted out. Then the body-checking started in earnest and the big crowd of Norwegian fans booeed the Canadians, not understanding that this is all part of hockey.

Centre Billy Gibson tied the score before the first period was over and added another in the last period to lead the Canadians' scoring. Bruce Dickson and Robertson accounted for the other goals. Robertson was given his major penalty in the last period when he let go a couple of cream-puff blows at a Czech player.

Canada took over the lead in the series with four straight victories and the best for-and-against goal average. Sweden, with a bye Tuesday, and the United States are also undefeated in four starts.

Another Fistic Show

The Americans put on a fistic show, too, in turning back undefeated Switzerland, 8-2. Joe Czarnota of Walpole, Mass., and Gian Bazzi of the Swiss team outdid Robertson with their punching and both drew majors. There was talk later that the Olympic hockey officials may do something about this wrangle.

The point-hungry Canadians looked today to Suzanne Morrow of Toronto to do something about it. Suzanne went into the final phase of the figure skating championship with sixth-place ranking she earned in the compulsory figures last Sunday.

Jeannette Altwegg, Britain's 21-year-old precision specialist, was far ahead on the school figures. Tenley Albright of Newton Centre, Mass., was in second place.

The women slalom specialists went to work today, with Canada's usual quartette from Quebec province entered—Rhoda Wurtele Eaves, Joanne Hewson, Rosemarie Schutz and 17-year-old Lucille Wheeler.

While the girl figure skaters complete their event, the men figure skaters take a 24-hour rest before tackling their free skating.

Dick Button, the world champion from Engelwood, N. J., is already conceded a successful defence of his title in a breeze. But Canada has a few more placing points in prospect. Peter Firstbrook, 18-year-old Canadian senior men's champion from Toronto, placed fourth in the compulsory figures Tuesday and should do as well in the free skating Thursday.

Flyers Turn Back Syracuse Team 4-2

By The Canadian Press

St. Louis Flyers have their work cut out for them in their bid for an American Hockey League playoff berth but it appears they will go down fighting.

St. Louis trails third place Cincinnati by seven points today and has 14 games remaining to the Mohawks' 12.

The Flyers turned back the Syracuse Warriors, 4-2, in the league's only game Tuesday night. The triumph was their fourth straight over Syracuse and their sixth in seven games with the Warriors this season.

St. Louis sewed it up with three goals in the second period by Pat Lundy, Jackie Hamilton and Don Morrison. The other Flyers marksman was Glen Snmor. Doug McMurdy and Billy Gooden scored for Cincinnati.

Howe Technique Helps Boost Goal Scoring

DETROIT, Feb. 20 (AP)—Big, imperturbable Gordie Howe, Detroit's one-man hockey arsenal, not only seems a shoo-in for National League scoring honors a second straight season but the New York Rangers claim he is in a class by himself as a beak-buster.

"He broke my nose with a high stick," insists Captain Allan Stanley of the Rangers.

"He broke mine with an elbow," echoes Rangers' Eddie Kullman.

Detroit sources claim, however, that the Red Wings' star has developed a new straight-arm technique as a defence against octupus-like holding tactics.

In recent games Howe has been grabbing his stick with his right hand halfway down the shaft and using his left to fend off all opponents.

Works Well

How well this has worked is revealed not only in Howe's physical destructiveness but also in his scoring operations.

Gordie has bagged at least one goal in each of the last six games, the Wings winning them all. His season total of 33 goals puts him comfortably ahead of the ailing Maurice Richard and his point total of 16 gives him an eight-point edge over Richard's Montreal colleague, Elmer Lach.

The 23-year-old bulldozer is off on his scoring tear without the accompaniment of veteran centre Sid Abel, on the casualty list, thereby destroying the myth that Abel's playmaking skill lifted Howe to stardom.

Howe borowed the straight-arm from football. He also picked up a switch-hitting style from baseball. Gordie is the only player in the league who has mastered the art of switching hands on his stick, so that he can shoot from either his right or left side without warning.

Arrest 24 In Crew

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Feb. 20—(AP)—Twenty-four crew members of the Argentine liner Buenos Aires were arrestd by 50 soldiers of the Spanish Marine Corps Tuesday after a mutiny aboard ship. The mutiny occurred when the ship arrived with 900 Spanish emigrants from Vigo en route to Buenos Aires. It followed the captain's order that no crew member could leave the ship since she completed refuelling in two hours.

Suggests Visit

LONDON, Feb. 20—(Reuters)—Alfred Robens, Labor Minister in the last Labor government, Tuesday suggested that Queen Elizabeth and her family spend two months of every year in the dominions and calonies. He told reporters it would not be proper for him to raise the matter in the House of Commons, but he intends to launch the idea in a speech at Manchester.

Madoc Winners

BANCROFT, Feb. 20 (ENS). — Madoc swamped Bancroft Pontiacs to win the first of the semi-finals for the championship of the Hastings-Addington Hockey League in a 13-7 score in Bancroft Arena Monday night.

Johnny Durant, one of Father Flannigan's juniors from St. Mike's, a fellow who graduated at the time Joe Primeau was entering, made his first appearance as coach for Madoc. Judging from the form his team displayed Johnny innoculated the gang with the spirit of the Fighting Irish. The boys from the south were as hot as half a dozen erupting volcanoes.

A couple of youngsters were standouts for Madoc. In goal, Jack Hatch, Jr., the 19-year-old successor to Toar Ross, although beaten seven times, was as cool as a basket of cucumbers on the Rock of Gibraltar. Reg. Shadbolt, a 17-year-old Grade 12 High School student and the youngest fellow on the ice, gave an excellent performance as a rushing defenceman.

Referee Boyer and Linesman Barrett of Belleville did not notice any more than the minimum number of penalties. In a bumping bee by the boards somebody allegedly bashed Doug Tufts in the ribs. Going temporarily berserk Doug flattened nearby Cecil McAlpine and started to make mincemeat of his face. By the time Goyer and Barrett had hauled Doug away for a five-minute session in the sin bin, Cecil, the wrong man, had a bloody nose, a cut cheek, and a few assorted scratches.

For the Pontiacs, Stew Stringer was one of the best. Besides skating countless acres trying to defend Art Young he soloed once and helped on another. For most of the Bancroft team it was that off-night that one likes to get out of his system.

Madoc goals were by Reynolds 2, Carswell 2, Shadbolt 2, Tufts 2, Thompson 2, Nickle and Smith, while N. Brough with 3, E. Brough 2, Stringer and Green scored for Bancroft.

The lineups:

Madoc — Goal, Hatch; defence, Lavender and Nayler; centre, Nickle; wings, Smith and Reynolds; alternates, Kellar, Thompson, Carswell, Shadbolt, Lister, Nayler, Tufts, Ross. Durant.

Bancroft — Goal, Young; defance, Stringer and McAlpine; centre, E. Brough; wings, N. Brough and Delyea; alternates, Bruce, D. Maxwell, Stricker, Hogarth, Green, Hattin, Dugald, T. Maxwell, G. Maxwell, McGhee.

Referee—Goyer of Belleville; linesman, Barrett of Belleville.

Tax Cut Fever Sweeps Canada Again

By The Canadian Press

"Tax-cut fever," a malady that usually prevails at this time of year, is again sweeping Canada and it brings big queues in government offices in Ottawa.

For the business man, alert to means of trimming costs and expenses, this is the time when he makes his annual call on government tax-planners and lays his claims to lower taxes for his type of goods.

Some times when the business man is not able to get to Ottawa, he appoints a representative, or what some refer to as a jobbyist. The number of these in the capital is growing by the day.

Encouraged by the government's record-making $722,000,000 budgetary surplus, the business man and other citizens are appealing for lower tax rates to help Canada's industry buck the uncertainties of what the fiscal year 1952-53 may bring.

Big Chore

Officials at Ottawa say the demands this year are no heavier than in other recent years, but it still is a heavy chore to listen to each and every argument and go through the reams of memoranda that usually accompanies the verbal case.

Ottawa gives no inkling of what it actually will do about the myriad of requests to cut the sales tax, the excise tax, corporation and personal income taxes, customs tax and the various other government demands from the country's earnings.

Budget planning is the most secret of all government work. The tax would surely fail if any secrets were let out before Finance Minister Abbott began announcing the tax changes, which, this year, is expected next April 8.

But in the back rooms, in the minister's offices, in treasury board meetings, all of the requests are carefully combed and considered. Every request for a tax cut is carefully tabulated and where there appears to be too heavy a tax burden, then the tax change is usually made.

Say MacNamara Gets Extension

OTTAWA, Feb. 20 (CP)—Arthur MacNamara, 66-year-old deputy minister of labor, likely will be asked by the government to stay on the job for his third one-year extension beyond the statutory retirement age of 65.

Announcement of an order-in-council authorizing the extension is expected during the next month, it was learned. Mr. MacNamara will be 67 on March 4. He has been deputy minister nine years and before that held a similar position in Manitoba as well as other federal posts.

There is speculation that he will be replaced eventually by Pat Conroy, 48-year-old former national secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labor. Mr. Conroy recently joined the government service as the first labor attache in the Washington embassy.

Canadian Fighter Squadrons Stationed In Saar Valley As Defence Move

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, Feb. 20 (CP) — Canada's air force is aiming to start late this year to establish jet fighter squadrons in a European defence area straddling the French-German border in the vital industrial region of the Saar valley.

Two hundred miles to the north the 27th Canadian Infantry Brigade should be in position by that time in front of an even more vital industrial area, Germany's Ruhr valley.

The key to the arrival of the first jet squadron in Europe—it now is in England—is the availability of the first airfield, one of four that will be needed for an 11-squadron air division and which will cost Canada tens of millions of dollars to put in shape.

The Eisenhower headquarters has already given the R.C.A.F. the green light to negotiate with French auothrities for one field in the Metz area of northeast France, just south of the area where France, Germany and Luxembourg come together and where the industrial furnaces of the Saar hold forth.

The division, to be commanded by an air vice-marshal and to be fully in position in 1953, is expected to be scattered over that general area, probably with some squadrons based in Germany.

Other assignments of airfields are expected from N.A.T.O. in the weeks ahead and Group Capt. Keith Hodson, 36, a wartime fighter pilot, has been in Paris for several weeks taking charge of negotiations with the French — negotiations which have already run into headaches over expropriation and other problems.

Once the title to any field is clear—the first one is believed to be an existing airfield which will need a lot of work done on it—there will be months of construction and preparation before it is ready to handle the F86E Sabres which will make the Canadians as modern as any outfit confronting the Russian air force in Europe.

Albert Deschamps, well-known Montreal construction engineer, was named some months ago to go to Europe to look over potential fields and to advise the government. He is teaming up with the R.C.A.F. and the Canadian embassy in Paris in his task.

It it not expected that the airfields will become Canadian property even though Canada will pour many millions of dollars into them. They will belong to the Atlantic Pact Organization.

Parliament will get its first inkling of the cost in defence estimates to be tabled fairly soon after the House opens Feb. 28.

Canada is establishing a second jet squadron in England now and will have a third over there by early summer, and an estimated five or six abroad by the end of the year.

Ontario Planning New Laws To Stimulate House Building

Say Skilled Labor Shortage Curbs U.K. Defence Plans

LONDON, Feb. 21. (Reuters)—Shortages of skilled labor and key materials will prevent Britain's defence program from being completed within the originally-scheduled three years, a government white paper said today. The £4,700,000,000 rearmament program will have to be spread over a somewhat longer period, the document said. Britain's economic situation has deteriorated seriously since the program was drawn up by the Labor government in 1950.

The cuts would reduce the immediate burden of Britain's metal using industries. These industries have been severely strained by the double need of producing for the rearmament program and the export trade. They produce about 40 per cent of the country's exports, vital in earning overseas money, and also bear about 80 per cent of the defence burden.

The white paper said it was made clear at the time the Labor government undertook the defence program that it would be achieved only if the labor, raw materials, machine tools and other manufacturing capacity were available.

Must Make Adjustments

"It is now clear that these conditions cannot be fully satisfied," the report said. "It has been necessary to adjust the defence program."

Main items of expenditure during 1952-53 would be the following (with the previous year's total in brackets):

Army: £491,500,000 (£428,800,000.)

Navy: £332,300,000 (£278,500,000.)

Supply Ministry: £98,300,000 (£81,500,000.)

Air Force: £437,600,000 (£330,500,000.)

Defence Ministry: £17,300,000 (£6,000,000.)

The white paper said the most serious limitation has been the scarcity of skilled labor for the initial stage. The aircraft industry in particular, needs 50,000 more workers by March, 1953.

Chief raw material needed is steel—more than 1,000,000 tons for 1952-53. An allocation system will, it is hoped, direct steel to the most essential purposes.

Also needed are such scarce materials as sulphur, non-ferrous metals, and special steels, such as stainless steel alloys for jet engines.

This Year's Program

The white paper said more than 20 per cent of 1952-53 spending would go on aircraft. Tanks and other vehicles would account for a further 20 per cent.

Under the U.S. Mutual Security Act of 1951, military equipment earmarked by the United States for Britain included aircraft, anti-tank rocket launchers, medium self-propelled guns, anti-submarine helicopters, and "a substantial number" of F-86 Sabre jet fighters to be built by Canada with engines and equipment supplied by the United States.

No Rowdyism In Game IIHF Head Says

OSLO, Feb. 21 (CP).—The head of the International Ice Hockey Federation today stepped into the rhubarb over Canadian and United States body-checking with the word that there was no rowdyism in games involving North American teams. But, he said, "Rough stuff" doesn't go in the Olympics.

Dr. Fritz Kraatz of Zurich, I.I.H.F. president, said he had seen the Canada-Czechoslovakia and U.S.-Swiss games which caused the shouting, and he thought they were not rowdy.

Centre of the trouble is Joe Czarnota, 26-year-old defenceman on the U.S. team who was charged with having attacked Gian Bazzi of the Swiss team during Tuesday night's game. He was given a major and 10-minute misconduct penalty.

Nothing Serious

"If athletes in other Olympic sports came into bodily contact such as hockey players," said Dr. Kraatz, "I'm convinced there would be plenty of so-called incidents. Other athletes race against time which is a different matter."

He didn't condone Czarnota's action but he said "We in Europe became disgusted at fisticuffs in sports. We are trying to teach our athletes good sportsmanship and such things as fighting and body-checking don't go well with the fans.

"The rough stuff is okay in Canada and the United States, but not here."

Doug Grimston of New Westminster, B.C., president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and Canada's representative on the I.I.H.F., and Canadian team officials couldn't get excited over the fuss.

"These games were tame according to Canadian and American standards," Grimston said.

London Fans Mob Wrestler

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 21 (CP).—A burly wrestler was stabbed and clubbed by fans last night as six policemen struggled to snatch him from an angry crowd at London Arena.

As Hans Robert Hermann of Toronto fought his way to a dressing room, assailants got close enough to inflict kidney, nose and arm injuries.

Police who took Hermann to Victoria Hospital, said either a knife or a broken bottle was used to stab the wrestler.

Hermann was teamed with Bob (Strangler) Wagner in a "tag" match against Whipper Billy Watson and Bobo Brazil. Referee Al. Dunlop's decision to disqualify Watson and Brazil and to award the match to Hermann and Wagner touched off the trouble.

Spectators stormed around the ring and among other things tore referee Dunlop's trousers to shreds.

The mob also sought to tear down a wooden ramp leading from the ring to the dressing room.

Elizabeth Taylor Married In London

LONDON, Feb. 21 — (AP) — Movie stars Elizabeth Taylor and Michael Wilding were married shortly before noon today in the midst of a lively mob scene.

The 19-year-old bride and her 39-year-old groom, arriving separately, slipped almost unnoticed into the Caxton Registry Hall through a side door but a crowd of hundreds descended upon them as they emerged after the 10-minute civil ceremony.

Elizabeth radiated happiness as she was jostled by hundreds of persons in the corridors of the hall and in Caxton street outside. Seemingly the cooler of the two, she recognized friends in the milling crowd and shouted greetings to them.

The Hollywood beauty wore a grey woollen frock with a noticeable flare, and a stiff, pleated organdy collar. There was a single strand of pearls around her neck. A white Juliette hat sat far back on her dark hair.

U.N. Refuses Let Russia Police Truce

Reject Any Nation With Record Of Past Participation

MUNSAN, Korea, Feb. 21.—(AP)—The U.N. command told the Communists today Russia's "record of past participation in Korea" bars the Soviet Union as a neutral fit to help police a Korean truce.

At Panmunjom, an Allied spokesman said U.N. reasons for rejecting Russia were "clear, cogent and irrefutable." He did not spell out the reasons.

Col. Don Darrow said the U.N. command would reject the nomination of any nation "in close proximity to Korea" or any nation which had "a record of past participation in Korea."

A Red staff officer said the U.N. reasons were not satisfactory.

Darrow refused to be drawn into an argument. He said:

"The United Nations does not propose to enter into endless discussion on this topic and recommends that your side give our statement serious consideration."

No Elaboration

Darrow did not elaborate on his references to "close proximity" or "record of past participation."

Negotiators at Panmunjom are trying to form a six-country "neutral" inspection team to check on military buildup during an armistice. Sweden, Norway, Switzerland, Poland and Czechoslovakia have been accepted by both sides.

The Allies have flatly turned down Russia as the sixth member.

The Russians occupied North Korea at the close of the Second World War. They trained, equipped and advised the North Korean army.

Retroactive Pay About Million

WINDSOR, Feb. 21 (CP). — Ford of Canada's hourly-rated workers in Windsor will receive about $1,200,000 in retroactive pay under the collective bargaining agreement signed Tuesday, a company spokesman said today.

He said that under the agreement—it provided for a 15-cent increase on an hourly basic of $1.35 with some elements retroactive to June 1—each of approximately 11,500 men will receive approximately $150 before taxes, $130 after.

The 11,500 included approximately 2,700 men laid off at the plant in the slack period months following June 1. Extension to these men of the retroactive parts of the 15-cent increase was one of the points at issue during Ford-union contract negotiations.

Ford officials announced Wednesday that by March 3, approximately 10,000 production men would be in employment at the Ford plant. January factory payroll was 8,702.

France Receives Canadian Munitions

CHERBOURG, France, Feb. 21 (Reuters).—Canada delivered to France today a first shipment of arms and munitions under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

R. M. MacDonnell, Canadian Minister in Paris, turned over to the French authorities the full cargo of the ship Montgaspe. It included radar-controlled anti-aircraft guns with ammunition.

Canada has already delivered arms to Belgium, Italy, Luxembourg and the Netherlands. Norway and Denmark are also scheduled to receive supplies.

Police Foil Bank Robbery Hold One Of Top Criminals

NEW YORK, Feb. 21 —(AP)—Police held one of America's 10 most wanted criminals today and tagged him as an old prison pal of master bank robber Willie Sutton and a cohort of Willie in a $64,000 stickup.

Three detectives surprised 45-year-old Thomas Kling Wednesday as he walked out of a Manhattan roming house bathroom clad in a robe. Quickly he reached for a pistol in his robe.

The detecetives subdued the short, tatooed desperado and led him to his room. There they found two more guns, 19 pairs of handcuffs and material for forging auto registrations.

They snapped a pair of his own manacles on him and took him away for questioning.

At a police line-up, three officials of the Manufacturers Trust Company pointed Kling out as one of five men who robbed their Long Island branch of $64,000 in 1950.

He was booked on charges of assault and robbery in connection with this stickup. He also was charged with possessing pistols illegally.

Sutton, who also was one of the 10 most wanted criminals before his capture in Brooklyn Monday, already has been indicted in the Long Island robbery.

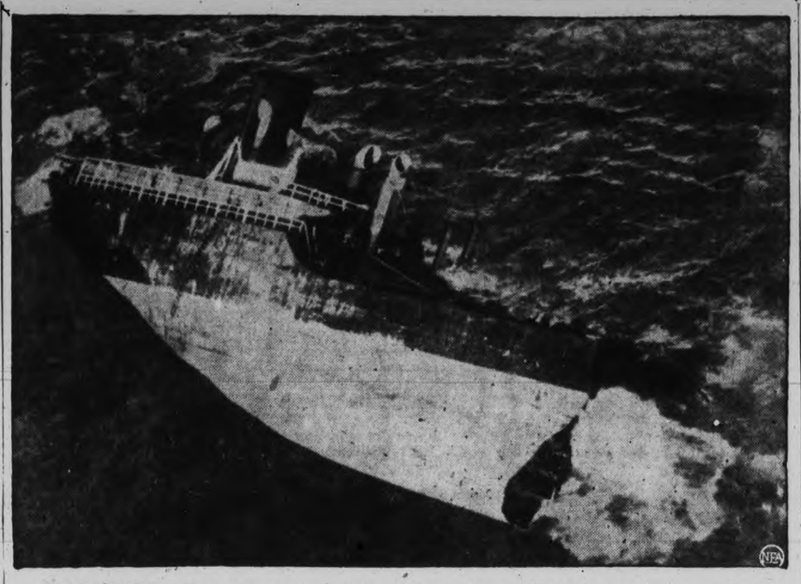
Police Commissioner George P. Monaghan said Sutton and Kling had been in touch with each other recently and were all set "to pull a real big bank job."

Police theorized that the handcuffs were to be used to bind bank employees.

It was an exultant Monaghan who announced Kling's capture and gave swift promotions to Detectives William Dunnof, Victor Shanley Jr., and Thomas Walsh.

Only a few hours before, his quick promotions of Sutton's three captors had partially backfired when it was disclosed that the three officers had been guided to Willie by a young clothing salesman, who had not been mentioned.

The original police version of Sutton's capture neglected to mention that 24-year-old Arnold Schuster had tipped police when he recognized Willie on a subway train from a "wanted" poster in his father's clothing store.



GALE VICTIM—The stern section of the tanker Pendleton, shorn off from the prow of the ship in a raging northeast gale and snow storm, rolls in heavy seas near Chatham, Mass. Six crew members are known dead and eight are still unaccounted for. The rope ladder by which 38 others escaped can be seen below the lifeboat they had no change to use.

Plan To Lift Restrictions In Suez Zone

ISMAILIA, Suez Canal Zone, Feb. 21 (Reuters)—The British army Friday will lift all daytime road restrictions between the Suez Canal Zone and the rest of Egypt—a move regarded here as the biggest gesture yet to the new Egyptian government.

Roadblocks and checkpoints will be removed from dawn to sunset each day. Egyptians will be allowed to travel freely to and from the canal zone during daylight hours.

A British military spokesman said it had been hoped to lift the restrictions—in operation on main roads leading into the canal zone from the delta since last October—last weekend. But this had been prevented by the dynamiting of a British military train at Kantara last Friday night.

No Ill Will

The British action is regarded here as a move to show the new government of Aly Maher Pasha that Britain is anxious to prove she bears no ill will toward Egypt as a result of the four months of terrorism in the zone.

It is also thought to set an atmosphere of peace and normality for negotiations between the two governments to settle their dispute.

Since Jan. 18 no Egyptians have been allowed in the zone by the British authorities other than those responsible for "general health, local government and public welfare."

Meanwhile in Cairo, the independent newspaper Al Ahram said Egypt had been told Britain was "prepared to evacuate the Suez Canal Zone within a period yet to be agreed upon."

Buried By Quake Sisters Reunited

ROME, Feb. 21 (Reuters).—An Italian woman was reunited today with the sister she lost when as children 37 years ago they were buried alive by an earthquake that killed their widowed mother.

When the quake struck Avezzano, central Italy, in 1915, the lost sister was just a month old. Dug out from under the piles of debris, the two children were taken to different hospitals.

In the confusion their identities were lost and both were adopted—by different people. One was given the name Rosa Giammarco, and brought to Rome. The other became Celeste Barile, and was taken to Lecce, near Avezzano.

A week ago Rosa, now aged 39, launched a press and radio appeal for information about the sister for whom she had searched for many years.

Poliec and newspaper men took up the hunt, and with the aid of old police records, faded family photographs and old, forgotten friends, Celeste was found.

Hesitantly they walked towards each other at their first meeting last night. Then, spontaneously, they flung their arms around one another.

Watchers noted the striking resemblance between the two women. They also saw a striking difference—Rosa's expensive fur coat and Celeste's drab peasant-woman's smock.

NATO Officials Rush Plans To Start New Air Bases

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 21. (AP)—The Atlantic Allies' top military and financial brains grappled today with the urgent problem of stringing defensive air bases across western Europe before the 1952 building season is lost. The council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, meeting for the ninth time, broke into small groups for close examination of such priority problems as the air bases and how to pay for them, and how to fit Germany into the west's defensive bastion.

Before the defence and finance ministers lay blueprints for the air bases, their communication lines and control headquarters. With these completed, the 14 western Allies could breathe easier despite the dangers of Russia's Korea-proven jets.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, boss of the alliance's military establishment in Europe, sent down the outline of his needs. What the defence and finance ministers are pondering is: who will pay how much of their cost?

Special Session

L. B. Pearson, Canada's external affairs minister and chairman of the meeting, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain, State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States and 11 other foreign ministers were to meet in the strongly - guarded superior technical institute.

Most of the interest among delegates was focused on the air base question.

Eisenhower's military headquarters has given it a big name: infrastructure.

But military men say bluntly the 21 air bases planned for France and Morocco and a possible 60 European and North African bases ultimately envisaged must get going. Otherwise the 1952 construction season will be lost and 1954—the year the military men say will be the most critical for peace—will be drawing closer.

The military chiefs say they have pared costs down to the bone. The airfields, they say, will be austerity bases. Many will have no permanent buildings. Mobile trucks will provide radio and radar equipment and other facilities.

Today the economists took over to see who will pick up the bills—the question of which the whole program hinges.

Decide Mortson Case On Monday–Campbell

MONTREAL, Feb. 21 (CP). — Gus Mortson of Toronto Maple Leafs, now under a match penalty for kicking Hy Buller of New York, will have his case dealt with officially on Monday, National Hockey League President Clarence Campbell said today.

Pending the official decision, Mr. Campbell said, Mortson is eligible to play with the Leafs. He left Toronto with the team Wednesday night for an engagement in Chicago.

A match penalty does not call for automatic suspension. It means that a $100 fine is imposed and the case is referred to the league president with the player concerned remaining eligible for play until the ruling is handed down.

Red Worker Jailed

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Feb. 21 (Reuters) — A Communist worker today was sentenced to 10 days in jail for throwing gasoline on a Roman Catholic bishop and then setting his clothes afire.

Senior Nazi Disguised As MP

BONN, Germany, Feb. 21 (Reuters). — Franz Richter, pro-Nazi member of the West German Parliament, arrested Wednesday, has confessed to being a senior ex-Nazi official in disguise, the Bonn public prosecutor said today.

Police said Richter confessed his real name was Fritz Roesler.

Franz Druegh, chief prosecutor here, alleged that he had been living under the assumed name of Richter since the war, had re-married his own wife and adopted his own children.

He was elected to Parliament in 1949 and now belongs to the Nazi-style Socialist Reichs party under Otto Remer, the man who foiled the bomb-plot against Hitler.

He was seized in Parliament while signing the list of deputies present in the name under which he had lived since the end of the war.

The public prosecutor said Rossler was chief of staff to the Nazi Gauleiter of Saxony, Martin Mutschmann.

Down 2 Red Jets

SEOUL, Korea, Feb. 21 (AP)—American Sabre jet pilots shot down two more Red jets today bringing their toll this week to 10.

The two MIG-15s eliminated today were blown out of the air during a 20-minute battle in cloudy North Korean skies between 27 Sabre jets and 20 MIGs.

American losses, if any, were not announced. The air force discloses U.S. plane losses only once a week.

On the ground a Red ambush pinned down an Allied patrol and its rescue force for more than an hour on the frozen eastern front.

Churchill Denies Any Harm In Accepting Free Rides

LONDON, Feb. 21 (AP). — Prime Minister Churchill stoutly denied Wednesday he did wrong by accepting free rides on steamships and trains during his January visit to the United States and Canada.

He said in the House of Commons, "The gifts and services of the Cunard (steamship) Company as well as those of the United States and Canadian Railways, were not to ministers but to the British taxpayers."

He was hitting back at opposition charges that he failed in his duty by "the acceptance of gifts from commercial undertakings."

Labor member Col. G. E. C. Wigg had said that Churchill should have declined free trips. If the companies wished "to relieve the British taxpayers," he added, "there is nothing to prevent them making an anonymous contribution to the treasury."

The value of the boat rides given Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden was £1,752. The train trips cost considerably less.

(In New York, spokesmen for the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railways said all their bills had—or would be—paid by the British delegation to the United Nations or reimbursed by the Canadian Pacific Railway. Giving free transportation, they said, violates Interstate Commerce Commission regulations.)

Leaders of the Labor party made it clear that more questions are coming up about Churchill's trans-Atlantic trip. They decided at a caucus Wednesday night to renew their cross-examination of the Prime Minister on his White House conferences.

Opposition leaders still are worried about secret commitments they feel Churchill may have made to extend the Korean war in case the Chinese Reds make and then deliberately break any future Korean truce or spread conflict elsewhere. It is understood labor will again press their motion of censure against Churchill when the foreign affairs debate, interrupted by the death of the King is resumed next week.

Legislature Opening Shorn Of Ceremony Due To King George's Death

Throne Speech Forecasts Establishment Of $40 Monthly Pension To Disabled People Not Otherwise Covered

TORONTO, Feb. 21. (CP)—The Ontario government plans new legislation aimed at stimulating house building, it was announced today in the Speech from the Throne Lieutenant-Governor Louis Breithaupt read at the opening of the new session of the Ontario Legislature. The 1,500-word speech, outlining sessional legislation, also forecast establishment of a Crown corporation to provide funds to finance construction of homes in villages, hamlets and rural areas.

The legislature opening, shorn of ceremony because of the death of the King, marked the first official function for Mr. Breithaupt, sworn in last Monday as successor to Ray Lawson. The new lieutenant-governor was formerly Liberal member of the House of Commons for Waterloo North.

The speech said that "we meet in an atmosphere of deep and profound sorrow" at the death of the King.

"By his great courage, his unsurpassed devotion to duty, his simple dignity, his example as a husband and as a father, his fortitude in adversity and by his serenity of spirit, he has made an enduring impression upon his peoples throughout the world."

To Queen Elizabeth II "We tender . . . our loyalty, our devotion and our affection."

No Details Given

The speech gave no hint of the nature of the housing measures. But it mentioned that house construction had been slowed up because "the capacity of our people to build and to own their own homes is not equal to the demands on them to provide the initial financing."

The rural housing plan, forecast during the provincial election campaign last fall, would set up the crown corporation as an approved lending institution under the National Housing Act. Other measures would be introduced to provide for assistance to young farmers.

New rent control regulations to provide "simplicity of operation, clarity . . . and fairness to both landlord and tenant". A select legislature committee to be established to give rent controls "constant examination and study".

Sub-Zero Blasts Felt Across U.S.

CICAGO, Feb. 21 (AP)—Sub-zero blasts hit the snow-covered and storm-battered areas of the upper midwest today as cold weather spread over wide parts of the mid-continent.

The icy weather extended over Montana, the Dakotas and parts of Minnesota. The fresh blast of cold air pushed across the central Mississippi and Ohio River valleys.

Winds diminished and snow stopped over the Dakotas and Minnesota, but highway travel in many areas was slowed after a three-day storm of snow, rain and sleet.

Light snow fell today from New York northward and westward through the Great Lakes region.

Angry Citizens Shoot Bandits

MIDDLETON, Tenn., Feb. 21 (AP)—The often-robbed Middleton bank was held up again today by two gunmen who were cut down by mass fire from irate citizens as they fled.

The two holdup men were severely wounded as they tried to escape with a bank customer whom they had seized as a hostage.

The hostage, W. B. Sasser, Jr., an oil distributor, was not wounded.

The two were wounded by gunfire from about 20 citizens, who had been put on the alert by the latest robbery of the bank about a month ago. Today's was the fourth robbery in recent years.

Middleton, a community of 430 population, is in southwest Tennessee near the Mississippi line.

Allan Lyons Pleads GuiltyToManslaughter

KINGSTON, Feb. 21 —(CP)—Counsel for Allan Lyons, charged with murder in the knife-slaying of his wife, today entered a plea of guilty of manslaughter.

Arthur Martin of Toronto entered his client's plea, which was accepted by Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney.

Mr. Justice J. M. King said a verdict of not guilty of murder but guilty of manslaughter should be returned by the jury.

The jury agreed and Mr. Justice King remanded Lyons for sentence at a later date.

Break Sea Tradition Force Skipper Leave Ship First

BOSTON, Feb. 21. (AP)—A Coast Guard officer Tuesday night told how crewmen of the severed Fort Mercer threw tradition to the storms by forcing their ailing skipper to jump for safety despite his plea he be the last to leave the wreck. The story was told in Portland, Me., by Cmdr. Joseph Naab of the Coast Guard cutter Yakutat which plucked the skipper, F. C. C. Paetzel, 48, of Houston, Tex., and three other crew members from the Fort Mercer's bow.

Other developments in the disaster of the two tankers which broke in halves during a storm off Chatham, Mass., last Monday:

Two commercial tugs today were towing the stern half of the Fort Mercer with 13 seamen aboard toward Block Island at three knots—about the speed of a leisurely walk.

The Coast Guard cutter Eastwind was scheduled to dock this forenoon at Castle Island, South Boston, with the last three of 21 survivors from the stern of Fort Mercer.

A Coast Guard inquiry into the Fort Mercer disaster was set to get under way in Boston at 10 a.m. EST.

In Poor Order

Crew members of the tanker Pendleton told an inquiry board Wednesday that in several respects the vessel's equipment was in poor order. Both halves of the Pendleton are hard aground.

The bow of the Fort Mercer was sunk by Coast Guard gunfire Wednesday night to eliminate what was considered "a menace to navigation."

Cmdr. Naab told how Second Mate Willard F. Fahrner, 28, of Winthrop, Mass., and Third Mate Vincent A. Galdon, 22, of Bayonne, N.J., forced Capt. Paetzel to break the age-old tradition that a master is the last to leave his ship.

"They forced him to jump," Naab said. "They knew he was suffering from pneumonia and frostbitten feet and wouldn't make it later. If the skipper had not jumped when he did we wouldn't have gotten him."

Three hours later Galdon and Fahrner—tied to each other because they had only one life preserver between them—jumped into the water and were hauled aboard the Yakutat.

Slow Trip

On the waters of Nantucket Sound, commercial tugs headed for the lee of the land in pulling the stern half of the Fort Mercer on its slow and deliberate trip toward Block Island and eventually New York.

The Coast Guard reported the sea is still rough but added there were signs that it would begin to calm down.

The 13 aboard were the last of 84 men who were on the Mercer and the Pendleton when a northeaster cracked them both across the middle. Six are dead, eight are missing and presumed dead and 57 were rescued.

Quebec Blizzard Stalls Train

STE. THERESE, Que., Feb. 21—(CP).—Forty-four persons are stranded near this lonely Gaspe Peninsula village, because their Canadian National Railways train was virtually snowed under in a blizzard Monday night. All, including four women and two children, are safe.

About half, all men, including the six crew members, are still on the train, crowded in the baggage and express cars heated by the slowly-puffing locomotive.

The women and children were taken into homes near the stalled train while more than 15 men stumbled 1¼ miles through the storm to a hotel near here.

The train, which left Matapedia, Que., Monday morning, is stalled 45 miles from Gaspe, the end of its 200-mile run. Ste. Therese is on the southeastern coast of Gaspe Peninsula.

A rotary plow on rail; sent from Chandler to free the seven-car train, Wednesday night was reported at Grande Riviere, about eight miles from here. It is making slow progress.

A C.N.R. official at Campbellton, N.B., said a snowplow is moving in the opposite direction from Gaspe. He said the train should be able to move late tonight.

Maritimes Storm Keeps Mines Idle

Sydney, N.S., Feb. 21—(CP)—Three of Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation's top-producing mines were idle today as the aftermath of a two-day storm of snow, sleet and gale-force winds, one of the worst to strike the Maritimes in Years.

Three other pits did not hoist Wednesday due to a lack of coal cars, lying snow-bound in railway sidings.

Most roads are blocked in Prince Edward Island and the only traffic at Summerside was two trips by Government plows to bring emergency cases to hospital.

In New Brunswick, railway men have been battling snowdrifts for almost a week as drifts reaching 10 feet in height caused considerable delay in train schedules.

Fowler died Nov. 21 of a gunshot wound in the neck at a small trailer in which the three men lived in the bush of nearby Wilmot township.

Steel Strike To Be Decided

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 21 (AP).—Steel-hungry America should learn today whether the unit Steelworkers' Union (C.I.O.) will go through with a paralyzing strike set for midnight Saturday. The steel industry is gambling the walkout will be postponed.

Philip Murray, president of both the C.I.O. and the Steelworkers, summoned his top strategy-makers here to make the union decision.

An executive board meeting was called for 10 a.m. E..S.T. and the wage policy committee was due to meet at 2 p.m. E.S.T.

The industry roared full speed ahead while the union officials met. When a strike is threatened, the industry usually begins an orderly shutdown process. It requires from four days to a week to cool furnaces without damaging them.

Close observers felt the union would extend the strike deadline so the Wage Stabilization Board would have more time to recommend a settlement in a controversy over a new contract that expired Jan. 1.

Legislature Opening

A select committee of the legislature would be set up to supervise and to study the province's rent control regulations.

The government planned to abolish in certain cases the ban on actions against the crown as represented by the province of Ontario without Her Majesty's consent.

Expand Phone Lines

Further legislation would deal with modernization, expansion and improvement of rural telephone lines. The province's Hydro-Electric Power Commission had been asked a year ago to undertake this work.

Proposals would be laid before the legislature "designed to establish a sound and permanent basis for assistance to our mining municipalities." For the last year a special committee representing the government, the municipalities concerned and the mining industry had been studying this problem.

A committee representing interests concerned had been studying the general problem of provincial-municipal relations. The government's attentions were directed toward solution of fiscal and other administrative problems of municipalities.

Progress Satisfactory

Satisfactory progress was being made on expansion of the provincial highways system despite shortages of materials and restrictions on public works requested by the Federal government as an anti-inflation measure. A safety campaign was being pressed and emphasis would be placed on solution of municipal highway problems.

The speech forecast establishment of a $40 monthly pension to all totally and permanently disabled persons between 18 and 65, not covered by any other government assistance program. This legislation also was forecast in the election campaign.

The legislature would be called on to ratify the agreement reached with the Federal government last December under which Ontario would undertake development of the Canadian half of the power resources in the international section of the St. Lawrence River, in conjunction with construction of an all-Canadian seaway canal.

Provincial grants for education had increased in the last year. Increasing population led to higher costs. The government feels "that the capacity of our people to meet these costs must be balanced most carefully with the real and essential needs" so that high standards could be preserved.

The speech also forecast continuing agricultural research; legislation to improve and strengthen the Workmen's Compensation Act; a new and revised Companies Act, dealing with incorporation of companies; clarification and extension of mothers' allowances; consolidation and revision of laws concerning Crown timber; proposals aimed at control of taking fish and game by using aircraft; extension of facilities for treatment of alcoholism among prisoners, carried on as an experiment in a 30-bed clinic at Mimico Reformatory; substantial progress had been made in civil defence organization and work would be completed this year in standardization of fire fighting equipment.

Further measures would deal with treatment of cancer including a Bill to establish an institute of radiotherapy to manage and direct a cancer centre at Wellesley Hospital in Toronto and other outside clinics: Ontario had made great progress in cancer research and the speech mentioned particularly the use of the cobalt bomb at Victoria Hospital, London.

Oil Industry Strike Ordered In U.S.

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 21 (AP)—A strike in the United States oil industry was called Wednesday night for March 3.

"We're going to hit where it hurts," said O. A. (Jack) Knight, president of the Oil Workers International Union (C.I.O.), one of the 22 unions joining in the strike.

Knight and the other members of the strike committee refused to reveal where the strikes in support of a demand for a 25-cent-an-hour pay raise, will be called.

The time is 12:01 local time.

The pay scale now averages $2.10 an hour. Most companies have offered increases of 10 cents an hour.

Queen's Title Debated In UK

LONDON, Feb. 21. (Reuters)—The official title of Queen Elizabeth II is in doubt. Different forms of the Royal title have been used at the ceremonies following the death of the King—the Queen's accession and the King's funeral. The old official style was used at the funeral: "By the grace of God, of Great Britain, Ireland and the British Dominions beyond the seas, Queen, defender of the faith." A newer wording was used in the London proclamation of the accession: "By the grace of God, Queen of this realm and of her other realms and territories, head of the Commonwealth, defender of the faith."

Wording of the accession proclamations varied in Commonwealth capitals.

The pressure for revision of the official title is largely the result of changes in the British Empire or Commonwealth during the reign of the late King. India, Pakistan and Ceylon have become members of the Commonwealth instead of Empire territories. Canada has severed her last legal link with Britain and now is bound to the Commonwealth only by the traditional link of loyalty to the Crown.

Asks Clarification

The problem of the Queen's title was brought up Wednesday by Patrick Gordon Walker, former Labor government Commonwealth relations secretary, at a meeting of the Commonwealth Correspondents' Association.

He called for clarification, while pointing out that by statute the title cannot be changed except with the assent of all Commonwealth parliaments.

The main departure from the old form has been the inclusion of the words "head of the Commonwealth."

"The use of 'realms' and other changes in the London proclamation are very striking and indicate future developments," said Gordon Walker. "We can also say that there has been a further important stage in the disappearance of the word 'Dominions' and in the substitution of 'Commonwealth' for either 'Empire' or 'British Commonwealth.'

"The words 'British Dominions beyond the seas' have disappeared from the proclamations in the United Kingdom, Australia and New Zealand and have only for accidental reasons been retained in Canada and South Africa.

"At the same time Canada has substituted 'Canada' for Dominion of Canada'."

Tells Farmers Not To Panic

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 (CP) — Dr. Orjan Hall, assistant chief veterinarian for Canada, said today "there is no point in getting panicky" about the infectious animal disease uncovered in the Regina area.

"We know that it is a form of stomatitis, but we don't know whether it is any more serious than we believe. That is why we are undertaking laboratory tests," Dr. Hall said in an interview.

The tests are being undertaken at departmental laboratories at nearby Hull, Que. Dr. Hall said he could not allow the public into the labs for fear of spreading the disease.

Results of the tests, he added, may be obtained within the next few days, and until that time there could be no definite indication of the type of stomatitis that has hit southern Saskatchewan.

Meanwhile, Allied headquarters in Tokyo warned that every step forward in truce talks "will be followed by a step backward until Moscow is convinced that the final decision for Korea must be made without further delay."

Strong Gains Noted On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP) — Early afternoon prices held firmly to strong morning stock market gains today in steady dealings.

All sections opened higher as yesterday's rally gathered support. By noon the exchange's industrial, base metal and Western oil indices gained more than two points.

Volume for the first three hours was 1,088,000 shares.

Papers, utilities and manufacturing companies led industrials higher while steels, liquors, refining oils and miscellaneous issues drew firm support. Agricultures, foods and banks held gains and losses in balance but constructions and textiles eased.

Western oil gains outnumbered losses about four to one. Anglo-Canadian, Calgary and Edmonton, Canada Southern, General Petroleum A, Pacific Petroleum, Royalite and Security Free posted advances ranging to 60 cents.

Base metal leaders were strong. Consolidated Smelters, East Sullivan, Golden Manitou, International Nickel, Noranda, Normetal, Quemont, Steep Rock and Waite Amulet pushed sharply higher.

Senior golds were firm. Secondary issues, however, posted a majority of penny losses.

Three Men Killed In Head-on Crash

BUFFALO, Mich., Feb. 21 (AP) —Three men in a car bearing British Columbia licence plates were killed Tuesday night in a head-on collision with a truck on a highway near Harbert, about 20 miles north of the Michigan-Indiana line.

The dead were tentatively identified as John F. McCran, 18, and Leonard R. Bennett, both of Toronto, and Theodore Dugan, 22. Leare papers indicated Dugan was a member of the air patrol at Selridge Field, headed for Melrose Park, Ill.

Police said the three were pinned in the car when it collided with the truck driven by 35-year-old Everett Lung, of Beulah, Mich. Lung was only slightly injured.

Officers theorized that Dugan was hitch-hiking to the Illinois address and was picked up by the two Canadians, who were possibly heading for British Columbia.

Two Masked Bandits Hold Up Restaurant

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 — (CP) — Two masked bandits, one of them armed, held up the Green Valley restaurant on the Prescott Highway a few miles from Ottawa early today and escaped with close to $400 in cash.

The robbery was carried out within a few feet of some 15 restaurant customers and 10 staff members who were unaware of the holdup until the men had fled.

One of the bandits wore a silk stocking mask and the other had his face half-covered with a handkerchief.

Price Squeeze In '52, CFA Told

COBOURG, Feb. 21. (ENS)—Reports of the provincial meeting and plans for the coming year were discussed at the annual meeting of the Northumberland Federation of Agriculture held at Brighton. Earle Drope of Harwod presided. Delegates were Mrs. M. W. Woods of Warkworth and Harry Doxtator of Dartford.

It was pointed out by Mr. Doxtator that 1952 appeared shaping up to a period of squeeze, with stationary or declining prices on one side and rising costs of production on the other. The dollar was no longer considered the reliable yardstick to measure value. In 1901 an average Canadian worker had to work 21 minutes to buy a quart of milk but now it takes only 12 minutes. The activities surrounding the central marketing agency for hogs and poultry were two matters that would require attention this year, it was stated.

The address of A. G. Skinner, agricultural representative for Haldimand, at the provincial meeting, was mentioned as of special value in the field of co-operative activities. It was emphasized that marketing agencies are to be used as a means of insuring stable prices to the producer and consumer, not as levers to boost prices or contribute to inefficiency. Plans were made for the County Poultry Committee, in co-operation with the Federation, to bring a special speaker for the meeting toward the end of this month.

Lonely Smoke-Eater

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 21. (ENS) — One-man fire department Archie Stewart today doused a chimney fire here at 7:20 a.m., single-handed. When the alarm sounded, Mr. Stewart went to the fire hall, found nobody there, took out the truck, put out the fire, and put the truck away. "All the time I was driving, I was looking for somebody to go with me, but there wasn't a soul," he said. The fire was at the home of Mrs. Percy Hart on River Front.

Maintenance Costs Cause T.C.S. Deficit

TORONTO, Feb. 21.—Increased maintenance costs brought on Trinity College School's first deficit in 12 years, Principal Philip Ketchum told a T.C.S. old boys' banquet here.

He told the 200 old boys that a sustaining fund designed to keep the school on a sound financial basis will be established this year. Higher fees this year were expected to balance the budget.

Useful Punishment

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa —(CP)—Schoolmasters here have discarded the ancient practice of punishing scholars by making them write out so many lines of an exercise. "Writing lines is a profitless occupation and very bad for the handwriting", said one headmaster. Instead, the boys are being given various tasks considered useful to them.

Why A Drama Festival In Peterborough?

Next week this city will be the scene of the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival for the first time since that festival began in 1932. Perhaps some of our citizens will wonder why Peterborough is host to an affair of this kind, which has hitherto been unknown here. The answer is a simple one; Peterborough is becoming increasingly important in the life of Eastern Ontario, and the isolation which has for so long surrounded it is being broken down. And as increasing importance brings responsibility in many spheres, it is fitting that Peterborough should be visited by the Drama Festival, which is an important activity which forms a link among all the important centres in this part of the Province.

• • •

The Eastern Ontario Drama Festival is one of thirteen regional festivals which are held every year, all of which are visited by the same adjudicator. From the best plays seen at these regional festivals several are chosen to compete at a Dominion Festival, which this year will be held at St. John, N.B. The purpose of these festivals is to improve the standard of theatre work in Canada, and since 1932, when the festivals were inaugurated, the improvement has been very great.

• • •

Until five years ago, Peterborough was not active in theatre work. Since then it has developed in that direction until it now possesses several active theatre groups, and has a one-act play festival of its own each spring. In 1949 the Peterborough Little Theatre was one of the groups chosen to compete in the Dominion Festival. The Eastern Festival, until this year, has been held in Kingston, Ottawa or Brockville; feeling that the time had come for Peterborough to play host, the Eastern Ontario Drama League decided to make Peterborough the scene of the festival this year.

• • •

The nature of such festivals as this requires some explanation to those who have not previously attended one of them. The plays are presented for the pleasure of the audience, but also before a judge who, when the performance is over, delivers a detailed criticism of what he has seen. These judges are brought from England, in order that they may not be subject to any local pressure; they are bi-lingual; they are qualified for their work, either as actors, directors or drama critics. Some of their criticism is severe. Let the audience next week bear in mind that it takes courage for a group of amateur actors to submit themselves to such public criticism, and that they do it in the hope of improving their work; no professional company would choose to undergo such an ordeal. Festival audiences feel that the adjudication is as much a part of the evening as the play itself, and the adjudicator's comments assist not only the actors, but give the audience a valuable lesson in how to watch and judge a play.

• • •

Peterborough contains a large and keen audience for plays, as the attendance at the Summer Theatre, and the Little Theatre, shows. We recommend to the local theatre-lovers that they attend at least some of the performances in the Eastern Ontario festival, for the list of plays to be shown is an attractive one. Drama festivals combine the pleasures of theatre-going and horse-racing, for not only are there the performances and the adjudications to divert you, but also the fun of guessing which group will win, and backing your judgement against that of the expert.

• • •

Finally, there is a consideration of civic pride and civic duty which enters into this matter. Groups from Ottawa, Brockville and Belleville, as well as from smaller places, will be in Peterborough for the competition; it is our job, as citizens of Peterborough, to give them the sort of welcome and the sort of audience which will make them like Peterborough and remember it kindly. The drama Festivals have done a fine job in getting people from all over Canada to know one another, and to know cities which they might not otherwise visit. This is a chance to show that Peterborough can be as gracious and friendly a host as any other city in Eastern Ontario.

A star of the Metropolitan Opera says that singers should not drink. We would be happy if someone could arrange it so that drinkers would not sing.

If Slandered Across The Border

Canada is in so neighbourly a position to the United States that the very coziness of it can be embarrassing. We share the same continental bed and speak the same language, but there are differences, even in the way we use the language. In the United States, a newspaper, a columnist, an acquaintance or even a stranger can say that old so-and-so is so-and so.

The American person slandered may get red in the face but often that is all he can do, for the laws of libel and slander in the States are interpreted much more leniently than they are in Canada. In Canada, if a person is called the very same so-and-so, the name-caller can be fined or put in jail. But what happens if an American shouts slander across the border? He can do it, very easily, by radio.

Chief Justice McRuer ruled on Tuesday that a case may be tried in Ontario courts involving alleged slander of an Ontario resident by a broadcaster in the United States. American air waves come freely into thousands of Canadian homes; advertisers on American radio stations recognize this and pay for programs to advertise their wares in Canada. If on one such program a commentator says harsh things about a Canadian resident he (or his station or the sponsoring commercial company) may be found guilty of slander, according to the Canadian code, even though in American interpretation, he had uttered only harsh words.

It is a very interesting legal problem created by modern developments in communication, and one likely to arise chiefly between Canada and the United States. Other countries are not so neighbourly; they do not speak the same languages and foreign radio stations are not habitually listened to by thousands of nationals. For instance, a French station could broadcast the harshest calumny against an English person or firm, but England would be unconcerned because the broadcast slander would not be picked up widely in England.

Since it is possible for an American radio station to defame a Canadian resident in the hearing of hundreds of thousands of Canadians in their homes, Canadian courts must act to protect citizens from this defamation. The method and extent of court protection has been decided by Mr. Justice McRuer.

New Commander For Korea

Brigadier J. M. Rockingham, who took the Canadian brigade to Korea and has fought it there for a year, is returning to Canada on rotational duty, and Brigadier M. P. Bogert is going to assume command. No better choice of commander could have been made. Brigadier Bogert earned a sterling reputation as a regimental and brigade commander during the last war, among his own troops as well in staff and public eyes. He lead the 2nd Infantry Brigade of the First Division through some of the hardest hill-fighting in Italy. The hills of Korea as well as its bad winter and hot summer weather will have an air of familiarity to an officer who fielded a battalion and a brigade in Italy.

The replacement of Brigadier Rockingham is a final phase of the complete repatriation of the original men in the Korean Brigade. All who went out a year or more ago will be returned to leave and duty in Canada by next month. Even veterans of six months' service in Korea are coming home. This policy of rotation not only gives the men in combat duty a deserved return to Canada but permits battle-indoctrination and foreign field training for others. Although war is a grievous condition, it is the best training-ground for the art and science of waging it.

If the protracted truce negotiations ever amount to anything, Brigadier Bogert may not have to lead the brigade in battle, but rather condition it to occupational duties. For the last three months the infantry have been static and the front quiet. A truce would put a formal end to fighting which has already languished, on the ground at least. There are a few artillery exchanges, and air sorties continue. Otherwise, the Korean war is now one of watching and waiting.

Canadians In Moscow

A new vice-consul has been named to serve at the Canadian Embassy in Moscow; he is Pierre Trottier of Quebec. The Embassy is one in name only; Canada and the U.S.S.R. have not exchanged ambassadors since the Ottawa spy trials at the end of the war. Head of the Canadian mission in Moscow is a charge d'affaires, and the complete Canadian staff there is made up of only six officials; the charge d'affaires, a military attache, an air attache, a second secretary, a third secretary, and a vice-consul.

In comparison Russia puts up a big front (to do a lot of back-stage work?) in Ottawa. The Russian Embassy staff in Ottawa consists of a charge d'affaires, a counsellor, a first secretary, two second secretaries, two third secretaries, three attaches whose jobs are not specified, a military attache for air, an assistant air attache, an assistant naval attache and an assistant military attache. Total—14. Moscow seems to take more interest in Canada than Canada apparently betrays in Russia.

Prince Rudolph: A New Scandal

By G. E. R. GEDYE (In Vienna)

WHEN on the morning of January 30, 1889, the Crown Prince Rudolf of Austria-Hungary and the 18-year-old Baroness Marie Vetsera were found lying dead in a bedroom of the former's hunting lodge in Mayerling, near Vienna, the Emperor Franz-Joseph set the powerful machinery of a feudal autocracy at work to remove all trace of the scandal. In the end, he achieved precisely the opposite. His precautions included the ghastly coach drive from Mayerling to the Abbey of Heiligenkreuz, in which the body of Marie Vetsera, dressed for a journey, was seated beside her cousin, Baron Stockau, who was ordered to see to her secret interment, while her distracted mother was for days refused all information as to her fate. The Catholic Church co-operated, and the body of the suicide Crown Prince—who was declared to have died of heart failure—was buried with all religious and imperial pomp in the Hapsburg vault of the Capuchin monks in Vienna.

IT was all in vain. Immediately rumours began to spread, and at intervals during the ensuing 45 years new versions of "the Mayerling tragedy", fresh adventures of the "romantic lover Rudolf" found their way into print. Then Rudolf seemed to have become one of the many closed chapters of Hapsburg history.

Today, sixty-three years after his death, a new "Rudolf scandal" has been started by an action in the courts, in which Baron Robert Pachmann seeks to establish that he is the legitimate son and heir of the former heir to the Austro-Hungarian Empire.

✧ ✧ ✧

NO one could accuse the Baron of undue haste in pressing his claim, since he has only now started the action at the age of 69. The story he has put before the courts begins in 1879, when the Crown Prince was stationed in Prague as a general in the Imperial Army. Here he met a celebrated beauty of the day, the young Archduchess Maria Antoinette of Toscana, who was then Abbess of a Prague convent. The wayward Crown Prince decided to make the Abbess his wife, but a veto was not unnaturally imposed by the Emperor. Baron Pachmann alleges that on New Year's Day, 1880, Rudolf brought her to Vienna, and was secretly married to her by the Suffraga Bishop Dr. Marschall in the Guard's Chapel on the Rennweg, Vienna.

✧ ✧ ✧

ACCORDING to the Baron, the "secret wife" —who was consumptive—was installed in a palatial house on the Riviera, where Rudolf spent much of his free time with her. On February 1, 1883, he left Vienna for Cannes (accompanied by the now almost legendary Bratfisch, his "Leibfiaker" or personal coachman, whom history records to have been his close companion on many wild adventures). Three days later Maria Antoinette gave birth at Cannes to a healthy boy, but herself died the same week. The Court Chamberlain heaved a sigh of relief at the prospect of having one "Rudolf scandal" the less to conceal. (Rudolf had meantime contracted an approved match with the Princess Stephanie of Belgium.) There remained only the question of Rudolf's son, the baby "Archduke Carl Rudolf Salvator". The coach driver, Bratfisch, came to the rescue.

✧ ✧ ✧

CLOSE to his humble dwelling in Vienna's 15th district, lived Baron Reinrich Columban Pachmann, whose infant son Robert died on March 8. With Rudolf's consent, Baron Heinrich (says the present plaintiff) agreed to conceal Robert's death and to bring up the little "Archduke" in his place and under his name. By Rudolf's orders, Count Enno d'Alberti was sent to join the Pachmann household to supervise the boy's education. On his deathbed, says Baron Pachmann, d'Alberti revealed to him his true identity. He was then seventeen.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN support of his case, the claimant's lawyer, Dr. Zeller, laid such piles of documents before the court that the judge, Dr. Koklbauer, promptly adjourned the hearing for a month to enable him to study them carefully. Baron Robert Pachmann—as he is today—offers various explanations as to why he has waited 51 years before presenting his case. His greatest difficulty, he asserts, was to establish that the birth, baptismal, death and burial entries in various registers for Robert Pachmann had been erased and covered over by fresh entries. Only modern developments of Rontgen and quartz rays, he says, finally made this possible. He had just prepared his case when the outbreak of the last war made it impossible to go on, and since then he has been occupied in re-tracing documents scattered by the war.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Viennese are inclined to lend an ear to any new Crown Prince Rudolf story which looks like something which might have been hushed up by the old Emperor. The courts are not likely to show any such tendency; and the Baron's first task is, in the Austrian legal phrase, "to challenge his legitimate birth". If he succeeds, he has then to establish that he is really Carl Rudolf Salvator of Hapsburg. After that, says his lawyer, he intends to lay claim to "the Hapsburg treasure in London". This, according to the accepted version in Vienna, was first deposited by Franz the Second, and increased by Ferdinand and Franz Joseph. Supposed to amount to £700,000 it can be inherited only by a direct male descendant of Franz Joseph, and thus could not be claimed by the Archduke Otto, as Franz Joseph was his great-great uncle.

✧ ✧ ✧

JURISTS consider that the courts will regard with some scepticism the statement that the "secret marriage" was performed by Bishop Marschall, since a few years later, this Bishop officiated at the marriage of Rudolf and Stephanie.

Baby Bonus And Milk

(Kitchener-Waterloo Record)

The Medicine Hat Milk Producers Association came up recently with the fantastic suggestion that the Alberta government should pay "milk allowance" of $2.50 a month to every child getting Ottawa's baby bonus. This, they argue, would permit a two-cent rise in milk prices.

The Calgary Herald points out that with 301,000 children in Alberta getting baby bonus, the proposed "milk allowance" would cost Alberta taxpayers $750,000 a month or, $9,000,000 a year. Premier Manning has rejected the scheme.

AGREES ON BUS SERVICE

Sir: I agree with the letter sent in by "A Daily Standee". It is time the Monaghan South bus service had a real raking over the coals.

Twice within the last five days, members of this household have been left standing at the corner of Park St. and O'Connell Rd., because the driver failed to stop. Both instances occurred in broad daylight and neither one during a rush hour. In fact the driver was clearly signalled to stop.

In one case, this caused a small child to miss a medical appointment, and become sidetracked to the downtown area on another line. In another case it meant inconvenience in getting to the C.G.E. on time.

The commuting bus service northward to the factories is slender enough, and there seems to be no convenient means of return for Southenders at any time. We should at least expect courtesy and some reliable schedule on the trips which are so few and far between.

Lack of any type of service on Sunday is a definite inconvenience to everyone in the outlying district covered by this line; and, believe me, there are hundreds of us complaining, all the way from Romaine St. south to the Otonabee.

Yours for better service,
FORCED TO WALK.

PRAISES BAHA'I

Sir: Early last week, you published on your editorial page a letter from a W. J. Wan. Since none of the replies anticipated by Mr. Wan have materialized, he may have concluded either that his final paragraph became a perfect squelch, or that his readers are too content with their dogma to answer him with reason.

However there is one point which I should like to dispute with Mr. Wan. I do not agree with his rhetorical question: "Do not the followers of every religion yell at the top of their collective lungs, that theirs and theirs alone, is the only 'True One'?" In at least one religion of my acquaintance, the Baha'i World Faith, all the great living religions are accorded equal recognition, and the followers of this faith are encouraged to study the scriptures of these other religions in addition to their own. To these Baha'is, as they are called, the several religions of the world are not independent religions, but are all a part of the same religion; like several springs all being fed from the same source. The great living religions all have two things in common: a belief in one God and the Golden Rule. The essential teachings of all the prophets are consistent one with another, but the accumulation of dogma originally intended to clarify these teachings has resulted in obscuring them almost beyond recognition.

On the question of whether religion is "pure dogma", I again do not agree. In religion as in anything else certain assumptions must be made if we intend to progress further in studying it. Beyond the assumption that there is a God who is concerned for His creatures and that He periodically reveals His will to man through His manifestations, no more need be assumed to learn that religion is a powerful force in our daily lives. Though no one understands exactly what electricity is, millions of us are convinced of its existence through what it accomplishes for us. Similarly though all the meanings of scripture may not be fully understood by us, we can still demonstrate the effectiveness of the teachings by employing them in our daily life. Often it is through the results obtained that the original statements become clarified.

Yours,
EDWARD OLIVER.

EXAMINER MISTAKEN

Sir: In your editorial column of 18th February you express the hope that the Stone of Scone will be returned to England prior to the Coronation. (I refer, of course, to the Coronation of Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth I.)

If you were, like myself, a regular reader of the Examiner, you would have known that the Stone was returned many moons ago, and that His late Majesty was to be asked to use his influence to help have the Stone returned to Scotland.

Having allowed you some time for eye resting and yawning, I would like to draw your attention to one fact which you possibly don't know. That is, these same Scots Nationalists of whom you refer so sneeringly are loyal subjects of Her Majesty, and that although she has already been proclaimed Queen Elizabeth II in some Scots towns, the Commonwealth need have no fear, for, if and when the Queen has need of them, the Scots will, as always, be the first to work for her, fight for her, and, if necessary, die for her.

Yours truly,
BANNOCKBURN.

ED. NOTE: We acknowledge our error, which was caused by carelessness and stupidity.

WHAT IS HOSPITALS' ATTITUDE

Sir' In Friday's paper we were told that when Mr. Pearson was injured by the bullet from the cartridge, which he had thrown in the stove fire, Mrs. Pearson rushed for assistance. "Her first attempt to obtain aid from an off duty nurse who live nearby failed. The nurse informed Mrs. Pearson she was under bond, and forbidden by the Peterborough hospital where she is employed to administer first aid in any circumstance when not on duty."

Are we to believe that one or both of the Peterborough hospitals wish to prevent people from receiving first aid in an emergency, perhaps near death?

Yours truly,
TEMBO MAZAI.

DANGEROUS AIR TRICKS

Sir: I read your "Voice Of The People" in your daily newspaper, and think it is very interesting. After all, why can't we express our views in a democratic country? It is my belief that is how Hiterlism and Communism got a start.

Having read in daily newspapers and the radio about the sad tragedy of aeroplanes in Elizabeth, New Jersey, U.S.A., I would like to know why certain Peterborough flyers are not called a hazard, too.

We have one in our neighbourhood who seems to delight in zooming over our house and buildings, just a few feet higher than the roof-tops, and close enough to the ground we can hear him say Hello to his wife or children, whichever happen to be at the door or outside at the time. This goes on all during the warm weather. He had one crack-up last summer in the Stony Lake district and almost another one near Toronto a couple of weeks ago.

If a motorist runs his car into a ditch, whether it is intentional or not, he is soon hailed into court on a dangerous driving charge. Why not the airmen?

If there are no laws pertaining to the piloting of an aeroplane, let the pilot use a bit of common sense, anyway.

(Signed) TRUE FACTS.

THE END

The sermon went on and on and on. At last the vicar paused and asked, "What more, my friends, can I say?"

From the back of the church came a voice: "Amen."

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God.... And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power.... Howbeit we speak wisdom among them that are perfect: yet not the wisdom of this world, nor of the princes of this world, that come of nought....

But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God....

Now we have received, not the spirit of the world, but the spirit which is of God; that we might know the things that are freely given to us of God. (1 Cor. 2: 1, 4, 6, 9, 10, 12.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: for wisdom and might are his: and he changeth the times and the seasons: he removeth kings, and setteth up kings: he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding: he revealeth the deep and secret things: he knoweth what is in the darkness, and the light dwelleth with him. (Dan. 2: 20-22.)

Notable Concert Triumph For City Artists

The members' concert of the Community Concert Association Wednesday evening was a triumph of Peterborough talent and the large audience warmly showed that it recognized excellence. Its variety — 'cellist, dancer, singer and duet pianists at two instruments—increased the interest and showed the range of local accomplishment. It was a notable evening.

Gabriel Tatrallyay's two 'cello groups were a Corelli Sonata in D minor and a Hungarian Rhapsody by Popper. Corelli was a precusor of Bach, and had a graceful clarity and vigour in his writing which Mr. Tatrallyay's playing of the suite of dance-pieces did not fail to reveal. The David Popper rhapsody was aptly chosen. Not only is Popper familiar in any concert 'cellist's repertoire; this virtuoso Hungarian 'cellist was a compatriot of Mr. Tatrallyay, and at the end of the last century a professor in the Peterborough performer's native city of Budapest. Mr. Tatrallyay played the rhapsody with verve and got a good singing quality in the lyrical passages. The piano accompaniments, played by Olive Searles, were modestly mild.

Eurythmic Dancer

Dorothy Sullivan, dancer, gave an interpretation of the Strauss Blue Danube waltz (dance design by Chalif) in the first half of the program; and gypsy patterns and figures of her own designing in the second, based on Rossini music. She is an exponent of the Jaques-Dalcroze method of dancing, in which rhythms are translated in free moods, rather than through formal ballet modes. It was an interesting, even fascinating exposition. There were technical limitations of lighting and recorded music.

The lyric tenor, Anthony de Noble has a lovely, and by definition, not a big voice. He sang two groups of operatic and ballad songs, and gave an encore, as all performers during the evening were called on to do. All but one of his songs were sung in the original Italian. In his second group especially ('La Spagnola' by di Chiara and 'Una furtiva lacrima' by Donizetti) he had the feel of the hall and an appealing ease of voice. He gave a remarkable sympathetic and emotionally-controlled, sensitive account of the Donizetti aria from 'L'Elisir d'Amore.' His ballad encore lingers in the memory too.

Two Pianos

The outstanding artistic achievement of the evening was the playing by Agnes Loan Green and Christopher Gledhill on two pianos. The pianos were well matched in tone and resonance, and Mr. Gledhill's soft technique complemented the brilliance of Mrs. Green's. Their artistic integrity was manifest not only in their execution but also in their choice of numbers. Both works were masterpieces written by the composers for two keyboard instruments, though often transposed for other media; for instance, the nobly beautiful 'Variations' by Brahms on a grand theme by Haydn, most familiarly known in its orchestrated form. This was their first number. Their second item was Bach's two-instrument Concerto in C major, which was given with clarity, poise and happiness (for instance, the third, fugual movement), and with sensitive appreciation of theme and mood—notably in the middle adagio movement. If it was a tour de force, it was for the audience a wayfaring into lovely music pure and lucid of heart.

The organizer of this concert, Mrs. Walter Perry, is to be complimented. It was a demonstration of Peterborough's musical capacity.—O.D.C.

Driver Fined $65 On Guilty Pleas

Two charges were laid against one of the drivers involved in an accident at George and Romaine Sts., shortly before midnight Wednesday.

In police court today, Gerald Reid, 22, 450 George St., pleaded guilty to driving without an operator's licence and also to driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol.

He was fined $50 and $2.50 costs on the impaired charge, or one month, and $10 and $2.50 costs or ten days on the second charge. Magistrate W. R. Philp said if the fines are not paid, the sentences are to run concurrently.

In submitting a summary of the evidence, crown attorney John A. Bradshaw said Reid was driving south on George St., when his truck skidded into a car travelling north.

The driver of the car, R. B. M. Jameson, 544 Harvey St., told police he saw the truck coming toward him on his side of the road. He said he pulled to the right curb and stopped. The truck then skidded into the Jameson car.

E. Laneiault, a passenger in the truck driven by Reid, received a slight scratch over his right eye.

Constable Sherman Keliele investigated and reported that Reid had been drinking, was unsteady on his feet, and his breath smelled strongly of alcohol.

Petes Lengthen Puck Lead With a 7-5 Victory Against Belleville Hawks

Taking a 7-5 O.H.A. senior "B" victory over Belleville Hawks here last night, the Petes lengthened their lead in the Central Ontario hockey group to a game and a half over Eagles, leaving Hawks in the third slot. In the cleanest contest of the season, but one penalty was drawn, a minor to Trumble in the first frame. Play was fast throughout, with the Petes having a good margin in the second period, the other two heats being fairly even on scoring, though Goalie Leforte was much busier each stanza than Ray Harding.

Striking fast and early, Belleville racked up a 3-0 lead in the first half of the initial inning, though the Petes came back later that period with two. The homesters peppered Leforte through the second chukker and rapped in three goals without a return. Each side tallied twice in the third, Belleville battling back in the last half of it to press hard. Though fast, the game was scrambly in spots. Gene Sheedy handled the winners, with Jim Ellis away, and Red Doran was a Quinte absentee.

AIDS ON THREE — Freddy Garvey aided on three goals last night to help Petes in their 7-5 win over Belleville. Don Floyd, whose picture was in the previous night, scored a trio of markers.

This Trio Stars

Starring on the home attack was the line of Garvey, Floyd and Collins. Don Floyd scored three of the Petes' goals, Fred Garvey had three assists, and Ted Collins a pair. Gus Leonard and Curly Mason each had a goal and an assist, Junior West and Jake Wade notching a marker each. Single assists went to Jack Mortimer and George Steele, while Arn Dugan was in on two. Ray Harding stopped a lot of hot thrusts, especially in the first and final frames.

Goal scorers for the losers were Peter Jones, Doug Day, Keith MacDonald, Don Barrett and Vern Goyer, the latter being dangerous at all times. Two assists apiece went to MacDonald, Day and Barrett, all having a good evening on the attack, as Jack Wardhaugh and Jud Semark each had one assist. Leforte had plenty to do in the visitors' net and made many fine saves.

Jones scored early on in close combination with Wardhaugh and Semark. It looked a minute later as if a Mason-Mortimer thrust had paid off but Belleville argued with the goal judge that the puck had not crossed the goal line, and they were suported by Referee Louis Lecompte, who ruled it no goal. Day came back to slap in a passout on a play with MacDonald and Barrett, and MacDonald added one more on a rebound with Day and Barrett starting the play. Harding was down after one save when the puck was rifled into the hemp. West got one back shortly after from the side of the crease on a fast play with Steele and Gus Leonard. It was fast, clean and pretty even at this time, and later Floyd fluked one from Garvey when it went in off a Belleville penalty just before the bell.

Racked It Up

He was back in the second when Floyd tipped in a forward pass on a play with Collins and Garvey to tie it up, and the Petes never looked back again. They bored in throughout to give Leforte a hot time of it this period, though occasionally Harding had to jump, too, as play swung up and down. Late in the stanza, Wade blasted home a hot shot from outside defence, partly screened, with Mason and Dugan drawing assists. Just a solit second before the bell, as the Petes kept pouring in hard, Mason cuffed home another in a ganging attack with Dugan and Mortimer on the goalie's doorstep.

The Petes started strong again in the third with a quickie by Don Floyd, who backhanded home a honey on a forward pass from Garvey and Collins. Gus Leonard made it 7-3 then on a rebound in a crease scramble. Belleville battled away to the finish in play that swept up and down at a keen clip to make the rival netters stop to turn aside rubber. They finally whittled the count some on Barrett's close-in slap shot of a passout on a bit of work engineered by MacDonald and Day in the Petes' corner. They tore in harder then and got one more with a minute and a half to go on nifty, fast stick-handling down the ice by Goyer and classy finish to whisk the cookie into the oven. Both sides were stepping high, wide and fairly handsome at the gong.

Teams:

Belleville: Goal, Leforte; defence, Reeves and Semark; centre, Goyer; wings, Wardhaugh and Jones, alternates, Barrett, MacDonald, Day, Bastedo, Trumble, Desjardins and Francis.

Ptees: Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and E. Leonard; centre, G. Leonard; wings, West and Steele; alternates, Wade, Peters, Collins, Garvey, Floyd, Mason, Dugan and J. Mortimer.

May Come To Terms

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 21 (AP) —Sal Maglie, 23-game winner for the National League pennant-winning New York Giants last year, may come to salary terms with the club in a day or two it was indicated here today. Maglie has been a holdout. It was reported from Niagara Falls, N. Y., that Maglie said he is willing to accept a compromise if the Giants come up with an offer. Maglie reportedly has been seeking a $40,000 contract while the New York front office made a final offer of $35,000.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Let's see the weekend basketball setup. First C.O.S.S.A. junior "B" playoff is tonight at 7.30 in the Collegiate gym, Port Perry vs. St. Peter's. Same floor tomorrow eve sees three games, starting at six: S.P.S. versus P.C.V.S. in a junior "B" loop game, Oshawa Central vs. P.C.V.S. in a junior "A" tilt which the Garnet and Gray must win to stay in, and Oshawa Central vs. P.C.V.S. in a group senior "A" final, Oshawa holding a three-point lead. The Collegiate junior club has a bye into O.A.B.A. Southern Ontario semi-finals. Nurses play Black's at the Y.W tonight to wind up their schedule, though they have a couple of postponed contests yet

* * * * * * *

Extra keen O.M.H.A. puck competition is a cinch tonight at Civic Arena with elimination a sure thing for three of the six clubs. Bantam St. Peter's have a one-goal lead on Oshawa in the first one, Martin-Hewitt midgets lead by three markers over Oshawa opposition in the next number, while Outboard Marines are down to the Motor City juveniles by two goals. So, it'll be in or out in provincial playdowns here this evening, and the games should attract a hefty crowd. Don Smedmor's good P.M.H.A. representatives are all hopeful of hurdling the Oshawa obstacle and continuing for a spell yet this semester. Bert Hill coaches Marines, Moon Wootton the midget lads, and Pat Doherty the bantams here.

Three Clubs See Action

Our three O.H.A. teams have Friday action, with the junior "B" Oddfellows playing Belleville Hawklets a group semi-final in Civic Arena. Don't pass that one up, as it'll be a do-or-die effort for Johnny Godfrey's gang. Playoffs really put a team on the spot as you have to win in a hurry or hang 'em up for another year. The Petes trek to Bella Villa to tackle the Quinte Hawks again, while Eagles are off to Kingston the same p.m. On Saturday eve here, Eagles play Petes that game postponed from the day the King was buried, and that'll be an attractive offering to wind up the week. Schedule is rapidly approaching the finish, with playoffs early in March.

* * * * * * *

The Petes, by beating Belleville 7-5 here last night, crept closer to clinching first place in their senior "B" puck race. A few more victories and they can't be dislodged. Hawks struck fast and early but didn't have too much left the rest of the route, while Petes kept fighting and had a big edge in the middle heat and more of the play in the third. Don Floyd was flying to get three goals, and Freddy Garvey and Ted Collins were clicking, also, to make it Petes' best line on the night's play. Jake Wade turned in a solid effort, too, and Ray Harding had to hustle to keep out some Quinte counters. But Leforte had a busier cage evening by a good margin. It was a fast fray and quite clean from start to finish. A slim crowd on deck.

Oddfellows Even Series

Coming from behind in a furious third-period drive in Belleville last p.m., Oddfellows whipped the Hawklets 7-5 to square their O.H.A. junior "B" best-of-five semi-final series at a win each. Third one is here Friday and fourth here next Wednesday. Hawklets get the fifth fray, if it goes that far. Red Wasson was almost unbeatable for the Godfrey hustlers last night, and Buster Jensen sparked their attack with four goals, but it was essentially a team effort by a bunch who wouldn't curl up toward the end. More than 1,000 fans yelled plenty at the hot going as Links outscored the smart homesters 4-1, Red Doran being on deck to coach the Chicago junior "B" farm club. Ice wasn't so hot again in the Quinte arena. This Friday fray should pack in a walloping big crowd at Civic, eh?

A Canadian Press dispatch from Oslo says the winter Olympics had their first big rhubarb yesterday over the style of hockey served up by Canadian and U.S.A. teams. An American and a Swede pushed each other about briefly to draw majors, and a Canuck also drew a major for taking a swing at a Czech in their tussle. A newspaper called the Canadians and Americans "rowdies" and demanded that "the pollution of European hockey by overseas teams" be ended. However, 'tis reported that it was the Canadians' solid body-checking—which is quite legal—to which the fans objected. That and, no doubt, the fact that their favorites were beaten. They evidently like their puck play of the dainty variety over in Norway.

Roth Increases Scoring Margin

TORONTO, Feb. 21 (CP). — Mickey Roth of Stratford Indians increased his margin as the leading scorer in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A series by one point last week before a fractured hand put him out of action.

Official statistics released by the league Wednesday showed that Roth picked up one assist to send his scoring total up to 111 points—50 goals and 61 assists, both tops in each department.

The statistics, as of games Feb. 18, disclosed that veteran Tommy Burlington of Owen Sound Mercurys moved ahead of Dinny Flanagan, a linemate of Roth's, into second place. Burlington snared three points to boost his total to 87 from 33 goals and 44 assists. Flanagan, who only picked up one point, has 27 goals and 58 assists for 85 points.

The best average among goalkeepers is Boat Hurley of Kitchener-Waterloo, still in front with a mark of 3.25. He is tied with Keith Woodall of Brantford Redmen in the number of shutouts—both with three. Bruce Dale of Stratford has two shutouts and the second best average—3.41.

Vera Paige Rolls Tops

Vera Paige led in singles with 311 and triples with 718 for girls in the Mercantile Bowling League as Bill Cribbis' 306 was tops for men's singles, and Harold Cawker showed the way in trios with 766. Loblaw's led teams with 3,064. Blanks were marked by Loblaw's over Crowe's, Austin's against Neill's, and No. 4 teams against No. 6. Brudential had a 3-1 win over A. & P., as the Braund's entries split.

High singles included: Verna Hopkins 304, Gladys Hamilton 251, Hilda Lacey 248, Bessie Smith 238; for men, Harold Cawker 282, Frank Worsencroft 258, Jack Gimblett 278, Don Hume 244, and Don Penrose 241. Standing has Braund's No. 1 with 47 points and 14 extras, Austin's 36 and 12, Bond's 21 and 2, Utilities 48 and 18, Loblaw's 46 and 13, Neill's 26 and 7, Crowe's 39 and 6, Prudential 40 and 8, Braund's No. 2 with 20 and 6, A. & P. 36 and 4.

Oddfellows Sew Up Series With Drive In Third To Beat Hawklets, 7 to 5

Oddfellows rose to heights Wednesday night in Belleville to defeat Hawks 7-5 and even up their best-of-five group semi-final series at one game apiece. Johnny Godfrey's colorful battlers came from behind in a sensational third-period drive to outscore the Quinte boys 4-1 and turn defeat into victory in one of the most spectacular junior playoff matches in years before over 1,000 frantic spectators. The crowd cheered each dazzling move as the well-matched teams played clean, rugged and very fast hockey from bell to bell.

Brightest star of a shining Oddfellow constellation was the dashing figure of Buster Jensen, who teamed with Bill Stewart and Dick McCracken and potted four sparkling tallies, the last of which proved the clincher midway in the final frame. But every man played his part in the finest display of teamwork seen this season. Bill Stewart garnered three assists, Dick McCracken, Gord Coyle and Bill Twist one apiece; the first two notching a goal apiece while Army Armstrong, star defenceman, shot one into the empty twine from centre with seconds to go as Hawks drew Barclay in a desperate late effort to catch the Links.

I.O.O.F. Open It

Oddfellows opened the scoring near the three-quarter mark in the first as Jensen fired a high 20-footer into the mesh on Stewart's timely pass. Hawks roared back to score three within two two minutes of play as their first line shone in a series of rapid thrusts with Bill Strahan and Hec Lalonde the spearhead. Stung by this reversal, the Godfreyites tightened their defensive armor in the mid-frame and opened a strong counter-attack to outscore the Doran squad 2-1 as Jensen and Coyle found the target on pretty plays with McCracken and Twist respectively. Ted DeGray combined with Bill Strahan for the Hawk marker. Play increased in tempo and ruggedness, though clean, as each team drew a single miscue for the first 40 minutes of play. Red Wasson continued his skillful play between the pipes, robbing rival sharpshooters from all angles to earn plaudits from the gallery and his mates. Barclay also played well but yielded to the popular sorrel-top on the night's play.

A Hot Frame

The final frame proved the fastest of the season. Play got under way after some delay as manager Len Symonds requested a light sprinkle of the ice between periods. The request was rejected and the condition of the ice (though better than Monday) was none too good. Jensen and Stewart combined early to draw even with Hawks, the former drilling a hot one from short right wing on a perfect pass. A minute later, Stewart drove a wicked disc as Links swarmed around Barclay like relatives around wealthy kinfolk and in the melee that followed McCracken hit pay dirt.

Hawks flew back giving tit-for-tat as the pace grew withering, and again Strahan gave his team the victory urge with a sparkler from Lalonde and Jacklin, and three minutes later, Jensen notched his final tally on a 12 foot ice-cutter, a quick backhander after a ganging attack; Coyle drew an assist on the play. There was no further scoring till the final minute when Coach Doran elected to gamble by using six forwards. On the second faceoff Armstrong drilled a long one to the empty cage, to end the thriller.

Guelph Crushes Barrie Flyers 7-3 As Tigers Edge Dutchmen 3-2

By The Canadian Press.

The surging Guelph Biltmores picked up an important win in the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A League Wednesday night whipping the seventh-place Barrie Flyers 7-3 and moving to within three points of the league-leading Toronto Marlboros.

From the opening face-off Guelph set out to gain on the idle Marlies.

In other Junior A games, Toronto St. Michael's climbed back into a fourth-place tie with St. Catharines by downing Teepees 8-3 and the ninth-place Windsor Spitfires edge the tail-end Oshawa Generals 5-4 in overtime. The victory hoisted Spits three points out of the league cellar.

Hamilton Tigers, in fifth place in the O.H.A. Senior A race, on Wednesday night held on to their slim chances of making the play-offs by edging the runner-up Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen 3-2. In the only other Senior A game, the tail-end Sarnia Sailors upset the league-leading Stratford Indians 5-3 in a game that meant little to the big six standings. Stratford is assured of first place, Sarnia is bogged deep in the cellar.

Goose Gosselin scored three goals for Sarnia and Jimmy Gardiner added the other two. Bruce Burdett clicked for two for Stratford and George Aitken got the third.

Leads Attack

Clare Shillington led Hamilton's attack with two goals, Johnny Conick scoring the third-period winner. Ed Kulik and Don Bauer were Stratford's scorers.

Bobby Brown scored twice for Windsor—once for the overtime winner. Reg. Campbell, Elmer Skov and Joe Zorica got the others. Herve Dejordy paced the Oshawa attack with two goals, the other going to Fred Etcher and Bob Attersley.

Bill Dineen, Jim Logan and Bob Sabourin led St. Michael's with two goals each. Murray Costello and Neil Buchanan added the others. Brian Cullen scored twice for Teepees and Chuck Marshall came up with the third goal.

Andy Bathgate sparked Guelph with a pair of goals, the remaining markers going to Ron Murphy, Jim Connelly, Bill Chalmers, Ken Laufman and Dean Prentice. Doug Mohns scored twice for Barrie and Hilly Menard once.

Point Squad Wins

YOUNG'S POINT, Feb. 21 — (ENS) — The first game of a double-header got under way early at Young's Point rink Monday night with a team sponsored by Moffit's Garage, of Peterborough, losing to Young's Point Red Wings, 5-2.

The game tended to be a bit rough with a number of penalties. In the first period the Red Wings went out in front on goals by R. McIlmoyle and E. Garrett. Peterborough's only goal was scored by D. Moffit. Near the close of the period P. McIlmoyle and J. Barber were given majors for fighting.

In the second frame, Young's Point added another goal by J. Dunford (G. Jones). A fight broke out between D. Moffit and J. Barber, and as the referee attempted to break it up some spectators became involved. Both boys received majors again.

Play settled down somewhat in the third and the boys played some good hockey. The home team added two more goals, by Ron McIlmoyle and J. Barber, while D. Moffit scored again for the visitors.

Moffit's—Goal, J. Paul; defence, D. Moffit, B. Moffit; forwards, J. Harding, R. Tipping, J. Harding; alternates, J. Grills, P. McIlmoyle, R. Paul, G. Harding, D. White.

Young's Point—Goal, D. Lloyd; defence, E. Dunford, B. Clark; forwards, W. Heard, G. Jones, J. Dunford; alternates, E. Garrett, J. Barber, P. Heard, J. Godfrey, E. Dunford.

Referee, J. Darling; linesman, R. Freeburn.

Hornets Subdue Hershey 9-3

By The Canadian Press.

The high-flying Pittsburgh Hornets exploded for six straight goals in a wild third period Wednesday night to crush Hershey Bears 9-3 in the American Hockey League.

The victory widened the Hornets' western division lead over second place Cleveland to 10 points. Hershey leads the eastern division with 61 points.

The scoring splurge came after Hershey's Red Gariepy became involved in an argument with an unidentified spectator. The spectator finally was ejected by policemen but shortly afterwards Gariepy argued with another fan and was handed a match misconduct penalty.

Ray and Gordon Hannigan led the Pittsburgh attack with two goals each. Bob Hassard, Phil Maloney, Bob Solinger, Tim Horton and Chuck Blair scored the other Hornet goals. The Hershey marksmen were Obie O'Brien, Joe Schertzl and Sam Bettio.

At Cincinnati, the Mohawks broke a three-game losing streak as they defeated Syracuse Warriors 4-2.

At Buffalo, Providence Reds scored a 6-5 victory over Buffalo Bisons.

Francis Lets In Heartbreaker To Give Detroit 1-1 Tie

By The Canadian Press

New York Ranger supporters went about shaking their heads last weekend when they learned that Goalkeeper Chuck Rayner would be sidelined for the rest of the season. They almost gave up all hope of ever seeing the blueshirts in the four-team National Hockey League playoffs. They shook them again when they heard Emile (The Cat) Francis was being brought up from Cincinnati of the American Hockey League. After all, hadn't he been up five times before and failed to stay?

However, his fine showing on Sunday night as the Rangers edged Montreal 3-2 and the equally successful play Tuesday at Toronto in staving off the second-place Maple Leafs 3-3 was at least some criterion that the little guy had improved enough to call the big time his own.

The five-foot-seven Francis almost pulled off his first shutout for the Rangers Wednesday night but failed with less than two minutes to go. He held off the league-leading Detroit Red Wings' vaunted attack for 58 minutes and 13 seconds before Gordie Howe drifted a long floater past him to give the Wings a 1-1 deadlock.

Superb Work

Ed Slowinski had given the Blueshirtst heir 1-0 lead midway through the final period when he combined with Gaye Steward and Don Raleigh to beat Terry Sawchuk in the Detroit nets.

Both goaltenders were superb with the exception of Francis' one lapse. The Rangers tested Sawchuk 35 times while Francis handled 25 shots.

The deadlock boosted Detroit's first-place lead over Toronto to 15 points and enabled the Rangers to move a full game into fourth place ahead of Boston Bruins.

Two games are scheduled tonight in the N.H.L. Boston plays at Montreal while Toronto visits Chicago.

Leading Jockey Told Riding Finished

ARCADIA, Calif., Feb. 21 (AP) —Johnny Gilbert, one of the country's top jockeys until he was severely injured last winter in a riding accident here, has been told by his doctors that he will never be able to ride again.

Accordingly, Gilbert applied for a trainer's licence Wednesday.

Gilbert has no feeling in his left hand. His neck was in a brace for a long time after a spill with movie executive William Goetz's Spinaround, Jan. 4, 1951.

JEANNETTE ALTWEGG, 25-year-old holder of the world figure skating championship, today won the Olympic singles at Oslo. The British girl succeeds Barbara Ann Scott of Canada, who won the title in 1948.

Jeannette Altwegg Captures World Figure Skating Crown

By JACK SULLIVAN

OSLO, Feb. 21 (CP).—In much the same way as Jeannette Altwegg's twinkling skates won her a championship for Britain, the skating fraternity will most likely be Canada's only point-winners at the current Olympic winter games.

Miss Altwegg, who already holds the world title, Wednesday night became the queen among Olympic figure skaters. That meant 10 points—the only ones so far—for Britain in the unofficial standings.

Suzanne Morrow of Toronto placed sixth, and the single point for that creditable performance gave Canada a total of 4½.

The skating prowess of Gordon Audley of Winnipeg meant 3½ points when he placed in a tie for third place last Saturday in the 500-meter speed skating race.

Skaters in the aggregate—Canada's hockey players—so far are doing all right, atop the standing of the nine countries in the Olympic championship tournament.

Foregone Conclusion

Tonight Peter Firstbrook, 18-year-old Toronto figure skater goes into the last half of the men's competition for that title with a fourth-pace ranking.

The winner, like Miss Altwegg was 24 hours ago, is a foregone conclusion—Dick Button, world champion and 1948 Olympic champion.

Button is so far ahead on points accumulated in the compulsory-figure phase that the free-skating windup means the Engelwood, N. J., star is a shoo-in unless some unpredictable disaster overtakes him.

Young Firstbrook, however, is reckoned to do as well in the free-skating as he did in the school figures. At worst, the experts here in Oslo think he should be among the top six who collect points for their teams.

Wednesday turned out to be ladies' day for brilliancy of achievement. A few hours before Miss Altwegg, 22, received her gold medal, Mrs. Andrea Mead Lawrence was handed her second.

The 19-year-old skiing sensation from Rutland, Vt., won the women's slalom with a remarkable recovery and winning the hard way.

On her first run down the hazardous course she fell but bounced up and went on. She made up for lost seconds with a sensational second run and the total time was the best among an international field of expert skiers.

She made the two runs over the 508-yard course in a total of two minutes, 10.6 seconds. Ossie Reichert of Germany, leading after the first run, had to take second place, in 2:11.4.

Joanne Hewson of Montreal was the highest placed Canadian, finishing 13th. Her time was 2:19.9.

Miss Altwegg said afterwards she plans to retire.

Next In Line

Tenley Albright, who is only 16 years old and hails from Newton Centre, Mass., was second. Jacqueline Du Bief of France, who put on a great crowd-pleasing show with her free skating, was third.

Two young Canadian girls did as well or better than half the 25 skaters in the competition. Marlene Smith of Niagara Falls, Ont., placed 10th and Vevi Smith of Toronto 13th.

Wednesday's competitions in the big winter show got under way early with the gruelling 50-kilometre ski race—about 31 miles. The winner was Veikko Hakulinen of Finland, and his victory gave a boost to Finland's point score.

Norway picked up a couple of high placings and still is far out in front with 101 points, considered uncatchable in the remaining days of the games. The United States has 56½ points and Austria 51, with Finland in fourth place with 41.

Skiers Improving

In contrast with the skaters, both the individual performers and the hockey team, Canada's skiers haven't done so well.

With the end Wednesday of the slalom, downhill and cross-country events, the Canadians in those events will once more go home without medals—only certificates to show they were among those present.

One thing can be said about the skiers. They are improving. The eighth place of Joanne Hewson in the downhill and the ninth place for Rhoda Wurtele Eaves of Montreal in the giant slalom are the highest ever for Canadian skiers in the history of the winter games.

The Olympic skiing ends with the jumping Sunday, but not even the Canadian supporters rate their entrants a chance to crack into the first 10, let alone the point-counting six.

It could be that someone may be fooled. Gordon Audley turned out to be the hot shot for Canada with his third place, regardless of how the hockey team finishes—and anything lower than first would just about make them the goats.

There is a touch of irony about Audley's great display that revealed him as the "sleeper" among Canada's athletes sent to Oslo. It is known that it was a moot point among some Canadian officials as to whether any speed skaters should be sent at all.

Prairie Boys Have 9 Wins, Two Tied For 2nd

MONCTON, N.B., Feb. 21 (AP) Nova Scotia and Manitoba divided [illegible]ners-up honors today as [illegible] high school bonspiel ended with the winning Saskatchewan rink making a clean sweep of their nine matches in the four-day event.

The Gary Thode foursome, clinching the Sifton trophy Wednesday night for the second straight year, defeated New Brunswick 5-3 today. The final ninth round games were eight-end contests instead of the regulation 10 ends in previous rounds.

Nova Scotia rose to a second place tie with Ron Gray's Manitoba quarter by edging the latter 9-8.

A win for Ron Gray of Belmont would have tied the rinks with seven wins and one loss apiece. As it was the Saskatchewan youths breezed to a one-sided triumph in clinching the Sifton Trophy.

With one exception the rink is the same which won the title at Nelson, B.C., last year. Doug Conn replaced Crest Hryniuk as second. Those and Conn are 19 years old and are playing their last year in school competition. The other members, Gary Cooper and Roy Hufsmith, are 19.

One round today—the ninth — ends the four-day competition.

Manitoba Favored

The strong Manitoba rink with a 6-2 record is favored to take runner-up honors. Next with five wins and three losses each, stand Alberta and Nova Scotia. Both Quebec and British Columbia have four and four. Trailing are New Brunswick with three and five, Prince Edward Island and Northern Ontario, two and six and Ontario, one and seven.

Saskatoon Tech capped a peerless three-day performance with a two-end volley on knockout shots that amazed the gallery.

Thode set up a three in the first end and after Gray came back with a single in the second, they played to a "bald" end. Then Saskatchewan upped the score to 5-1 in the fourth and the match was won. Manitoba sandwiched four in the sixth with singles in the fifth and seventh. Saskatchewan added another in the eighth, making it 10-3.

It was then that Thode and his mates decided to give the Manitoba team a lesson at its own knockout game and also provide a show for the gallery. It is unlikely New Brunswick curling ever saw the equal of the exhibition when Thode manufactured two straight "bald" ends, running his total for the match to three.

Lead stone Hufsmith ripped his openers through the house to start both ends. In each case John Hyrich laid his rocks in and they were blasted out, first by Hufsmith and then by Conn.

Through the two ends the Saskatchewan curlers never missed one of 16 shots. In the 10th, a Manitoba stone was not quite raised out, and another Belmont rock was drawn in, but Cooper carried them both with a cannonball delivery that splattered the three stones into next-door lanes.

Through the Sifton Trophy-clinching match, the Saskatoon curlers made 65 of 80 shots. Hufsmith, Cooper and Thode each made 17 of 20 and Conn 14 of 20.

Final standings in Dominion schoolboys curling:

	Won	Lost
Saskatchewan	9	0
Manitoba	6	3
Nova Scotia	6	3
Alberta	5	4
Quebec	5	4
British Columbia	5	4
New Brunswick	3	6
Prince Edward Island	3	6
Northern Ontario	2	7
Ontario	1	8

Home Treatment

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP) —The Director of Transvaal Hospitals, Dr. H. J. Hugo, told a conference here that money is often wasted in sending patients overseas for treatment they can get in South Africa. He suggested legislation to stop people collecting money for such purposes unless they could show the necessary treatment is not available here.

CANADA'S POINT-WINNER—Gordon Audley, Winnipeg speed-skater, stands on the winners' podium as Canada's first point-winner in the winter Olympics at Oslo. Audrey, wearing the Canadian crest and with a mourning band in memory of King George VI around his right arm, tied for third with a time of 44 seconds in the 500-metre speed-skating event with Norway's Arne Johansen, who stands behind him. Donald McDermoot, extreme left, with a time of 43.9 seconds, was second. Ken Henry, second from left, was the winner with a time of 43.2 seconds. Henry and McDermoot are from the United States.

Pickering Wallops Trinity College Team

PORT HOPE, Feb. 21. —Pickering College won a hockey game and split a basketball twin bill with Trinity College here. Pickering puckmen won, 7-2, the senior basketball team came out with a 54-47 victory, while Trinity junior basketball men won, 48-33.

Five goals in the third period broke up a see-saw hockey game, Toronto Bank of Nova Scotia, P. after the second period had ended. 2-2. McGuire scored three in the Pickering parade. Barter added two and King and Stewart scored singles. John Long and Norm Seagram were the Trinity triggermen.

Harvey scored 15 points, Vaucrossan 11 in the Pickering senior basketball victory. Walker and Houstan led Trinity scorers.

Ian Walker hooped 26 points as Trinity juniors salvaged some honor. Hadero and McCrusher, wit height points each, were Pickering's best.

Beattie Rink Knocked Out In Major Upset

TORONTO, Feb. 21 (CP). — Five Toronto and three out-of-town rinks line up today at the 25th annual Ontario Bonspiel for the semi-finals of the Royal York and Birks Trophies.

In Royal York play Lou E. Ross, Agincourt, and W. M. Knowlson, Toronto Granite, clash while Frank Avery of Toronto Curling Club and A. W. Mathews of Toronto Granite are meeting at opposite ends of the sheet.

D. P. Douglass, Toronto Civil Service, and S. Endicott, Toronto High Park, spar for a spot in the Birks finals along with Dr. J. F. Brock of Oshawa and J. G. Lumb of Kingston.

The last 1951 winner was dumped out of competition for the Royal York Wednesday when Tom Beattie of Toronto C. C. was brushed aside by W. M. Knowlson of Toronto Granite, in one of the 'spiel's major upsets.

The eight semi-finalists for the Royal York and Birks trophies will compete Friday for the grand aggregate award, one of two new events added this year.

Some 121 games were run off Wednesday.

Norwood Loses To Belleville

NORWOOD, Feb. 21. (ENS)—Belleville finished strong here last night to trim Norwood 9-4 in a T.V.L. engagement, the last one of the schedule except for Lakefield vs. Norwood on local ice Friday night. It was a speedy tilt before a fair crowd, generally clean, but Hearst drew a misconduct in the second for pushing the referee around.

Payne scored from Griffin for Norwood in the first, but Cousins, Whalen and B. Mulvihill rapped in Quinte counters, the latter and Cousins each getting an assist. Thorpe and Brydges counted in the second for Norwood, with Tompkins in on two and Thorpe one, while B. Mulvihill rapped in Cousins' pass for Belleville. After Brydges tallied in the third for Thorpe, Belleville rallied for five in a row. Goyer got two, B. Mulvihill, Cousins and Williams getting the 'others. Hatfield aided on a pair, and Cousins, Bone and B. Mulvihill one each. Teams:

Belleville — Goal, Turnley; defence, York, Hearst; centre, Cousins; wings, F. Mulvihill, B. Mulvihill; alternates, Bones, Adams, Goyer, Whalen, Hatfield, Williams.

Norwood—Goal, Jones; defence, Rogers, Kelly; centre, Whitnall; wings, Ferguson, Robinson; alternates, Tompkins, Magee, Thorpe, Payne, Brydges, Griffin, Thompson.

Referees—W. Leggitt and T. Junkin.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

By The Canadian Press.

Jeannette Altwegg, 22-year-old English girl who prefers the study of child psychology to skating, won the Olympic figure skating championship Wednesday night in Oslo and then announced her retirement.

"I've always dreamed of winning the Olympic title and now I am satisfied," said Miss Altwegg, who also holds the world title.

"This is my last skating except for exhibitions in England and Scotland. Now I would like to study child psychology in Switzerland."

A rink skipped by Mrs. K. M. McLaren of Hamilton Thistles on Wednesday carried off the Edwards' Trophy in the main event of the Midland Curling Club bonspiel in Midland. The Hamilton rink defeated Mrs. Andy Grant of Toronto Royal Canadians 15-5 to climax a series of five straight wins in the three-day competition.

Phil Marchildon, former star righthander for Philadelphia Athletics will try a pitching comeback with the West Palm Beach (Fla.) Indians of the Class B Florida International League. Bruce Henry, the Indians' general manager, said Wednesday in West Palm Beach that Marchildon had accepted terms and will be here for the start of spring training March 20. He pitched last summer in the Intercounty Baseball League.

Larry MacPhail and his partners agreed Wednesday in Baltimore to buy controlling stock in Bowie race track for $1,997,000. Stockholders of the Southern Maryland race track began signing over the stock just as MacPhail's option to buy the plant expired at 3 p.m.

Charles Numez, European welterweight champion, said Wednesday night in Lille, France, that he had decided not to meet Kid Gavilan of Cuba in a proposed March 28 bout for the world title because he can't make the weight in his class. The action of the Frenchman leaves Gavilan the undisputed champion.

Middleweight champion Ray Robinson will engage in a ten round non-title fight in Israel this summer, Barney Ross said Wednesday in New York. The former welterweight champion, who left by plane for Los Angeles, said he was going to stage a major show called "Life for Israel" on June 14, in the 25,000 seat Ramat Gan Stadium, near Tel Aviv, Israel.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press.

Don Raleigh of New York Rangers picked up an assist Wednesday night as the New Yorkers played to a 1-1 tie with Detroit Red Wings to move into a tie for third place in the National Hockey League's individual scoring department.

He has 14 goals and 34 assists for 48 points, the same total as Ted Lindsay of Detroit who has 19 goals and 29 assists.

Gordie Howe of Detroit continues to set the pace—he picked up a goal in the game—with 62 points, made up of a record 34 goals and 28 assists.

Elmer Lach of Montreal is second with 12 goals and a pace-setting 41 assists for 53 points.

TAKING IT EASY—Engelbert Miller of Edmonton, left-winger on Canada's Olympic team, doesn't appear concerned over the fuss he created when the Canadian team arrived in Oslo from a seven-week tour of Europe. Miller, second from the left, was expected to be banned from the Games because he at one time played in England as an independent. However the International Ice Hockey Federation gave him a clean bill. Miller is playing cards with Gordon Robertson of Trail, B.C., while George Abel of Melville, Sask., kibitzes at extreme left and Bob Watt of Edmonton, Tom Pollock of Winnipeg and Billy Dawe of Edmonton show off a sweater.

Lakefield Team Downs Trenton In Final Home Tilt

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 21 (ENS).—In a Trent Valley League game played here last night before a small crowd Lakefield defeated Trenton by a score of 10-2. It was the final home game before playoffs for the Lakefield team. Bill Edgar in the Lakefield goal, playing with a bad elbow injured several games ago, was outstanding. Edgar was under doctor's orders not to play, but with no other goalie available, donned the pads and played one of the best games seen here this year. Lou Schmidt was the outstanding player for Trenton, but was held in check through most of game by Hunter of Lakefield. The entire Lakefield team came out of a scoring slump they have been in for the last several games, and played a bang-up game going both ways. It was a fast, clean game, with scoring chances being about equal. But the strong defensive game played by the Lakefield goalie and both defence pairs was the deciding faoctor.

Referees— Kingdon and Ronhanyi of Peterborough.

The lineups:

Lakefield — Goal, Edgar; defence, Jopling and D. Wasson; forwards, Quigley, Doris Casey; alternates, Miller, Marshall, Hunter, C. Wasson, Fawcett Eady, Williams.

Court Stenographer Failed To Recall If Witness Sworn, Charge Dismissed

A perjury charge was dismissed in police court Wednesday when a court stenographer failed to recall if the accused's testimony in a bootlegging trial was given under oath.

Testifying at the preliminary hearing, Mrs. Joan Clarke said she could not swear that Mrs. Marjorie Anderson had been sworn when she testified at the trial of her husband Cyril Anderson January 30.

Both Anderson and his wife were charged with committing perjury by swearing that they had not seen crown witness Peter McNeely for two months prior to January 11 when McNeely said he bought wine from Anderson.

Magistrate W. R. Philp dismissed the charge against Mrs. Anderson because he said there was some doubt in his mind as to whether Mrs. Anderson had been sworn, because Mrs. Clarke was unable to state definitely that she had been.

Committed For Trial

In committing Cyril Anderson for trial at the next criminal assizes, Magistrate Philp said that several arguments presented by counsel for the defence might be of great importance at a trial but "would I believe have lesser effect at a preliminary hearing".

Gordon H. T. Farquharson defended both Anderson and his wife.

The Andersons were remanded on bail of $2,500 each until the preliminary hearing and Cyril Anderson was released on the same bail after being committed for trial.

At the hearing, the crown produced evidence that Anderson accompanied McNeely on January 10, when McNeely took an oil space heater to a Hunter St. auction store. Douglas Mitchell, now living in Dundalk said that Anderson was in McNeely's truck when McNeely let him have the stove at the auction rooms for an account McNeely owed him. McNeely testified that he and his wife went to Anderson's home at 84½ Douro St., that Thursday morning and Anderson went with him to the auction rooms. Arthur Newmaster, an auctioneer produced a ledger showing an entry of January 10, that Mitchell had left a stove to be sold.

No Intent Shown To Mislead

Mr. Farquharson said that the crown was trying to prove that because Anderson was with McNeely January 10, he was speaking falsely at a previous proceeding. "There is no exact evidence of intent to mislead the court," argued Mr. Farquharson, "false statements are often made in court, by people who swear to the exact truth of some particular situation and never realize they are wrong." He submitted that the crown was required to produce proof of a previous judicial proceeding "which the crown had failed to do".

Crown attorney John A. Bradshaw said that by stating twice that he had not seen McNeely for two months, Anderson asked the court to believe he had not sold liquor to him, because he had not seen him for two months. "The evidence on the previous case is ample for the court to draw the inference that the accused intended to deceive," said Mr. Bradshaw.

In the charge against Mrs. Anderson, Mrs. McNeely was called, and she testified she had remained with Mrs. Anderson on January 10 while Anderson and her husband went downtown with the stove.

Mr. Bradshaw said the evidence was not nearly as strong against Mrs. Anderson as against her husband. "The accused said she had not seen the McNeely's for two months but I can't argue as strongly that she intended to mislead the courts," said Mr. Bradshaw before Magistrate Philp dismissed the charge against Mrs. Anderson.

VOTED OUT—Sing Sheng, his wife, and their son, Richard, 2, were turned down as neighbors in a secret vote in the Southwood section of South San Francisco, Calif. The Chinese Nationalist World War II veteran bought a home in the area, then when neighbors objected to the presence of the family, Sheng suggested the voting. He lost, by a reported 174 to 28.

"IT PAYS TO DO BUSINESS—WHERE BUSINESS IS BEING DONE!"

Presbyterians Begin Drive, Seek $10,000 From St. Paul's

Tremendous growth in the urban population of Canada in the last 15 years has made the construction of more churches in the cities an urgent necessity, so the Presbyterian Church in Canada is conducting a national appeal for $1,000,000. Many congregations and Presbyteries in the church have already oversubscribed their objective and the campaign in Peterborough will be held next week.

St. Paul's Presbyterian congregation is being asked for $10,000 to be paid over a two-year period. The campaign opens on Monday night with a dinner for the canvassers served in the Sunday School by ladies of the congregation. The city and surrounding areas have been divided into districts and the canvassers will be calling some time during the week.

The national campaign is not alone to provide churches in the urban areas, where there have been large increases in population, but in the great new areas of this country which have been opened up in recent years. The campaign will also include a request for more generous support of the congregation's local work and increased givings to the budget of the church as a whole, of which St. Paul's is expected to contribute $5,900 in 1952.

The Presbyterian Church in Canada has at the present time requests for well over two million dollars for immediate building needs, that is for new churches, where no church now exists and congregations who have churches are being asked to give $1,000,000. A congregation in Montreal had an objective of $19,500 and without a canvas more than $22,000 was raised. One congregation in Toronto east had a domestic appeal for $15,000 to which it added its $10,000 objective for the Christian Outreach Drive and in three days raised the money and paid in cash to the Outreach secretary $11,000. Similar stories are told by congregations across the country where the campaign has been completed.

$6,000 P.O. Losses

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP).— Losses to the Post Office expected to total more than $6,000 were disclosed Wednesday when two of 14 men charged in the case pleaded guilty on fraud charges. Kenneth D. Law, 32, confessed ringleader of the plot, and Stanley Knight, 38-year-old mail sorter, were remanded until February 25.

KKK VICTIMS — Dorothy Martin (left) and Ben Grainger (right) are the two persons who were taken from bed last October 6 in Fair Bluff, N.C., carried across the state line into South Carolina and flogged by ten hooded men. As aresult of this terrorism, ten former Ku Klux Klansmen were arrested by FBI agents and arraigned at Fayetteville, N.C. The charges were kidnapping and violation of civil rights.

Havelock Men Find Fishing Tops

HAVELOCK, Feb. 21 (ENS)— Fishing is good in Florida, four Havelock men report. Rae Williams, John Shotton, John Rogers and Charles Carter have spent varying lengths of time in the south.

Mr. and Mrs. Williams and Mr. and Mrs. Shotton returned recently and reported on the fishing trips the four men had taken.

Since the Shottons and Williams' returned, they have received word that Mr. Carter and Mr. Rogers landed a seven-foot, six-inch sailfish.

Among the other types of fish they caught deep sea fishing were: waho, kingfish, bonito, red snapper, dolphin, amberjack, barracuda, bluefish, sheepshead and others.

Twice In Police Court In 24 Hours; Fined $50

"Isn't this the same thing twice inside of 24 hours," Magistrate W. R. Philp asked Ross Clancy, 42 Chilton Rd., Toronto, when he appeared on a drunk charge Wednesday.

Clancy agreed it was. He pleaded guilty to the charge and admitted being convicted Tuesday of the same offence.

He was fined $50 and $2.50 costs or one month in jail.

6 Die In Theatre

GAUDALAJARA, Mexico, Feb. 21 (AP)—Six persons died Wednesday night and nine were injured when fire broke out near the screen of the Alamedo movie theatre. Patrons in the orchestra escaped, but the one exit from the balcony became jammed with terrified fans trying to reach the streets. Six bodies were found near the door. Some were trampled. The movie being shown was, "When Worlds Collide."

Many Ask For Jobs In Punkeydoodle

PUNKEYDOODLE'S CORNERS, Ont., Feb. 21 (CP)—A man in Cobalt wants a job as municipal clerk in Punkeydoodle's Corners.

A fellow in Tacoma, Wash., also wants a position (nature unspecified).

A Detroit firm asks statistics on population, stores and industry.

The interest in this crossroads hamlet (population six) was born with publication recently of a story reporting that most of the school children hereabouts—they come from surrounding farms—were down with mumps. That was three weeks ago; they've all recovered.

All applicants are doomed to disappointment. Things aren't too prosperous in Punkeydoodle's Corners now. The only house left in the hamlet is that of Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Roth.

Most of the mail has been diverted to Woodstock, 15 miles south of here. Punkeydoodle's Corners hasn't a post office.

Increase Payment

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP).— Rates for caring for foster children in Toronto were increased on Wednesday. Effective April 1, they will be $34 to $36 a month, depending on the age of the child. Present rates are $24 and $26.

Need Therapists In Canada Committee Told

OTTAWA, Feb. 21. (CP)—Canada is in great need of more trained therapists, the National Advisory Committee on the Rehabilitation of Disabled Persons was told Wednesday.

A report of a survey made by the University of Toronto and circulated among the 36 members of the committee showed that only 265 occupational therapists are employed in Canada and another 121 are needed.

The shortage is most severe in Ontario where 173 are available and where at least another 74 can be used.

Canada also is in need of another 100 physiotherapists to bolster the 435 available.

"Each year at this time," said the report, "we are in the unhappy position of trying to secure anything from 50 to 100 physiotherapists for unfilled positions . . . even with the increased number of graduates from recognized courses, it is possible to increase the number of therapists by a small number only. The wastage remains pretty constant."

Help Situation

The report added that courses established in western universities would help the situation materially. Bursaries paid to students who intend to become teachers also would help.

"It is essential to interest more physiotherapists in teaching their profession," the report said.

The council, opening a three-day meeting to make plans for a long-range program to help handicapped persons become self-supporting, heard from Prime Minister St. Laurent and two of his cabinet ministers.

Mr. St. Laurent said the life of the late King should prove as a source of inspiration to the handicapped.

The King, he recalled, overcame a speech impediment to deliver public speeches and to give his Commonwealth and the world many inspiring broadcast messages during the 16 years of his reign.

"His whole life was a message to humanity—something to inspire handicapped people everywhere."

Health Minister Martin reviewed steps taken by his department to assist the handicapped and Veterans Minister Lapointe offered the experience and services of his department in the rehabilitation field.

Denies Stopping Drive

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP).— Education Minister Dunlop Wednesday night denied that he had put a stop to a student campaign for better quarters for the provincially-operated Ryerson Institute of Technology. He said he had no knowledge of any attempt, alleged by some of the students, to gag a student drive for a "proper campus" to replace the 100-year-old buildings now housing the school.

Condition Serious

OSHAWA, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Mrs. Edith Johnson, 73, was seriously burned here Wednesday when a bottle of cleaning fluid she was using on a stove exploded and set the house and her clothes afire. Mrs. Johnson rushed into the garden where her brother rolled her in the snow to extinguish the flames. Hospital authorities said her condition was "serious." Roomers put out the fire in the house.

Disapproves of Law

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Mr. Justice E. R. E. Chevrier said Wednesday that, in his opinion, sections of the Criminal Code which give judges the option of imposing either a fine or a jail sentence are discriminatory. "They allow a rich man to pay a heavy fine and get away with a light sentence or with none at all."

Private Interests Handle Niagara?

WASHINGTON, Feb. 21 (AP)— The Council of State Chambers of Commerce Wednesday recommended that the proposed hydro-elcetric redevelopment of the Niagara River be done by private interests.

The council, in a statement, said it had reached its conclusion after an analysis of three bills on the subject now pending in Congress.

It said the competing propsals "clearly and squarely" pointed up the issue of government versus private ownership of electric power.

Authority to redevelop the river is contained in a treaty with Canada that the Senate ratified Aug. 8, 1950. It provides for increased diversion of the river's waters—for power purposes—by both countries.

SWEPT TO VICTORY — It took eight years of trying before Art Simpson of Bassano captured the Alberta Curling Championship this year for the first time. Simpson went through the southern Alberta and provincial finals without a loss, winning the title in Edmonton against rinks from northern Alberta, the Peace River Block and the Northwest Territories. Receiving the championship trophy from draw-master Jim McCool are, left to right, Norm Dalsto, lead, Ron MacLean, second, Aubrey Gore, third, and skip Simpson.

'LongestRecord' Rates Term In Reformatory

LINDSAY, Feb. 21— (ENS)— "This is the longest record I have ever seen in this court," said Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan in Police Court here today.

"Since 1922, this man has been charged with indictable offences and 68 summary offences. He is the type of individual who warrants no consideration whatsoever. Not that he is vicious, but in the vernacular, he's just no good."

J. Turcotte was appearing for sentence in the theft of 42 cents from milk bottles in the hallway of an apartment house on Kent Street. Magistrate Gee sentenced him to three months' definite and one month indeterminate in Reformatory.

B.C. Expected Hold Election During June

By The Canadian Press

British Columbia whose Coalition Government collapsed Jan. 18, is to have a general election soon—probably in June.

Premier Byron Johnson said Wednesday that he will call for dissolution of the Legislature as soon as the budget is passed at the current session and call for a general election. He made the announcement in a policy address in which he opened debate on the throne speech, read Tuesday at the opening of the session.

"I feel that the Coalition Government of this province, as it now is constituted, has no mandate from the people to carry on since the main partnership was broken," he said.

The Coalition of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives, in power since 1941, broke up when the Premier demanded the resignation of Herbert Anscomb, then Finance Minister and co-chief in Coalition and leader of the Progressive Conservatives. Mr. Anscomb resigned and took his 10 Progressive Conservative colleagues with him into opposition.

The Legislatures of Ontario and Alberta start their 1952 sittings today, bringing to seven the number of provincial parliaments in session.

Other Election Rumors

Talk of another provincial election this year is heard in Alberta. The Edmonton Journal said Wednesday in a newspage story that political observers forecast the election in mid-August. The last Alberta election, in which the Social Credit administration was returned, was in 1948.

In Nova Scotia, where teacers are on strike in two counties, the topic of teachers' salaries came up Wednesday at the opening of the throne speech debate. Robert L. Stanfield, Progressive Conservative opposition leader, told the House:

"The province is fully as able financially as the municipalities to participate in a solution to the teaching problem. This problem will not be solved satisfactorily unless the province does participate."

Hugh Mackay, Conservative member for the New Brunswick riding of King's, charged in throne speech debate at Fredericton that the Liberal "machine" he said controls provincial affairs is more ruthless and more efficient than any other organization ever seen in his province. He said it has brought on the heaviest burden of debt and taxation borne by any section of Canada.

Asks United Front

Attorney-General C. Rhodes Smith, of Manitoba, called for a united front in his Legislature to battle against new freight rate provisions which he said "discriminate" against the province. He said it is "very important" that all Manitoba be united on the freight rate situation.

Education Minister W. S. Lloyd, of Saskatchewan, announced that his department is considering decentralizing its visual aid work.

Also at Regina, opposition leader Walter Tucker told the Legislature that a number of old-age pensioners are being victimized by persons, posing as government agents, who obtain lists of pensioners and charge them "exorbitant" amounts for doing such jobs as checking chimneys.

FAMOUS BRIDGE

The Golden Gate suspension bridge at San Francisco has a span of 4,200 feet.

PLOW CHAMPIONS RETURN—Eugene Timbers, 18, of Milliken, Ont., left, and Norman Tyndall, 24, of Richmond Hill, Ont., arrive at Dorval airport, Montreal, after taking part in the International Plowing Match at Armagh, Northern Ireland, and in matches in England. Timbers won the under 21 class at Newoyn East, Cornwall, Eng. Tyndall displays the Overseas competitors' trophy he won competing with entries from several countries.

Say Politics Boiling At Olympics

OSLO, Feb. 21 (CP).—International politics are boiling at the sixth winter Olympic games.

The big question today is: will Avery Brundage succeed J. Sigfrid Edstrom of Sweden as president of the International Olympic Committee, amateur sport's most honored job?

There are many Europeans who do not want to see the Olympic presidency go across the Atlantic. But chances are good Brundage will win.

"I have never campaigned for any office," said Brundage, wealthy Chicago hotel owner, Friends acknowledge he is available.

Brundage now is first vice-president of the Olympic organization. Probably his chief rival for the high post is Lord Burghley of Britain, former Olympic champion in the 400-metre hurdles, and also a vice-president.

Observers believe the Commonwealth probably will vote as a bloc in support of Lord Burghley.

Election of a new president probably will take place at the summer games at Helsinki. Edstrom, who is over 80, has said he will resign then.

Brundage probably will get most of his support from Latin American countries who believe Europe has had too much say in the Olympic organization.

28,000 Liquor Addicts

TORONTO, Feb. 21 — (CP).—Gordon A. Shewfelt estimated on Wednesday in his presidential address to the Ontario Temperance Federation that there are 28,000 liquor addicts in the province going through some form of the stages leading to alcoholism.

Postpone Decision

LONDON, Feb. 21 — (Reuters) —The Conservative Government has postponed its decision to impose charges on dental treatment and medical prescriptions under the state-run National Health Service, it was learned here Wednesday.

Research Council To Help Develop Raw Materials

By LORNE BRUCE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

As a service to business, the Alberta Research Council has organized a section to provide information on the province's raw materials, manufacturing or processing techniques and markets.

Generally, a large corporation has its own engineers to do research work. The council's service has been specially designed for those without such facilities.

Called the Industrial Projects Section, it is under the direction of an industrial engineer, John Gregory.

"Sometimes it is a meeting ground for money and ideas," said Mr. Gregory. "It has happened that we arranged for certain individuals to meet for their mutual benefit."

Information Service

But mainly the section maintains a technical information service for industry and other government departments which in turn serve industry.

In connection with raw materials, an inquirer may want a certain type of clay for brick-making, or limestone for cement, or sand for glass-making, or may ask what by-products are possible from natural gas in a certain field.

In manufacturing or processing Government collapsed January 18 techniques, a firm may be having difficultty in a particular operation. If the section's general information is not specific enough it may recommend a consulting engineer who could help.

For market possibilities, some firm may have idle capacity and wonder how it can produce something with it, or how it can improve its product and obtain a wider market.

Sometimes the section hears of a product which would prove of value to another business and passes its information along.

Alberta Queries

Approximately half the queries it handles are from Alberta businesses and individuals.

Referring to surveys on the feasibility of new industries, Mr. Gregory said one of his most recent investigations along this line concerned iron and steel.

"We haven't got all the answers," he said of this investigation. "But maybe the time is approaching for the establishment of a small rolling mill in Alberta.

The section doesn't give every inquirer a rosy report.

"If we think people will fail, we tell them right at the start," Mr. Gregory said. "If prospects are good, we try to encourage them and give them all the help we can."

VOL. CIV. NIo. 44 — THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 21, 1952

MAIN STREET TOPICS

NO STAYING POWER

Warm sunshine made short work of much of the snow that fell during the night and early morning. By noon, with the help of traffic only wet ridges of soft slush remained on the city streets.

SKITCH LOSES

Percy Skitch's Lindsay rink lost today 8-7 to a Hamilton Victoria rink skipped by Stan Jones. The Lindsay quartet, the last district rink in the 25th Ontario Bonspiel at Toronto, was defeated in the third round for the North American Life trophy.

WOLF SNARED

A Lindsay resident, Howard DeGeer, trapped a brush wolf on his farm on Highway 7, just nine miles west of Lindsay. He had seen the tracks of the wolf many times and finally succeeded in catching the wolf and killing it with a cedar fence rail.

RESUME HEARING LATER

The arbitration board hearing the grievance of 16 welders fired by the C.G.E. will resume the hearing in March. The men claim unjust dismissal. After hearing evidence for a day and a half, the Board, under the chairmanship of Judge J. C. Anderson of Belleville, adjourned Tuesday afternoon.

Skids Into Bus Driver Hurt

Gerald McInnis, 33, of 364 Simcoe St. is in Oshawa General Hospital with possible fractured ribs and shock, the result of a collision Wednesday night between his car and a bus.

He is being X-rayed later today to determine the full extent of his chest injuries.

Police say McInnis was driving east on Highway 2, within Oshawa city limits, when he skidded and ran into the rear of a bus that was discharging two passengers on Hart's Hill.

The bus, belonging to the Garton Coach Lines of Bowmanville, was taking 14 passengers from Whitby to Bowmanville. Two of the passengers—Mrs. D. Lockek and Lloyd MacLean, both of the Oshawa district—were slightly injured; the others were shaken up.

Wisconsin Tests May Help Control Algae

(Special to The Examiner)

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 21. — A chemical which promises to be of aid in controlling the bloom of noxious blue-green algae in lakes during summer has been given its initial testing by University of Wisconsin botanists.

The botanists are George Fitzgerald, Gerald C. Gerloff, and Folke Skoog. The chemical was among 300 substances screened for effectiveness as an algae poison in comparison with copper sulphate now extensively used as a lake algaecide.

The chemical is selective in its action, and only a few parts per billion are required in laboratory tests for a lethal effect on the species of algae most susceptible to the poison. These species are the blue-green bloom-producing algae responsible for many of the unpleasant effects of heavy summer growth in lakes. Some other species are killed by the chemical, but only by concentrations much higher than needed to kill the blue-greens.

Results of First Tests

"With one exception, only the bloom-producers of all 20 species of algae upon which the poison was tested were killed by concentrations of less than 10 parts per billion," the scientists reported.

The search for a selective algae killer became possible after methods for culturing the blue-green algae species in the laboratory had been worked out, a discovery announced by the University of Wisconsin scientists last year. The research was financed by the Wisconsin Alumni Research foundation and the National Institutes of Health.

Preliminary short-term tests of the compound, carried on in collaboration with K. V. Mackenthun, representing the state committee on water pollution, indicated that the chemical is apparently harmless to fish and other aquatic organisms even in higher concentrations than needed to kill the blue-green algae.

The scientists pointed out that additional long-term tests are necessary to determine possible harmful effects of prolonged exposure to the chemical on fish and other organisms.

No Toxic Deposit

In addition to being lethal in lower concentrations, the new chemical has another apparent advantage over copper sulphate in that it will not form a permanent toxic deposit in the bottom mud of a lake.

"One objection to the use of copper sulphate," the scientists point out, "is the possible toxic action of resolubilized copper from lake muds on the small organisms living in the bottom of lakes."

The results of the laboratory investigations of the chemical will appear in a forthcoming technical journal.

To learn the algae-killing qualities of the chemical under field conditions, the scientists carried out several initial experiments in lakes near Madison, Wis., which are noted for their heavy algae blooms.

"Limited field tests with barrels, tanks, and in lagoons containing heavy growth of algae in lake water or sewage effluent indicate that low concentrations of the substance are effective in selectively killing the bloom-producing algae even when these algae are present in exceedingly large quantities," the scientists reported.

The scientists indicate that further field tests to obtain needed information on dosage, time, frequency, and manner for the most effective treatment of lakes—as well as testing for possible harmful effects on fish—will be conducted as soon as practicable to learn whether the chemical represents an improvement over copper sulphate in terms of cost and effectiveness

Collegiate Girls Inspect, Civic To Consider Nursing

Interest among P.C.V.S. girls in nursing has been created during the past 10 years to the extent that there are 10 to 15 who enrolled in the nurse's course annually at the Peterborough Civic Hospital. Eight years ago there was not a girl from Peterborough taking the course there. Alarmed at the low percentage from the city, the hospital and P.C.V.S.' vocational guidance department arranged a visit for girls to the hospital. Since then the interest groups have been held annually.

As a result Peterborough girls have become interested and each year some collegiate girls start training as nurses.

More than 40 girls from P.C.V.S. formed the eighth annual group on Wednesday and visited the hospital. At least a dozen of these girls, representing the home economics, commercial and academic departments, have already applied to enter the nursing course next fall.

One of the largest groups to attend since the idea started, it was arranged by Howard Moebus, vocational guidance instructor at P.C.V.S., and Miss Evelyn Robson superintendent of the nursing school.

The girls met in the nurses' residence shortly after 4 p.m. and there were divided into groups of 10 under one of the nursing school instructors. Then the tour started through the hospital and residence.

Shown Around

In the residence the girls were shown the nurses' living accommodations, the recreation rooms, the library and the laboratories. In the classrooms the students were shown briefly some of the training school work such as making beds with "patient" dummies, body charts and skeletons.

After the residence tour the P.C.V.S. girls were shown through the wards and supply rooms in the hospital to see the nurses on duty, making out reports and other work.

A film, Girls in White, showing a group of girls, like themselves, entering the nursing course, passing through various stages such as the probationary, capping, the life and graduation. Several fields in nursing specialties were illustrated.

The interest group ended in the classrooms where Miss Robson outlined the subjects taught at the Civic hospital, what is expected, rules, regulations and entrance requirements. Questions were answered.

The nursing group was the second in a series of interest groups planned for P.C.V.S. students this year. Several weeks ago the first group in teaching was held and next week the third group, to the Ryerson Institute of Technology, Toronto, will be conducted on Wednesday.

Lights On, Signal For Campaign

"Lights On" is the request by the Peterborough Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce tonight in Lakefield. The lights on will indicate that the family wish is to donate to the cancer financial campaign, sponsored this year in Peterborough and district by the Jaycees.

Kenneth Billings, chairman of the Jaycees said today that the Lakefield Lights On campaign will open their annual drive for funds to fight cancer. The campaign in Peterborough and the county will be held next week.

Members of the Peterborough junior chamber and the Lakefield Chamber of Commerce will canvass the village tonight. Where the verandah lights are on, they will call for the cash donations.

Mr. Billings pointed out that cancer ranks second to heart disease as a cause of death, responsible for more than 17,000 Canadians dying in 1952.

"Cancer is a disease that reaches beyond the patient to his family and the community. There are months of care and treatment, heavy expenses, the sight of pain and the need, all creating problems. The patient and all those near him share a heavy burden".

Cancer in men presents a challenge to medicine and research, and one-third of the cancer deaths this year could be saved by early diagnosis and prompt attention, he continued.

Mr. Billings said the chief problem in controlling cancer is that most of it occurs in the stomachs, intestines or lungs.

"These internal cancers are difficult to discover early since their first symptoms are often so slight they are ignored. The best defence is a periodic medical check-up."

Ships Must Have Radio-Telephones

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 (CP)—Canada and the United States Thursday signed a treaty to make it obligatory for Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River shipping to carry radio-telephone equipment.

Under the agreement, the two governments would require voice-transmitting and receiving gear on all shipping of 500 gross tons and over and all passenger vessels more than 6 feet long on the lakes and river as far downstream as Montreal. Shipping below Montreal is governed by an international convention.

Government oficials said it is expected Canada's commitments in the treaty will be implemented shortly by an amendment to the Canada Shipping Act.

Ordered Return To 3 Rs Expected To Have Little Effect In City Schools

Over-Emphasis On Sport Unsatisfactory Agrees Collegiate Principal But Not Situation In Peterborough

Curricula at P.C.V.S. and at city public schools are unlikely to undergo many changes as a result of the latest pronouncement from Dr. W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education. Dr. Dunlop, who 45 years ago taught in Peterborough, called for a return to the "Three R's", and a shift from "fancy subjects, frills and fads." The minister's "frills and fads" included music, art and athletics. "I am anxious about time spent in activities that have nothing much to do with real study," said Dr. Dunlop. He backed this up by saying that by next fall Ontario schools will have received a departmental directive putting the "Three R's"-back into education.

"I expect the new trend will have little effect on P.C.V.S.," said C. S. Browne, principal. And K. S. Wightman, superintendent of schools took a similar view of the situation.

Wants Fundamentals

"In a few schools in Ontario athletics have been over-emphasized," said Mr. Browne. He said that he himself shares the "old school" of thought on education—to the extent at least of believing that the "Three Rs" are fundamental.

(Presumably the minister extended his meaning of the "Three Rs"-beyond the traditional "reading, 'riting and 'rithmetic", to spelling, literature, composition, geography, history and similar fundamentals.)

"Where there has been an over-emphasis on athletics the teachers are the first to agree that this is an unsatisfactory situation," said Mr. Browne. "Schools where this happened have followed the United States' pattern. United States colleges and high schools tend to over-emphasize sports.

"However," continued Mr. Browne, "I don't think this is so at P.C.V.S."

Mr. Browne said he doubted that the education minister intends to reduce the amount of time spent on music and art, or reduce the courses. That part, according to Mr. Browne, must have been over-emphasized in press reports.

Mr. Wightman said he could not agree that the basic educational standard is falling. He qualified this by saying that improvements could be made.

'Local businesses and industries find that graduates from the commercial and vocational schools have a good basic training, said Mr. Wightman. So it can't be argued that today's education isn't equipping students for the workaday world.

Not Perfect

"I don't mean they're perfect," he said. "And besides it's only natural that an employer—any employer—will have some fault to find."

Nor does Mr. Wightman favor cutting out art ,music or athletics.

Like Mr. Browne, he feel there may be too great a stress on inter-school sports in some secondary schools. But the effect is not seriously interfering with student education.

Physical training is a necessary part of the curriculum, said Mr. Wightman. It gives students the physical exercise that they obtained naturally in the rougher life of a few generations ago.

On art and music: "Public education is to perpetuate the desirable things in our civilization. Education ensures a continuity of our ideals, knowledge, our appreciations and so on . . . by teaching art we don't necessarily think we are training artists, it is a form of expression. And music has its own cultural value."

"Training in music and art is as essential as a training in literature. Both are artistic expressions . . . . part of a well-rounded personality . . . part of our necessary culture. They are two of the most important factors in the forming of character," said Mr. Wightman.

Mr. Dunlop was in Peterborough from 1907 to October 1910. While here he taught at King Edward School and he was principal of Queen Alexandra School. He left in 1910 to go to the University of Toronto Schools.

Second Meeting May Break Salary Deadlock

Another meeting of the City Police Association bargaining committee and the Police Commission is being arranged to try to break the deadlock which has arisen in negotiating the 1952 agreement.

After meeting with the commission Tuesday, the bargaining committee informed the commission Wednesday they are rejecting the commission's final offer of a $350 increase for all policemen. In their letter rejecting the offer, the committee submitted compromise proposals for the commission's consideration.

The commission's offer would bring the basic rate for first class constables up to $3,200. The commission refused to grant the police association's request that the total cost of living bonus at the end of 1951 be added to basic salaries as a raise for 1952. The bargaining committee also asked that the cost of living bonus be increased by one per cent for each rise of one point in the cost of living index, the same as in 1951.

The commission proposed that the cost of living bonus be increased by one per cent for each rise of 1.5 in the cost of living index.

Would Mean Cut

By accepting the commission's proposals, the bargaining committee estimates that each first class constable would have his salary cut by $134. In 1951, the gross annual salary for a first class constable with the cost of living bonus amounted to $3,334.

At the beginning of the year, council made an agreement with other civic employees that the cost of living bonus would be boosted by one per cent for each 1.3 rise in the cost of living and used the same method for calculating the bonus for the police department.

This is a violation of the Police Act, the bargaining committee charges, and the commission failed to answer the committee's request for an explanation at the Tuesday meeting. When the first cheques were received in January the bargaining committee forwarded a letter of protest to the commission, but they have not received any explanation for the move as yet.

The Police Act states that the agreement for the previous year between the commission and the police department remains in force until a new agreement is negotiated.

Criticize Committee

The police association is also criticizing the salary committee of the city council for not giving them the benefit of the 1.6 rise in the cost of living index for the last three months of 1951.

Last year's agreement provided that an adjustment would be made for the increase in the cost of living at the end of every three months. Now, with the loss of the 1.6, increase during October, November and December, plus the new method of one per cent increase for each rise of 1.3 in the index, the association estimated they are losing three per cent on the cost of living bonus to which they are entitled.

The commission was adamant in its refusal to grant a 40-hour week instead of the present 44 hour week but did agree that men with over 10 years service be given three weeks holidays with pay.

Education, Protection Top Items In City Expenses

City council's expenditure of $2,620,596.70 is an index of steadily increasing financial responsibility.

The statement is a compilation of figures which are presumably expected to speak for themselves. And at the bottom of the last page is the line: deficit for 1951 was $5,699.92.

Scanning the bald numerals, it is apparent that wages and salaries cut deeply into Peterborough's municipal spending last year.

At the top of the list of grouped items is the sum of $639,172.91 for education. That is not the ultimate cost of education, because that sum does not include the annual charges on school debentures.

The items in those brackets were: Public schools $415,232; Collegiate academic $88,187; Collegiate, vocational $64,068; Separate schools $61,654.66; School Boards share of Central Mortgage payments $10,031.25.

Protection of City

Second to education is appropriation for the protection of property and persons. That total was $408,191.66 as compared with the estimated $386,600. Over-expenditure for the year was $22,216.

Details of this group of necessary expending: administration of justice $45,375.29; police department $136,427.79; fire department $154,242.36; water hydrants $36,500; street lighting $35,646.22.

Protection, like education, is one of the essentials where "paring to the bone" is not considered sound policy in the course of municipal budgeting. Obviously salaries and wages accounted for a large part of the disbursement by the city for the fundamentals of protections of the citizens and his property, and for the education of his children.

Social Services

The third largest category of spending comes under the heading of social services,—amounting to $278,923. Its details are: Welfare department $34,819.64. The itemized statement of spending has already been received by the Examiner and published showing as surplus of some $5,000, as prepared by Relief Officer A. G. Metheral.

After Welfare, comes Civic Hospital with expenditure in its current requirements of $144,710.39; St. Joseph's Hospital $10,650. This item is an annual grant for ten years as a means of assisting in the financing of the addition which was completed two years ago. The Charity item was $55,592.03. Then there was the Civic Hospital deficit of $33,151.36.

Social services actually cost the taxpayer last year more than highways and streets which used to be the major outlet of tax monies. Total for the streets department $270,799.84, of which $17,000 was a fixed levy for the suburban area commission, and the rest was $253,799.84 for maintenance of streets, oiling, flushing and all the rest.

Health Bill

Health and sanitation cost the people $166,780.46. The spending on the garbage department was $111,199.18; health department $45,481.90; provincial labratory $10,099.38.

That bulky item for the collection of garbage is largely explained by the wage scales that had to be provided last year.

Parks department was next with $83,948.98. It seems not so long ago when $30,000 appeared to be a lot of money to the parks committee. Since those simple days the cost of that branch of the city's household has risen almost 300 %.

Recreation commission received $17,000 and the expenditure on parks, rinks, tree trimming, etc. was $66,948.98.

Miscellaneous items totalled $65,635.27. They included payments for heating, grants, property account ($31,646.76) etc. In that category of items there was also the miscellaneous fund of $18,140.99 which provides for emergencies and generally unexpected items of cost.

Public services cost $46,975.21 of which $6,275.21 was charged against the market, and $40,700 was turned over to the Public Library.

The last section of the statement of municipal expenditure last year should be second to education. It represents the payment of city debt,—principal and interest on monies borrowed for various needs and uses.

Total principal paid last year was $332,243.27; and debenture interest $177,106.73; amounting to $509,350. More than one-fifth of the 1951 taxes were paid to the city's creditors. It was money spent in the past, more or less recent. And when that item is faced in budgeting there is no means of shifting or temporizing.

Citizens' Association Holds Rally At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 21 — (ENS)—First public rally of the Campbellford Citizen's Association was held in Edgewater Park Pavilion here Tuesday evening, with a large turnout.

H. S. Staples, chairman, thanked the citizens present for showing an active interest in the town affairs.

"True democracy is only true democracy in so far as the citizens take an active interest in their community", he said. Mr. Staples read a letter from Mayor Wilbert A. Kingston of Campbellford, in which the mayor promised his personal support in any worthwhile activity.

Mrs. Isobel Tatham, first and only lady to sit on Campbellford Council, spoke to the gathering and outlined the need for community spirit and to learn the art of living and working together.

"Democracy is the hardest system of government in which to achieve any measure of perfection", she said. She said each citizen must accept a share of the responsibility in striving for perfection. The Citizen's Association is at present mainly a fact-finding group, wanting to know all the facts before taking much action.

Mr. Staples told a little of the activities of Mrs. Tatham, and said the town was fortunate to have a woman of her ability in charge of welfare on the town council. "Welfare work is preventative work—relief is a last resort", said Mr. Staples.

David Ness, another new member of the town council, spoke briefly to the group. He held to the belief that a new councillor can serve best by listening first and acting later, when he had all the facts.

W. C. Tatham, chairman of the committee in charge of industrial expansion spoke on the subject. His committee has held four meetings in the past few weeks, totalling more than 16 hours. There is nothing yet to report, but the committee is going into the question thoroughly, he said.

He deplored the fact that young people, who are raised in the town, must go to the larger centres to find employment. The prime objective of the committee is to secure some small industries that can grow with the town.

A. J. Meyers, chairman of the Campbellford Memorial Hospital Board, gave the meeting a word story of the activities of the board to date, and stressed the need of money to finish the hospital building. The original estimated cost of the hospital was $150,000, but with increased building costs and eight extra beds added to the hospital, this figure is now $250,000. About $25,000 is needed to complete the building, and work is being held up on this account. He challenged the Citizens Association to raise $16,300, the amount necessary in public subscriptions, to complete the hospital.

Mrs. Robert Fox told of the activities of the Hospital Auxiliary. It is through the efforts of this auxiliary that the present hospital was able to keep out of the red last year. Two representatives of the auxiliary sit on the hospital board, which looks after the operation of the present hospital.

H. S. Staples gave a report on the Emergency Relief Fund, showing the fund had received, from various sources, a total of $5,093.92. It had spent, in the rehabilitation of seven families burned out in a large fire in the business section of the town, and in building a home for another family that was burned out, a total of $3,849.13. Of this figure, $1,000 was collected on an insurance policy, reducing the actual expenditure on the "House in a Day" project the committee accomplished, to $480.25.

The Campbellford Citizen's Band was in attendance at the gathering, and played at intervals. Donald D. Bennett, bandmaster, gave a brief history of the band, saying it was first formed as a military band of the Midland Regiment.

In closing, Mr. Staples said that the citizens must help and support their town council and must take an active interest in civic affairs. More people should attend council, school board, public utilities and other meetings he said. He said the association was not out to do anyone else's work, or to tell them how the work should be done, but to help in any way possible to make Campbellford a better place in which to live, work and play.

PINS CREST—One of Viscount Alexander's last public functions in Canada was to pin the new crest of the Halifax Junior Bengal Lancers, internationally-famous riding group, on the saddle of the lead pony. He sailed hours later for England with Lady Alexander, Brian, 12, and Susan, 3½.

Need English Champion To Defend Queen's Rule

LONDON, Feb. 21 (Reuters) — A court 600 years old in traditions will meet soon to select a "champion of England" from the ranks of British nobility to challenge and fight anyone at the coronation of the Queen who publicly opposes her rule.

The court of claims has to hear petitions made by many noble families to perform this and other historice functions at the coronation of a British sovereign.

It will decide who will be champion of England, who will carry the golden spurs, the crystal mace, cloth canopies and other trappings of pageantry.

The champion of England dates back to the coronation of Queen Mary I in 1553 when Sir Edward Dymoke rode on a charger into the banqueting hall at Westminster, threw down his great gauntlet and cried :

"If any man say and maintain that Queen Mary is not the right and undoubted inheritrix to the Imperial Crown of this realm of England, I say he lieth like a false traitor."

Spirited Contest

A descendant of Dymoke who is known to be living is expected to get the job at this coronation — without the charger. But, if history repeats itself, the court will have some spirited contests before it for other honors.

One of the likeliest battles will be over who shall carry the Great Gold Spurs. In 1189, a member of the Marshal family carried the Royal spurs for Richard I and since then a descendant of that family has claimed the privilege.

Before the coronation of King Geore IV in 1820, three men and four women claimed rightful descent from the original Marshal. The court of claims deferred judgment and left it to the King to decide who should carry his spurs. Two of the men shared the honor.

The Bishops of Durham and Bath are expected to claim the ancient right to support the young Queen —"Ye first on her right hand and ye second on her left in ye solemn procession."

One of the most ancient privileges is that of the Lord of the Manor of Worksop, Nottinghamshire, to present a right-hand glove to the sovereign and to support her right arm while she holds the Imperial septre.

The court—first held in 1377 for the coronation of Richard II—will soon be appointed by the Queen to start sifting through claims.

Australia Needs Scientists To Aid In Defence Work

● SYDNEY, Australia — (CP) — The Australian Government has set up a committee of leading scientists to see how science can best serve defence needs.

Its members are Dr. Ian Clunies Ross, Chairman of the Commonwealth Scientific and Industrial Research Organizations; John P. Baxter, professor of chemical engineering, Sydney; Leslie H. Martin, chairman of a govednment defence research and development committee and Melbourne physics professor and william H. Tucker, a senior public servant.

Prime Minister Menzies says the committee will study how many scientists Australia is going to need and how she can supply them, and how the country can make best use of her scienific resources without upsetting too much other scientific work.

This committee is, in part, an answer to conclusions reached by 50 of Australia's top scientists at a seminar at Canberra last year. They agreed after long discussion that Australia had no effective liaison in science—industry, universities and various government establishments all went their separate ways—and scientific teaching here was, to say the best of it, patchy.

Sugar Beet Growers May Get $16 Ton

SARNIA, Feb. 21 (CP)—Ontario sugar beet growers may receive more than $16 a ton for their crops in 1952.

Verne Robinson, of Dresden, field man for the Growers' Marketing Board, told a meeting of growers Wednesday night that new contracts call for an increase of 18 cents a ton over last year's price on condition that more than 300,000 tons of beets are produced. For the last two years, some 320,000 tons have been grown.

One company with plants at Chatham and Wallaceburg needed a minimum of 31,000 acres of sugar beets. New equipment at the plants was expected to increase the yield of sugar.

The meeting was held at Blackwell, six miles north of here.

OrderQuarantine For Livestock

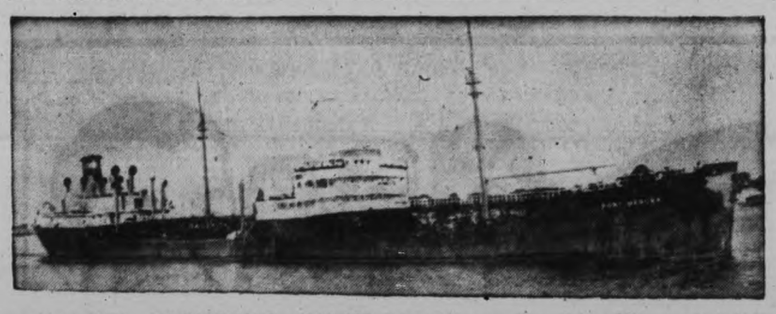
REGINA, Feb. 21 (CP)—Livestock receiving points in Regina and Moose Jaw have been quarantined for an indefinite period because of an apparently widespread outbreak of infectious stomatitis among livestock in the Regina area.

Dr. T. Childs, Veterinary General for the Federal Agriculture Department, is in Regina Wednesday to head the investigation of the disease.

Exact nature of the virus has not been established. Investigations on the nature of the disease are continuing in Regina and at the animal disease research institute at Hull, Que.

The disease is not readily transmitted to humans but is highly contagious among animals. Cattle, sheep and swine are susceptible to the disease which, in its present form, is indicated by lack of appetite, slobbering and lameness.

Stomatitis is not a new disease to Saskatchewan. It was discovered in the province about 10 years ago.



THE U.S. COASTGUARD CUTTER Eastwind is shown above after it reached the severed stern-section of the tanker Fort Mercer on Monday in a fierce snowstorm off Nantucket Light. The cutter plans to tow the wreck and the 33-crew members still aboard to Boston. Meanwhile the stern of the Pendleton which suffered a similar fate, as the Mercer, floated more than five miles further south.

Lure Jap Stragglers

MANILA, Feb. 21 (AP) — A Japanese who came here to lure Second World War stragglers out of the jungles today estimated that at least 1,000 Japanese still are hiding in the Philippines. Migrants' Home Patrol Boat

HALIFAX—(CP)—If the average housewife drops her purse at her front door, she has only to bend down and pick it up.

But when Mrs. Frank Harrison let her bag slip from under her arm recently at her "front door," there was splash and she ruefully surveyed a widening circle of ripples.

For the Harrison home is a 62-foot former Fisheries Department patrol boat, and a comfortable and pleasant place to reside, too.

The Harrisons started their little war against the housing shortage last July, when they bought the Capelin in Methegan, N.S.

It's not surprising the Harrisons turned to the sea, because they're both navy veterans. In fact, it was while they were both stationed at a British port that they met. Mrs. Harrison is a Londoner and Frank comes from Halifax in Yorkshire.

After emigrating to Canada, they lived in Montreal for a time before finding the Capelin in Methegan.

They sailed it to Halifax, tied up at a wharf, and now their big hope is to head for the West Indies sometime this year. If they like it, they will live in southern waters for a time.

Meanwhile, Frank is working at the dockyard here.

"Frank has always wanted a boat from the time he was five years old, although he doesn't come from a seafaring family," sid Mrs. Harrison.

"As for me I love it," she said. "I wouldn't go back on shore for anything. Naturaliy there are some handicaps in housekeeping but it's different from having a house you buy, and equip with furniture."

Movie Actor's Leap Year Safety Rule

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21 (AP)—One of Hollywood's most eligible males offers this advice on how to elude designing females in this leap year: Run!

Handing out this advice is Rock Hudson, tall, dark-haired actor. He is the latest to cause a big noise among the bobbysoxers. In his two years in Hollywood, he has squired a good number of glamor girls and he would like to continue his single ways.

"I'm 26," he said. "I don't think I'd like to get married until I'm 30."

Leap year or not, there are girls who would like to thwart his long-range planning, he said.

"I can always feel it coming on," he said. "I have several dates with a girl and then she starts to get serious. She starts to work me into a corner. That's when I use my strategy. I run.

Hudson came close to marriage once during his Hollywood career. He and Vera-Ellen decided they would wed and even set the date for the event. It was cancelled by mutual agreement.

Too Much Strain

"Now I don't believe I would marry an actress," he declared. "It places too much strain on a marriage. For one thing, I want to be the breadwinner in the family. I wouldn't want my wife footing any of the bills.

"That was one of the reasons Vera and I broke it up. She was making 10 times the salary I was."

He further illustrated with one of his current dates, Marilyn Maxwell: "She's just finishing up a picture and I'm just starting one. She'll be going out on a tour next, and as soon as she gets back, I'll be going out on one. We seldom have the time to see each other."

Hudson is currently the fair-haired boy at Universay-International. He gets his first star billing in "Bend of the River," but it was the premier of that picture that put him in solid with his studio bosses. He spent a week touring Oregon for the film, and he got the cheers of the younger set wherever he went.

RUNAWAY BRIDE—Lois Weiland (left) and her sister, Mrs. June Smith, return to Pittsburgh after Miss Weiland ran away on her wedding day. She says she feels sorry for her bridegroom-to-be, Edward Wiegand, but is definite that "the whole thing's off." In Chicago, Wiegand said he'd try to get her to accept again.

Millbrook W.A. Bale Ready

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21 (ENS)—The Women's Auxiliary of St. Thomas Anglican Church met on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. H. A. Turner with a good attendance. Mrs. Reginald Fallis led in a prayer in memory of the King and a brief silence was observed. This was followed by the W.A. litany, the scripture reading given by Mrs. J. W. Hilton, and the creed repeated in unison. Miss Rose McNamara read the minutes and called the roll in place of the secretary, Miss M. Collins, who is ill in hospital.

The Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Hilton, reported that a number of things for the bale, which includes an outfit of clothing for a 12-year-old boy in an Indian residential school in the west, had already been procured. Miss Ellen Kent, reporting for the quilters, said three quilts were now ready for the bale.

Mrs. T. A. Campbell, prayer partner, read an interesting letter she had received from Miss E. Whelpley, who is stationed at Prince Albert, Sask. Miss Whelpley works for the Sunday school by post, which at the present time has 6,605 members.

Attention was called to the fact that this year the Women's World Day of Prayer is being held in Grace Presbyterian Church on February 29.

Mrs. Turner gave an interesting talk on the chapter of the study book on Latin America which had as its title "Into the Church." Mrs. Fallis read a letter from Toronto concerning women becoming members of the synod.

The meeting closed with prayer. Mrs. A. A. Chote and Mrs. Reginald Fallis were supper hostesses for the refreshments which followed.

Home and School Association News

PRINCE OF WALES

Father's night meeting of the Prince of Wales Home and School Association was held Tuesday. Mr. W. J. Garner was chairman, assisted by Messrs. E. J. Thompson and S. Parsons. A minute's silence was held in memory of the late King George VI.

Guest speaker was Mr. James Wharry of the Quaker Oats Company whose topic was "Just Fathers". He described in a humorous way the life of a father from the birth of his child until it is 21, but left with the audience some hints on how to be a proud father, and an understanding one. He was thanked by Mr. Charles Huffman.

A comic skit titled "European Quartette" was presented by Messrs. Art Malby, A. McGregor, C. Murkar, Les Reichardt and Chas. Spearin.

Mr. Quirt McKinney took over for singing and a half hour was enjoyed in this way. Afterward Mr. R. J. Bolton played back the recording he had made. Appreciation to Mr. McKinney was expressed by Mr. Ward Smith.

Announcement was made of the Home and School Council meeting March 19th when Mr. Donald Graham, director of education in Forest Hill Village, will speak. There will be an "open school" on March 25th and nomination papers will be handed out at that time.

Miss M. Mutton's class won the attendance prize.

President Mrs. W. Baggs thanked the chairmen and the fathers who served coffee and sandwiches after the meeting.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"I'm always glad to help anyone out of work—here's a can of dog food!

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Packaged Mixes Can Help Why Not Be Individualist?

I'm a Brady fan. Doc Brady that is—not Jim(I'm not that old).

Doc Brady believes in eating things in their natural state as far as possible.

Now I know you don't expect me to tell you how to use boxed and ready-made desserts. It says that on the package—"Mix and Stir". This is a "Homemade Ice Cream Column."

My self-appointed business is to teach you how to get the best out of the food you eat. For, my pets, it's better for you to eat fresh foods while they are fresh—not when they are dried and packaged. We should do what the animals do—forage for our food. Ever see the baker's horse reach up to an overhanging tree branch and nibble off some of the succulent leaves? His two forefeet up on the sidewalk always amuse me.

We can't go to quite such lengths, but we can remember that packaged mixes may be a help in time of stress, but when you really want your cooking to express yourself you want to start from the beginning.

Make your own ice cream. Not having a mechanical refrigerator will not stop you. In dear old Ferbruary in dear old Canada everybody can have ice cream. I have two bee-yew-tiful recipes that will make more ice cream than you pay 45 or 47 cents for at the store, and that will inflate your ego.

Strawberry Fluff Freeze

Into a large bowl put 1 package of fresh frozen strawberries (or raspberries) and ½ cup sugar. (If fresh strawberries are used for this in June use 1¼ cups sugar.) Add I unbeaten egg white and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Beat 10 minutes or until stiff. Fold into this mixture 1 cup of whipping cream which has been beaten until fairly stiff. Add a little bright red coloring. Freeze in large freezer tray, or pack into a container for which you have an overlapping cover—filling it only three-quarters full to allow for freezing expansion—and bury in the snow outside. It will freeze in freezing tray in 5 or 6 hours. Do not stir.

Peanut Brittle Ice Cream

One cup rich milk, ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 1 cup crushed peanut brittle or 1 cup toasted and chopped nuts. Scald the milk and stir into it the sugar, salt and flour thoroughly mixed together dry. Stir over low heat until it boils, then let boil 1 minute, stirring. Cool. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until it is a soft mush. Whip until barely stiff the whipping cream and add vanilla to it. Scrape the partially frozen mixture into a large bowl and beat with rotary beater until smooth. Fold in whipped cream. Return to freezer tray and freeze until firm, stirring 3 times during first hour of freezing. This may be made by freezing buried in the snow but must be dug out to be stirred at least once.

Dear Mary Moore: I was wondering if you could help me . . . my cakes are always flat as pancakes . . . I follow recipes carefully but no success. One lady told me to double the baking powder but still no luck . . . my arm gets tired beating . . . my husband beat the batter for me but still no luck. My pies seem to turn out very well, so I don't think it is my oven . . . Mrs. A. J. V.

ANSWER: It must be old baking powder that is your trouble. Buy fresh baking powder—in a small can—from a large store where turnover is constant. If this does not correct your trouble I will give you a recipe giving specific details for mixing by folding—to incorporate as much air in the batter as possible. Excessive beating does not always mean a light cake. I'd like to know how you make out.

WRONG: Correct her, explaining that she never gets distances correct.

'RIGHT: Let it pass if it isn't important. If it is, say something like: "I don't believe it is quite that far. It seems to me it is nearer 40 miles."

McKone, and in front are Mrs. George Cheatle, "Manny" of the show, and Mrs. Harold Rehill.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Kiwanians And Queens Go Gay At Costume Party

Getting into a freakish costume is just the same as being under a magic spell. So when Kiwanis and their Queens get dressed for the yearly costume party they forget their staid business-like and housewifely manners and really "let down their hair."

A fiesta-like atmosphere was indicated from the beginning of Wednesday evening in homes throughout the city as costumes owned or borrowed were assembled, and the gaudier they looked the better they suited. By the time of arrival at the Cupid Ball, at the Kawartha Country Club, everyone was in gay spirit and continued so throughout the evening.

The Queens entertained their husbands first with a splendid minstrel show. The star was undoubtedly Mrs. Ben Collis, whose fine showmanship was climaxed with her saxophone solos. (Even bandleader Jim Byrne was fooled by her performance and had thought of hiring the lady until someone told the secret—the music came from Mr. Collis' saxophone hidden behind the piano).

Mrs. George Cheatle, who arranged the show, with assistance of Mrs. Louis Zacks in directing and putting new words to some of the songs, took the name of "Manny" and Mrs. Collis was "Chloe." These two put forth some sparkling repartee with action to match. More jokes and stories, mostly on Kiwanians, and mostly fictitious, were told by other members of the minstrel chorus, interpersed with songs, such as "Shortnin' Bread," "Dark Town Strutter's Ball," "Down Yonder," etc. Mrs. A. E. Denure who assisted at the piano with Mrs. D. J. Fitzgerald, came forward at the last and sang the "Missouri Waltz" beautifully. She followed with "Nelly Bly" to satisfy the crowd. Mrs. Charles Hurst was the "white lady" in the crowd and "dragged out" the gossip stories from the "colored" ladies as well as introducing the numbers in lyrical style.

The costumed guests paraded about the club in a grand march during which three judges endeavoured to choose the best costumes. They saw heads with unusually large ears and noses, figures in baggy pants and others in tight pants which weren't too trustworthy, Oriental ladies, pigtailed men, but they finally picked Mrs. Wm. Garner, dressed like a page of the Sherwood Forest, and Les Reichhardt, dressed like some type of Mongolian with his face constrained to match by the new device of a nylon stocking cap.

Mrs. Garner and Mr. Reichardt won nice prizes and there were also prizes for the novelty dances. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hamilton won the anniversary waltz, and Mrs. Cheatle and Ken Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. DeNure won spot dances.

Dancing was interrupted at 11.30 to enjoy a delicious buffet luncheon.

Mrs. Walter Howell, wife of the Kiwanis Club, president of this year, was in charge of the party. She was assisted by Mrs. Reichardt in charge of the red heart tickets, written in white ink, Mrs. Bob Bastable, decorations in the club, Mrs. Rufus Payne, prizes, and Mrs. Cheatle, the stage show.

Sit Tight And Stop Nagging To Philandering Husband

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I were engaged when I was 16, but delayed marrying until he was discharged from service six years ago. We have two children. He has made me the happiest girl in the world.

Now I'm 27 and he's 29. I've always trusted him and my faith was justified until six months ago when he began running around with another woman. She is married and is cheating on her husband. My husband admits the affair but says he would never leave me or the children for this other woman. When he tries to break off with her, she chases after him. Several people who know of the affair have advised me to leave him, but I can't. I couldn't live without him, and for the children's sake I feel I should stay.

I keep nagging him about this woman and he's getting pretty disgusted with me and pleads with me not to argue about it; when the time comes he'll leave her. What can I do?

CONNIE

ANSWER: Hard as the advice is to take, there's nothing you can do except sit tight, stop nagging, and continue praying for the end of this sordid affair. When your husband comes to his senses, which will probably be soon, he'll be thoroughly ashamed of himself for yielding to the blandishments of a cheap, tawdry woman. You will everlastingly have one advantage over him: you have kept your self-respect while he has lost his.

What About Her Husband?

Since so many people know of this affair and are so free with advice to you, doesn't anyone pass the information on to the wronged husband? When the news gets to him, he may do something to bring his wife home, though why he should want her I couldn't say.

You are well aware of the drawbacks to a separation from your husband: living without the man you love and depriving your children of a father. Since this future doesn't appeal to you, you have no recourse but to make the best of a situation until it is changed. Nagging will not achieve that change! Stop mentioning either the affair or the woman to your husband; he'll be so flabbergasted he may forget her entirely. Focus your attention on your fine young sons. In caring for them you'll find ease from your heartache, and in prayer you have a consolation to carry you through these bitter days.

DEAR MISS DIX: The woman I love is hurt by remarks I have made, such as asking her why she makes no attempt to interest herself in the things I do pertaining to business, etc. She claims if I tell her her faults now, what will I do later, etc. Am I wrong to presume that a wife should be willing to share her husband's problems? ARTHUR G.

ANSWER: Your fiancee is a remarkably thin-skinned woman; marriage to her will be a continuous round of soothed hurt feelings. You are perfectly right in wanting, as a wife, a woman who will be a helpmate and companion. What she wants is to be a pampered darling with not a care in the world. Better find a girl with a little more backbone. You may think you're broken hearted now, but it's much better to be hurt before marriage than after.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend comes to see me almost every night but never has anything to say. He just sits and waits for someone else to do the talking. I am 16 and he is 17. JUNE

ANSWER: Since you are both in high school, he comes to see you entirely too often. Don't you both have homework and studying to do? You could use a little more attention to your schoolwork, June, so why not spend more time at it?

If your friend only calls two or three times a week he'll have more to say. Since he is apparently the strong, silent type, he depends upon you to set the conversational ball rolling. This you can do by opening a discussion on sports, school activities, current movies, local events. When you find a topic that particularly interests him, such as his favorite sport, let him do the talking, with an occasional encouraging question from you. His is a difficult type to handle, but it is usually worth the effort.

Buckhorn WI Hears Lecture

BUCKHORN, Feb. 21—Buckhorn W.I. met at the home of Mrs. N. Ross Tuesday evening. A letter was read from Mrs. Purcell concerning a memorial to be placed in the Peace Garden for Mrs. Watt. Miss Noble wrote concerning the Girls' Work.

Thank you letters were received from many who had received fruit while ill.

Miss M. Nicholls gave a report on the Flower and Fruit Fund.

Mrs. W. Pearson, convener for Education then took charge of the meeting.

Mrs. McKenty gave a reading, "Why he was not promoted."

Mrs. W. Pearson gave a talk on art. She had copies of two pictures to emphasize her points. "The Last Supper" painted by Leonardo de Vinci, and the "Head of Christ" painted by Warner L. Sallman during this century. She compared them in many ways.

A quiz on "Current Events" closed the program after which lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

What's Right?

At a morning coffee or afternoon tea you find yourself "stuck" with one guest and you would really like to get around and speak to the other guests.

WRONG: Feel there is nothing you can about the situation.

RIGHT: Say something like: "Oh there's Mrs. Smith. I want to go over and say 'Hello' to her." Once you get away you can move around from one group to another.

Young Women Find Jobs Scarce

TORONTO, Feb. 21 (CP)—Jobs for young women are scarce in the Toronto area for the first time in years, the 79th annual meeting of the metropolitan area Young Women's Christian Association was told Wednesday night.

Eva Coon, executive director, said in her annual report:

"Jobs for young women in our age group are no longer so plentiful or so quickly obtainable as they were a year ago. Now the demand is for skilled workers with good educational background. Girls and women who are not fully qualified, who left school early and who have personality problems which make it difficult for them to adjust in the average job setting are not finding employment with anything like the ease with which they did a few years ago."

The organization continued to be concerned about scarcity of suitable living accommodation at prices within girls' reach.

"For young single girls there is no scarcity of rooms, but the cost of most rooms is much beyond their means."

March 1 Increase On Freight Rates

OTTAWA, Feb. 21—(CP)—The railways are planning to increase their low "transcontinental" rates between Eastern Canada and the West Coast, it was learned today.

The increase of 4½ per cent is to go into effect March 1.

The size of the hoist is the same as that authorized for other rates by the Board of Transport Commissioners late in January. Those increases went into effect Feb. 11.

The transcontinental rates, which are at a low level to meet competition, do not need a prior authorization from the board for increases within their ceilings. The railways have filed the higher rates to take effect March 1 automatically.

The increases will have an automatic effect, too, on some rates between Alberta and the east, which are tied to the transcontinental rates.

By legislation at the last session of Parliament, the Alberta-Eastern Canada charges were limited to a maximum of one and one-third the amount of the British Columbia-Eastern Canada tolls.

The transcontinental rates cover a fairly wide variety of articles of the type that could be carried in ships around the Panama Canal route. Canned goods, steel and automobiles are some of the major items in the traffic, which amounts to several million dollars a year.

Pusan, World's Busiest Port UN's Arms Gateway to Korea

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

PUSAN, Korea. —(NEA)—As the tempo of the fighting at the front decreased in the past few months, the tempo of activity at this main supply point for the Korean theatre has steadily increased.

Today Pusan is the busiest port in the world. In the jammed waterfront area, thousands of Korean workers swarm over the scores of ships tied up to the docks, unloading their cargo of war materials directly on to trains for shipment to advanced divisions or to jammed supply points a little above Pusan.

Out in the harbor, additional ships are either impatiently waiting to move into a vacated dock or are being unloaded by hundreds of ancient Korean barges. Up the way, apart from the main dock area, ships are unloading thousands of tons of all kinds of ammunition.

It's a place where feverish activity goes on seven days a week, and at night, too, under glaring lights. If total tonnage figures could be revealed they would stagger the imagination. And new docks to increase it are under construction.

Barbed Wire

Already enough barbed wire has come through Pusan to make a double apron fence completely around Canada. Enough sand bags have been brought in to build a wall two feet thick and four feet high across the wide waist of the Korean peninsula.

The boss of this whole fantastic operation is Brig. Gen. Paul F. Yount, a round-faced, smiling man who at any one moment can tell you exactly how many ships are in the harbor, the state of their unloading and how many ships are one day out of the port.

The concept of one major command handling all the supply problems for a complete, major theatre of war is new, having been tested only briefly during World War II. In Yount's opinion it's working. He says:

"This arrangement gives us a blank voucher for everything we need. We do not have to go around with a tin cup begging for supplies and equipment. In the overall picture we are getting all we want. And I think the forward commanders will bear me out in my claim that we are satisfying their needs."

No Supply Shortage

According to Yount, the items in short supply for the forces in Korea are scarcely worth mentioning. Some standard sizes of tires have been scarce along with the materials for patching tubes. But the backlog on everything else has been steadily building up.

Yount's operation includes control of all Korean railroads. Two main lines, one up the east coast and the other up the centre of the peninsula, carry the great bulk of all cargo going to UN forces. Even the trucks issued to advance units are taken up by train. When they are driven up, they need a complete overhaul by the time they arrive, the Koreans roads are so bad.

The rail beds and Korean equipment are in excellent shape, Young claims. A fleet of 35 diesel engines has greatly improved the efficiency of the operation.

One of the big lessons of Korea, as far as a unified logistical command goes, Yount believes, has been the efficient use of native labor. Classes have been organized for officers and men who work with Korean labor. They learn the Korean language and the best methods of dealing with Korean help.

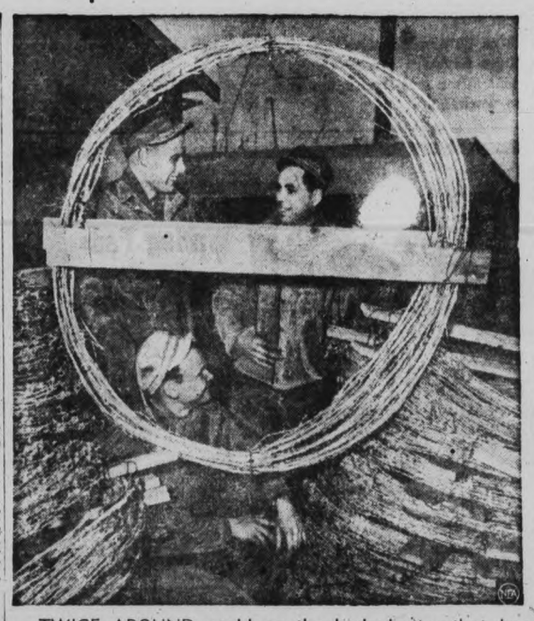
Contract Basis

The policy of the handling of Korean workers has been completely revamped in the last few months. Instad of hiring individual workers, specfiic jobs are let out on competitive contract to Korean firms. Thus Korean companies are doing all of the hiring, firing and direct supervising. The result is more work out of each man and a generally cheaper price for the job, compared to when the Army hired the workers individually.

And from the point of view of the Korean workers it is proving more satisfactory. On the Army payroll they used to average 85 cents a day. Now many of them make much more than that under an incentive plan set up by their Korean bosses.

The biggest group of items being shipped into Pusan includes petroleum supplies for the trucks, planes and oil stoves of UN forces. It is estimated that enough oil stoves have been sent to the front this Winter to provide one for every four soldiers.

Other quartermaster supplies are next, with ordnance equipment third in tonnage. In addition to keeping the Eighth Army in action, the port handles thousands of tons of relief supplies consigned to the United Nations Civil Assistance Command, Korea.



TWICE AROUND could go the barbed wire that has come through the arms entry port of Pusan. Here a shipment is examined.

PUSAN PIPE, sported by this Korean workman, Kim Kwon, dangles a tobacco pouch from the steam. He's been on the job, seven days a week, for 17 months straight—one of the army of natives at the busy port.

Accuse Widow Of Poisoning 11 Victims

POITIERS, France, Feb. 21—(AP)—Mme. Marie Besnard, a 54-year-old widow accused of dispatching 11 victims with poison in the last 25 years, went on trial today for murder.

Her court session had advance billing as one of the most sensational in France since "Bluebeard" Henri Desire Landru was convicted in 1921 of taking an equal toll of lady loves.

The state charges that the stout, bespectacled Mme. Besnard counted her parents and two husbands among her victims. She has denied all murder charges and has six lawyers to defend her.

100 Witnesses

The trial in the Justice Palace where Joan of Arc was questioned five centuries ago by a committee of bishops, is expected to last a week. Some 100 witnesses are to be heard.

In a preview appearance Wednesday, to answer a forgery charge, Mme. Besnard pouted when the judge insisted she give straight answers.

"Some people call you vicious and a liar. Other testimony shows you were a decent, well-behaved woman without blame. What have you to say?" he asked.

The widow replied: "I'm not a solid piece of gold".

She was found guilty of forging a postal cheque for about $26 to defraud an old, illiterate aunt. The court let her off with a $34 fine and suspended two-year sentence—and set the stage for the murder charges.

Of seven witnesses called in the forgery trial, none had a bad word for her. It was said she had a reputation for piety and charity.

75 Tons Paper Collected In City

Peterborough citizens backed the Peterborough Boy Scout Association drive Tuesday night with more than 75 tons of waste paper. A few collections were made Wednesday to places where papers were missed on Tuesday.

For the first time in the past two years the association has sold the paper to a Peterborough firm. Instead of loading freight cars for shipping to Toronto or other centres, the Scouts, fathers and group committeemen trucked the paper to the company's buildings in the southend.

"The bundles were neater than on previous drives," said Peter Moore, director, adding "They were tied more neatly in most places and it helped us considering we had further to take the loads this time."

The money derived from the sale of the paper and cardboard will be used this time for the Scouts and Cubs uniforms. In previous drives the money has been divided between the groups and the association for scouting activities such as summer camp.

"In most cities," said Mr. Moore, "the Scout associations plan financial campaigns but the Peterborough association relies upon the paper drives for funds."

The drive was conducted similarly to other paper collections. A fleet of 25 trucks was donated by various merchants and factories; a number of these were used again on Wednesday for the missed bundles. More than 275 Scouts, Cubs and fathers worked on the trucks loading.

The next drive will likely be held in April or May.

Mission Circle Hears Returned Missionary

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21 (ENS)—Miss Jean Stewart, recently returned from China, was the guest of the Golden Links Mission Circle at their meeting held Tuesday night in the parsonage. Miss Stewart was the circle's special overseas missionary and it is seven years since, when on a former furlough, she last visited a circle meeting. She renewed old acquaintances and spoke of her work in China. Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, the president, was in the chair and introduced Miss Stewart, who is a personal friend of hers of long standing.

The worship service, which had as its theme "We believe in brotherhood," was conducted by Mrs. George Sedgewick. Mrs. Henry Gray gave the scripture reading and Mrs. Lawrence Winslow a vocal solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss E. Hetherington. The Rev. Margaret Butler closed the worship period with prayer.

Circle members were asked to bring good used toys to be put in the bale. A letter was read asking the president and circle members to attend a women's meeting in Knox Church on Sunday afternoon when Mis Harriet Christie will tell in detail of the plans for the new United Church Training School.

There was an attendance of 46 at Tuesday night's meeting including some W.M.S. members who came especially to meet Miss Stewart.

Assisting Mrs. Butler, the hostess, in serving refreshments, were Mrs. David Lunn and the February super hostesses, Miss Estella Hetherington, Mrs. Homer Ouellette, Miss Betty Lunn and Mrs. Bruce Ingham.

"World Of Brotherhood" Urged By So-Ed Speaker Wm. White, Toronto

"The world should be a world of brotherhood as it is a world of neighborhood."

Nationally known speaker, William White of Toronto, made this statement in a speech at Wednesday night's So-Ed meeting at George St. United Church. The topic of Mr. White's address was: Brotherhood, and his visit to Peterborough was planned as one of the activities of the city's Brotherhood Week observance.

In his appeal for true brotherhood, Mr. White explained that scientific achievement in the field of transportation had drawn the world into a neighborhood. The world has become small, but unfortunately it had not progressed as far in its attitudes in human relations.

Injustice To Man

"It is man's injustice to man that stands in the way of world brotherhood," the speaker explained.

He compared the discrimination and racial prejudices present in the world today to a four-eyed monster, with each of these four eyes standing for the reasons behind discrimination—interests, inertia, ignorance and intolerance.

Brightening his address with illustrative examples, Mr. White said that a great deal of discrimination was motivated by selfish and business interests.

In addition to this, many people claim that they personally are not prejudiced, but plead inability to do any good.

"These people are perhaps guilty of a greater sin, that of omission, than those who profess to be prejudiced," he said.

The third reason for discrimination Mr. White called ignorance and pointed out that this was often caused by people not realizing that everyone despite race, creed or color was making some contribution to civilization.

Go With Majority

The speaker blamed the existence of intolerance on the tendency of people to identify themselves with the majority.

"Individually everyone usually measures up when it comes to tolerance," the speaker said. "However, when such a situation involves a group there is a tendency to fear the opinion of others and consequently use this as an excuse for intolerant attitudes."

"Our observance of brotherhood should not merely last for one week," Mr. White concluded. "We must pledge ourselves to support this ideal and not give it merely lip-service all year-round. It must become a part of our daily lives so that it radiates from us and affects the lives of the people with whom we come in contact."

Mr. White was introduced by Quirt McKinney, former chairman of So-Ed and thanked by William Graff, chairman of So-Ed's speakers' committee.

Lost and Ill-treated Animals Tended By Humane Society

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

Blackie was lost.

Blackie had been wandering around the streets of Peterborough for two days. He was cold and miserable and hungry. But the most unfortunate part of the situation was that Blackie couldn't explain his plight to anyone. Blackie was a dog.

Blackie is only a name and a dog we have used to represent the dozens of unclaimed dogs who wander through the streets of Peterborough every year. Besides, the lack of care which these animals are missing they could become a major problem. They roam through yards and lanes upsetting garbage pails in their search for food and in some cases they are diseased.

There is only one organization in this city and country which has as its sole responsibility the care of lost, diseased and ill-treated animals—the Humane Society.

Operating 20 Years

The Peterborough Humane Society has been operating for the past 20 years.

A lost dog may have one of three futures ahead of it after being picked up by the Humane Society and taken to the dog shelter on the corner of George and Townsend Sts.

The dog will be kept in the shelter for a period of time, during which it may be claimed by his owner or a new home found. If such does not happen it is electrocuted.

In 1951 the Society handled and cared for 1,773 animals. Homes were found for 160 dogs and 229 cats and 1,384 animals were painlessly electrocuted.

If a dog wanders into your house, or is found scrounging in your garbage can, a call to Bruce Menzies, inspector for the Humane Society will bring immediate action. The inspector will even remove skunks that have chosen to visit city homes. Unwanted pets can also be disposed of in the same way.

Much Greater Scope

However the society's work has a much greater scope than taking care of lost, diseased and unwanted animals. In the past year 26 towns and villages and 19 farms within a radius of 65 miles were inspected by the Peterborough society's inspector. Mr. Menzies also inspected 11 fall fairs to check that proper housing quarters and treatment was provided for animals.

Truck loads of animals passing through the city are checked and the necessary steps taken if there is overcrowding or other ill-treatment in evidence.

The Peterborough society has a membership of 60 and all work in the society is voluntary except for the inspector. Money is needed to pay the inspector's salary and operate a truck.

The society is making a public appeal for funds through the Red Cross and Community campaign, March 7-15, so that they are able to carry on their work in the city. In 1951 they received $261 of the total funds collected.

Federal Plans To Aid Health Get New Study

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 (CP). — A joint Senate-Commons committee likely will be established at the new session of parliament to study possible extension of "free" health services to Canadians.

The speech from the throne to be read at the opening of the session Feb. 28 is expected to forecast establishment of such a committee. It may become known as the National Health Insurance Committee although the thinking of some members of the Federal government has swung away from an insurance plan that would provide all types of medical and health services.

At a Federal-Provincial conference in 1945 the Canadian government offered to pay most of the cost of a multi-million-dollar health insurance program that would provide "free" medical dental and hospital care.

The "free" services would have been financed out of taxation, with some taxes being especially earmarked for social-security expenditures.

Experience in other countries and a study of Canada's particular needs have led to a change in views since 1945.

Bolster Provincial Aid

One federal official recently explained the situation this way:

"We now are thinking in terms of what we can do to help the provinces expand their free health services to the people. We are not thinking in terms of a plan that would provide 'cradle to grave' protection for everyone.

"We are thinking particularly of ways to help the man suddenly confronted with a huge hospital or medical bill that could keep him on the verge of bankruptcy for years. Another gap in our program is the lack of any provision for cases where men are thrown out of employment as a result of illness."

While the federal government has certain thoughts on the question of health services, the official added, it has no firm plans. It is prepared to place the problem in the hands of a committee and to listen to its recommendations.

The committee is expected to be similar to a joint Senate-Commons committee established in 1949 to study old-age security programs. That committee recommended that pensions of $40 a month be paid to all 70 and over, regardless of means. The recommendation was accepted and the plan was put into operation this year.

The health committee probably will be asked to make a thorough study of health insurance plans now in operation in other countries. The directorate of health-insurance studies will be able to provide full information on the plans.

The results of "sickness surveys" in the provinces also will be available this year. The surveys, undertaken to determine the prevalence of sickness in Canada, covered 10,000 families and probably some 40,000 individuals.

Work of the committee conceivably could spread through at least two sessions.

In Canada, health and welfare are matters that fall within the jurisdiction of the provinces. The federal government, for instance, could not inaugurate a national health insurance plan without all provinces agreeing to a constitutional amendment.

The federal government considers its role as one of providing assistance to the provinces to improve their health and welfare services.

In 1948 the federal government launched what then was described as the foundation for a health insurance program. The program provided for a series of grants to the provinces to assist them with hospital construction, health surveys, and the treatment of crippled children, mental cases, tuberculosis, cancer and other ailments.

Present Aid Costs

The grants now amount to more than $35,000,000 a year.

The program provided for hospital grants of approximately $13,000,000 a year for five years from 1948. The government will decide next year whether to continue the hospital-construction grants.

Some of the provinces, notably British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Newfoundland, already have different programs of medical and hospital insurance in operation. Some of the other provinces also supply certain medical and health services free.

The federal plan could be aimed at an extension of such services.

BREAK THE LAXATIVE HABIT THIS PROVEN WAY

If you take laxatives regularly, here is how you can stop! This proven plan helps you establish your natural powers of regularity, controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

When worry, overwork, overeating make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's temporarily. Never get the laxative habit.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 35c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Hendley Family Holds Reunion At Apsley

APSLEY, Feb. 21 (ENS)—C. Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Dinnie Hendley had as their guests Mr. Hendley's sisters, Mrs. Josie Oster of Toronto, Mrs. Louis Reynolds of Hamilton and brothers John Hendley of Clarkston, U.S.A., and Joseph Hendley of Toronto; also Mrs. Joseph Hendley and Milton Oster of Toronto. "Jack" left his home 52 years ago to live in the United States and has only made one visit home since. This is the first time the brothers and sisters have been together in 43 years. On that occasion they all spent Christmas with their parents at their home on Highway 28, south of Apsley.

There is one other brother, George Hendley, who lives in Lewiston, U.S.A., who was unable to be here at this family reunion. James Hendley, the father of these children, lived to be 108 years.

Sioux Relieved On Korean Duty

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 (CP)—The destroyer Sioux, first Canadian warship to complete two tours of duty in Korean waters, has been relieved by the Nootka and is scheduled to arrive at her home base at Esquimalt, B.C., March 6, the navy announced Wednesday.

The Sioux, commanded by Cmdr. Paul D. Taylor of Victoria, was relieved last Wednesday by the Nootka, which had been in the Far East since early last May. In the last 19½ months the Sioux spent all but two either on duty with the United Nations fleet or on passage to or from the war zone.

The Nootka, commanded by Commander R. M. Steele of Rothesya, N.B., sailed from her home base at Halifax Dec. 30 on the 12,600-mile voyage to the Far East. On Feb. 14, the day after her arrival at the Japanese port where Canadian warships are based, she put to sea with other U.N. units on operational duty.

Still in the Korean theatre are the destroyers Cayuga and Athabaskan.

Drop Exports To Canada Causes Worry In Britain

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FEB. 21 (CP)—It seems strange to talk of a slump at a time when British exports are higher than they have ever been before, but the cap fits as far as Anglo-Canadian trade is concerned.

The fall in exports to Canada has Whitehall worried. While British exports to all countries last month totalled £624,000,000, the highest in the history of this trading nation, shipments to Canada again dropped below the 1950-51 level. The latest figure was £8,500,000 compared with an average of £9,600,000 in the fourth quarter of 1951 and an average of £11,400,000 for the whole of 1951.

Officials in touch with trading developments said that the word slump does not seem too strong to describe the present Anglo-Canadian pattern of trade.

No Easy Way

Canada apart, the latest trade statistics give less cause for optimism than some reports have indicated. The high level of exports is encouraging, but is offset by continuing high imports. In January, imports at £357,200,000 were not much short of a record, and it was the excess of imports over exports which started the trouble.

In general, British financial writers reported, the monthly trade returns indicate that Britain is exporting pretty well as much as she can produce and spare, but that unfortunately she must produce and spare more to make ends meet.

There is some hope that import figures will drop sharply soon as a reflection of cuts imposed last November.

Canadian officials in London glean some encouragement from the belief that British exports to Canada have just about hit the bottom, and will start going up again soon. There is, however, a disposition to feel that Canadian enthusiasm for British products is sometimes more durable than the British desire to overcome the admitted difficulties of the Canadian market.

Comeback In Cars

British products faring less successfully than they used to include automobiles, textiles, steel and some engineering products. Manufacturers here hope to make a comeback in cars, despite restrictions on instalment buying, and Canadian officials think there is good ground for optimism.

Textiles, once the principal British export, may never recover. Before the First World War Canadian buyers used to get about 75 per cent of their grey cottons from Lancashire. Now they have laregly switched to United States markets, and Japan is coming.

The price differential between United Kingdom cottons on the one hand and U.S. and Japanese products on the other is sometimes as high as 15 per cent.

Bonarlaw W.A. Meets

A letter from the W.A.'s prayer partner, the Rev. Douglas Fuller of Walpole Island was read by Mrs. Barlow. The world's day of prayer will be held in St. Mark's Church, Bonarlaw, on Feb. 29.

3 Gunmen Hide In Bank Loot Vault Of $30,000

Take Germans Into Army

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 22. (AP)—The 14 Atlantic Allies formally endorsed today the creation of a European defence army including German soldiers. The vote was unanimous in a historic full-dress North Atlantic council meeting. By this action the council voted to bring an indefinite number of divisions from the West German republic into a six-country army of 2,000,000 men for defence of western Europe against possible Communist aggression. Now the six nations — France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg —can move swiftly toward signature of a treaty paving the way for the army.

Ratification by the parliament of each country must take place before recruiting of Germans into the army can begin.

There are still political hurdles to overcome but the N.A.T.O. endorsement represents a triumphs for General Eisenhower, one of the strongest backers of a European army.

Extra Aid For France

This development came on the heels of agreement by the United States to give France an additional $570,000,000 in aid to help fulfil her rearmament program.

The U.S. hopes by this to help the Paris government overcome fears among the French against seeing Germans in military uniform once more. The French approved inclusion of German units in the European army but with qualifications that may delay actual recruiting of German soldiers.

An authoritative source disclosed the decision to give aid to the French just before the council met to take its action on the European army. He emphasized the $570,000,000 figure is not final but is tentatively agreed upon.

Raise Additional Sum

France, in turn, will raise an additional sum estimated at 100,000,000,000 francs to close the gap between what her rearmament plans will cost and what her inflation-stricken economy can afford.

A spokesman said most of the new U.S. assistance will be in the form of procurement contracts outside the U.S., arms, contributions to the infrastructure (supporting network of air bases and communications) and similar measures.

It will not be in the form of direct dollar aid because that would require special Congressional authorization.

Allies and Reds Reject New Compromise Deals

MUNSAN, Korea, Feb. 22. (AP)—Allied and Communist truce negotiators offered each other compromise package deals on troop rotation and ports of entry today. Each side said "No!" But their differences were narrowed to only one port of entry and 5,000 men in the monthly rotation ceiling. Originally the difference was nine ports of entry and 70,000 men.

Once again the U.N. rejected the Reds' nomination of Russia as a member of the neutral inspection commission.

Repercussions of the Communist-led riot which left 69 Koreans dead and 142 wounded in an Allied compound for civilian prisoners are expected in the truce talks on prisoner exchange.

Observers said Red delegates probably will try to use the Koje island incident as a lever to get their way in the delicate negotiations for exchanging prisoners and displaced civilians.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, Chief Allied negotiator, refused to speculate on what propaganda use the Reds may have of the bloody riot.

Staff officers have been making slow but steady progress on a prisoner exchange plan, but are deadlocked on the key issue of voluntary repatriation.

The Communists have insisted that all prisoners in Allied hands be repatriated regardless of their wishes and have protested U.N. reclassification of about 37,500 as South Koreans.

Observers said the gap on both issues has been narrowed to a point where eventual agreement appears certain.

Steel Strike Been Postponed

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22 (AP)—The United States will escape a steel strike Saturday but a walkout may come March 23 unless a bitter contract controversy is settled.

Top strategy-makers of the C.I.O. United Steelworkers did as expected Thursday in postponing their strike. They issued this warning:

"We hope that a strike may be averted but the patience of our members is running out."

The union decided to cancel its weekend strike threat in order to give the wage stabilization board more time to recommend a settlement.

The union, headed by Philip Murray, also President of the C.I.O., has been working without a contract since Jan. 1.

New UK Commissioner Slated For Canada

LONDON, Feb. 22 (Reuters) — New British high commissioners for Canada and Australia were announced by the Commonwealth Relations Office here Thursday night.

Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, 55, Britain's high commissioner in Canada since 1946, will be transferred to Australia to succeed the Rt. Hon. E. J. Williams.

Sir Archibald Nye, 56, who recently relinquished his post as high commissioner in India, will go to Canada.

Duke Of Windsor Will Visit Paris

LONDON, Feb. 22 (Reuters)—The Duke of Windsor will leave London by train tonight for Paris, it was learned Thursday.

The Duke travelled from New York to attend the funeral of his brother, King George VI, and to comfort his mother, Queen Mary.

He has spent the whole of his visit at Marlborough House, the residence of Queen Mary. He has been seen little in public, apart from his appearance in the funeral procession last Friday.

The Duke's secretary said on Thursday that he is visiting Paris on business. He plans to return to the United States on the Queen Elizabeth in a week.

Broken Half Of Tanker Comes Into Newport

NEWPORT, R.I., Feb. 22 (AP) —The broken stern of the storm-wrecked tanker Fort Mercer came into Newport harbor today in tow of two ocean-going tugs.

Aboard the hulk were the 13 survivors who remained when 21 others of the crew of 43 were rescued from it.

The stern was towed more than 100 miles from outside Nantucket lightship. Coast Guard craft accompanied the towing procession.

Fights To Save Girl's Life

Parachute-Jumping Doctor Taken Off Train After SOS

HALIFAX, Feb. 22 —(CP)—A small girl with a ruptured appendix fought for her life in a snowbound fishing village today and an army doctor who parachuted to the scene said he could do little to help.

Capt. James Gilbert of the Army Medical Corps said eight-year-old Marie Mazerolle was still in serious condition although her condition had improved slightly.

The doctor sat throughout the night at the girl's bedside in Port Sapin, 30 miles southeast of Chatham, N.B., and said an operation was impossible because of her condition.

He and two assistants dropped from an air force plane Thursday night, after the doctor was taken from a train at Chatham.

Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prudent Mazerolle, suffered a ruptured apendix when one of the most severe February snow storms to hit the Maritimes in recent years clogged roads and prevented medical aid from reaching her.

Capt. Gilbert said he used penicillin to try to localize the infection. He will stay with the girl until Monday or Tuesday. He said it would not be helpful to attempt airlifting the girl to a hospital.

The air force search and rescue centre here organized the medical drop after hearing that Capt. Gilbert, with the British Parachute Division during the Second World War, had left Halifax by train for Camp Borden, Ont.

His train, the Ocean Limited, stopped at Newcastle, near Chatham. He was picked up at Chatham air force base by an ambulance plane.

Stage Riot In Korea, 70 Killed

Say Battle Red-Led In Civilian Compound, 165 Others Injured

PUSAN, Korea, Feb. 22. — (AP) — Combat-hardened troops of the United States 27th Wolfhound Regiment smashed a Communist-led riot in a Korean civilian prison compound Monday. The flight left 70 dead and 165 wounded.

American authorities said today 750 U.S. troops and 1,500 interned Koreans were involved. The fight last three hours.

Announced American casualties were one killed, one wounded and 22 injured slightly. The other 69 dead and 142 injured were interned Korean civilians.

News of the riot in the Koje Island stockade off South Korea was withheld for four days.

U.S. authorities said the rioters attacked with a vicious array of homemade weapons — steel pickets, blackjacks, iron pipe, metal tent pole spikes, barbed wire flails, wooden clubs, rocks and knives.

About 1,500 of the 5,000 Korean civilians in compound No. 62 on Koje stormed in a screaming mob against the U.S. guards. Authorities said no Communist prisoners-of-war took part in the outbreak.

Red Planned

The Eighth Army said the riot was Communist planned and led.

A South Korean staff officer who accompanied Defence Minister Lee Ki Poong to Koje after the outbreak gave this account:

The riot began with a bitter quarrel between Communist sympathizers in one compound and South Korean loyalists in another compound 100 yards away. The compounds were separated by two barbed-wire fences.

The Red sympathizers began shouting when South Korean personnel went into the second compound at 6 a.m. to screen internees for possible release.

The Red sympathizers attacked when American guards tried to quiet them. The U.S. soldiers fired in self defence.

The interned Korean civilians on Koje rioted against the screening process separating Communists from prisoners with South Korean leanings.

Kojje, 25 miles long and 15 miles wide, is southwest of Pusan. An estimated 116,000 Korean and Chinese prisoners of war and 54,000 Korean civilians are held there in compounds.

U.K. Steel Boss Resigns In Row

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP). — Steven Hardie, millionaire boss of Britain's nationalized iron and steel corporation, resigned today in a dispute with the Conservative government over proposed increases in the price of steel.

The 65-year-old chief, reputed to be a keen Socialist, was given the job when Clement Attlee's Labor government nationalized steel a year ago. The corporation runs Britain's vast steel industry.

Observers had expected clashes between Hardie and the government when Winston Churchill's Conservatives came to power last October. The Conservatives have said they plan to denationalize steel.

Hardie handed in his resignation in a letter to Supply Minister Duncan Sandys.

He wrote: "The divergence of view between us (over steel prices) is unfortunately such that there is little prospect of reaching that basis of constructive and harmonious working which I had hoped we might attain."

Money For India

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 22 (AP) —World bank president Eugene Black said today he will recommend the bank make a "substantial investment" in India. Black in India examining projects in the government's five year plan to step up food and industrial production, said he was "very favorably impressed" by their progress.

Quake Jars Victoria

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 22. (CP)—A sharp earthquake third in the last two days—jarred this area at 3:40 a.m. EST today. It was stronger and of longer duration than those felt Wednesday and Thursday. There were no reports of damage. Sleeping residents were startled by the jarring shock. Most reports said the shock was accompanied by a "deep rumble."

Anti-T.B. Drug To Be Sold Cheaply Soon

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP). — The most promising anti-tuberculosis drug yet discovered is expected to be on the market by May or June at 25 to 50 cents per daily pill.

It was estimated that costs of treating the disease, if the drug lives up to its early promise, might be reduced to less than $100 a patient. The average cost for treating a case of TB now is about $3,500 a patient.

Tests so far, as one doctor put it, indicated the drug virtually stops TB in its tracks. But doctors emphasized the tests still are in early stages.

At press conferences Thursday, experts told how 190 patients, hopelessly ill with TB, made amazing improvements within a few weeks under the treatment.

Ravenous Apeptites

Fever or 100 to 105 fell to normal. Within a week, the patients —all of whom were emaciated and had refused food—developed ravenous appetites, eating up to 11 eggs for breakfast.

Men and women gained an average of 20 pounds in nine weeks. Some gained up to 95 pounds in that period, then levelled off at normal weight. Coughs got better. In some, TB germs disappeared from the sputum.

None of the patients had responded to present general methods of treatment or drugs, such as streptomycin.

The drug, a chemical related to a B-vitamin with coal tars supplying the raw materials, is called rimifon by one of its developers, Hoffman La Roche, Inc., of Nutley, N.J., and called nydrazid by the other, E. R. Squibb & Sons of New Brunswick, N.J.

The chemical name is isonicotinic acid compound.

Mexico Turns Down U.S. Military Aid

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22 (AP)—Mexico has turned down U.S. offers of military aid, and both sides have agreed to end discussions on the touchy subject. Observers blamed Communist pressure for

A U.S. mission, which came a month ago and held five sessions with local officials, returned to Washington. It sought a strong Mexican anti-Red declaration in return for aid in building coastal defences and a fast-striking land force.

A foreign office announcement said the talks probably would resume "when the two governments believe it advisable." Political observers took this to mean after the general elections in July, when internal political considerations are less critical.

It was the first refusal of American arms from any Latin American country. Brazil and Ecuador accepted U.S. help.

State Troopers Guard Town

HYDEN, Ky., Feb. 22 (AP) — Dozens of state troopers swarmed into this strikebound coal mining town as a precautionary measure today, when the United Mine Workers resumed their picketting at two nearby pits.

The mines, closed Thursday by the U.M.W.'s first strike in this last non-union stronghold in southeastern Kentucky's rich coal field, made no effort to operate today.

Pickets gathered along the roadsides. No violence was reported.

The U.M.W. is seeking bargaining rights for the 60 men employed at each of the two mines, claiming a majority of them are members. The operators contend the men want to work.

House Burns, 2 Children Lose Lives

Parents Rescue Nine Youngsters, Two Run Back In

NORTH BAY, Feb. 22. (CP) — Two children were burned to death when fire destroyed their home early today at the Cooks Mills settlement, four miles north of North Bay.

The two, Alcide Sauve, four years old today, and his sister Lillian, 9, slipped away from their parents and ran back into their burning home. They were trapped when a can of coal oil exploded.

Their mother, Mrs. Aime Sauve, suffered burns to her face, neck and arms when she tried to brave the flames in an effort to rescue them. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

The fire broke out about 4:30 a.m. when Mr. and Mrs. Sauve and their nine children were in bed in the upper storey of their six-room frame house. The parents roused the children and herded them through the front door.

Ran Back In

On his way out, Mr. Sauve, 41, a day laborer, grabbed an armful of blankets. He placed them on the snow and sat the children upon them.

Lillian complained to her mother of cold feet and apparently tried to go back to her upstairs bedroom to get her shoes.

She slipped away from her mother and dashed back into the house.

Alcide apparently followed her. He was believed to be trying to rescue a toy truck, a birthday present he had taken to bed with him.

A can of coal oil exploded, cutting off their escape.

The fire started in an unused summer kitchen at the rear of the house.

The surviving children are Leonard, 13; Reginald, 12; Rosa, 10; Franchoise, 8; Marcel, 6; Evelyn, 2; and Jeanette, nine months.

Overplay Hand In Indonesia

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—The United States is in danger of "losing out," as some highly placed diplomats put it, in Indonesia —probably because it overplayed its hand there.

This country has sought to persuade the Indonesian government, which acts as a friend but talks as a neutral, to be counted on the side of the Western democracies in the struggle against Communism.

It has, according to the best information available here, pressed American aid upon Indonesia with the best of intentions but in such a way as to arouse the suspicions of a newly independent people.

These moves are regarded as being at the root of the explosion in U.S.-Indonesian relations which occurred yesterday when Foreign Minister Achmed Soebardjo resigned after other cabinet members and much of the Indonesian Parliament refused to back his first step toward a military aid agreement with the United States.

Tie Up Employees Calmly Wait For Time-Lock

TORONTO, Feb. 22. (CP)—Three "monkey-sized" men, so small they were able to crawl through a foot-square window, held up a suburban bank today and escaped with more than $30,000 after waiting patiently for the time-lock on the vault to open. The bank was the St. Clair East and O'Connor Drive branch of the Bank of Montreal in East York. The gunmen, each dressed in blue jeans, blue shirts and blue ski caps, apparently waited most of the night for the staff to arrive.

As each of the five employees entered, he was held up, taken to the basement and tied with black tape. Their mouths also were taped.

When all of the staff were trussed up, the bandits ordered the manager and accountant to open the vault. Told that a time-lock was on which did not unlock until 9:45 a.m., they waited until that time then cleaned out the cash.

Worked Quietly

The men, described by a witness as "monkey-sized," worked quietly and efficiently. They took $25 from the bag of a woman employee. Another woman put her engagement ring in her mouth in fear that the bandits would take it off her finger.

Police said no full-grown man could have crawled through the unbarred window by which the bandits entered the bank.

Only one of the bandits, described as "very polite" by bank employees, appeared to be armed. The uniformity of their dress prompted police to call them the "uniformed bandits" as a call was sent out to watch for a red panel truck believed to have been used in the robbery.

Similar Methods

More than a dozen bank holdups have occurred in the Toronto area in the last year. Today's was similar to that of Jan. 3 when the largest amount of money—$50,000 —taken in a Toronto holdup was obtained from a York township branch of the Bank of Commerce.

In that holdup two men, described as "very nice about the whole thing," entered the bank during the night, tied up 18 persons as they came to work in the morning and coolly made two trips to a waiting automobile with the loot. So cool were the ban-

Two Plows Free Train Snowbound In Quebec

STE. Therese, Que., Feb. 22 (CP) — Thirty-eight passengers, stranded three days near their snowbound train and only a short distance from their destination, are expected to continue their journey tonight.

Canadian National Railways officials said today the line between Campbellton, N.B. and Gaspe, Que., would be reopened by noon today. The passengers, including four women and two children, will be picked up by the first train going to Gaspe.

The group was travelling aboard a seven-car train, pulled by a diesel locomotive, when it bogged down Monday night after trying several times to fight its way through huge snowdrifts.

Two rotary plows, coming from either end of the line, and 50 snow-shovellers dug the train out Thursday night and, after making sure it could roll, moved it back to Chandler, Que., 15 miles west of here. The train was to return to Campbellton during the day.

Marines Halt Invasion By Communists

SEOUL, Korea, Feb. 22 (AP)—South Korean Marines beat off a Communist amphibious invasion of an Allied-held island off the northeast coast of Korea in a 33-hour battle, the Allies announced today.

The Korean army said its marines sank 13 of the 20 invasion boats.

Seventy invaders were reported killed and six captured. Prisoners included the commander of the amphibious attack.

Nine South Korean marines were killed and six wounded, the navy said.

The assault was made by a Red battalion—about 800 or 1,000 men. It was not indicated whether they were Chinese or North Koreans.

The battle began about 1 a.m. Wednesday lasting until 10 a.m. Thursday when the last of the attackers fled back to the Red mainland in their remaining boats.

On Yang Island

The assault was directed against Yang Island, about 16 air miles from the Communist east coast port of Songjin.

Yang is believed to be the northernmost island held by the Allies. It lies midway between the 40th and 41st parallel and serves as a lookout post off the Red coast. The island presumably is one that the Allies would give back to the Communists if an armistice is signed.

Republic of Korea marines have occupied the island since last summer.

Heaviest fighting in recent days has been in the valleys between eastern mountains. Thursday Allied troops called on helicopters to pull them out of a Red trap in the east. North Koreans who had pinned down the Allies, withdrew over the snow covered ground under the hammering of Allied artillery and reinforcements.

Japan Intends To Curb Riots

TOKYO, Feb. 22 (AP) — The Japanes government today planned a special police force to prevent uprisings such as Thursday's Communist - led anti - American riots, in which scores of police were stoned.

"Such riots cannot be tolerated," said Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, "especially in view of the fact that the peace treaty is to go into effect soon."

Japanese police with drawn revolvers today raided four factories in the Kamata and Omori districts of Tokyo. They arrested eight men and seized stacks of Communist leaflets.

Attorney-General Tokutaro Kimura said parliament will be asked to create a "capitol police force" to cope with any future riots.

Times Have Changed

Gravy Train At End For U.S. Soldiers

EDMONTON, Feb. 22 —(CP)— The "gravy train" has come to a halt for United States soldiers stationed in Canada's northland.

For many years U.S. soldiers in Canada have drawn their wages in American dollars and benefitted up to 20 per cent through the dollar exchange paid. Now, with the Canadian dollar fluctuating at par with or higher than the American dollar, the U.S. soldiers are taking a loss.

Apparently the American men in northern Alberta, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territories are the only ones being hit by the exchange rates up to now.

Reports reaching here from the Yukon territories where about 350 U.S. army engineers are taking part in Exercise Eager Beaver, say the American men are most unhappy about the situation. Now they want to be paid in Canadian funds.

"This will reach the Congress," one of the Americans was reported to have said.

May Not Help

But even that may do little good for the men. An informed army officer in Edmonton said the United States army has a ruling that the soldiers stationed in Canada must be paid in American funds.

The officer said the complaints were voiced among the Americans taking part in the joint U.S.-Canadian Eager Beaver Exercise in the Yukon. About 150 Canadians along with the 350 Americans are taking part in the far-north manoeuvre, near Kluane Lake, 1,400 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The exercise began in the middle of January and is expected to last about six months. It is designed to test equipment and personnel under winter conditions and spring thaw.

The officer here said banks in Whitehouse and surrounding towns in the Kluane Lake area keep close tab on the market exchange rates but private business establishments are charging a flat rate of about five cents on the dollar.

For the Americans it marks the end of more than 10 years of being on the receiving end of a favorable exchange rate — the Canadian "gravy train" has chugged to a halt.

Son Sees Father Shot Twice; Report Long Feud

STURGEON FALLS, Feb. 22. (CP)—Wilfred Laycock, 66-year-old semi-recluse, was remanded to Feb. 28 for preliminary hearing when he appeared before a justice of the peace Thursday night on a charge of murder in the rifle slaying of Arthur Kierstead, 42. Laycock was taken to North Bay, 24 miles east of here. He is accused of shooting Kierstead as the latter drove past Laycocks' tarpaper shack on the way to a wodlot. Kierstead died in the snow after telling his 10-year-old son, Lloyd, to go for the police.

Some residents of the district surrounding this Northern Ontario pulp town described Kierstead as a genius. Others called him a trouble maker. Police said there had been "bad blood" between Laycock and Kierstead for some time.

Kierstead was, at various times, a printer, a publisher, a cattle and sheep breeder and a some-time preacher. He had been in this district about nine years. He and his wife and six of their nine children lived in a ramshackle house at the west end of the town.

Kept Sabbath

In that house, Mrs. Kierstead Thursday night told reporters her husband was a God-fearing man who "always kept the Sabbath."

On a wall in the house was a certificate saying that Kierstead had won prizes for his cattle at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Against another wall were stacked copies of linotype journals and other associated publications. On a desk were a Bible and hymnals.

Persons who knew Kierstead said that at one time he published weekly tabloid newspapers here and at nearby Cache Bay and at Mattawa, Ont., and still published a weekly with a New Brunswick dateline. They also said he had a college education and could carry on an intelligent conversation but often displayed a persecution complex.

Threatened Shooting

Police Chief John Lafleche of Sturgeon Falls said Laycock had once said he would shoot Kierstead the next time Kierstead set foot on the Laycock property.

When a carload of police officers went to the shack to arrest Laycock, the old man offered no resistance. One officer said Laycock made a remark about being "at peace, now that Kierstead is dead."

Young Lloyd Kierstead said he and his father were going to get a load of wood when the shooting occurred. His father was driving the team along a winter road immediately behind the 12-by-12 foot shack in which Laycock lived alone and from which he occasionally came into town to buy provisions. A fence separated the shack from the rest of the property.

The boy said Laycock suddenly appeared on the little porch of the shack, said something to Kierstead, then swung up his rifle and fired. He said the slug smashed into Kierstead's hand near the wrist, shattering it and spraying bone fragments across the snow.

"My dad told me to run for the police," the boy said. "I started to run along the fence to the road and I heard another shot. I looked back and my father said to run, that he had been hit in the body. (The second slug hit Kierstead at the base of the neck.)

Muskies Tally Second Win Over Port Hope

LINDSAY, Feb. 22—(ENS)—One of the year's fastest games of hockey was played here Thursday night when the intermediate A Muskies racked up their second victory in as many starts in their semi-final league play-off round against Port Hope Redmen.

Almost 1,000 fans watched their favorites come through for a 9-5 win against the Redmen in a thrill-packed contest that saw the visitors come from behind a three-goal deficit in the second period and almost go ahead in the game.

Lindsay scored the first goal at 4:49 of the first period with a three way passing play by Dysart, Burns and Abercrombie. In marked contrast to the last two games these two teams played, there were no fights and only 10 penalties. Monday, the two teams shared dubious honors when 27 penalties were meted out. Referees Herb Payne and Jim Crombie handled last night's game.

Second period action saw the Muskies score another, by Coombs aided by Stu Hicks, to put Lindsay two goals up. Racine, Free and Robinson put on the pressure then to tally one for Port Hope and it was after the half-way mark before Lindsay again tallied on a goal by Hicks, assisted by Jenkins. The Redmen roared back at the 16-minute mark to score two goals within 12 seconds, both by Free assisted by Racine. With less than 20 seconds left in the period, red-head Mike Burns again put Lindsay ahead 4-3.

In the third period, it was all Lindsay as play speeded up, and both teams played down-to-earth, rugged, clean and fast hockey. Only six seconds after the opening face-off, Coombs and Parker scored with Crawford getting another a minute later. Coon Medhurst put the Hoplans back in the game at the seven-minute mark and they came within one goal of tieing it up when Campbell scored with Medhurst and Free assisting. From the halfway mark on, the Redmen ran out of legs as the Muskies scored two goals within a minute by Coombs, aided by Crawford and by Hicks assisted by Jenkins and Corley. Hicks got a third one at 15:04 and the locals were carrying the play until the final bell. The two teams meet again back in Port Hope on Saturday night. With Lindsay two games up, one more win would put them in the final round against either Bowmanville or Cobourg.

French sources said inflation has cost the proposed European army the equivalent of four divisions. Originally the French pledged 14 divisions to the one-uniform six-nation force.

At present, French prices which would have paid for 14 divisions last year will pay for only 10 today. But the French said they would undertake to contribute 12 divisions anyway to make up half the divisional loss caused by inflation.

Meanwhile, finance and defence ministers made "substantial progress" in splitting up among the Allies the estimated $450,000,000 cost of building the infrastructure across Western Europe.

$13,000 Wages Paid To Men On U.S. Project

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—Senate investigators discovered today that mechanics have been drawing wages at a rate of $17,000 a year on a highly secret air base project near the North Pole, while laborers have been earning $13,000.

Questions by Downey Rice, counsel for a Senate watchdog committee, also brought out that the workers collected more than $1,000,000 in pay before ever reaching the job.

Rice said the workmen drew most of this while en route north in aircraft or aboard a ship which spent 42 days working its way through ice six to seven feet thick.

The North Pole project is so secret that only guarded references were made to it at a public hearing conducted by a subcommittee probing charges of waste in manpower and money on a chain of overseas bases being constructed for the air force.

Something New

Lt.-Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers, testified the work, known by the code name of Blue Jay, is "something new, nobody has done anything like it before."

He indicated the project was a rush job and hazardous beyond anything ever encountered in construction, but gave no other details.

Carefully screened workers are guaranteed a 70-hour week, Pick said, with everything over 40 hours at time-and-a-half.

The engineering officer defended the high wages as necessary to attract men to dangerous work in a rigorous climate far away from civilization.

Rice told the Senators that Blue Jay and another air force construction project in North Africa called Atlas already involved expenditures of about $100,000,000.

Stirling Boy Wins Gilt Cross

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP)—A Stirling Boy Scout, 12-year-old Charles Arthur MacConnell, has been awarded the Gilt Cross for bravery by the Boy Scouts Association.

His name was among 53 who won honors and awards and were listed in an announcement coinciding with the anniversary of the birthday of Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell, founder of the Scout movement.

Scout MacConnell, of the 1st Stirling Troop, won his award for bravery in bringing to shore a boy who was in danger of drowning in Oak Lake, north of Havelock.

Two posthumous awards of the Bronze Cross, highest award in Scouting, were made to a Scout and a Cub who lost their lives trying to save other persons from drowning.

Bronze Crosses were awarded to Scout David Kruse, 15, of Gaspe, Que., and Cub Wayne Prescott, 10, of Pembroke. Scout Kruse lost his life attempting to rescue another boy from drowning at Halimand Beach, in the Bay of Gaspe.

Cub Prescott was drowned when he went to the assistance of a small girl who slipped, while swimming, into a pot hole in the Indian River near Pembroke.

Base Metals Climb On Stock Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP). — Base metals climbed slowly today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections made little headway.

Trading opened briskly and continued steadily until about noon when activity eased. Leading industrials traded slowly but a growing list of penny golds, oils and metals attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,683,000 shares.

Papers, utilities and liquors formed industrials' strongest sections. Agricultures, steels, refining oils and textiles held gains and losses in balance but foods, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues weakened.

In base metals, Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Noranda, Normetal, Steep Rock and United Keno Hill posted gains ranging to $1. East Rim, Eureka, Quebec Copper and Yale Lead added pennies.

Western oil advances ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Williston, Central Explorers, General Petroleum A, Gridoil, Model Oil and Trans Empire were among the strongest gainers.

Senior golds were mixed but secondary issues posted a majority of penny gains.

Lyons Sentenced To Five Years

KINGSTON, Feb. 22 (CP) — Allan Vernon Lyons, on trial for the butcher-knife slaying of his wife, was sentenced Thursday to five years in jail on a manslaughter charge.

The 33-year-old Lyons brought his trial to an unexpected halt Thursday by pleading innocent of murder but guilty of manslaughter in the November death of his 31-year-old wife.

His counsel, Arthur Martin, entered the plea and Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney did not object. Mr. Justice J. M. King then advised the jury to return a manslaughter verdict which they did without even leaving the box.

The stolid calm that Lyons had shown throughout the three-day trial failed him as his counsel pleaded for leniency. He burst into tears and wept silently.

The courtroom was jammed Thursday. Spectators stood three and four deep along the walls.

The crown completed its case Thursday and no defence witnesses were called. Lyons' counsel submitted that the prosecution's case had established "provocation" for the Nov. 10 attack. He said Lyons had acted "without too much thought" after his wife had bitten his thumb during an argument.

Kitchener Teachers Ask Federation Act

KITCHENER, Feb. 22 — (CP) —Kitchener school teachers, unable to reach salary agreements with the Public School Board, have turned their requests over to the Ontario Teachers Federation.

Frank Hoodle, head of the School Relations Committee, said the board has been meeting with representatives of the teachers since last December without result.

One of the main issues of dispute is an allowance for instructors with university degrees. The teachers asked for $400. The board offered $200, an increase of $100 over last year's payment.

The board also refused a request that the maximum salary for regular teachers be raised $500 and $900 for specialists.

Cancer Society Variety Show Features Top Talent Sunday

A variety show featuring internationally-known singers, acrobats and comedy teams will open the Canadian Cancer Society's annual financial campaign in Peterborough and district Sunday night at the Brock St. Arena.

The Peterborough campaign sponsors, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, have arranged the program as one of three main steps in raising the $8,815 objective in the city and county. Other projects include a Lights On campaign in Peterborough and a canvass of county schools.

Mayor Hugh Waddell will officially open the campagin Sunday night at the show and then the program will be introduced by master of ceremonies Del Crary.

Bob Gimby

Probably the best-known entertainer will be Toronto orchestra leader, Bib Gimby. He is known for his trumpet playing and singing with Bert Pearl's Happy Gang over the CBC network. Gimby has also made several tours through the Peterborough district with his orchestra and is noted for his trumpet stylings.

Besides Gimby, there will be CBC singing stars, Vi Emerson and Albert Marsden, baritone singer who frequently appears with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra as well as accordionist and singer, Nancy McCaig.

On the international level there will be the Keppo Family a Swedish acrobatic troupe, and comedy team, Authors and Swenson, from the Toodles Weaver television show from New York City.

Combat Cancer

The proceeds from the variety show will be used to combat the spread of cancer which although least prevalent among children, took a number of children's lives last year.

The society reports that leukemia, a malignant growth of white cells in the blood, is the most frequent type of cancer among children. This caused may deaths of boys and girls in 1951.

The financial campaign next week will help research provide a method of controlling leukemia. Already cancer is now the target of efforts of biologists, chemists and physicists and the Cancer Society has allotted thousands of dollars to their work.

Good Skiing Expected Over Weekend

enthusiasts, young and old, plan to make the most of the good skiing conditions that exist throughout the Peterborough district. A full weekend program has been planned for both Kemp's and Bethany slopes.

The main weekend event will be the open house Saturday at Bethany with the junior ski school members the extra special guests. This big day was originally planned for last weekend but was postponed.

The ski train, the first operated out of Peterborough to Bethany in some years, will leave the C.P.R. station at 10:10 a.m. returning from Bethany at 4:30 p.m. The skiers will have about three full hours of skiing.

Free Tow

All conveniences, tow and hill, will be free to the skiers who will pay only for the train trip. For the children the ski club has arranged for free hot drinks and milk, both donated by Peterborough companies.

Ski club officials emphasize that skiers under 10 years old must be accompanied by an adult. The older children will be chaperoned by 25 senior ski club members.

For the younger skiers the day will present the opportunity to practice their downhill and slalom before the junior ski school championship next Saturday at Kemp's hill. The club has arranged a 1,000-foot giant slalom course which includes a few steep downhill grades.

Snow conditions at both hills were described as good for the weekend. On Thursday night the skiers used the Kemp's hill slope for three hours skiing which was excellent on four inches of old snow and three of new. There is the same amount of snow at Bethany.

With fresh snow reported in most Ontario centres, the outlook for improved skiing this weekend is bright. Haileybury, Huntsville and Orangeville are listed as excellent while Cobourg is very good. Dagmar, Flesherton and Sundridge are good with Collingwood from fair to good.

Wants Share

Russell Cunningham (C.C.F., Breton East) complained in the Legislature at Halifax that the West is collecting money that rightfuly belongs to the East. In a plea for more federal aid to education, he said Canada's four original provinces—Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick—put up the money when the land including Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia was bought from the Hudson's Bay Company.

Under the Dominion Lands Act of 1872, portions of federal land were allocated for public schools in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Later the lands were sold and the proceeds invested in government security. Mr. Cunningham said the interest was divided among the three Western provinces, leaving the original purchasers out in the cold. He said the payments to the Western provinces constituted federal aid to education.

Dieppe Veteran To Die For Murders

VALLEYFIELD, Que., Feb. 22 (CP). — A 31-year-old veteran of the 1942 Dieppe raid is under sentence of death today for kicking and slashing his aged grandmother to death last July.

Alcide Martin, a resident of St. Henri de Maschouche, Que., did not flinch Thursday when he heard Mr. Justice Edouard Tellier sentence him to be hanged May 2 for the slaying of Mrs. Anthime Allan, 66, at her home near Ormstown, Que.

Martin also was charged with the slayings of Mrs. Allan's second husband, 76, and a neighbor, Narcisse Cusson, 72.

Defence lawyer Paul Aubut has not yet announced whether he will appeal the verdict and sentence.

The triple slaying first came to light when Martin gave himself up to the police, saying: "A terrible thing has happened. I quarrelled with my grandmother. There is a dead person. Don't ask me more."

Bodies In Shed

Investigating officers discovered the bruised and battered bodies of the three elderly persons in a shed at the rear of the Allan home.

The jury was out two hours and 15 minutes before reaching a verdict. Asked if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced, Martin answered steadily: "I have nothing to say, sir."

Martin, according to evidence at the trial, had a number of beers the day he visited his grandparents.

He became engaged in an argument with his grandfather and struck him. Mrs. Allan, rushing to her husband's aid, was brutally stabbed and beaten, as was Cusson, the neighbor who came to the aged couple's assistance.

Tolerance Requires Brains

This is Brotherhood Week, a week when people of good-will on this continent make a special effort to call attention to aims of the Council of Christians and Jews "to promote justice, amity, understanding and co-operation among Protestants, Catholics and Jews."

* * *

Like any high and great ideal—like peace itself—brotherhood, unity and toleration cannot be achieved by merely wishing them. Nor can they be brought about by people who do not understand or bother to think what they mean. Toleration requires understanding; understanding requires the brains to understand. In general the most tolerant people are people with brains and the education to know how to use them.

* * *

A person who has merely a soft heart and a pious belief that it is a good thing to be tolerant cannot really be tolerant. That person is putty. No matter how soft the heart and affable the belief, he and his kind will never bring peace to the earth, unity to nations, brotherhood to men and toleration to their relations and attitude. They do not know the meanings of the words, if they lack the brains to understand, or the mental power to reason, or the experience on which to base thought. To be tolerant requires sterner fibre than a soft heart. It is good thinking, rather than good intentions, which create the conditions in which tolerance can be nurtured. A soft heart does not compensate for a soft head in such high and weighty matters.

* * *

The people of Israel understand the nature of tolerance, because they have known intolerance. They have lately demonstrated through their Parliament that they have the capacity—the brains—to be tolerant. Last month by a narrow majority of 61 to 50, the members of the Knesset (the Israeli Parliament) empowered the Government to enter into negotiations for reparations with the West German Federal Republic. This set the stage of one of the strangest, most delicate and heart-searching dramas in diplomatic history.

* * *

Since Israel became a nation (chiefly of refugees from German anti-Semitic horrors) it has had no relations or contracts of any kind with the West German Republic. The mass-murder of the Jews, committed under Hitler by the recognized German Government without open resistance or remonstrance from the German people, left raw scars in the souls of the survivors. In their new country they had, until last month, completely ignored the existence of Germany.

* * *

Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany took the initiative last September, to establish contact with Israel by a tactful and statesmanlike offer "jointly with representatives of Jewry and the States of Israel . . . to bring about a solution of the material reparation problem in order to facilitate the way to a spiritual purging of unheard-of suffering."

* * *

He did not make conditions, such as the establishment of diplomatic relations between Israel and Germany. He offered something without demanding anything in return. He proposed to make good those material things that can be made good (reparations for property losses which the Jews suffered) and did not pretend that reparation could be made for the irreparable—the loss of life, the suffering, the torture.

* * *

By agreeing to have any dealings with Germany at all, even if those dealings consist only in accepting material reparation for economic relief, Israeli leaders have given a poignant demonstration of deepest tolerance. If they did not have the heart to do it, they had the brains.

Was The Past Really So Quiet?

It is a common failing to idealize the past, imagining it as a leisured time when people lived more happily and wisely than they do now. This idealization takes many forms; now that physicians recommend more rest and a slower pace of life for people who wish to avoid heart ailments there are plenty of writers who are ready to assert that in our grandfathers' time everybody lived more slowly and got more pleasure out of life. Statistical records cannot tell us how much our grandfathers enjoyed life, but they can and do tell us that our grandfathers did not live, upon the average, as long as we do now. Our grandfathers may have been more leisurely than we, but they ate a worse diet, and they ate more of it; they neglected their teeth; they wore tight shoes. What is more, many of them died of apoplexy, usually brought on by a fit of bad temper about politics, religion or some other matter on which they held intemperate opinions. Apoplexy is much rarer today.

Our valued contemporary, the Windsor Star, recently indulged itself in a regretful editorial about the disappearance of the "lounge"—meaning one of those sofas with a hump at one end; "usually they were placed in the kitchen, near the stove," says the Star, and suggests that it was upon this piece of furniture that grandfather took frequent snoozes.

We do not wish to seem cranky and uncongenial, but this picture confuses us. How could a man sleep in a kitchen, with people banging, chopping, mincing, ironing, throwing wood into the stove, receiving groceries from the delivery boy, and otherwise carrying on a normal kitchen life about him? A kitchen is the noisiest place in any house, and in the days before cheap electric power it was noisier than it is now. And may we enquire what a man whose chief living room was his kitchen was doing having a mid-day snooze? The long lunch-hour was never common in such circles, and on farms snoozes in the kitchen have never been encouraged. We think that the Star is dreaming of a paradise lost which never existed except in its own imagination.

We have no objection to the present, as a time to live in. People who find it disagreeable would have found much to displease them in any past era of which we have ever heard.

Why Not Drop It Altogether?

The Burns Federation is grieved because Auld Lang Syne is so often sung incorrectly. We understand their feelings. It is irritating to hear verses for which one has a particular affection mangled by people who do not care enough about them to learn them in their proper form. We suffer this way when Ben Jonson's lovely ode To Celia (called by careless songsters Drink to me only) is rendered with emendations which would make Jonson whirl in his grave like a turbine. This is what the Burns Federation says in its official paper, the Burns Chronicle:

"The song that everybody sings is the song that no one knows . . . although it is the world's greatest song of friendship, 'Auld Lang Syne' has never succeeded in establishing its own words correctly.

"Millions of gatherings have taken up its strains in an overflow of warm-heartedness, but most of them have made the welkin ring with garbled lines, phrases Burns never wrote; variations that neither scholarship nor taste approves.

"Trusty 'friens' still supplant trusty 'fieres'; 'cups o' kindness' still battle for position with 'gudewilly waughts'. The lovely, lingering last line of verse and chorus—'For auld lang syne'—is still ousted by the breathless scurry of 'For the days of auld lang syne'. Amity is still left gasping and numb of wrist by the final and unauthorized break-neck repetition of the chorus.

Our suggestion is that Auld Lang Syne be given a rest. Sung incorrectly, and in what all sorts of singers regard as humorous Scottish accents, it gives little pleasure to the judicious, and the hand-wrenching which the Burns Chronicle deplores is a sweaty bore. Burns verses enjoy a popularity so vast that it has become unthinking; when that happens, it is best to lay them away for a while, until they regain their freshness.

Oooh! Treeing Communist Coons

We reprint the following Canadian Press despatch from Toronto, dated February 20th:

"Kenneth Clark, of Kingston, president of the Ontario Federation of Hunting and Anglers, suggested Tuesday night that tree farming might forestall Communist infiltration north of Toronto. He told the Agricultural Institute of Canada that physical, moral and mental degeneracy in economically-depressed areas could be remedied by improving the area economically with reforestation measures."

How ineffably foolish can speakers become?

NOTES AND COMMENT

A bitter comment from Italy is that "a European is a man who, for fear of becoming a Russian, is gradually becoming an American."

The net gain was zero. We are back on page one, paragraph one. This is where we came in.—Rear Adm. R. E. Libby, at a recent Korean truce talk.

The British Government has decided to cut down the number of official press agents. But with Churchill, they don't need them.

A California evangelist says that 10,000 people have told him that they want to go to Heaven. And presumably he is making a very good thing out of booking passages for them.

Mr. Churchill is a big man to transport across the Atlantic and back again. His boat trips last month, together with Mr. Anthony Eden's, cost £1,752—$5,000. Yet the Labour Party is bothered because the British taxpayers are not paying the bill; that he got the ride free from the Cunard company!

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: Has the Queen Mother Elizabeth become a commoner again? She is not of royal birth.

ANSWER: No; and she never has been a commoner. She was the daughter of the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, and called The Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon before her marriage, ranking thus as a Lord. A commoner is anybody below the rank of a Baron, i.e. who is not a Peer. Thus a Knight is a commoner, but a Baron (like Lord Tweedsmuir) is not. There are three ranking classes: royalty, nobility and commoner.

It is a settled rule that a wife takes the status of her husband. Thus when Queen Elizabeth married H.R.H. the then Duke of York, she became Her Royal Highness the Duchess of York, with the status of Princess. She thus moved from nobility to royalty and there remains.

On his marriage the Duke of Edinburgh was created, by the King, a Prince of the realm. (He had been a Prince of Greece, but renounced the title.) This creation was necessary because it is not a settled rule that a husband takes the rank of his wife. Thus you will find in England a Lady Mary Grey, daughter of an Earl married to a Mr. John Smith. He remains Mr. Smith, she keeps her title. But if Lord John Grey marries Miss Mary Smith, she becomes Lady Grey.

The only room for argument that the Queen was a commoner lies in the fact that her title before marriage was a courtesy one, by reason of her being the daughter of an Earl. Nevertheless she belonged to a noble family, ranking as a peeress, even though she was not a peeress in her own right.

DEAR ALPHA: Beside pushing buttons at Exhibitions and acting as Leader of the Idle Rich, has the Governor General any duties that actually are of benefit to Canada as a whole?

ANSWER: It seems to me that rich Canadians like Mr. Massey are far from idle: I challenge you to get through as much and important work as Mr. Massey has done in his career. Viscount Alexander was neither idle nor rich; he comes from a relatively poor Irish family of the nobility. A man does not become a Field Marshal without brains and hard work.

The Governor General's formal duties are to sign all Acts of Parliament, to preside at its opening and closing, and to personally advise the Sovereign about Canadian affairs. His informal duties are multitudinous, exacting and strenuous. The kind of buttons he has to push are far more difficult to operate than the buttons a machinst or most business men push.

If you have an aversion for Governors-General, why don't you migrate to a Republic?

◇ ◇ ◇

SIR: Is it St. James' Palace or St. James's Palace?

ANSWER: St. James's. That is the usage in England, and the grammarians' rule is: To form the possessive singular of a word ending in 's' add only an apostrophe, unless the word has only one syllable, then add the usual apostrophe and 's'. Hence; St. James's Park, Keats's odes, but St. Thomas' Choir.

◇ ◇ ◇

TWO WEEKS AGO a reader inquired about the authorship and complete version of a set of children's verses beginning:—

"Two bears lived in a hollow tree
And they never heard of you or me
Or the elephant or the kangaroo
And with grown-up folk they had nought to do".

Another reader of this column has kindly brought my attention to a series of children's books about the Roosevelt Bears, by Seymour Eaton, and lent me three of them. These must be the source of the verses about the two bears who lived in a hollow tree, but I cannot find the exact lines in any of them. I suspect my questioning reader's quoted lines may have been from the first story in the first book, of which, in the copy lent to me, the first five pages are missing.

That introductory story to "The Roosevelt Bears and their Travels and Adventures" tells that

"Two Roosevelt Bears had a home out
West
In a big ravine near a mountain crest.
Their home was high and deep and wide,
An elegant place for bears to hide
The things they picked up on the mountain side.
They were well supplied with hats and boots
And leather coats and cowboy suits.
And pots and pans and whips and strings
And guns and horns and a hundred things
Lost on the trial by hunters bold
When driven home by the winter's cold".

Their names were Teddy B and Teddy G not Big Bully Woolly and Huckleberry Mary.

"The B for black or brown you see
Or bright or bold or brave or boss:
He was always kind and seldom cross.
The grey bear's name was Teddy-G
The G for grizzly or gray or gay, for he
Was as full of fun as a bear can be"

In the first book (published about 1905 by Edward Stern & Co., Philadelphia, and at the same time in Toronto by William Briggs), the two bears make their way from the western cave to New York city, visiting places of historic interest and seeing famous people. They end up at Madison Square Garden.

Book II (each has about 175 pages, with copious illustrations) is "More About The Roosevelt Bears". It continues with them from New York. They visit West Point, play baseball, travel around the Atlantic seaboard states, get a degree at Harvard and meet the President in Washington.

The Roosevelt Bear books may have had some indirect political purpose, to popularize Republican "Teddy" Roosevelt (President of the U.S.A. from 1901 to 1909); more likely, they are a reflection of his popularity and household name.

In Book III Teddy-B and Teddy-G go abroad. The various chapters are headed "The Bears on the Atlantic", "The Bears in Ireland", "The Bears in London Tower", in Switzerland, Rome etc. The chapters run as continuous narrative. At Stratford-on-Avon

"It was six at night when they got within
The ancient wall of Shakespeare Inn
And to their room on the second floor
With 'Hamlet' painted on the door.
But when they saw the happy way
That rooms are named, each for a play,
Said Teddy-B "Not this for me:
Put me to sleep in 'Richard Three'
Where I can dream of ghosts and worse
And cry my kingdom for a horse".

As some of the samples quoted above show, the meter is not always secure, nor the rhymes happy, but it is amusing children's doggerel, and parents might have thought it edifying that youngsters could get whiffs of geography, literature, national customs and history from rhymes about two bears. To keep it interesting the pair fall in and out of trouble as they travel about.

In Book III (1907) they end their travels abroad by way of Canada. Seymour Eaton is a little lame and dull in Canada:

"They reached Toronto the following day
Where they were escorted to the Bay
By the Queen's-Own Band and Grenadiers,
While boys and girls with songs and cheers
And waving flags lined Yonge and King
And made the old town fairly ring".

They skated in Toronto, tobogganed in Montreal, paid their respects to the "Governor" in Ottawa, and bowed out of Canada at Winnipeg

"Where a day or so
They stopped to see the city grow"

In Book IV, published probably in 1908, Teddy-B and Teddy-G turn detective and solve problems for Bo-Peep (help her track down her sheep), the Pied Piper, etc.

The books must have been very popular with children and parents, and therefore may have had imitators, which could account for the variant about whose names were Big Bully Woolly and Huckleberry Mary. Teddy-B and Teddy-G lived originally in a cave.

"Two bears lived in a hollow tree"

FOR THE RECORD: In their laudable efforts to raise money, the Boy Scouts held another paper drive this week. I do not know what the financial results were; the physical were very obvious. The city streets looked as if a dozen celebrities had come into town the same night and received a ticker-tape welcome, only that the showers had forgotten to rip the paper into small pieces. Next morning newspaper pages, whole newspapers and magazines, as well as scraps of them littered the streets, sidewalks and lawns. It seems that many householders did not tie their bundles, the collecting trucks were open, the loaders wide-aimed and the collection generally haphazard. Oh well, 'twas in a good cause.

Letters To The Editor

COMMENDS EXAMINER

Sir: I have taken your very fine paper for a number of years. And find it very interesting and valuable. I also take Toronto Globe and Mail, and many times pick up the Toronto Telegram so have a good chance to compare same.

I heartily congratulate you on your article. Toronto newspapers advising the public of our weather conditions east of that city as for instance as you mentioned if they have a heavy fall of snow or storm of any kind around that district its southern Ontario is blanketed with snow etc. They do sometimes touch as far as London, Ont., to the west but east as far as Peterborough never mentioned where we have far different weather many times from what they have in districts they mention, Hamilton, Guelph, London.

I was also very much insterested in the splendid write-up you gave Fred Marshall, it certainly pleased many of his earlier friends who knew him as a boy and young man. He was always a gentleman.

Thanks,

A READER.

WHO IS MY BROTHER?

Sir: This week has been chosen by some people and termed Brotherhood Week. Just how far is this feeling supopsed to go, and who are to be accepted into and who are to be rejected? From my early childhood I considered the Y.M.C.A. as the nearest approach to the fulfillment of this state and have ever wished to see in spite of many misgivings. I can recall those early school days along with pals, "who have gone to premature graves", how we sat in the Y.M.C.A. reading room on Saturday mornings perusing the many periodicals emblazoned with pictures of German Army's might, also pictures of German both men and women seemingly as interested as we in Christian work. But others "not all German" with insidious power prevailed and we had to fight against these same people in the name of humanity, not Christianity, although churches proclaimed it our bounden duty to fight. On January 25th we commemorated the birth of one of the greatest advocates of the brotherhood of man who wrote:

Oh wud some power the gift tae gee us
Tae see oursel's as ithers see us,
It wud frae mony a blunder free us
An foolish notions.

Again he wrote:

When man tae man the world o'er
'll brithers be fur aw that.

Who and what keeps people apart? It has long been the custom in churches to pray for those in high places and in authority, seemingly this has done little good. Then there is false teachings, false values, apathy, self-sufficiency, greed, jealously and hypocrisy. Where does brotherhood come in? Billions of dollars spent on preparations for war against who and what? Brotherhood of man while depriving even our own the opportunity to work and live in an honest way as honest people.

Early in 1915 in an address I said if Germany had prepared as well for the kingdom of heaven as she had for war, what a difference it would make to this world, and they would not be doomed to ruin. So again I say the same of the nations we know are making the same colossal mistake. Perhaps they think the scriptures' reference to the sword has no bearing on atomic bombs, so are above condemnation.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Lord openeth the eyes of the blind: the Lord raiseth them that are bowed down: the Lord loveth the righteous. The Lord shall reign for ever, even thy God, O Zion, unto all generations. Praise ye the Lord. (Ps. 146: 8, 10.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Thus saith God the Lord, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein: I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles, to open the blind eyes, to bring out the prisoners from the prison, and them that sit in darkness out of the prison house. (Isa. 42: 5-7.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, Thou son of David, have mercy on us. And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this. They said unto him, Yea, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened; and Jesus straitly charged them, saying, See that no man know it. But they, when they were departed, spread abroad his fame in all that country.

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. (Matt. 9: 27-31, 35.)

Again—Moose Slaughter?

(Sudbury Star)

Northern Ontario sportsmen will no doubt be delighted to hear that the North is once again swarming with moose—or at least this is the impression to be gained from reports from North Bay.

The Northern Outfitters' Association is asking the Ontario government for a "controlled" moose-hunting season in all but two areas in the North, which could indicate that the outfitters have established the number of moose waiting to be slaughtered by guns from south of the border.

No one would suggest that the outfitters are more interested in tourist dollars than they are in the conservation of our wildlife, and it is possible, of course, that if the moose were not slaughtered by hunters' guns they would become the victims of ticks or some parasitic disease.

There was a great deal of talk some time ago about taking a census of the moose. There was also talk to the effect that when a census-taker would see the same moose three times he would jot down "sighted three moose".

If conservation is to mean something more than a platitude, the Ontario government might establish what has happened to the great numbers of moose that used to populate the Sudbury district, before exposing the remaining lords of the forests to imported hunters.

Atom-Eating Cattle Teach Scientists Secrets

OTTAWA, Feb. 22.—(CP)—Scientists, trying hard to uncover animal life secrets to help human knowledge, are feeding atoms to cows to find out how their mysterious "beer-vat" stomachs work.

They're feeding radio active sulphur molecules to sheep in an endeavor to find ways to grow cheaper wool.

Geiger counters to follow the atom's trail are being used as the scientists, following Canada's policy of applying the atom to peace-time projects, pursue the atom animal project at Canada's central experimental farm on the western outskirts of Ottawa.

Dr. B. D. Migicovsky of Winnipeg one of a group of scientists in the project, said today sheep, chickens and cattle are all taking part in the scheme to cull secrets from mother nature.

"Sometimes we inject radiostopes, a by-product of the Chalk River atomic development, into the animal's body," said Dr. Migicovsky. "Other times we feed the animal on a diet of isotopes mixed with regular feed. Projects are going on all the time. The radiostopes in the animal's body are harmless.

Study Metabolism

"Our object is to study the metabolism of mineral elements and the mode of action of vitamin D."

In layman's language that means, roughly, that the technicians are checking, for example, on how calcium gets into various parts of the body to make bone structure. They want to see how vitamin D goes about preventing rickets.

Scientists, added Dr. Migicovsky still don't know too much about the cow's stomach. They don't know, for instance, the complete process of fermentation in one of the four stomachs called the remen, where the cow turns grass into flesh-making matter.

Scientists also know that the wool on sheep contain a quantity of sulphur. By feeding the sheep a diet of radio active sulphur molecules, the scientists are trying to find out if it is the sulphur in the diet that is helping the wool growth.

Liberal Party Row Splits B.C. Coalition

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 22 (CP).—Opposition Leader Herbert Anscomb contended in the Legislature Thursday that Premier Johnson broke the Coalition Government because "He had a very extensive row in his own party."

Coalition broke up Jan. 18 when Premier Johnson demanded the resignation of then Finance Minister Anscomb, co-chief in coalition and P.C. leader.

Mr. Anscomb said: "He (the premier) was faced with a convention ahead of him and he knew if he had any hope at all of remaining supreme at that convention that he must break the coalition because sections of his party were dominant on that point."

Tax Deal

Referring to the Dominion-Provincial taxation deal, Mr. Anscomb said: "I wonder if it was not the unpardonable sin of a Conservative being successful where a Liberal had failed."

The P.C. leader said he had informed Premier Johnson before Jan. 15 of the new terms of the Dominion - Provincial taxation agreement.

The premier fired the finance minister three days later for what he said was Mr. Anscomb's premature release to the press of details of the agreement before it had been placed before the cabinet.

Mr. Anscomb announced the same day that he would take the 11 P.C.'s in the Coalition Government into opposition and said his instructions contained no mention of making a statement on the agreement before conferring with the cabinet.

For his aid in the capture, the 24-year-old clothing salesman will get police cooperation in his quest for rewards believed to total some $70,000. Standing behind Monaghan and Schuster are Detectives Louis Weiner and James McClellan; Harold Weiss, Schuster's attorney, and Detective Donald Shea.

2 French Plays Wins Praise

MONTREAL, Feb. 22—(CP)—Two French plays, by Montreal and Sherbrooke, Que., theatrical companies, were staged Thursday night at the western Quebec Regional Drama festival.

"Dieppe," by Canadian dramatist, Marc Pilon, was presented by Le Trait D'Union of Montreal, under the direction of Henri Norbert.

Adjudicator Henri LeFevre found it "realistic drama, true to its wartime setting." He praised its highly-professional performance and the imaginative and resourceful set by Claude Dupuis.

The Sherbrooke group, Le Cercle Theatral, was seen in "La Maison Du Printemps" (The House of Spring), a lyric comedy by Fernand Milhaud.

Mme. Rene LeClaire, who directed, was complimented along with her players for showing "good talent" and keeping interest in "a slight work for all its romantic qualities."

2 Fliers Killed

WINNIPEG, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Names of two flying students who were killed Wednesday in the crash of a Harvard training plane near Westbourne, Man., were announced Thursday by the R.C.A.F. They were: PO. James Hugh Wood, of Parry Sound, Ont., and PO. John Marshall Simmons, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Says Sumerian Invented Scale

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP)—Prof. Fritz M. Heichelheim of the University of Toronto said Thursday he is convinced that an imaginative musician who plucked his harp in Southern Mesopotamia 4,500 years ago invented the first written musical scale and unwittingly gave the world its alphabet.

His theory was given an interview, published as a copyright story in The Globe and Mail. Briefly, it is this:

Between 3,000 and 2,000 B.C. the Sumerian invented a musical notation system of 21 signs, the first system devised to put music into writing. There were 21 signs because the harp of that time had a scale of 21 notes.

The Sumerian chose the signs out of the cuineiform script of the day, which had hundreds of symbols but no alphabet. The 21 notes, comparable to today's doh-re-mi sequence could have the meaning of syllables and eventually were translated into language symbols, retaining the scale sequence which gave the alphabet its order.

A paper by Dr. Heichelheim on his theory has just been published in Milan in the Italian archaeological journal Epigraphica.

COTC Students To Train In Germany

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 (CP).—In an unprecedented officer training program, the Canadian Army will send 74 university undergraduates to Europe next summer to train with the 47th Canadian Infantry Brigade.

Announcing the program on Thursday, the army said those selected will be drawn from three-year students about to undergo the third practical phase of the officers' training. Quotas will be allotted to army commands to permit as wide a representation as possible.

Factors affecting selection will include the cadet's military future reports on his training and study, both academic and in the second practical phase of C.O.T.C. instruction and the recommendation of the commanding officer of his university contingent.

The cadets selected will concentrate at Longue Pointe, Montreal, for movement overseas by ship. Tentative sailing dates have been listed for May 5, May 19, June 2 and June 30. Steps will be taken to return them to Canada in sufficient time for fall university registrations.

In Europe, the cadets will be attached to various Canadian Army units now training in Germany, and have an opportunity of serving with Atlantic pact forces in Europe.

"This will be a beneficial and broadening experience which should do much to foster a better understanding of the problems, military, political and economic, which confront the peoples of Europe," the army announcement said.

McGill Enrolment Showing Decrease

MONTREAL, Feb. 22—(CP)—McGill University Thursday reported enrolment for the current academic year of 6,820, a decrease of 532 from last year.

A spokesman said the drop was mainly due to graduation of veteran students who in the first few years after the Second World War, sent enrolment to record heights.

This year 979 Second World War veterans are enrolled, compared with 1,699 the preceding year.

Peterborough Boys Win To Rub Out Oshawa In Provincial Playdowns

Three local minor hockey teams came through with impressive victories over Oshawa here last night before a fair-sized crowd to erase the Motor City squads and advance into the second round of provincial playdowns. They were in the tail end of two-game O.M.H.A. series, and they all won on local ice. Outboard Marines juveniles, Martin-Hewitt midgets and St. Peter's bantams will now face the Belleville-Kingston victors in the next round next week.

After winning the opener 4-3 in Oshawa, Pot Doherty's St. Peter's bantams took a 2-1 verdict here last evening in the first of the night's triple-header to sweep their round by 6-4. Murphy scored first from Stewart, but Brodie tied it up from Muir and Payne in the first stanza. Murphy clinched matters with a nifty solo in the second heat and the Saints then threw up a stonewall defence to hold off Oshawa the rest of the route. St. Peter's drew four of the six penalties in this smart and hard-fought playoff number. All the winners turned in a dandy chore in the triumph.

The teams:

Oshawa: Milnick, Barnoski, Wood, Muir, Wilson, Payne, Vaughan, Tureski, Gremond, McMahon, Sutton, Humphries, Knox, Price.

St. Peter's: Hickson, English, Murphy, Scharfe, Stewart, Mahoney, Naish, Baker, Pace, Atkinson, Coombes, Douglas, Forestell, Chesney.

Finished Strong

Moon Wootton's classy Martin-Hewitt Midgets finished strong in racking up their 6-1 decision to take the round 9-3. Heffernan got the only goal of the first frame as Godfrey and Floyd teamed up with him. Neither side could dent the hemp in hard going through the middle chukker. The locals drove for five in a row in the third, Gardner scoring a pair, Godfrey, Brooks and Strickland getting the others. Kane, McFadden, Gardner, Floyd, Brooks and Heffernan each earned an assist in this heat as the home midgets dished up some grand passing to go right in on the opposing goalie. Oshawa's final goals in the third were all by Chasczewski, who came up with a stellar performance in a losing cause. Each team drew eight penalties in rather rugged stepping, Oldfield getting a misconduct in the third.

Oshawa: Knight, Steffen, Chasczewski, Grant, Rahn, Fenton, Mellwaine, Oldfield, Wallace, Mallow, Nickols, Puckalski, Taillon, Thompson, Collins.

Martin-Hewitt: Masterson, Blodgett, Parry, Kane, Gardner, Strickland, Brooks, Roberts, Stewart, Heffernan, Godfrey, Chambers, Floyd, McFadden.

Great Comeback

Coach Bert Hill's juvenile Marines staged a great comeback in a game that lasted till nearly one o'clock before winning out in overtime on Dodd's goal to take the round 7-6. It was a thriller and many fans stayed to the finish. Marines struck savagely at the start for four goals, two by Frizzelle from Kearns, and one each by Pammett and Corbett, with Doris in on two, Jones and McGillen also helping once each. There was no score in the tight middle session and Jammett got one early in the third from Doris. With Corbett off for a penalty and Delahaye temporarily hurt on a bang into the post, Oshawa scored two, Hughes from Boneham on the first, and then Laton from Dykstra and Burr. They added another shortly to sew it up, Scero from Zadic and Burr. Early in overtime, Dodd got through with Frizzelle and Jones to sink the winner and draw a big hand. Oshawa drew nine of the 14 penalties, but Marines drew three in overtime to their two.

Oshawa: Courtney, Johnston, Dykstra, Kellar, Laton, Brodie, Boneham, Woodnisky, Hughes, Scero, Fisher, Zadic, Burr, Rorabeck.

Marines: Delahaye, McGillen, Byrne, Kearns, Frizzelle, Dodd, Corbett, Spencer, Doris, McGrath, Pammett, Cupoli, McCormick, Jones.

Referees: Eakin and Romhanyi.

Brazil To Tackle Hans Hermann

Hans Hermann, boasting two easy victories over Bill Stack and Warren Bockwinkle, had his demands for a main bout accepted. The hated German grappler has been matched with the sensational colored giant, Bobo Brazil. This pair will be in the feature bout at the Brock next Tuesday.

Hermann is by far the most despised wrestler to ever appear here. His ruthless tactics and strutting manner really riles the fans. Brazil, on the other hand, is very popular. He is a clean, fast, scientific matman, who can be rugged when it is necessary, and seems an ideal choice to test the ability of the haughty Hermann.

The Teuton will find Brazil a different proposition than his other two opponents as the colored boy's head butts has stopped the best of them.

Fred Atkins, the Australian hard rock, takes on a newcomer, Ray Clarke, in the semi-final. Clarke has quite a reputation in mat circles and should give Atkins some real opposition.

Jim (the Bull) Wright, who made a good impression in his only start here, tangles with Pat Flanagan in the opener.

Russia Asks IIHF Affiliation

OSLO, Feb. 22 (CP).—Russia has formally applied for membership in the International Ice Hockey Federation and its acceptance into the world governing body of the amateur hockey is expected within six weeks, it was announced today.

The Russians signed a document agreeing to abide by all I.I.H.F. statutes and regulations. Soviet membership in the Federation will pave the way for Russian participation in future Olympic and international hockey tournaments. A mail vote of the member countries of the I.I.H.F. will be held shortly.

Dr. Fritz Kraatz of Zurich, Switzerland, president of the Federation, said he expected most of the affiliated members would support the Reds' request.

Russia applied for membership last month but was turned down when its application did not contain all the information required by the I.I.H.F., particularly in regards to the Soviet association's statutes. This now has been straightened out.

Port Perry Up Two Points Against Saints

St. Peter's High School juniors, group winners with P.C.V.S. Junior B and Lindsay Collegiate, started down the C.O.S.S.A. trail Thursday night for the first time in the school's history. The occasion was not too successful, as the Port Perry juniors won the first game of the points-to-count series 31-29.

This year the smaller high schools of the C.O.S.S.A. district are playing a B class, similar to football. These schools have gradually droped out of competition in the last five years when consistently beaten by large schools. The move for the B class is to encourage the small schools to enter teams again.

From indications of schedule play, the Saints Thursday night were well off their game. For brief periods in the first half and last quarter they easily overpowered the Port Perry cagers with quick, neat passing plays which ended in scores. But the remainder of the time they passed poorly, seemed to be playing half zone and half man-to-man defence, and could not hit the hoop.

Port Perry was in the game only in the third quarter and for parts of the fourth. Although they have a slight edge in height, they are slower moving and poor shots.

Saints Drove

After a dismal first quarter which ended 3-2, the Saints with Doug Galvin leading the way opened up play with quick breaks jarring Port Perry's defence. Meanwhile the Ports' Dobson worked in close for baskets to help them stay close, 13-11 at the half.

The Port Perry quintet switched from a slow methodical game to zone defence with a fast break in the third, featuring Owen, a tall stringy player with one-hand shots. Before the Saints could stop the surge, the Ports took a 22-17 lead at three-quarter.

The Ports kept packing away in the fourth and once built the lead up to 11 points. Then the Saints returned to form, Galvin again the producer. Within two minutes they nearly wiped away the deficit and took the lead, but the time ran out.

Thirty-six personal fouls were handed out for a series of minor infractions, which occurred mostly when the score was close. Calls were made for tripping, charging, chopping and holding.

The Saints suffered from fouls, losing star guard Simmons in the third quarter, and then Legros, Galvin's scoring partner, in the fourth. Galvin took his time with plays in the fourth, trying to keep out of rough play, having four personal fouls. Port Perry lost Drake through fouls and had Peel on the verge with four fouls.

Galvin was easily the outstanding player on the fourth, especially in the fourth quarter when he was grabbing rebounds at both backboards and went on a scoring spree. He whipped home 18 points for the Saints. Port Perry's best were Dobson with 11 and Owen with nine.

The lineups:

St. Peter's 29 — Legros 2, Galvin 18, Board 2, O'Rourke, Ryan 4, Simmons, Finn, McGillen 1, Quinlan 2, McTeague, Killen.

Port Perry 31—Peel 2, Owen 9, Dobson 11, Drake, Lawrence 3, Hadden 4, Warriner 2.

D. Whatman High

Deb Whatman of Mustangs rolled a nifty 722 and single of 324 to take both honors last night in the Playfair Mercantile League. Bob Murray was second among men with a three of 703. Other good scores were: J. Seguin 670, M. Eves 662, A. Brooks 637 and D. Taylor 635.

Hazel Davis led ladies with a three of 642. Alice Simpson was a close runner-up with 641 and a single of 276. Harrisons led in total pinnage with 2,935.

In the race for high average Marg Rogers leads ladies with 188, while B. Murray is top man with 217. Both have bowled 72 games to date.

Knox still lead the 18 team loop with 123 points followed closely by Austins and Kesco, each with 121; Harrisons 120, Mustangs and J. J. Turner each with 108, Grant and Loucks 96, Can. Canoe 86, A. & P. 83, Cherneys 81, Turners 74, Co-Op. 71, Pet. Express 68, Loblaws 64, V.C.O. 67, Combines 52, Dominion Store 37, Ovaltine 25.

P. of W. Victorious

Prince of Wales downed Confederation 3-2 in their Public School Hockey League semi-final playoff yesterday in the Arena. In a fast, close and rather rugged encounter, McFadden came up with two goals for the winners, Playford getting the other, and Robinson and Jay each having an assist. Casey and Moore were the scorers for the losers, Kimball helping on one. It was nip-and-tuck most of the way. The winners drew four of the six penalties. Teams:

Prince of Wales — Smillie, Doughty, White, Shaw, Murphy, Jay Robinson, Playford, Morley, Parker, McFadden, Barrie, Butler.

Confed. — Outwater, Woods, Patterson, Kimball, Casey, Moore, Moffat, Warner, Nichols, Copping, Pulkinghorn.

Referee—D. Lawless.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Dickie Moore, Montreal, whose two goals enabled the Canadiens to play to a 3-3 tie with Boston Bruins.

Bill Mosienko, Chicago, who scored twice and picked up an assist as the Black Hawks routed Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1.

ELEGANT ELMER—Canadiens' Elmer Lach, now in his 12th season with Montreal's N.H.L. team, will be honored by the Canadiens' fans on March 8. Elmer needs only three points to break the all-time record of 548 points established by Bill Cowley, a former Bruin, in 13 seasons.

Doug Mowry of St. Catharines—he used to catch for the Petes—writes to a friend here that he's taking five young ballsters to the Brooklyn Dodgers' training camp at Florida early next month. One of them is George Brabin, Petes' left-fielder last summer, and top hitter in the Viaduct League. George goes to Vero Beach as a free agent to make any deal he can in minor pro ball ranks. Cec. Bint of Oshawa put Doug onto Brabin last autumn. Detroit Tigers wanted to get a look at him in amateur ranks this coming spring, but George is taking the trip south to see what's what. Hasn't been playing lately with the Eagles, in case of puck injuries hurting his ball chances.

Two girls' basketball games at the Y.W., starting at eight, tonight: Black's vs. Nurses in loop play, and Port Hope vs. Neill's in an exhibition. The Feb. 15 postponement will be staged Feb. 29, with league semi-finals the following week. L.O.B.A. team begins Tuesday. At the Collegiate this e'en, three boys' games are billed, beginning at six. That'll be St. Peter's vs. P.C.V.S. junior "B" team in league play. Then, Oshawa Central and P.C.V.S. junior "A" squads tangle and the locals must win or they've had it. Nightcap has Central of Oshawa vs. Bev Goulding's senior "A" P.C.V.S. pack in group finals, the locals being down three points. All important hoop melees.

Juniors Tied On Series

That 7-5 win for Oddfellows in Belleville the other p.m. sure perked them up. They're square now with Hawklets at a win each in the O.H.A. junior "B" group semi-final sawoffs. Third one is here tonight, and it should fill the place. Some really sizzling junior playoff action assured as these husky young clubs fight fiercely for the odd game and an edge in the series. Fourth fray will be here next Wednesday and then they wrap it up in Bella Villa, if it goes the full five games. Johnny Godfrey's Triple Links will certainly shoot the works on home ice in a desperate attempt to take the lead. Hawklets are plenty worried now with the next two here. Rates a record crowd.

Three points separate Eagles and Petes in their senior "B" standing, and that could be whittled to half a game this Saturday night if Eagles should win. Or Petes could almost clinch top spot if they take it. Yeah, these old ice enemies tangle again here as the schedule nears the finish. Eagles have been hotter than halfway through a furnace lately, downing Petes, Kingston and Belleville in recent starts, but Petes still lead 'em in the group race. So, it's pretty much of a tossup, and don't bet too much on the outcome. You can bank on another swell scrap, regardless of which side picks up the most marbles. This postponement from Feb. 15 should pack the place tomorrow.

Minor Puckists Victors

Our three representatives of the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association came through in swell style at Civic Arena last night to erase Oshawa in the first O.M.H.A. playdown rounds and advance into the next provincial series. St. Peter's bantams, Martin-Hewitt midgets and Outboard Marines juveniles dished up dandy hockey against good opposition to wrap up their two-game series. Marines had lost the first tilt 3-1 and had to be in top form to come from behind and win in convincing manner. They now meet the Belleville-Kingston victors and the Quinte juves won out o'er the K's, while Kingston bantams and midgets took two wins against their Belleville rivals. The P.M.H.A. has done a big job for minor hockey here in recent years and it's starting to pay off nicely.

So Hans Hermann was stabbed night before last in London, eh? 'Twas in a tag team match in the Western Ontario city and the towering Teuton had fans so infuriated that they mobbed him after the bout. Six cops had to break it up, but someone used a knife or a piece of glass to rip the big German near the kidney ere he escaped to his dressing room. They also tore Referee Bunny Dunlop's trousers partly off before he got out of the mess. However, Hermann wasn't too seriously hurt—he had grappled here earlier in the week—and was able to go against Layton in Toronto last evening, being disqualified in that bout. These guys sure can arouse customer hatred in a hurry to rabid heights.

Out-Of-Town Rinks Take Curling Awards

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP). — Two veteran out-of-town rinks have carried off their first major awards at the 25th annual Ontario bonspiel.

Lou E. Ross's Agincourt crew took the prized Royal York trophy Thursday night in a tight match with Frank Avery of Toronto Curling Club. At the end of the ninth end Ross's rink led by a scant two points at 10-8 but they picked up two more in the 10th and 12th while Avery posted a single in the 11th to finish 12-9.

The Henry Birks Trophy went to Dr. J. F. Brock of Oshawa with a 14-5 triumph over D. P. Douglas of Toronto Civil Service. The Oshawa rink was led by W. F. Mercer with W. R. Strike second and Dr. A. W. Harding, vice.

Startling Display

The score stood tied at 5-5 at the end of the sixth and as Dr. Brock's stonemen broke away in a startling display of skill which earned them nine points and left Douglas scoreless in the final four ends. The Civil Service four conceded the match at the finish of the 10th end.

Mel Cunnington, 1951 winner of the Seagram Trophy, appeared to be skipping his Toronto rink to another 'spiel triumph as he moved into the finals today for the Seiberling Trophy.

He edged T. S. Graham another Toronto skip, 12-10 to line up against Kingston's C. E. Wharrie who topped Percy Power of Detroit, Ontario Curling Association president, 13-8.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

The main topic of conversation at the curling rink these days is the MacDonald-Brier bonspiel. The air is full of it and the curlers are full of it. It's the first time these provincial honors have come our way and we are justly proud.

When the boys, headed by Dr. J. Ralph Clark, begin play in Winnipeg on March 3 we feel sure that friends who follow our winter sport will be listening to the nation-wide broadcast. When the commentator announces that the Ontario lead has done this or that it would be nice to know who is who on this famous rink. So today we will give a quick rundown of the rink personnel:

Burritt Harrison—Lead

Burritt was born just outside the city but has lived practically all his life in the city. He attended the city public schools and the collegiate. He is married and is an employee at the C.G.E. He has done all his curling in Peterborough and this is his eighth year at the game. He has been a very successful curler having last year skipped the rink that won the Ontario Colts competition.

Ken Bissett—Second

Ken came to Peterborough about 11 years ago from Trossocks, Sask. He began his curling "away out west" and has taken part in all the major western bonspiels. He has been curling close to 25 years. He is married and is also employed at the C.G.E. Of a quiet disposition he can nevertheless toss a wicked shot. He will give a good account of himself.

Vic Brown—Vice-Skip

Vic is also another westerner, having come from Goodwater, Sask. about 15 years ago. He played a little before coming east but most of his curling has been right here in Peterborough. He has played on the Colts rink and this year was one of the District Cup skips. He is married and like his brother-in-law, Ken Bissett, is employed at the C.G.E. He can play any kind of a shot he is asked to do and plays them well. The tougher the going the better he likes it.

Dr. Ralph Clark—Skip

Ralph has come a long way since he first joined our club as a junior away back in 1928-29. We remember when he skipped the boys to win the junior tankard in 1932. He was raised here and attended the public schools and the collegiate and then in 1939 he graduated in medicine from Queen's.

Over the years he has gained vast experience. He has skipped our tankard entry on more than one occasion and he has won many trophies—the latest being the beautiful sterling silver Seagram Trophy from Quebec City. He is married and is well known for his medical ability. He is a steady player and a heady one. With those other three ahead of him he should go a long way in this curling classic.

Peterborough Boys Win To Rub Out Oshawa In Provincial Playdowns

Three local minor hockey teams came through with impressive victories over Oshawa here last night before a fair-sized crowd to erase the Motor City squads and advance into the second round of provincial playdowns. They were in the tail end of two-game O.M.H.A. series, and they all won on local ice. Outboard Marines juveniles, Martin-Hewitt midgets and St. Peter's bantams will now face the Belleville-Kingston victors in the next round next week.

After winning the opener 4-3 in Oshawa, Pot Doherty's St. Peter's bantams took a 2-1 verdict here last evening in the first of the night's triple-header to sweep their round by 6-4. Murphy scored first from Stewart, but Brodie tied it up from Muir and Payne in the first stanza. Murphy clinched matters with a nifty solo in the second heat and the Saints then threw up a stonewall defence to hold off Oshawa the rest of the route. St. Peter's drew four of the six penalties in this smart and hard-fought playoff number. All the winners turned in a dandy chore in the triumph.

The teams:

Oshawa: Milnick, Barnoski, Wood, Muir, Wilson, Payne, Vaughan, Tureski, Gremond, McMahon, Sutton, Humphries, Knox, Price.

St. Peter's: Hickson, English, Murphy, Scharfe, Stewart, Mahoney, Naish, Baker, Pace, Atkinson, Coombes, Douglas, Forestell, Chesney.

Finished Strong

Moon Wootton's classy Martin-Hewitt Midgets finished strong in racking up their 6-1 decision to take the round 9-3. Heffernan got the only goal of the first frame as Godfrey and Floyd teamed up with him. Neither side could dent the hemp in hard going through the middle chukker. The locals drove for five in a row in the third, Gardner scoring a pair, Godfrey, Brooks and Strickland getting the others. Kane, McFadden, Gardner, Floyd, Brooks and Heffernan each earned an assist in this heat as the home midgets dished up some grand passing to go right in on the opposing goalie. Oshawa's final goals in the third were all by Chasczewski, who came up with a stellar performance in a losing cause. Each team drew eight penalties in rather rugged stepping, Oldfield getting a misconduct in the third.

Oshawa: Knight, Steffen, Chasczewski, Grant, Rahn, Fenton, McIlwaine, Oldfield, Wallace, Mallow, Nickols, Puckalski, Taillon, Thompson, Collins.

Martin-Hewitt: Masterson, Blodgett, Parry, Kane, Gardner, Strickland, Brooks, Roberts, Stewart, Heffernan, Godfrey, Chambers, Floyd, McFadden.

Great Comeback

Coach Bert Hill's juvenile Marines staged a great comeback in a game that lasted till nearly one o'clock before winning out in overtime on Dodd's goal to take the round 7-6. It was a thriller and many fans stayed to the finish. Marines struck savagely at the start for four goals, two by Frizzelle from Kearns, and one each by Pammett and Corbett, with Doris in on two, Jones and McGillen also helping once each. There was no score in the tight middle session and Jammett got one early in the third from Doris. With Corbett off for a penalty and Delahaye temporarily hurt on a bang into the post, Oshawa scored two, Hughes from Boneham on the first, and then Laton from Dykstra and Burr. They added another shortly to sew it up, Scero from Zadic and Burr. Early in overtime, Dodd got through with Frizzelle and Jones to sink the winner and draw a big hand. Oshawa drew nine of the 14 penalties, but Marines drew three in overtime to their two.

Oshawa: Courtney, Johnston, Dykstra, Kellar, Laton, Brodie, Boneham, Woodnisky, Hughes, Scero, Fisher, Zadic, Burr, Roraback.

Marines: Delahaye, McGillen, Byrne, Kearns, Frizzelle, Dodd, Corbett, Spencer, Doris, McGrath, Pammett, Cupoli, McCormick, Jones.

Referees: Eakin and Romhanyi.

Brazil To Tackle Hans Hermann

Hans Hermann, boasting two easy victories over Bill Stack and Warren Bockwinkle, had his demands for a main bout accepted. The hated German grappler has been matched with the sensational colored giant, Bobo Brazil. This pair will be in the feature bout at the Brock next Tuesday.

Hermann is by far the most despised wrestler to ever appear here. His ruthless tactics and strutting manner really riles the fans. Brazil, on the other hand, is very popular. He is a clean, fast, scientific matman, who can be rugged when it is necessary, and seems an ideal choice to test the ability of the haughty Hermann.

The Teuton will find Brazil a different proposition than his other two opponents as the colored boy's head butts has stopped the best of them.

Fred Atkins, the Australian hard rock, takes on a newcomer, Ray Clarke, in the semi-final. Clarke has quite a reputation in mat circles and should give Atkins some real opposition.

Jim (the Bull) Wright, who made a good impression in his only start here, tangles with Pat Flanagan in the opener.

Russia Asks IIHF Affiliation

OSLO, Feb. 22 (CP).—Russia has formally applied for membership in the International Ice Hockey Federation and its acceptance into the world governing body of the amateur hockey is expected within six weeks, it was announced today.

The Russians signed a document agreeing to abide by all I.I.H.F. statutes and regulations. Soviet membership in the Federation will pave the way for Russian participation in future Olympic and international hockey tournaments. A mail vote of the member countries of the I.I.H.F. will be held shortly.

Dr. Fritz Kraatz of Zurich, Switzerland, president of the Federation, said he expected most of the affiliated members would support the Reds' request.

Russia applied for membership last month but was turned down when its application did not contain all the information required by the I.I.H.F., particularly in regards to the Soviet association's statutes. This now has been straightened out.

Port Perry Up Two Points Against Saints

St. Peter's High School juniors, group winners with P.C.V.S. Junior B and Lindsay Collegiate, started down the C.O.S.S.A. trail Thursday night for the first time in the school's history. The occasion was not too successful, as the Port Perry juniors won the first game of the points-to-count series 31-29.

This year the smaller high schools of the C.O.S.S.A. district are playing a B class, similar to football. These schools have gradually droped out of competition in the last five years when consistently beaten by large schools. The move for the B class is to encourage the small schools to enter teams again.

From indications of schedule play, the Saints Thursday night were well off their game. For brief periods in the first half and last quarter they easily overpowered the Port Perry cagers with quick, neat passing plays which ended in scores. But the remainder of the time they passed poorly, seemed to be playing half zone and half man-to-man defence, and could not hit the hoop.

Port Perry was in the game only in the third quarter and for parts of the fourth. Although they have a slight edge in height, they are slower moving and poor shots.

Saints Drove

After a dismal first quarter which ended 3-2, the Saints with Doug Galvin leading the way opened up play with quick breaks jarring Port Perry's defence. Meanwhile the Ports' Dobson worked in close for baskets to help them stay close, 13-11 at the half.

The Port Perry quintet switched from a slow methodical game to zone defence with a fast break in the third, featuring Owen, a tall stringy player with one-hand shots. Before the Saints could stop the surge, the Ports took a 22-17 lead at three-quarter.

The Ports kept packing away in the fourth and once built the lead up to 11 points. Then the Saints returned to form, Galvin again the producer. Within two minutes they nearly wiped away the deficit and took the lead, but the time ran out.

Thirty-six personal fouls were handed out for a series of minor infractions which occurred mostly when the score was close. Calls were made for tripping, charging, chopping and holding.

The Saints suffered from fouls, losing star guard Simmons in the third quarter, and then Legros, Galvin's scoring partner, in the fourth. Galvin took his time with plays in the fourth, trying to keep out of rough play, having four personal fouls. Port Perry lost Drake through fouls and had Peel on the verge with four fouls.

Galvin was easily the outstanding player on the fourth, especially in the fourth quarter when he was grabbing rebounds at both backboards and went on a scoring spree. He whipped home 18 points for the Saints. Port Perry's best were Dobson with 11 and Owen with nine.

The lineups:

St. Peter's 29 — Legros 2, Galvin 18, Board 2, O'Rourke, Ryan 4, Simmons, Finn, McGillen 1, Quinlan 2, McTeague, Killen.

Port Perry 31—Peel 2, Owen 9, Dobson 11, Drake, Lawrence 3, Hadden 4, Warriner 2.

D. Whatman High

Deb Whatman of Mustangs rolled a nifty 722 and single of 324 to take both honors last night in the Playfair Mercantile League. Bob Murray was second among men with a three of 703. Other good scores were: J. Seguin 670, M. Eves 662, A. Brooks 637 and D. Taylor 635.

Hazel Davis led ladies with a three of 642. Alice Simpson was a close runner-up with 641 and a single of 276. Harrisons led in total pinnage with 2,935.

In the race for high average Marg Rogers leads ladies with 188, while B. Murray is top man with 217. Both have bowled 72 games to date.

Knox still lead the 18 team loop with 123 points followed closely by Austins and Kesco, each with 121; Harrisons 120, Mustangs and J. J. Turner each with 108, Grant and Loucks 96, Can. Canoe 86, A. & P. 83, Cherneys 81, Turners 74, Co-Op. 71, Pet. Express 68, Loblaws 64, V.C.O. 67, Combines 52, Dominion Store 37, Ovaltine 25.

P. of W. Victorious

Prince of Wales downed Confederation 3-2 in their Public School Hockey League semi-final playoff yesterday in the Arena. In a fast, close and rather rugged encounter, McFadden came up with two goals for the winners, Playford getting the other, and Robinson and Jay each having an assist. Casey and Moore were the scorers for the losers, Kimball helping on one. It was nip-and-tuck most of the way. The winners drew four of the six penalties. Teams:

Prince of Wales — Smillie, Doughty, White, Shaw, Murphy, Jay Robinson, Playford, Morley, Parker, McFadden, Barrie, Butler.

Confed. — Outwater, Woods, Patterson, Kimball, Casey, Moore, Moffat, Warner, Nichols, Copping, Pulkinghorn.

Referee—D. Lawless.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Dickie Moore, Montreal, whose two goals enabled the Canadiens to play to a 3-3 tie with Boston Bruins.

Bill Mosienko, Chicago, who scored twice and picked up an assist as the Black Hawks routed Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1.

ELEGANT ELMER—Canadiens' Elmer Lach, now in his 12th season with Montreal's N.H.L. team, will be honored by the Canadiens' fans on March 8. Elmer needs only three points to break the all-time record of 548 points established by Bill Cowley, a former Bruin, in 13 seasons.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Doug Mowry of St. Catharines—he used to catch for the Petes—writes to a friend here that he's taking five young ballsters to the Brooklyn Dodgers' training camp at Florida early next month. One of them is George Brabin, Petes' left-fielder last summer, and top hitter in the Viaduct League. George goes to Vero Beach as a free agent to make any deal he can in minor pro ball ranks. Cec. Bint of Oshawa put Doug onto Brabin last autumn. Detroit Tigers wanted to get a look at him in amateur ranks this coming spring, but George is taking the trip south to see what's what. Hasn't been playing lately with the Eagles, in case of puck injuries hurting his ball chances.

Two girls' basketball games at the Y.W., starting at eight, tonight: Black's vs. Nurses in loop play, and Port Hope vs. Neill's in an exhibition. The Feb. 15 postponement will be staged Feb. 29, with league semi-finals the following week. L.O.B.A. team begins Tuesday. At the Collegiate this e'en, three boys' games are billed, beginning at six. That'll be St. Peter's vs. P.C.V.S. junior "B" team in league play. Then, Oshawa Central and P.C.V.S. junior "A" squads tangle and the locals must win or they've had it. Nightcap has Central of Oshawa vs. Bev Goulding's senior "A" P.C.V.S. pack in group finals, the locals being down three points. All important hoop melees.

Juniors Tied On Series

That 7-5 win for Oddfellows in Belleville the other p.m. sure perked them up. They're square now with Hawklets at a win each in the O.H.A. junior "B" group semi-final sawoffs. Third one is here tonight, and it should fill the place. Some really sizzling junior play-off action assured as these husky young clubs fight fiercely for the odd game and an edge in the series. Fourth fray will be here next Wednesday and then they wrap it up in Bella Villa, if it goes the full five games. Johnny Godfrey's Triple Links will certainly shoot the works on home ice in a desperate attempt to take the lead. Hawklets are plenty worried now with the next two here. Rates a record crowd.

Three points separate Eagles and Petes in their senior "B" standing, and that could be whittled to half a game this Saturday night if Eagles should win. Or Petes could almost clinch top spot if they take it. Yeah, these old ice enemies tangle again here as the schedule nears the finish. Eagles have been hotter than halfway through a furnace lately, downing Petes, Kingston and Belleville in recent starts, but Petes still lead 'em in the group race. So, it's pretty much of a tossup, and don't bet too much on the outcome. You can bank on another swell scrap, regardless of which side picks up the most marbles. This postponement from Feb. 15 should pack the place tomorrow.

Minor Puckists Victors

Our three representatives of the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association came through in swell style at Civic Arena last night to erase Oshawa in the first O.M.H.A. playdown rounds and advance into the next provincial series. St. Peter's bantams, Martin-Hewitt midgets and Outboard Marines juveniles dished up dandy hockey against good opposition to wrap up their two-game series. Marines had lost the first tilt 3-1 and had to be in top form to come from behind and win in convincing manner. They now meet the Belleville-Kingston victors and the Quinte juves won out o'er the K's, while Kingston bantams and midgets took two wins against their Belleville rivals. The P.M.H.A. has done a big job for minor hockey here in recent years and it's starting to pay off nicely.

So Hans Hermann was stabbed night before last in London, eh? 'Twas in a tag team match in the Western Ontario city and the towering Teuton had fans so infuriated that they mobbed him after the bout. Six cops had to break it up, but someone used a knife or a piece of glass to rip the big German near the kidney ere he escaped to his dressing room. They also tore Referee Bunny Duplop's trousers partly off before he got out of the mess. However, Hermann wasn't too seriously hurt—he had grappled here earlier in the week—and was able to go against Layton in Toronto last evening, being disqualified in that bout. These guys sure can arouse customer hatred in a hurry to rabid heights.

Out-Of-Town Rinks Take Curling Awards

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP). — Two veteran out-of-town rinks have carried off their first major awards at the 25th annual Ontario bonspiel.

Lou E. Ross's Agincourt crew—took the prized Royal York trophy Thursday night in a tight match with Frank Avery of Toronto Curling Club. At the end of the ninth end Ross's rink led by a scant two points at 10-8 but they picked up two more in the 10th and 12th while Avery posted a single in the 11th to finish 12-9.

The Henry Birks Trophy went to Dr. J. F. Brock of Oshawa with a 14-5 triumph over D. P. Douglas of Toronto Civil Service. The Oshawa rink was led by W. F. Mercer with W. R. Strike second and Dr. A. W. Harding, vice.

Startling Display

The score stood tied at 5-5 at the end of the sixth and as Dr. Brock's stonemen broke away in a startling display of skill which earned them nine points and left Douglas scoreless in the final four ends. The Civil Service four conceded the match at the finish of the 10th end.

Mel Cunnington, 1951 winner of the Seagram Trophy, appeared to be skipping his Toronto rink to another 'spiel triumph as he moved into the finals today for the Seiberling Trophy.

Coach Bert Hill's juvenile Marines staged a great comeback in a game that lasted till nearly one o'clock before winning out in overtime on Dodd's goal to take the round 7-6. It was a thriller and many fans stayed to the finish. Marines struck savagely at the start for four goals, two by Frizzelle from Kearns, and one each by Pammett and Corbett, with Doris in on two, Jones and McGillen also helping once each. There was no score in the tight middle session and Jammett got one early in the third from Doris. With Corbett off for a penalty and Delahaye temporarily hurt on a bang into the post, Oshawa scored two, Hughes from Boneham on the first, and then Laton from Dykstra and Burr. They added another shortly to sew it up, Scero from Zadic and Burr. Early in overtime, Dodd got through with Frizzelle and Jones to sink the winner and draw a big hand. Oshawa drew nine of the 14 penalties, but Marines drew three in overtime to their two.

Oshawa: Courtney, Johnston, Dykstra, Kellar, Laton, Brodie, Boneham, Woodnisky, Hughes, Scero, Fisher, Zadic, Burr, Rorabeck.

Marines: Delahaye, McGillen, Byrne, Kearns, Frizzelle, Dodd, Corbett, Spencer, Doris, McGrath, Pammett, Cupoli, McCormick, Jones.

Referees: Eakin and Romhanyi.

Russia Asks IIHF Affiliation

OSLO, Feb. 22 (CP).—Russia has formally applied for membership in the International Ice Hockey Federation and its acceptance into the world governing body of the amateur hockey is expected within six weeks, it was announced today.

The Russians signed a document agreeing to abide by all I.I.H.F. statutes and regulations. Soviet membership in the Federation will pave the way for Russian participation in future Olympic and international hockey tournaments. A mail vote of the member countries of the I.I.H.F. will be held shortly.

Dr. Fritz Kraatz of Zurich, Switzerland, president of the Federation, said he expected most of the affiliated members would support the Reds' request.

Russia applied for membership last month but was turned down when its application did not contain all the information required by the I.I.H.F., particularly in regards to the Soviet association's statutes. This now has been straightened out.

Brazil To Tackle Hans Hermann

Hans Hermann, boasting two easy victories over Bill Stack and Warren Bockwinkle, had his demands for a main bout accepted. The hated German grappler has been matched with the sensational colored giant, Bobo Brazil. This pair will be in the feature bout at the Brock next Tuesday.

Hermann is by far the most despised wrestler to ever appear here. His ruthless tactics and strutting manner really riles the fans. Brazil, on the other hand, is very popular. He is a clean, fast, scientific matman, who can be rugged when it is necessary, and seems an ideal choice to test the ability of the haughty Hermann.

The Teuton will find Brazil a different proposition than his other two opponents as the colored boy's head butts has stopped the best of them.

Fred Atkins, the Australian hard rock, takes on a newcomer, Ray Clarke, in the semi-final. Clarke has quite a reputation in mat circles and should give Atkins some real opposition.

Jim (the Bull) Wright, who made a good impression in his only start here, tangles with Pat Flanagan in the opener.

Port Perry Up Two Points Against Saints

St. Peter's High School juniors, group winners with P.C.V.S. Junior B and Lindsay Collegiate, started down the C.O.S.S.A. trail Thursday night for the first time in the school's history. The occasion was not too successful, as the Port Perry juniors won the first game of the points-to-count series 31-29.

This year the smaller high schools of the C.O.S.S.A. district are playing a B class, similar to football. These schools have gradually droped out of competition in the last five years when consistently beaten by large schools. The move for the B class is to encourage the small schools to enter teams again.

From indications of schedule play, the Saints Thursday night were well off their game. For brief periods in the first half and last quarter they easily overpowered the Port Perry cagers with quick, neat passing plays which ended in scores. But the remainder of the time they passed poorly, seemed to be playing half zone and half man-to-man defence, and could not hit the hoop.

Port Perry was in the game only in the third quarter and for parts of the fourth. Although they have a slight edge in height, they are slower moving and poor shots.

Saints Drove

After a dismal first quarter which ended 3-2, the Saints with Doug Galvin leading the way opened up play with quick breaks jarring Port Perry's defence. Meanwhile the Ports' Dobson worked in close for baskets to help them stay close, 13-11 at the half.

The Port Perry quintet switched from a slow methodical game to zone defence with a fast break in the third, featuring Owen, a tall stringy player with one-hand shots. Before the Saints could stop the surge, the Ports took a 22-17 lead at three-quarter.

The Ports kept packing away in the fourth and once built the lead up to 11 points. Then the Saints returned to form, Galvin again the producer. Within two minutes they nearly wiped away the deficit and took the lead, but the time ran out.

Thirty-six personal fouls were handed out for a series of minor infractions which occurred mostly when the score was close. Calls were made for tripping, charging, chopping and holding.

The Saints suffered from fouls, losing star guard Simmons in the third quarter, and then Legros, Galvin's scoring partner, in the fourth. Galvin took his time with plays in the fourth, trying to keep out of rough play, having four personal fouls. Port Perry lost Drake through fouls and had Peel on the verge with four fouls.

Galvin was easily the outstanding player on the fourth, especially in the fourth quarter when he was grabbing rebounds at both backboards and went on a scoring spree. He whipped home 18 points for the Saints. Port Perry's best were Dobson with 11 and Owen with nine.

The lineups:

St. Peter's 29 — Legros 2, Galvin 18, Board 2, O'Rourke, Ryan 4, Simmons, Finn, McGillen 1, Quinlan 2, McTeague, Killen.

Port Perry 31—Peel 2, Owen 9, Dobson 11, Drake, Lawrence 3, Hadden 4, Warriner 2.

D. Whatman High

Deb Whatman of Mustangs rolled a nifty 722 and single of 324 to take both honors last night in the Playfair Mercantile League. Bob Murray was second among men with a three of 703. Other good scores were: J. Seguin 670, M. Eves 662, A. Brooks 637 and D. Taylor 635.

Hazel Davis led ladies with a three of 642. Alice Simpson was a close runner-up with 641 and a single of 276. Harrisons led in total pinnage with 2,935.

In the race for high average Marg Rogers leads ladies with 188, while B. Murray is top man with 217. Both have bowled 72 games to date.

Knox still lead the 18 team loop with 123 points followed closely by Austins and Kesco, each with 121; Harrisons 120, Mustangs and J. J. Turner each with 108, Grant and Loucks 96, Can. Canoe 86, A. & P. 83, Cherneys 81, Turners 74, Co-Op. 71, Pet. Express 68, Loblaws 64, V.C.O. 67, Combines 52, Dominion Store 37, Ovaltine 25.

P. of W. Victorious

Prince of Wales downed Confederation 3-2 in their Public School Hockey League semi-final playoff yesterday in the Arena. In a fast, close and rather rugged encounter, McFadden came up with two goals for the winners, Playford getting the other, and Robinson and Jay each having an assist. Casey and Moore were the scorers for the losers, Kimball helping on one. It was nip-and-tuck most of the way. The winners drew four of the six penalties. Teams:

Prince of Wales — Smillie, Doughty, White, Shaw, Murphy, Jay Robinson, Playford, Morley, Parker, McFadden, Barrie, Butler.

Confed. — Outwater, Woods, Patterson, Kimball, Casey, Moore, Moffat, Warner, Nichols, Copping, Pulkinghorn.

Referee—D. Lawless.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Dickie Moore, Montreal, whose two goals enabled the Canadiens to play to a 3-3 tie with Boston Bruins.

Bill Mosienko, Chicago, who scored twice and picked up an assist as the Black Hawks routed Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1.

ELEGANT ELMER—Canadiens' Elmer Lach, now in his 12th season with Montreal's N.H.L. team, will be honored by the Canadiens' fans on March 8. Elmer needs only three points to break the all-time record of 548 points established by Bill Cowley, a former Bruin, in 13 seasons.

Doug Mowry of St. Catharines—he used to catch for the Petes—writes to a friend here that he's taking five young ballsters to the Brooklyn Dodgers' training camp at Florida early next month. One of them is George Brabin, Petes' left-fielder last summer, and top hitter in the Viaduct League. George goes to Vero Beach as a free agent to make any deal he can in minor pro ball ranks. Cec. Bint of Oshawa put Doug onto Brabin last autumn. Detroit Tigers wanted to get a look at him in amateur ranks this coming spring, but George is taking the trip south to see what's what. Hasn't been playing lately with the Eagles, in case of puck injuries hurting his ball chances.

Two girls' basketball games at the Y.W., starting at eight, tonight: Black's vs. Nurses in loop play, and Port Hope vs. Neill's in an exhibition. The Feb. 15 postponement will be staged Feb. 29, with league semi-finals the following week. L.O.B.A. team begins Tuesday. At the Collegiate this e'en, three boys' games are billed, beginning at six. That'll be St. Peter's vs. P.C.V.S. junior "B" team in league play. Then, Oshawa Central and P.C.V.S. junior "A" squads tangle and the locals must win or they've had it. Nightcap has Central of Oshawa vs. Bev Goulding's senior "A" P.C.V.S. pack in group finals, the locals being down three points. All important hoop melees.

Juniors Tied On Series

That 7-5 win for Oddfellows in Belleville the other p.m. sure perked them up. They're square now with Hawklets at a win each in the O.H.A. junior "B" group semi-final sawoffs. Third one is here tonight, and it should fill the place. Some really sizzling junior playoff action assured as these husky young clubs fight fiercely for the odd game and an edge in the series. Fourth fray will be here next Wednesday and then they wrap it up in Bella Villa, if it goes the full five games. Johnny Godfrey's Triple Links will certainly shoot the works on home ice in a desperate attempt to take the lead. Hawklets are plenty worried now with the next two here. Rates a record crowd.

Three points separate Eagles and Petes in their senior "B" standing, and that could be whittled to half a game this Saturday night if Eagles should win. Or Petes could almost clinch top spot if they take it. Yeah, these old ice enemies tangle again here as the schedule nears the finish. Eagles have been hotter than halfway through a furnace lately, downing Petes, Kingston and Belleville in recent starts, but Petes still lead 'em in the group race. So, it's pretty much of a tossup, and don't bet too much on the outcome. You can bank on another swell scrap, regardless of which side picks up the most marbles. This postponement from Feb. 15 should pack the place tomorrow.

Minor Puckists Victors

Our three representatives of the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association came through in swell style at Civic Arena last night to erase Oshawa in the first O.M.H.A. playdown rounds and advance into the next provincial series. St. Peter's bantams, Martin-Hewitt midgets and Outboard Marines juveniles dished up dandy hockey against good opposition to wrap up their two-game series. Marines had lost the first tilt 3-1 and had to be in top form to come from behind and win in convincing manner. They now meet the Belleville-Kingston victors and the Quinte juves won out o'er the K's, while Kingston bantams and midgets took two wins against their Belleville rivals. The P.M.H.A. has done a big job for minor hockey here in recent years and it's starting to pay off nicely.

So Hans Hermann was stabbed night before last in London, eh? 'Twas in a tag team match in the Western Ontario city and the towering Teuton had fans so infuriated that they mobbed him after the bout. Six cops had to break it up, but someone used a knife or a piece of glass to rip the big German near the kidney ere he escaped to his dressing room. They also tore Referee Bunny Dunlop's trousers partly off before he got out of the mess. However, Hermann wasn't too seriously hurt—he had grappled here earlier in the week—and was able to go against Layton in Toronto last evening, being disqualified in that bout. These guys sure can arouse customer hatred in a hurry to rabid heights.

Out-Of-Town Rinks Take Curling Awards

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP). — Two veteran out-of-town rinks have carried off their first major awards at the 25th annual Ontario bonspiel.

Lou E. Ross's Agincourt crew—took the prized Royal York trophy Thursday night in a tight match with Frank Avery of Toronto Curling Club. At the end of the ninth end Ross's rink led by a scant two points at 10-8 but they picked up two more in the 10th and 12th while Avery posted a single in the 11th to finish 12-9.

The Henry Birks Trophy went to Dr. J. F. Brock of Oshawa with a 14-5 triumph over D. P. Douglas of Toronto Civil Service. The Oshawa rink was led by W. F. Mercer with W. R. Strike second and Dr. A. W. Harding, vice.

Startling Display

The score stood tied at 5-5 at the end of the sixth and as Dr. Brock's stonemen broke away in a startling display of skill which earned them nine points and left Douglas scoreless in the final four ends. The Civil Service four conceded the match at the finish of the 10th end.

Mel Cunnington, 1951 winner of the Seagram Trophy, appeared to be skipping his Toronto rink to another 'spiel triumph as he moved into the finals today for the Seiberling Trophy.

He edged T. S. Graham another Toronto skip, 12-10 to line up against Kingston's C. E. Wharrie who topped Percy Power of Detroit, Ontario Curling Association president, 13-8.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

The main topic of conversation at the curling rink these days is the MacDonald-Brier bonspiel. The air is full of it and the curlers are full of it. It's the first time these provincial honors have come our way and we are justly proud.

When the boys, headed by Dr. J. Ralph Clark, begin play in Winnipeg on March 3 we feel sure that friends who follow our winter sport will be listening to the nation-wide broadcast. When the commentator announces that the Ontario lead has done this or that it would be nice to know who is who on this famous rink. So today we will give a quick rundown of the rink personnel:

Burritt Harrison—Lead

Burritt was born just outside the city but has lived practically all his life in the city. He attended the city public schools and the collegiate. He is married and is an employee at the C.G.E. He has done all his curling in Peterborough and this is his eighth year at the game. He has been a very successful curler having last year skipped the rink that won the Ontario Colts competition.

Ken Bissett—Second

Ken came to Peterborough about 11 years ago from Trossocks, Sask. He began his curling "away out west" and has taken part in all the major western bonspiels. He has been curling close to 25 years. He is married and is also employed at the C.G.E. Of a quiet disposition he can nevertheless toss a wicked shot. He will give a good account of himself.

Vic Brown—Vice-Skip

Vic is also another westerner, having come from Goodwater, Sask. about 15 years ago. He played a little before coming east but most of his curling has been right here in Peterborough. He has played on the Colts rink and this year was one of the District Cup skips. He is married and like his brother-in-law, Ken Bissett, is employed at the C.G.E. He can play any kind of a shot he is asked to do and plays them well. The tougher the going the better he likes it.

Dr. Ralph Clark—Skip

Ralph has come a long way since he first joined our club as a junior away back in 1928-29. We remember when he skipped the boys to win the junior tankard in 1932. He was raised here and attended the public schools and the collegiate and then in 1939 he graduated in medicine from Queen's.

Over the years he has gained vast experience. He has skipped our tankard entry on more than one occasion and he has won many trophies—the latest being the beautiful sterling silver Seagram Trophy from Quebec City. He is married and is well known for his medical ability. He is a steady player and a heady one. With those other three ahead of him he should go a long way in this curling classic.

EXCITING 15 MINUTES—C.G.E. workers and Albert St. residents were treated to 15 minutes of excitement at the peak of Wednesday's snow storm. A car owned by Mervin Chesley of Lakefield, caught fire and before firemen had it under control, caused extensive damage to the front seat. Firemen Henry Nokes (left) and Joe Nolan, with their heads in grey smoke, hunt for the flames. The fire was believed caused by a cigarette butt in the upholstery.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Instals New Members Lions Deputy Governor

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21 (ENS).—District Deputy Governor Charles Knox of Orono visited Millbrook Lions Club on Tuesday night and inducted two new members, E. R. Penney and the Rev. Newcastle Lions had challenged the Millbrook club to a game of broom ball to be played in the Arena following the meeting. The Millbrook club beat the visitors by a score of 3-1. The return game is to be played in Newcastle around March 1.

Lay Arson Charge

BRAMPTON, Feb. 21—(CP)—A three-week investigation into a fire that destroyed the Canadian Pacific Railway station at Alton, 20 miles north of here ended Wednesday night with the arrest of Leslie Bloom, 31 of Alton on a charge of arson. The station fire occurred January 30.

Face Big Job

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 — (CP). — Edgar McInnis, newly-appointed president of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs, said Wednesday the west must convince the peoples of Asia that a better road lies ahead not through revolution and violence but through co-operation with the democracies.

Lure Jap Stragglers

MANILA, Feb. 21 (AP) — A Japanese who came here to lure Second World War stragglers out of the jungles today estimated that at least 1,000 Japanese still are hiding in the Philippines. Nobuhiko Jimbo, a former colonel, flew over Lubang Island, dropped bundles of letters from relatives of stragglers and by loudspeaker urged surrender.

Migrants' Home Patrol Boat

HALIFAX—(CP)—If the average housewife drops her purse at her front door, she has only to bend down and pick it up.

But when Mrs. Frank Harrison let her bag slip from under her arm recently at her "front door," there was splash and she ruefully surveyed a widening circle of ripples.

For the Harrison home is a 62-foot former Fisheries Department patrol boat, and a comfortable and pleasant place to reside, too.

The Harrisons started their little war against the housing shortage last July, when they bought the Capelin in Methegan, N.S.

It's not surprising the Harrisons turned to the sea, because they're both navy veterans. In fact, it was while they were both stationed at a British port that they met. Mrs. Harrison is a Londoner and Frank comes from Halifax in Yorkshire.

After emigrating to Canada, they lived in Montreal for a time before finding the Capelin in Methegan.

They sailed it to Halifax, tied up at a wharf, and now their big hope is to head for the West Indies sometime this year. If they like it, they will live in southern waters for a time.

Meanwhile, Frank is working at the dockyard here.

"Frank has always wanted a boat from the time he was five years old, although he doesn't come from a seafaring family," sid Mrs. Harrison.

"As for me I love it," she said. "I wouldn't go back on shore for anything. Naturally there are some handicaps in housekeeping but it's different from having a house you buy, and equip with furniture."

Movie Actor's Leap Year Safety Rule

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 21 (AP)—One of Hollywood's most eligible males offers this advice on how to elude designing females in this leap year: Run!

Handing out this advice is Rock Hudson, tall, dark-haired actor. He is the latest to cause a big noise among the bobbysoxers. In his two years in Hollywood, he has squired a good number of glamor girls and he would like to continue his single ways.

"I'm 26," he said. "I don't think I'd like to get married until I'm 30."

Leap year or not, there are girls who would like to thwart his long-range planning, he said.

"I can always feel it coming on," he said. "I have several dates with a girl and then she starts to get serious. She starts to work me into a corner. That's when I use my strategy. I run.

Hudson came close to marriage once during his Hollywood career. He and Vera-Ellen decided they would wed and even set the date for the event. It was cancelled by mutual agreement.

Too Much Strain

"Now I don't believe I would marry an actress," he declared. "It places too much strain on a marriage. For one thing, I want to be the breadwinner in the family. I wouldn't want my wife footing any of the bills.

"That was one of the reasons Vera and I broke it up. She was making 10 times the salary I was."

He further illustrated with one of his current dates, Marilyn Maxwell: "She's just finishing up a picture and I'm just starting one. She'll be going out on a tour next, and as soon as she gets back, I'll be going out on one. We seldom have the time to see each other."

Hudson is currently the fair-haired boy at Universay-International. He gets his first star billing in "Bend of the River," but it was the premier of that picture that put him in solid with his studio bosses. He spent a week touring Oregon for the film, and he got the cheers of the younger set wherever he went.

RUNAWAY BRIDE—Lois Weiland (left) and her sister, Mrs. June Smith, return to Pittsburgh after Miss Weiland ran away on her wedding day. She says she feels sorry for her bridegroom-to-be, Edward Wiegand, but is definite that "the whole thing's off." In Chicago, Wiegand said he'd try to get her to accept again.

Millbrook W.A. Bale Ready

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21 (ENS)—The Women's Auxiliary of St. Thomas Anglican Church met on Monday evening at the home of Mrs. H. A. Turner with a good attendance. Mrs. Reginald Fallis led in a prayer in memory of the King and a brief silence was observed. This was followed by the W.A. litany, the scripture reading given by Mrs. J. W. Hilton, and the creed repeated in unison. Miss Rose McNamara read the minutes and called the roll in place of the secretary, Miss M. Collins, who is ill in hospital.

The Dorcas secretary, Mrs. Hilton, reported that a number of things for the bale, which includes an outfit of clothing for a 12-year-old boy in an Indian residential school in the west, had already been procured. Miss Ellen Kent, reporting for the quilters, said three quilts were now ready for the bale.

Mrs. T. A. Campbell, prayer partner, read an interesting letter she had received from Miss E. Whelpley, who is stationed at Prince Albert, Sask. Miss Whelpley works for the Sunday school by post, which at the present time has 6,605 members.

Attention was called to the fact that this year the Women's World Day of Prayer is being held in Grace Presbyterian Church on February 29.

Mrs. Turner gave an interesting talk on the chapter of the study book on Latin America which had as its title "Into the Church." Mrs. Fallis read a letter from Toronto concerning women becoming members of the synod.

The meeting closed with prayer. Mrs. A. A. Chote and Mrs. Reginald Fallis were supper hostesses for the refreshments which followed.

Guest speaker was Mr. James Wharry of the Quaker Oats Company whose topic was "Just Fathers". He described in a humorous way the life of a father from the birth of his child until it is 21, but left with the audience some hints on how to be a proud father, and an understanding one. He was thanked by Mr. Charles Huffman.

A comic skit titled "European Quartette" was presented by Messrs. Art Malby, A. McGregor, C. Murkar, Les Reichardt and Chas. Spearin.

Mr. Quirt McKinney took over for singing and a half hour was enjoyed in this way. Afterward Mr. R. J. Bolton played back the recording he had made. Appreciation to Mr. McKinney was expressed by Mr. Ward Smith.

Announcement was made of the Home and School Council meeting March 19th when Mr. Donald Graham, director of education in Forest Hill Village, will speak. There will be an "open school" on March 25th and nomination papers will be handed out at that time.

Miss M. Mutton's class won the attendance prize.

FUNNY BUSINESS -- By Hershberger

"I'm always glad to help anyone out of work—here's a can of dog food!

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Packaged Mixes Can Help Why Not Be Individualist?

I'm a Brady fan. Doc Brady that is—not Jim(I'm not that old).

Doc Brady believes in eating things in their natural state as far as possible.

Now I know you don't expect me to tell you how to use boxed and ready-made desserts. It says that on the package—"Mix and Stir". This is a "Homemade Ice Cream Column."

My self-appointed business is to teach you how to get the best out of the food you eat. For, my pets, it's better for you to eat fresh foods while they are fresh—not when they are dried and packaged. We should do what the animals do—forage for our food. Ever see the baker's horse reach up to an overhanging tree branch and nibble off some of the succulent leaves? His two forefeet up on the sidewalk always amuse me.

We can't go to quite such lengths, but we can remember that packaged mixes may be a help in time of stress, but when you really want your cooking to express yourself you want to start from the beginning.

Make your own ice cream. Not having a mechanical refrigerator will not stop you. In dear old February in dear old Canada everybody can have ice cream. I have two bee-yew-tiful recipes that will make more ice cream than you pay 45 or 47 cents for at the store, and that will inflate your ego.

Strawberry Fluff Freeze

Into a large bowl put 1 package of fresh frozen strawberries (or raspberries) and ½ cup sugar. (If fresh strawberries are used for this in June use 1¼ cups sugar.) Add 1 unbeaten egg white and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Beat 10 minutes or until stiff. Fold into this mixture 1 cup of whipping cream which has been beaten until fairly stiff. Add a little bright red coloring. Freeze in large freezer tray, or pack into a container for which you have an overlapping cover—filling it only three-quarters full to allow for freezing expansion—and bury in the snow outside. It will freeze in freezing tray in 5 or 6 hours. Do not stir.

Peanut Brittle Ice Cream

One cup rich milk, ½ cup sugar, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup whipping cream, 1 tablespoon vanilla, 1 cup crushed peanut brittle or 1 cup toasted and chopped nuts. Scald the milk and stir into it the sugar, salt and flour thoroughly mixed together dry. Stir over low heat until it boils, then let boil 1 minute, stirring. Cool. Pour into freezing tray and freeze until it is a soft mush. Whip until barely stiff the whipping cream and add vanilla to it. Scrape the partially frozen mixture into a large bowl and beat with rotary beater until smooth. Fold in whipped cream. Return to freezer tray and freeze until firm, stirring 3 times during first hour of freezing. This may be made by freezing buried in the snow but must be dug out to be stirred at least once.

Dear Mary Moore: I was wondering if you could help me . . . my cakes are always flat as pancakes . . . I follow recipes carefully but no success. One lady told me to double the baking powder but still no luck . . . my arm gets tired beating . . . my husband beat the batter for me but still no luck. My pies seem to turn out very well, so I don't think it is my oven . . . Mrs. A. J. V.

ANSWER: It must be old baking powder that is your trouble. Buy fresh baking powder—in a small can—from a large store where turnover is constant. If this does not correct your trouble I will give you a recipe giving specific details for mixing by folding—to incorporate as much air in the batter as possible. Excessive beating does not always mean a light cake. I'd like to know how you make out.

Impressed by Talk On Bolivia

The Woman's Association of Grace United Church met Tuesday evening. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. M. Mitchells' group and she also convened the program. Opening prayer and a reading in tribute to the late King George VI were given by Mrs. W. H. Gerow. Mrs. Norman Hughes was guest soloist and sang "On wings of Prayer". She was accompanied by Miss Phyllis Kidd who loaned her services as pianist for the evening. Scripture read by Mrs. B. Walker was on the Ten Commandments. Members were deeply impressed by the address of Miss Mary Haddow who told of her experiences in Bolivia while serving as a missionary nurse. Miss Haddow was born in Bolivia where her father was a missionary preacher for the Baptist Church. She is presently spending a furlough with her mother in Peterborough. She painted a vivid picture of a people who still believe in witch doctors making her work the more difficult. She was thanked by Mrs. R. Knight and the Rev. E. W. Rowland also expressed appreciation in his brief address of encouragement to the ladies of the W. A. Mrs. Eric McKinstry presided for business. May 7th was set for the spring tea. The first play to be produced by the members will be shown on March 12 and 13. A home baking sale will be held on March 1st at the market hall and donations will be taken by Mrs. McKinstry, Mrs. A. Tripp and Mrs. Thos. Goudy. Financial aid is to be given the Trail Ranger organization of the church. After the benediction by Mr. Rowland a social hour was spent around the tea table decorated in Valentine motif. Refreshments were served by Mrs. J. Wasik, Mrs. G. Ireland, Mrs. Knight, Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Mitchell and Mrs. Gerow.

EDITH CARLETON CHAPTER

Miss Adele Miller, 451 Hillcrest Ave., opened her home to members of the Edith Carleton Chapter, Tuesday evening. Miss Mary McRae, regent, called the meeting to order. After the chapter's standard was brought forward, an affirmation of loyalty to Queen Elizabeth II was made by the ten members present.

Miss McRae welcomed two guests, Miss Mary Medd, regent of the Municipal Chapter, and Miss Donna Bristow. Announcement of the Municipal annual dinner, being held at the Y.W.C.A. on March 27, was made, and members were urged to attend.

Nominations for councillor to the National Chapter and Provincial Chapter were made, Mrs. C. M. Scott and Mrs. W. G. Hall respectively. Ways of raising funds were discussed.

Upon adjournment of the regular meeting, the regent opened the annual meeting, and reports of the various committees were read by conveners.

After elections for officers, Miss Medd read the new slate, as follows:

Regent, Miss Mary McRae; 1st vice-regent, Mrs. G. Donaldson; 2nd vice-regent, Miss Joan Stock; secretary, Miss Helen Watson; treasurer, Mrs. C. Stevenson; educational secretary, Miss Irene Nichols; Echoes secretary, Mrs. R. Mounce; standard-bearer, Miss Adele Miller.

Miss Medd wished the officers every success and expressed the gratitude of the members to Miss McRae for untiring efforts during her past term as regent, and also said how much she would be missed when the time came for her to take up residence in Toronto.

In her remarks, Miss Medd said that the I.O.D.E. is a service organization, and not a social club, and discussed the six high aims of the order—patriotism, unity, organization, study and commemoration, and care and help. She also recommended that the members have a drive for new members to bring their number up to 30 if possible.

Mrs. Miller, assisted by her daughter, then served delicious refreshments.

Next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. G. Donaldson, Hunter St.

What's Right?

In conversation with another person, your wife describes as "about 50 miles" a distance you think isn't over 40.

WRONG: Correct her, explaining that she never gets distances correct.

RIGHT: Let it pass if it isn't important. If it is, say something like: "I don't believe it is quite that far. It seems to me it is nearer 40 miles."

Refreshments were served to the large crowd by Mrs. DeNoble and her committee.

KIWANI QUEENS in gay mood posed for the camera just before the opening of "Manny's Minstrel Show," the feature entertainment of the Cupid Ball at the Kawartha Country Club Wednesday evening. Standing (left to right) are Mrs. Reichardt, Mrs. Walter Rowell, who was in charge of arrangements for the entire evening, and Mrs. J. A. McKone, and in front are Mrs. George Cheatle, "Manny" of the show, and Mrs. Harold Rehill.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Kiwanians And Queens Go Gay At Costume Party

Getting into a freakish costume is just the same as being under a magic spell. So when Kiwanis and their Queens get dressed for the yearly costume party they forget their staid business-like and housewifely manners and really "let down their hair."

A fiesta-like atmosphere was indicated from the beginning of Wednesday evening in homes throughout the city as costumes owned or borrowed were assembled, and the gaudier they looked the better they suited. By the time of arrival at the Cupid Ball, at the Kawartha Country Club, everyone was in gay spirit and continued so throughout the evening.

The Queens entertained their husbands first with a splendid minstrel show. The star was undoubtedly Mrs. Ben Collis, whose fine showmanship was climaxed with her saxophone solos. (Even bandleader Jim Byrne was fooled by her performance and had thought of hiring the lady until someone told the secret—the music came from Mr. Collis' saxophone hidden behind the piano).

Mrs. George Cheatle, who arranged the show, with assistance of Mrs. Louis Zacks in directing and putting new words to some of the songs, took the name of "Manny" and Mrs. Collis was "Chloe." These two put forth some sparkling repartee with action to match. More jokes and stories, mostly on Kiwanians, and mostly fictitious, were told by other members of the minstrel chorus, interpersed with songs, such as "Shortnin' Bread," "Dark Town Strutter's Ball," "Down Yonder," etc. Mrs. A. E. Denure who assisted at the piano with Mrs. D. J. Fitzgerald, came forward at the last and sang the "Missouri Waltz" beautifully. She followed with "Nelly Bly" to satisfy the crowd. Mrs. Charles Hurst was the "white lady" in the crowd and "dragged out" the gossip stories from the "colored" ladies as well as introducing the numbers in lyrical style.

The costumed guests paraded about the club in a grand march during which three judges endeavoured to choose the best costumes. They saw heads with unusually large ears and noses, figures in baggy pants and others in tight pants which weren't too trustworthy, Oriental ladies, pigtailed men, but they finally picked Mrs. Wm. Garner, dressed like a page of the Sherwood Forest, and Les Reichhardt, dressed like some type of Mongolian with his face constrained to match by the new device of a nylon stocking cap.

Mrs. Garner and Mr. Reichardt won nice prizes and there were also prizes for the novelty dances. Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Hamilton won the anniversary waltz, and Mrs. Cheatle and Ken Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Ed. DeNure won spot dances.

Dancing was interrupted at 11.30 to enjoy a delicious buffet luncheon.

Mrs. Walter Howell, wife of the Kiwanis Club, president of this year, was in charge of the party. She was assisted by Mrs. Reichardt in charge of the red heart tickets, written in white ink, Mrs. Bob Bastable, decorations in the club, Mrs. Rufus Payne, prizes, and Mrs. Cheatle, the stage show.

At the Immaculate Conception Church the Rev. R. J. Greenan united in marriage Dorothy Pearl, daughter of Mrs. Crough and the late Clarence Crough, and Paul Joseph O'Brien, son of Mr. and Mrs. John V. O'Brien of Douro.

The bride was gowned in white slipper satin and Chantilly lace and wore a fingertip veil of silk illusion and lace caught to a tiara of seed pearls. Her bouquet was red roses. Miss Thelma O'Brien as bridesmaid was in blue velvet dress with matching mittens and hat and she carried Johanna Hill roses.

The groom was attended by his brother Jack O'Brien.

Music was by organist Mrs. Cyril O'Donnell and Mrs. D. Campanaro sang during the mass and signing of the register.

A reception was held at the bride's home in Ennismore, following which the couple went to Fort Erie and Buffalo. They will live in Douro.

Sit Tight And Stop Nagging To Philandering Husband

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I were engaged when I was 16, but delayed marrying until he was discharged from service six years ago. We have two children. He has made me the happiest girl in the world.

Now I'm 27 and he's 29. I've always trusted him and my faith was justified until six months ago when he began running around with another woman. She is married and is cheating on her husband. My husband admits the affair but says he would never leave me or the children for this other woman. When he tries to break off with her, she chases after him. Several people who know of the affair have advised me to leave him, but I can't. I couldn't live without him, and for the children's sake I feel I should stay.

I keep nagging him about this woman and he's getting pretty disgusted with me and pleads with me not to argue about it; when the time comes he'll leave her. What can I do?

CONNIE

ANSWER: Hard as the advice is to take, there's nothing you can do except sit tight, stop nagging, and continue praying for the end of this sordid affair. When your husband comes to his senses, which will probably be soon, he'll be thoroughly ashamed of himself for yielding to the blandishments of a cheap, tawdry woman. You will everlastingly have one advantage over him: you have kept your self-respect while he has lost his.

What About Her Husband?

Since so many people know of this affair and are so free with advice to you, doesn't anyone pass the information on to the wronged husband? When the news gets to him, he may do something to bring his wife home, though why he should want her I couldn't say.

You are well aware of the drawbacks to a separation from your husband: living without the man you love and depriving your children of a father. Since this future doesn't appeal to you, you have no recourse but to make the best of a situation until it is changed. Nagging will not achieve that change! Stop mentioning either the affair or the woman to your husband; he'll be so flabbergasted he may forget her entirely. Focus your attention on your fine young sons. In caring for them you'll find ease from your heartache, and in prayer you have a consolation to carry you through these bitter days.

DEAR MISS DIX: The woman I love is hurt by remarks I have made, such as asking her why she makes no attempt to interest herself in the things I do pertaining to business, etc. She claims if I tell her her faults now, what will I do later, etc. Am I wrong to presume that a wife should be willing to share her husband's problems? ARTHUR G.

ANSWER: Your fiancee is a remarkably thin-skinned woman; marriage to her will be a continuous round of soothed hurt feelings. You are perfectly right in wanting, as a wife, a woman who will be a helpmate and companion. What she wants is to be a pampered darling with not a care in the world. Better find a girl with a little more backbone. You may think you're broken hearted now, but it's much better to be hurt before marriage than after.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My boy friend comes to see me almost every night but never has anything to say. He just sits and waits for someone else to do the talking. I am 16 and he is 17. JUNE

ANSWER: Since you are both in high school, he comes to see you entirely too often. Don't you both have homework and studying to do? You could use a little more attention to your schoolwork, June, so why not spend more time at it?

If your friend only calls two or three times a week he'll have more to say. Since he is apparently the strong, silent type, he depends upon you to set the conversational ball rolling. This you can do by opening a discussion on sports, school activities, current movies, local events. When you find a topic that particularly interests him, such as his favorite sport, let him do the talking, with an occasional encouraging question from you. His is a difficult type to handle, but it is usually worth the effort.

Buckhorn WI Hears Lecture

BUCKHORN, Feb. 21—Buckhorn W.I. met at the home of Mrs. N. Ross Tuesday evening. A letter was read from Mrs. Purcell concerning a memorial to be placed in the Peace Garden for Mrs. Watt. Miss Noble wrote concerning the Girls' Work.

Thank you letters were received from many who had received fruit while ill.

Miss M. Nicholls gave a report on the Flower and Fruit Fund.

Mrs. W. Pearson, convener for Education then took charge of the meeting.

Mrs. McKenty gave a reading, "Why he was not promoted."

Mrs. W. Pearson gave a talk on art. She had copies of two pictures to emphasize her points. "The Last Supper" painted by Leonardo de Vinci, and the "Head of Christ" painted by Warner L. Sallman during this century. She compared them in many ways.

A quiz on "Current Events" closed the program after which lunch was served by the hostess and her assistants.

What's Right?

At a morning coffee or afternoon tea you find yourself "stuck" with one guest and you would really like to get around and speak to the other guests.

WRONG: Feel there is nothing you can about the situation.

RIGHT: Say something like: "Oh there's Mrs. Smith. I want to go over and say 'Hello' to her." Once you get away you can move around from one group to another.

Young Women Find Jobs Scarce

TORONTO, Feb. 21 (CP)—Jobs for young women are scarce in the Toronto area for the first time in years, the 79th annual meeting of the metropolitan area Young Women's Christian [illegible] was told Wednesday night.

Eva Coon, executive director, said in her annual report:

"Jobs for young women in our age group are no longer so plentiful or so quickly obtainable as they were a year ago. Now the demand is for skilled workers with good educational background. Girls and women who are not fully qualified, who left school early and who have personality problems which make it difficult for them to adjust in the average job setting are not finding employment with anything like the ease with which they did a few years ago."

The organization continued to be concerned about scarcity of suitable living accommodation at prices within girls' reach.

"For young single girls there is no scarcity of rooms, but the cost of most rooms is much beyond their means."

March 1 Increase On Freight Rates

OTTAWA, Feb. 21—(CP)—The railways are planning to increase their low "transcontinental" rates between Eastern Canada and the West Coast, it was learned today.

The increase of 4½ per cent is to go into effect March 1.

The size of the hoist is the same as that authorized for other rates by the Board of Transport Commissioners late in January. Those increases went into effect Feb. 11.

The transcontinental rates, which are at a low level to meet competition, do not need a prior authorization from the board for increases within their ceilings. The railways have filed the higher rates to take effect March 1 automatically.

The increases will have an automatic effect, too, on some rates between Alberta and the east, which are tied to the transcontinental rates.

By legislation at the last session of Parliament, the Alberta-Eastern Canada charges were limited to a maximum of one and one-third the amount of the British Columbia-Eastern Canada tolls.

The transcontinental rates cover a fairly wide variety of articles of the type that could be carried in ships around the Panama Canal route. Canned goods, steel and automobiles are some of the major items in the traffic, which amounts to several million dollars a year.

Pusan, World's Busiest Port UN's Arms Gateway to Korea

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

PUSAN, Korea. —(NEA)—As the tempo of the fighting at the front decreased in the past few months, the tempo of activity at this main supply point for the Korean theatre has steadily increased.

Today Pusan is the busiest port in the world. In the jammed waterfront area, thousands of Korean workers swarm over the scores of ships tied up to the docks, unloading their cargo of war materials directly on to trains for shipment to advanced divisions or to jammed supply points a little above Pusan.

Out in the harbor, additional ships are either impatiently waiting to move into a vacated dock or are being unloaded by hundreds of ancient Korean barges. Up the way, apart from the main dock area, ships are unloading thousands of tons of all kinds of ammunition.

It's a place where feverish activity goes on seven days a week, and at night, too, under glaring lights. If total tonnage figures could be revealed they would stagger the imagination. And new docks to increase it are under construction.

Barbed Wire

Already enough barbed wire has come through Pusan to make a double apron fence completely around Canada. Enough sand bags have been brought in to build a wall two feet thick and four feet high across the wide waist of the Korean peninsula.

The boss of this whole fantastic operation is Brig. Gen. Paul F. Yount, a round-faced, smiling man who at any one moment can tell you exactly how many ships are in the harbor, the state of their unloading and how many ships are one day out of the port.

The concept of one major command handling all the supply problems for a complete, major theatre of war is new, having been tested only briefly during World War II. In Yount's opinion it's working. He says:

"This arrangement gives us a blank voucher for everything we need. We do not have to go around with a tin cup begging for supplies and equipment. In the overall picture we are getting all we want. And I think the forward commanders will bear me out in my claim that we are satisfying their needs."

No Supply Shortage

According to Yount, the items in short supply for the forces in Korea are scarcely worth mentioning. Some standard sizes of tires have been scarce along with the materials for patching tubes. But the backlog on everything else has been steadily building up.

Yount's operation includes control of all Korean railroads. Two main lines, one up the east coast and the other up the centre of the peninsula, carry the great bulk of all cargo going to UN forces. Even the trucks issued to advance units are taken up by train. When they are driven up, they need a complete overhaul by the time they arrive, the Koreans roads are so bad.

The rail beds and Korean equipment are in excellent shape, Young claims. A fleet of 35 diesel engines has greatly improved the efficiency of the operation.

One of the big lessons of Korea, as far as a unified logistical command goes, Yount believes, has been the efficient use of native labor. Classes have been organized for officers and men who work with Korean labor. They learn the Korean language and the best methods of dealing with Korean help.

Contract Basis

The policy of the handling of Korean workers has been completely revamped in the last few months. Instad of hiring individual workers, specfiic jobs are let out on competitive contract to Korean firms. Thus Korean companies are doing all of the hiring, firing and direct supervising. The result is more work out of each man and a generally cheaper price for the job, compared to when the Army hired the workers individually.

And from the point of view of the Korean workers it is proving more satisfactory. On the Army payroll they used to average 85 cents a day. Now many of them make much more than that under an incentive plan set up by their Korean bosses.

The biggest group of items being shipped into Pusan includes petroleum supplies for the trucks, planes and oil stoves of UN forces. It is estimated that enough oil stoves have been sent to the front this Winter to provide one for every four soldiers.

Other quartermaster supplies are next, with ordnance equipment third in tonnage. In addition to keeping the Eighth Army in action, the port handles thousands of tons of relief supplies consigned to the United Nations Civil Assistance Command, Korea.

TWICE AROUND could go the barbed wire that has come through the arms entry port of Pusan. Here a shipment is examined.

PUSAN PIPE, sported by this Korean workman, Kim Kwon, dangles a tobacco pouch from the steam. He's been on the job seven days a week, for 17 months straight—one of the army of natives at the busy port.

Encouraging Sign

LONDON (CP).—While erecting an advertising sign on a moving picture theatre here a workman fell 20 feet, suffering multiple injuries. The sign was to advertise the picture: "Something to Live For."

Accuse Widow Of Poisoning 11 Victims

POITIERS, France, Feb. 21—(AP)—Mme. Marie Besnard, a 54-year-old widow accused of dispatching 11 victims with poison in the last 25 years, went on trial today for murder.

Her court session had advance billing as one of the most sensational in France since "Bluebeard" Henri Desire Landru was convicted in 1921 of taking an equal toll of lady loves.

The state charges that the stout, bespectacled Mme. Besnard counted her parents and two husbands among her victims. She has denied all murder charges and has six lawyers to defend her.

100 Witnesses

The trial in the Justice Palace where Joan of Arc was questioned five centuries ago by a committee of bishops, is expected to last a week. Some 100 witnesses are to be heard.

In a preview appearance Wednesday, to answer a forgery charge, Mme. Besnard pouted when the judge insisted she give straight answers.

"Some people call you vicious and a liar. Other testimony shows you were a decent, well-behaved woman without blame. What have you to say?" he asked.

The widow replied: "I'm not a solid piece of gold".

She was found guilty of forging a postal cheque for about $26 to defraud an old, illiterate aunt. The court let her off with a $34 fine and suspended two-year sentence—and set the stage for the murder charges.

Of seven witnesses called in the forgery trial, none had a bad word for her. It was said she had a reputation for piety and charity.

75 Tons Paper Collected In City

Peterborough citizens backed the Peterborough Boy Scout Association drive Tuesday night with more than 75 tons of waste paper. A few collections were made Wednesday to places where papers were missed on Tuesday.

For the first time in the past two years the association has sold the paper to a Peterborough firm. Instead of loading freight cars for shipping to Toronto or other centres, the Scouts, fathers and group committeemen trucked the paper to the company's buildings in the southend.

"The bundles were neater than on previous drives," said Peter Moore, director, adding "They were tied more neatly in most places and it helped us considering we had further to take the loads this time."

The money derived from the sale of the paper and cardboard will be used this time for the Scouts and Cubs uniforms. In previous drives the money has been divided between the groups and the association for scouting activities such as summer camp.

"In most cities," said Mr. Moore, "the Scout associations plan financial campaigns but the Peterborough association relies upon the paper drives for funds."

The drive was conducted similarly to other paper collections. A fleet of 25 trucks was donated by various merchants and factories; a number of these were used again on Wednesday for the missed bundles. More than 275 Scouts, Cubs and fathers worked on the trucks loading.

The next drive will likely be held in April or May.

Mission Circle Hears Returned Missionary

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21 (ENS)—Miss Jean Stewart, recently returned from China, was the guest of the Golden Links Mission Circle at their meeting held Tuesday night in the parsonage. Miss Stewart was the circle's special overseas missionary and it is seven years since, when on a former furlough, she last visited a circle meeting. She renewed old acquaintances and spoke of her work in China. Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, the president, was in the chair and introduced Miss Stewart, who is a personal friend of hers of long standing.

The worship service, which had as its theme "We believe in brotherhood," was conducted by Mrs. George Sedgewick. Mrs. Henry Gray gave the scripture reading and Mrs. Lawrence Winslow a vocal solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss E. Hetherington. The Rev. Margaret Butler closed the worship period with prayer.

Circle members were asked to bring good used toys to be put in the bale. A letter was read asking the president and circle members to attend a women's meeting in Knox Church on Sunday afternoon when Mis Harriet Christie will tell in detail of the plans for the new United Church Training School.

There was an attendance of 46 at Tuesday night's meeting including some W.M.S. members who came especially to meet Miss Stewart.

Assisting Mrs. Butler, the hostess, in serving refreshments, were Mrs. David Lunn and the February supper hostesses, Miss Estella Hetherington, Mrs. Homer Ouellette, Miss Betty Lunn and Mrs. Bruce Ingham.

March 1 Increase On Freight Rates

OTTAWA, Feb. 21—(CP)—The railways are planning to increase their low "transcontinental" rates between Eastern Canada and the West Coast, it was learned today.

The increase of 4½ per cent is to go into effect March 1.

The size of the hoist is the same as that authorized for other rates by the Board of Transport Commissioners late in January. Those increases went into effect Feb. 11.

The transcontinental rates, which are at a low level to meet competition, do not need a prior authorization from the board for increases within their ceilings. The railways have filed the higher rates to take effect March 1 automatically.

The increases will have an automatic effect, too, on some rates between Alberta and the east, which are tied to the transcontinental rates.

By legislation at the last session of Parliament, the Alberta-Eastern Canada charges were limited to a maximum of one and one-third the amount of the British Columbia-Eastern Canada tolls.

The transcontinental rates cover a fairly wide variety of articles of the type that could be carried in ships around the Panama Canal route. Canned goods, steel and automobiles are some of the major items in the traffic, which amounts to several million dollars a year.

Pusan, World's Busiest Port UN's Arms Gateway to Korea

By DOUGLAS LARSEN

PUSAN, Korea. —(NEA)—As the tempo of the fighting at the front decreased in the past few months, the tempo of activity at this main supply point for the Korean theatre has steadily increased.

Today Pusan is the busiest port in the world. In the jammed waterfront area, thousands of Korean workers swarm over the scores of ships tied up to the docks, unloading their cargo of war materials directly on to trains for shipment to advanced divisions or to jammed supply points a little above Pusan.

Out in the harbor, additional ships are either impatiently waiting to move into a vacated dock or are being unloaded by hundreds of ancient Korean barges. Up the way, apart from the main dock area, ships are unloading thousands of tons of all kinds of ammunition.

It's a place where feverish activity goes on seven days a week, and at night, too, under glaring lights. If total tonnage figures could be revealed they would stagger the imagination. And new docks to increase it are under construction.

Barbed Wire

Already enough barbed wire has come through Pusan to make a double apron fence completely around Canada. Enough sand bags have been brought in to build a wall two feet thick and four feet high across the wide waist of the Korean peninsula.

The boss of this whole fantastic operation is Brig. Gen. Paul F. Yount, a round-faced, smiling man who at any one moment can tell you exactly how many ships are in the harbor, the state of their unloading and how many ships are one day out of the port.

The concept of one major command handling all the supply problems for a complete, major theatre of war is new, having been tested only briefly during World War II. In Yount's opinion it's working. He says:

"This arrangement gives us a blank voucher for everything we need. We do not have to go around with a tin cup begging for supplies and equipment. In the overall picture we are getting all we want. And I think the forward commanders will bear me out in my claim that we are satisfying their needs."

No Supply Shortage

According to Yount, the items in short supply for the forces in Korea are scarcely worth mentioning. Some standard sizes of tires have been scarce along with the materials for patching tubes. But the backlog on everything else has been steadily building up.

Yount's operation includes control of all Korean railroads. Two main lines, one up the east coast and the other up the centre of the peninsula, carry the great bulk of all cargo going to UN forces. Even the trucks issued to advance units are taken up by train. When they are driven up, they need a complete overhaul by the time they arrive, the Koreans roads are so bad.

The rail beds and Korean equipment are in excellent shape, Young claims. A fleet of 35 diesel engines has greatly improved the efficiency of the operation.

One of the big lessons of Korea, as far as a unified logistical command goes, Yount believes, has been the efficient use of native labor. Classes have been organized for officers and men who work with Korean labor. They learn the Korean language and the best methods of dealing with Korean help.

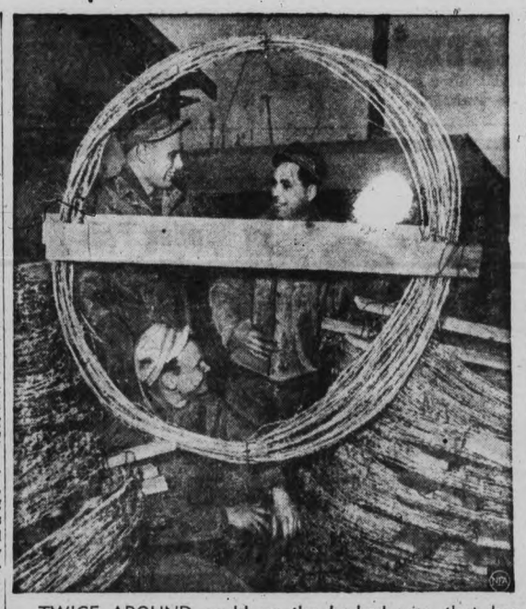
Contract Basis

The policy of the handling of Korean workers has been completely revamped in the last few months. Instad of hiring individual workers, specfiic jobs are let out on competitive contract to Korean firms. Thus Korean companies are doing all of the hiring, firing and direct supervising. The result is more work out of each man and a generally cheaper price for the job, compared to when the Army hired the workers individually.

And from the point of view of the Korean workers it is proving more satisfactory. On the Army payroll they used to average 85 cents a day. Now many of them make much more than that under an incentive plan set up by their Korean bosses.

The biggest group of items being shipped into Pusan includes petroleum supplies for the trucks, planes and oil stoves of UN forces. It is estimated that enough oil stoves have been sent to the front this Winter to provide one for every four soldiers.

Other quartermaster supplies are next, with ordnance equipment third in tonnage. In addition to keeping the Eighth Army in action, the port handles thousands of tons of relief supplies consigned to the United Nations Civil Assistance Command, Korea.



TWICE AROUND could go the barbed wire that has come through the arms entry port of Pusan. Here a shipment is examined.

PUSAN PIPE, sported by this Korean workman, Kim Kwon, dangles a tobacco pouch from the steam. He's been on the job seven days a week, for 17 months straight—one of the army of natives at the busy port.

Accuse Widow Of Poisoning 11 Victims

POITIERS, France, Feb. 21—(AP)—Mme. Marie Besnard, a 54-year-old widow accused of dispatching 11 victims with poison in the last 25 years, went on trial today for murder.

Her court session had advance billing as one of the most sensational in France since "Bluebeard" Henri Desire Landru was convicted in 1921 of taking an equal toll of lady loves.

The state charges that the stout, bespectacled Mme. Besnard counted her parents and two husbands among her victims. She has denied all murder charges and has six lawyers to defend her.

100 Witnesses

The trial in the Justice Palace where Joan of Arc was questioned five centuries ago by a committee of bishops, is expected to last a week. Some 100 witnesses are to be heard.

In a preview appearance Wednesday, to answer a forgery charge, Mme. Besnard pouted when the judge insisted she give straight answers.

"Some people call you vicious and a liar. Other testimony shows you were a decent, well-behaved woman without blame. What have you to say?" he asked.

The widow replied: "I'm not a solid piece of gold".

She was found guilty of forging a postal cheque for about $26 to defraud an old, illiterate aunt. The court let her off with a $34 fine and suspended two-year sentence—and set the stage for the murder charges.

Of seven witnesses called in the forgery trial, none had a bad word for her. It was said she had a reputation for piety and charity.

75 Tons Paper Collected In City

Peterborough citizens backed the Peterborough Boy Scout Association drive Tuesday night with more than 75 tons of waste paper. A few collections were made Wednesday to places where papers were missed on Tuesday.

For the first time in the past two years the association has sold the paper to a Peterborough firm. Instead of loading freight cars for shipping to Toronto or other centres, the Scouts, fathers and group committeemen trucked the paper to the company's buildings in the southend.

"The bundles were neater than on previous drives," said Peter Moore, director, adding "They were tied more neatly in most places and it helped us considering we had further to take the loads this time."

The money derived from the sale of the paper and cardboard will be used this time for the Scouts and Cubs uniforms. In previous drives the money has been divided between the groups and the association for scouting activities such as summer camp.

"In most cities," said Mr. Moore, "the Scout associations plan financial campaigns but the Peterborough association relies upon the paper drives for funds."

The drive was conducted similarly to other paper collections. A fleet of 25 trucks was donated by various merchants and factories; a number of these were used again on Wednesday for the missed bundles. More than 275 Scouts, Cubs and fathers worked on the trucks loading.

The next drive will likely be held in April or May.

Mission Circle Hears Returned Missionary

MILLBROOK, Feb. 21 (ENS)—Miss Jean Stewart, recently returned from China, was the guest of the Golden Links Mission Circle at their meeting held Tuesday night in the parsonage. Miss Stewart was the circle's special overseas missionary and it is seven years since, when on a former furlough, she last visited a circle meeting. She renewed old acquaintances and spoke of her work in China. Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, the president, was in the chair and introduced Miss Stewart, who is a personal friend of hers of long standing.

The worship service, which had as its theme "We believe in brotherhood," was conducted by Mrs. George Sedgewick. Mrs. Henry Gray gave the scripture reading and Mrs. Lawrence Winslow a vocal solo, accompanied at the piano by Miss E. Hetherington. The Rev. Margaret Butler closed the worship period with prayer.

Circle members were asked to bring good used toys to be put in the bale. A letter was read asking the president and circle members to attend a women's meeting in Knox Church on Sunday afternoon when Mis Harriet Christie will tell in detail of the plans for the new United Church Training School.

There was an attendance of 46 at Tuesday night's meeting including some W.M.S. members who came especially to meet Miss Stewart.

Assisting Mrs. Butler, the hostess, in serving refreshments, were Mrs. David Lunn and the February supper hostesses, Miss Estella Hetherington, Mrs. Homer Ouellette, Miss Betty Lunn and Mrs. Bruce Ingham.

"World Of Brotherhood" Urged By So-Ed Speaker Wm. White, Toronto

"The world should be a world of brotherhood as it is a world of neighborhood."

Nationally known speaker, William White of Toronto, made this statement in a speech at Wednesday night's So-Ed meeting at George St. United Church. The topic of Mr. White's address was: Brotherhood, and his visit to Peterborough was planned as one of the activities of the city's Brotherhood Week observance.

In his appeal for true brotherhood, Mr. White explained that scientific achievement in the field of transportation had drawn the world into a neighborhood. The world has become small, but unfortunately it had not progressed as far in its attitudes in human relations.

Injustice To Man

"It is man's injustice to man that stands in the way of world brotherhood," the speaker explained.

He compared the discrimination and racial prejudices present in the world today to a four-eyed monster, with each of these four eyes standing for the reasons behind discrimination—interests, inertia, ignorance and intolerance.

Brightening his address with illustrative examples, Mr. White said that a great deal of discrimination was motivated by selfish and business interests.

In addition to this, many people claim that they personally are not prejudiced, but plead inability to do any good.

"These people are perhaps guilty of a greater sin, that of omission, than those who profess to be prejudiced," he said.

The third reason for discrimination Mr. White called ignorance and pointed out that this was often caused by people not realizing that everyone despite race, creed or color was making some contribution to civilization.

Go With Majority

The speaker blamed the existence of intolerance on the tendency of people to identify themselves with the majority.

"Individually everyone usually measures up when it comes to tolerance," the speaker said. "However, when such a situation involves a group there is a tendency to fear the opinion of others and consequently use this as an excuse for intolerant attitudes."

"Our observance of brotherhood should not merely last for one week," Mr. White concluded. "We must pledge ourselves to support this ideal and not give it merely lip-service all year-round. It must become a part of our daily lives so that it radiates from us and affects the lives of the people with whom we come in contact."

Mr. White was introduced by Quirt McKinney, former chairman of So-Ed and thanked by William Graff, chairman of So-Ed's speakers' committee.

Lost and Ill-treated Animals Tended By Humane Society

By COLLETTE FERGUSON

Blackie was lost.

Blackie had been wandering around the streets of Peterborough for two days. He was cold and miserable and hungry. But the most unfortunate part of the situation was that Blackie couldn't explain his plight to anyone. Blackie was a dog.

Blackie is only a name and a dog we have used to represent the dozens of unclaimed dogs who wander through the streets of Peterborough every year. Besides, the lack of care which these animals are missing they could become a major problem. They roam through yards and lanes upsetting garbage pails in their search for food and in some cases they are diseased.

There is only one organization in this city and country which has as its sole responsibility the care of lost, diseased and ill-treated animals—the Humane Society.

Operating 20 Years

The Peterborough Humane Society has been operating for the past 20 years.

A lost dog may have one of three futures ahead of it after being picked up by the Humane Society and taken to the dog shelter on the corner of George and Townsend Sts.

The dog will be kept in the shelter for a period of time, during which it may be claimed by his owner or a new home found. If such does not happen it is electrocuted.

In 1951 the Society handled and cared for 1,773 animals. Homes were found for 160 dogs and 229 cats and 1,384 animals were painlessly electrocuted.

If a dog wanders into your house, or is found scrounging in your garbage can, a call to Bruce Menzies, inspector for the Humane Society will bring immediate action. The inspector will even remove skunks that have chosen to visit city homes. Unwanted pets can also be disposed of in the same way.

Much Greater Scope

However the society's work has a much greater scope than taking care of lost, diseased and unwanted animals. In the past year 26 towns and villages and 19 farms within a radius of 65 miles were inspected by the Peterborough society's inspector. Mr. Menzies also inspected 11 fall fairs to check that proper housing quarters and treatment was provided for animals.

Truck loads of animals passing through the city are checked and the necessary steps taken if there is overcrowding or other ill-treatment in evidence.

The Peterborough society has a membership of 60 and all work in the society is voluntary except for the inspector. Money is needed to pay the inspector's salary and operate a truck.

The society is making a public appeal for funds through the Red Cross and Community campaign, March 7-15, so that they are able to carry on their work in the city. In 1951 they received $261 of the total funds collected.

Federal Plans To Aid Health Get New Study

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL,
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 (CP). — A joint Senate-Commons committee likely will be established at the new session of parliament to study possible extension of "free" health services to Canadians.

The speech from the throne to be read at the opening of the session Feb. 28 is expected to forecast establishment of such a committee. It may become known as the National Health Insurance Committee although the thinking of some members of the Federal government has swung away from an insurance plan that would provide all types of medical and health services.

At a Federal-Provincial conference in 1945 the Canadian government offered to pay most of the cost of a multi-million-dollar health insurance program that would provide "free" medical dental and hospital care.

The "free" services would have been financed out of taxation, with some taxes being especially earmarked for social-security expenditures.

Experience in other countries and a study of Canada's particular needs have led to a change in views since 1945.

Bolster Provincial Aid

One federal official recently explained the situation this way:

"We now are thinking in terms of what we can do to help the provinces expand their free health services to the people. We are not thinking in terms of a plan that would provide 'cradle to grave' protection for everyone.

"We are thinking particularly of ways to help the man suddenly confronted with a huge hospital or medical bill that could keep him on the verge of bankruptcy for years. Another gap in our program is the lack of any provision for cases where men are thrown out of employment as a result of illness."

While the federal government has certain thoughts on the question of health services, the official added, it has no firm plans. It is prepared to place the problem in the hands of a committee and to listen to its recommendations.

The committee is expected to be similar to a joint Senate-Commons committee established in 1949 to study old-age security programs. That committee recommended that pensions of $40 a month be paid to all 70 and over, regardless of means. The recommendation was accepted and the plan was put into operation this year.

The health committee probably will be asked to make a thorough study of health insurance plans now in operation in other countries. The directorate of health-insurance studies will be able to provide full information on the plans.

The results of "sickness surveys" in the provinces also will be available this year. The surveys, undertaken to determine the prevalence of sickness in Canada, covered 10,000 families and probably some 40,000 individuals.

Work of the committee conceivably could spread through at least two sessions.

In Canada, health and welfare are matters that fall within the jurisdiction of the provinces. The federal government, for instance, could not inaugurate a national health insurance plan without all provinces agreeing to a constitutional amendment.

The federal government considers its role as one of providing assistance to the provinces to improve their health and welfare services.

In 1948 the federal government launched what then was described as the foundation for a health insurance program. The program provided for a series of grants to the provinces to assist them with hospital construction, health surveys, and the treatment of crippled children, mental cases, tuberculosis, cancer and other ailments.

Present Aid Costs

The grants now amount to more than $35,000,000 a year.

The program provided for hospital grants of approximately $13,000,000 a year for five years from 1948. The government will decide next year whether to continue the hospital-construction grants.

Some of the provinces, notably British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Alberta and Newfoundland, already have different programs of medical and hospital insurance in operation. Some of the other provinces also supply certain medical and health services free.

The federal plan could be aimed at an extension of such services.

BREAK THE LAXATIVE HABIT THIS PROVEN WAY

If you take laxatives regularly, here is how you can stop! This proven plan helps you establish your natural powers of regularity, controlled tests prove.

Stop taking whatever you now take. Instead, every night for one week take two Carter's Little Liver Pills. Second week—one each night. Third week—one every other night. Then nothing! Every day drink eight glasses of water; set a definite time for regularity. This plan was proven in scientifically controlled tests.

How can a laxative break the laxative habit? Because Carter's unblock the lower digestive tract and from then on let it make use of its own natural powers. Further, Carter's contain no habit forming drugs. Break the laxative habit with Carter's . . . be regular naturally.

When worry, overwork, overeating make you irregular temporarily—take Carter's temporarily. Never get the laxative habit.

Get mild, gentle Carter's Little Liver Pills at any drug store. Only 35c. You'll be grateful the rest of your life.

Sioux Relieved On Korean Duty

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 (CP)—The destroyer Sioux, first Canadian warship to complete two tours of duty in Korean waters, has been relieved by the Nootka and is scheduled to arrive at her home base at Esquimalt, B.C., March 6, the navy announced Wednesday.

The Sioux, commanded by Cmdr. Paul D. Taylor of Victoria, was relieved last Wednesday by the Nootka, which had been in the Far East since early last May. In the last 19½ months the Sioux spent all but two either on duty with the United Nations fleet or on passage to or from the war zone.

The Nootka, commanded by Commander R. M. Steele of Rothesya, N.B., sailed from her home base at Halifax Dec. 30 on the 12,600-mile voyage to the Far East. On Feb. 14, the day after her arrival at the Japanese port where Canadian warships are based, she put to sea with other U.N. units on operational duty.

Still in the Korean theatre are the destroyers Cayuga and Athabaskan.

Drop Exports To Canada Causes Worry In Britain

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FEB. 21 (CP)—It seems strange to talk of a slump at a time when British exports are higher than they have ever been before, but the cap fits as far as Anglo-Canadian trade is concerned.

The fall in exports to Canada has Whitehall worried. While British exports to all countries last month totalled £624,000,000, the highest in the history of this trading nation, shipments to Canada again dropped below the 1950-51 level. The latest figure was £8,500,000 compared with an average of £9,600,000 in the fourth quarter of 1951 and an average of £11,400,000 for the whole of 1951.

Officials in touch with trading developments said that the word slump does not seem too strong to describe the present Anglo-Canadian pattern of trade.

No Easy Way

Canada apart, the latest trade statistics give less cause for optimism than some reports have indicated. The high level of exports is encouraging, but is offset by continuing high imports. In January, imports at £357,200,000 were not much short of a record, and it was the excess of imports over exports which started the trouble.

In general, British financial writers reported, the monthly trade returns indicate that Britain is exporting pretty well as much as she can produce and spare, but that unfortunately she must produce and spare more to make ends meet.

There is some hope that import figures will drop sharply soon as a reflection of cuts imposed last November.

Canadian officials in London glean some encouragement from the belief that British exports to Canada have just about hit the bottom, and will start going up again soon. There is, however, a disposition to feel that Canadian enthusiasm for British products is sometimes more durable than the British desire to overcome the admitted difficulties of the Canadian market.

Comeback In Cars

British products faring less successfully than they used to include automobiles, textiles, steel and some engineering products. Manufacturers here hope to make a comeback in cars, despite restrictions on instalment buying, and Canadian officials think there is good ground for optimism.

Textiles, once the principal British export, may never recover. Before the First World War Canadian buyers used to get about 75 per cent of their grey cottons from Lancashire. Now they have laregly switched to United States markets, and Japan is coming.

The price differential between United Kingdom cottons on the one hand and U.S. and Japanese products on the other is sometimes as high as 15 per cent.

3 Gunmen Hide In Bank Loot Vault Of $30,000

Take Germans Into Army

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 22. (AP)—The 14 Atlantic Allies formally endorsed today the creation of a European defence army including German soldiers. The vote was unanimous in a historic full-dress North Atlantic council meeting. By this action the council voted to bring an indefinite number of divisions from the West German republic into a six-country army of 2,000,000 men for defence of western Europe against possible Communist aggression. Now the six nations — France, Germany, Italy, Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg —can move swiftly toward signature of a treaty paving the way for the army.

Ratification by the parliament of each country must take place before recruiting of Germans into the army can begin.

There are still political hurdles to overcome but the N.A.T.O. endorsement represents a triumphs for General Eisenhower, one of the strongest backers of a European army.

Extra Aid For France

This development came on the heels of agreement by the United States to give France an additional $570,000,000 in aid to help fulfil her rearmament program.

The U.S. hopes by this to help the Paris government overcome fears among the French against seeing Germans in military uniform once more. The French approved inclusion of German units in the European army but with qualifications that may delay actual recruiting of German soldiers.

An authoritative source disclosed the decision to give aid to the French just before the council met to take its action on the European army. He emphasized the $570,000,000 figure is not final but is tentatively agreed upon.

Raise Additional Sum

France, in turn, will raise an additional sum estimated at 100,000,000,000 francs to close the gap between what her rearmament plans will cost and what her inflation-stricken economy can afford.

A spokesman said most of the new U.S. assistance will be in the form of procurement contracts outside the U.S., arms, contributions to the infrastructure (supporting network of air bases and communications) and similar measures.

It will not be in the form of direct dollar aid because that would require special Congressional authorization.

Allies and Reds Reject New Compromise Deals

MUNSAN, Korea, Feb. 22. (AP)—Allied and Communist truce negotiators offered each other compromise package deals on troop rotation and ports of entry today. Each side said "No!" But their differences were narrowed to only one port of entry and 5,000 men in the monthly rotation ceiling. Originally the difference was nine ports of entry and 70,000 men.

Once again the U.N. rejected the Reds' nomination of Russia as a member of the neutral inspection commission.

Repercussions of the Communist-led riot which left 69 Koreans dead and 142 wounded in an Allied compound for civilian prisoners are expected in the truce talks on prisoner exchange.

Observers said Red delegates probably will try to use the Koje island incident as a lever to get their way in the delicate negotiations for exchanging prisoners and displaced civilians.

Vice-Admiral C. Turner Joy, Chief Allied negotiator, refused to speculate on what propaganda use the Reds may have of the bloody riot.

Staff officers have been making slow but steady progress on a prisoner exchange plan, but are deadlocked on the key issue of voluntary repatriation.

The Communists have insisted that all prisoners in Allied hands be repatriated regardless of their wishes and have protested U.N. reclassification of about 37,500 as South Koreans.

Observers said the gap on both issues has been narrowed to a point where eventual agreement appears certain.

Steel Strike Been Postponed

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 22 (AP)—The United States will escape a steel strike Saturday but a walkout may come March 23 unless a bitter contract controversy is settled.

Top strategy-makers of the C.I.O. United Steelworkers did as expected Thursday in postponing their strike. They issued this warning:

"We hope that a strike may be averted but the patience of our members is running out."

The union decided to cancel its weekend strike threat in order to give the wage stabilization board more time to recommend a settlement.

The union, headed by Philip Murray, also President of the C.I.O., has been working without a contract since Jan. 1.

New UK Commissioner Slated For Canada

LONDON, Feb. 22 (Reuters) — New British high commissioners for Canada and Australia were announced by the Commonwealth Relations Office here Thursday night.

Sir Alexander Clutterbuck, 55, Britain's high commissioner in Canada since 1946, will be transferred to Australia to succeed the Rt. Hon. E. J. Williams.

Duke Of Windsor Will Visit Paris

LONDON, Feb. 22 (Reuters)—The Duke of Windsor will leave London by train tonight for Paris, it was learned Thursday.

The Duke travelled from New York to attend the funeral of his brother, King George VI, and to comfort his mother, Queen Mary.

He has spent the whole of his visit at Marlborough House, the residence of Queen Mary. He has been seen little in public, apart from his appearance in the funeral procession last Friday.

The Duke's secretary said on Thursday that he is visiting Paris on business. He plans to return to the United States on the Queen Elizabeth in a week.

Aboard the hulk were the 13 survivors who remained when 21 others of the crew of 43 were rescued from it.

The stern was towed more than 100 miles from outside Nantucket lightship. Coast Guard craft accompanied the towing procession.

Fights To Save Girl's Life

Parachute-Jumping Doctor Taken Off Train After SOS

HALIFAX, Feb. 22 —(CP)—A small girl with a ruptured appendix fought for her life in a snowbound fishing village today and an army doctor who parachuted to the scene said he could do little to help.

Capt. James Gilbert of the Army Medical Corps said eight-year-old Marie Mazerolle was still in serious condition although her condition had improved slightly.

The doctor sat throughout the night at the girl's bedside in Port Sapin, 30 miles southeast of Chatham, N.B., and said an operation was impossible because of her condition.

He and two assistants dropped from an air force plane Thursday night, after the doctor was taken from a train at Chatham.

Marie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Prudent Mazerolle, suffered a ruptured apendix when one of the most severe February snow storms to hit the Maritimes in recent years clogged roads and prevented medical aid from reaching her.

Capt. Gilbert said he used penicillin to try to localize the infection. He will stay with the girl until Monday or Tuesday. He said it would not be helpful to attempt airlifting the girl to a hospital.

The air force search and rescue centre here organized the medical drop after hearing that Capt. Gilbert, with the British Parachute Division during the Second World War, had left Halifax by train for Camp Borden, Ont.

His train, the Ocean Limited, stopped at Newcastle, near Chatham. He was picked up at Chatham air force base by an ambulance plane.

Stage Riot In Korea, 70 Killed

Say Battle Red-Led In Civilian Compound, 165 Others Injured

PUSAN, Korea, Feb. 22. — (AP) — Combat-hardened troops of the United States 27th Wolfhound Regiment smashed a Communist-led riot in a Korean civilian prison compound Monday. The flight left 70 dead and 165 wounded.

American authorities said today 750 U.S. troops and 1,500 interned Koreans were involved. The fight last three hours.

Announced American casualties were one killed, one wounded and 22 injured slightly. The other 69 dead and 142 injured were interned Korean civilians.

News of the riot in the Koje Island stockade off South Korea was withheld for four days.

U.S. authorities said the rioters attacked with a vicious array of homemade weapons — steel pickets, blackjacks, iron pipe, metal tent pole spikes, barbed wire flails, wooden clubs, rocks and knives.

About 1,500 of the 5,000 Korean civilians in compound No. 62 on Koje stormed in a screaming mob against the U.S. guards. Authorities said no Communist prisoners-of-war took part in the outbreak.

Red Planned

The Eighth Army said the riot was Communist planned and led.

A South Korean staff officer who accompanied Defence Minister Lee Ki Poong to Koje after the outbreak gave this account:

The riot began with a bitter quarrel between Communist sympathizers in one compound and South Korean loyalists in another compound 100 yards away. The compounds were separated by two barbed-wire fences.

The Red sympathizers began shouting when South Korean personnel went into the second compound at 6 a.m. to screen internees for possible release.

The Red sympathizers attacked when American guards tried to quiet them. The U.S. soldiers fired in self defence.

The interned Korean civilians on Koje rioted against the screening process separating Communists from prisoners with South Korean leanings.

Kojje, 25 miles long and 15 miles wide, is southwest of Pusan. An estimated 116,000 Korean and Chinese prisoners of war and 54,000 Korean civilians are held there in compounds.

U.K. Steel Boss Resigns In Row

LONDON, Feb. 22 (AP). — Steven Hardie, millionaire boss of Britain's nationalized iron and steel corporation, resigned today in a dispute with the Conservative government over proposed increases in the price of steel.

The 65-year-old chief, reputed to be a keen Socialist, was given the job when Clement Attlee's Labor government nationalized steel a year ago. The corporation runs Britain's vast steel industry.

Observers had expected clashes between Hardie and the government when Winston Churchill's Conservatives came to power last October. The Conservatives have said they plan to denationalize steel.

Hardie handed in his resignation in a letter to Supply Minister Duncan Sandys.

He wrote: "The divergence of view between us (over steel prices) is unfortunately such that there is little prospect of reaching that basis of constructive and harmonious working which I had hoped we might attain."

Money For India

BOMBAY, India, Feb. 22 (AP) —World bank president Eugene Black said today he will recommend the bank make a "substantial investment" in India. Black in India examining projects in the government's five year plan to step up food and industrial production, said he was "very favorably impressed" by their progress.

Quake Jars Victoria

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 22. (CP)—A sharp earthquake third in the last two days—jarred this area at 3:40 a.m. EST today. It was stronger and of longer duration than those felt Wednesday and Thursday. There were no reports of damage. Sleeping residents were startled by the jarring shock. Most reports said the shock was accompanied by a "deep rumble."

Anti-T.B. Drug To Be Sold Cheaply Soon

NEW YORK, Feb. 22 (AP). — The most promising anti-tuberculosis drug yet discovered is expected to be on the market by May or June at 25 to 50 cents per daily pill.

It was estimated that costs of treating the disease, if the drug lives up to its early promise, might be reduced to less than $100 a patient. The average cost for treating a case of TB now is about $3,500 a patient.

Tests so far, as one doctor put it, indicated the drug virtually stops TB in its tracks. But doctors emphasized the tests still are in early stages.

At press conferences Thursday, experts told how 190 patients, hopelessly ill with TB, made amazing improvements within a few weeks under the treatment.

Ravenous Apeptites

Fever or 100 to 105 fell to normal. Within a week, the patients —all of whom were emaciated and had refused food—developed ravenous appetites, eating up to 11 eggs for breakfast.

Men and women gained an average of 20 pounds in nine weeks. Some gained up to 95 pounds in that period, then levelled off at normal weight. Coughs got better. In some, TB germs disappeared from the sputum.

None of the patients had responded to present general methods of treatment or drugs, such as streptomycin.

The drug, a chemical related to a B-vitamin with coal tars supplying the raw materials, is called rimifon by one of its developers, Hoffman La Roche, Inc., of Nutley, N.J., and called nydrazid by the other, E. R. Squibb & Sons of New Brunswick, N.J.

The chemical name is isonicotinic acid compound.

Mexico Turns Down U.S. Military Aid

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 22 (AP)—Mexico has turned down U.S. offers of military aid, and both sides have agreed to end discussions on the touchy subject. Observers blamed Communist pressure for

A U.S. mission, which came a month ago and held five sessions with local officials, returned to Washington. It sought a strong Mexican anti-Red declaration in return for aid in building coastal defences and a fast-striking land force.

A foreign office announcement said the talks probably would resume "when the two governments believe it advisable." Political observers took this to mean after the general elections in July, when internal political considerations are less critical.

It was the first refusal of American arms from any Latin American country. Brazil and Ecuador accepted U.S. help.

State Troopers Guard Town

HYDEN, Ky., Feb. 22 (AP) — Dozens of state troopers swarmed into this strikebound coal mining town as a precautionary measure today, when the United Mine Workers resumed their picketting at two nearby pits.

The mines, closed Thursday by the U.M.W.'s first strike in this last non-union stronghold in southeastern Kentucky's rich coal field, made no effort to operate today.

Pickets gathered along the roadsides. No violence was reported.

The U.M.W. is seeking bargaining rights for the 60 men employed at each of the two mines, claiming a majority of them are members. The operators contend the men want to work.

House Burns, 2 Children Lose Lives

Parents Rescue Nine Youngsters, Two Run Back In

NORTH BAY, Feb. 22. (CP) — Two children were burned to death when fire destroyed their home early today at the Cooks Mills settlement, four miles north of North Bay.

The two, Alcide Sauve, four years old today, and his sister Lillian, 9, slipped away from their parents and ran back into their burning home. They were trapped when a can of coal oil exploded.

Their mother, Mrs. Aime Sauve, suffered burns to her face, neck and arms when she tried to brave the flames in an effort to rescue them. Cause of the fire was undetermined.

The fire broke out about 4:30 a.m. when Mr. and Mrs. Sauve and their nine children were in bed in the upper storey of their six-room frame house. The parents roused the children and herded them through the front door.

Ran Back In

On his way out, Mr. Sauve, 41, a day laborer, grabbed an armful of blankets. He placed them on the snow and sat the children upon them.

Lillian complained to her mother of cold feet and apparently tried to go back to her upstairs bedroom to get her shoes.

She slipped away from her mother and dashed back into the house.

Alcide apparently followed her. He was believed to be trying to rescue a toy truck, a birthday present he had taken to bed with him.

A can of coal oil exploded, cutting off their escape.

The fire started in an unused summer kitchen at the rear of the house.

The surviving children are Leonard, 13; Reginald, 12; Rosa, 10; Franchoise, 8; Marcel, 6; Evelyn, 2; and Jeanette, nine months.

Overplay Hand In Indonesia

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—The United States is in danger of "losing out," as some highly placed diplomats put it, in Indonesia —probably because it overplayed its hand there.

This country has sought to persuade the Indonesian government, which acts as a friend but talks as a neutral, to be counted on the side of the Western democracies in the struggle against Communism.

It has, according to the best information available here, pressed American aid upon Indonesia with the best of intentions but in such a way as to arouse the suspicions of a newly independent people.

These moves are regarded as being at the root of the explosion in U.S.-Indonesian relations which occurred yesterday when Foreign Minister Achmed Soebardjo resigned after other cabinet members and much of the Indonesian Parliament refused to back his first step toward a military aid agreement with the United States.

Tie Up Employees Calmly Wait For Time-Lock

TORONTO, Feb. 22. (CP)—Three "monkey-sized" men, so small they were able to crawl through a foot-square window, held up a suburban bank today and escaped with more than $30,000 after waiting patiently for the time-lock on the vault to open. The bank was the St. Clair East and O'Connor Drive branch of the Bank of Montreal in East York. The gunmen, each dressed in blue jeans, blue shirts and blue ski caps, apparently waited most of the night for the staff to arrive.

As each of the five employees entered, he was held up, taken to the basement and tied with black tape. Their mouths also were taped.

When all of the staff were trussed up, the bandits ordered the manager and accountant to open the vault. Told that a time-lock was on which did not unlock until 9:45 a.m., they waited until that time then cleaned out the cash.

Worked Quietly

The men, described by a witness as "monkey-sized," worked quietly and efficiently. They took $25 from the bag of a woman employee. Another woman put her engagement ring in her mouth in fear that the bandits would take it off her finger.

Police said no full-grown man could have crawled through the unbarred window by which the bandits entered the bank.

Only one of the bandits, described as "very polite" by bank employees, appeared to be armed. The uniformity of their dress prompted police to call them the "uniformed bandits" as a call was sent out to watch for a red panel truck believed to have been used in the robbery.

Similar Methods

More than a dozen bank holdups have occurred in the Toronto area in the last year. Today's was similar to that of Jan. 3 when the largest amount of money—$50,000 —taken in a Toronto holdup was obtained from a York township branch of the Bank of Commerce.

In that holdup two men, described as "very nice about the whole thing," entered the bank during the night, tied up 18 persons as they came to work in the morning and coolly made two trips to a waiting automobile with the loot. So cool were the ban-

Two Plows Free Train Snowbound In Quebec

STE. Therese, Que., Feb. 22 (CP) — Thirty-eight passengers, stranded three days near their snowbound train and only a short distance from their destination, are expected to continue their journey tonight.

Canadian National Railways officials said today the line between Campbellton, N.B. and Gaspe, Que., would be reopened by noon today. The passengers, including four women and two children, will be picked up by the first train going to Gaspe.

The group was travelling aboard a seven-car train, pulled by a diesel locomotive, when it bogged down Monday night after trying several times to fight its way through huge snowdrifts.

Two rotary plows, coming from either end of the line, and 50 snow-shovellers dug the train out Thursday night and, after making sure it could roll, moved it back to Chandler, Que., 15 miles west of here. The train was to return to Campbellton during the day.

Marines Halt Invasion By Communists

SEOUL, Korea, Feb. 22 (AP)—South Korean Marines beat off a Communist amphibious invasion of an Allied-held island off the northeast coast of Korea in a 33-hour battle, the Allies announced today.

The Korean army said its marines sank 13 of the 20 invasion boats.

Seventy invaders were reported killed and six captured. Prisoners included the commander of the amphibious attack.

Nine South Korean marines were killed and six wounded, the navy said.

The assault was made by a Red battalion—about 800 or 1,000 men. It was not indicated whether they were Chinese or North Koreans.

The battle began about 1 a.m. Wednesday lasting until 10 a.m. Thursday when the last of the attackers fled back to the Red mainland in their remaining boats.

On Yang Island

The assault was directed against Yang Island, about 16 air miles from the Communist east coast port of Songjin.

Yang is believed to be the northernmost island held by the Allies. It lies midway between the 40th and 41st parallel and serves as a lookout post off the Red coast. The island presumably is one that the Allies would give back to the Communists if an armistice is signed.

Republic of Korea marines have occupied the island since last summer.

Heaviest fighting in recent days has been in the valleys between eastern mountains. Thursday Allied troops called on helicopters to pull them out of a Red trap in the east. North Koreans who had pinned down the Allies, withdrew over the snow covered ground under the hammering of Allied artillery and reinforcements.

Japan Intends To Curb Riots

TOKYO, Feb. 22 (AP) — The Japanes government today planned a special police force to prevent uprisings such as Thursday's Communist - led anti - American riots, in which scores of police were stoned.

"Such riots cannot be tolerated," said Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida, "especially in view of the fact that the peace treaty is to go into effect soon."

Japanese police with drawn revolvers today raided four factories in the Kamata and Omori districts of Tokyo. They arrested eight men and seized stacks of Communist leaflets.

Attorney-General Tokutaro Kimura said parliament will be asked to create a "capitol police force" to cope with any future riots.

Times Have Changed

Gravy Train At End For U.S. Soldiers

EDMONTON, Feb. 22 —(CP)— The "gravy train" has come to a halt for United States soldiers stationed in Canada's northland.

For many years U.S. soldiers in Canada have drawn their wages in American dollars and benefitted up to 20 per cent through the dollar exchange paid. Now, with the Canadian dollar fluctuating at par with or higher than the Amercan dollar, the U.S. soldiers are taking a loss.

Apparently the American men in northern Alberta, the Northwest Territories and the Yukon Territories are the only ones being hit by the exchange rates up to now.

Reports reaching here from the Yukon territories where about 350 U.S. army engineers are taking part in Exercise Eager Beaver, say the American men are most unhappy about the situation. Now they want to be paid in Canadian funds.

"This will reach the Congress," one of the Americans was reported to have said.

May Not Help

But even that may do little good for the men. An informed army officer in Edmonton said the United States army has a ruling that the soldiers stationed in Canada must be paid in American funds.

The officer said the complaints were voiced among the Americans taking part in the joint U.S.-Canadian Eager Beaver Exercise in the Yukon. About 150 Canadians along with the 350 Americans are taking part in the far-north manoeuvre, near Kluane Lake, 1,400 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The exercise began in the middle of January and is expected to last about six months. It is designed to test equipment and personnel under winter conditions and spring thaw.

The officer here said banks in Whitehouse and surrounding towns in the Kluane Lake area keep close tab on the market exchange rates but private business establishments are charging a flat rate of about five cents on the dollar.

For the Americans it marks the end of more than 10 years of being on the receiving end of a favorable exchange rate — the Canadian "gravy train" has chugged to a halt.

Son Sees Father Shot Twice; Report Long Feud

STURGEON FALLS, Feb. 22. (CP)—Wilfred Laycock, 66-year-old semi-recluse, was remanded to Feb. 28 for preliminary hearing when he appeared before a justice of the peace Thursday night on a charge of murder in the rifle slaying of Arthur Kierstead, 42. Laycock was taken to North Bay, 24 miles east of here. He is accused of shooting Kierstead as the latter drove past Laycocks' tarpaper shack on the way to a wodlot. Kierstead died in the snow after telling his 10-year-old son, Lloyd, to go for the police.

Some residents of the district surrounding this Northern Ontario pulp town described Kierstead as a genius. Others called him a trouble maker. Police said there had been "bad blood" between Laycock and Kierstead for some time.

Kierstead was, at various times, a printer, a publisher, a cattle and sheep breeder and a some-time preacher. He had been in this dictrict about nine years, He and his wife and six of their nine children lived in a ramshackle house at the west end of the town.

Kept Sabbath

In that house, Mrs. Kierstead Thursday night told reporters her husband was a God-fearing man who "always kept the Sabbath."

On a wall in the house was a certificate saying that Kierstead had won prizes for his cattle at the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. Against another wall were stacked copies of linotype journals and other associated publications. On a desk were a Bible and hymnals.

Persons who knew Kierstead said that at one time he published weekly tabloid newspapers here and at nearby Cache Bay and at Mattawa, Ont., and still published a weekly with a New Brunswick dateline. They also said he had a college education and could carry on an intelligent conversation but often displayed a persecution complex.

Threatened Shooting

Police Chief John Lafleche of Sturgeon Falls said Laycock had once said he would shoot Kierstead the next time Kierstead set foot on the Laycock property.

When a carload of police officers went to the shack to arrest Laycock, the old man offered no resistance. One officer said Laycock made a remark about being "at peace, now that Kierstead is dead."

Young Lloyd Kierstead said he and his father were going to get a load of wood when the shooting occurred. His father was driving the team along a winter road immediately behind the 12-by-12 foot shack in which Laycock lived alone and from which he occasionally came into town to buy provisions. A fence separated the shack from the rest of the property.

The boy said Laycock suddenly appeared on the little porch of the shack, said something to Kierstead, then swung up his rifle and fired. He said the slug smashed into Kierstead's hand near the wrist, shattering it and spraying bone fragments across the snow.

"My dad told me to run for the police," the boy said. "I started to run along the fence to the road and I heard another shot. I looked back and my father said to run, that he had been hit in the body. (The second slug hit Kierstead at the base of the neck.)

Muskies Tally Second Win Over Port Hope

LINDSAY, Feb. 22—(ENS)—One of the year's fastest games of hockey was played here Thursday night when the intermediate A Muskies racked up their second victory in as many starts in their semi-final league play-off round against Port Hope Redmen.

Almost 1,000 fans watched their favorites come through for a 9-5 win against the Redmen in a thrill-packed contest that saw the visitors come from behind a three-goal deficit in the second period and almost go ahead in the game.

Lindsay scored the first goal at 4:49 of the first period with a three way passing play by Dysart, Burns and Abercrombie. In marked contrast to the last two games these two teams played, there were no fights and only 10 penalties. Monday, the two teams shared dubious honors when 27 penalties were meted out. Referees Herb Payne and Jim Crombie handled last night's game.

Second period action saw the Muskies score another, by Coombs aided by Stu Hicks, to put Lindsay two goals up. Racine, Free and Robinson put on the pressure then to tally one for Port Hope and it was after the half-way mark before Lindsay again tallied on a goal by Hicks, assisted by Jenkins. The Redmen roared back at the 16-minute mark to score two goals within 12 seconds, both by Free assisted by Racine. With less than 20 seconds left in the period, red-head Mike Burns again put Lindsay ahead 4-3.

In the third period, it was all Lindsay as play speeded up, and both teams played down-to-earth, rugged, clean and fast hockey. Only six seconds after the opening face-off, Coombs and Parker scored with Crawford getting another a minute later. Coon Medhurst put the Hopians back in the game at the seven-minute mark and they came within one goal of tieing it up when Campbell scored with Medhurst and Free assisting. From the half-way mark on, the Redmen ran out of legs as the Muskies scored two goals within a minute by Coombs, aided by Crawford and by Hicks assisted by Jenkins and Corley. Hicks got a third one at 15:04 and the locals were carrying the play until the final bell. The two teams meet again back in Port Hope on Saturday night. With Lindsay two games up, one more win would put them in the final round against either Bowmanville or Cobourg.

French sources said inflation has cost the proposed European army the equivalent of four divisions. Originally the French pledged 14 divisions to the one-uniform six-nation force.

At present, French prices which would have paid for 14 divisions last year will pay for only 10 today. But the French said they would undertake to contribute 12 divisions anyway to make up half the divisional loss caused by inflation.

Meanwhile, finance and defence ministers made "substantial progress" in splitting up among the Allies the estimated $450,000,000 cost of building the infrastructure across Western Europe.

$13,000 Wages Paid To Men On U.S. Project

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—Senate investigators discovered today that mechanics have been drawing wages at a rate of $17,000 a year on a highly secret air base project near the North Pole, while laborers have been earning $13,000.

Questions by Downey Rice, counsel for a Senate watchdog committee, also brought out that the workers collected more than $1,000,000 in pay before ever reaching the job.

Rice said the workmen drew most of this while en route north in aircraft or aboard a ship which spent 42 days working its way through ice six to seven feet thick.

The North Pole project is so secret that only guarded references were made to it at a public hearing conducted by a subcommittee probing charges of waste in manpower and money on a chain of overseas bases being constructed for the air force.

Something New

Lt.-Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers, testified the work, known by the code name of Blue Jay, is "something new, nobody has done anything like it before."

He indicated the project was a rush job and hazardous beyond anything ever encountered in construction, but gave no other details.

Carefully screened workers are guaranteed a 70-hour week, Pick said, with everything over 40 hours at time-and-a-half.

The engineering officer defended the high wages as necessary to attract men to dangerous work in a rigorous climate far away from civilization.

Rice told the Senators that Blue Jay and another air force construction project in North Africa called Atlas already involved expenditures of about $100,000,000.

Stirling Boy Wins Gilt Cross

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP)—A Stirling Boy Scout, 12-year-old Charles Arthur MacConnell, has been awarded the Gilt Cross for bravery by the Boy Scouts Association.

His name was among 53 who won honors and awards and were listed in an announcement coinciding with the anniversary of the birthday of Lord Baden-Powell of Gilwell, founder of the Scout movement.

Scout MacConnell, of the 1st Stirling Troop, won his award for bravery in bringing to shore a boy who was in danger of drowning in Oak Lake, north of Havelock.

Two posthumous awards of the Bronze Cross, highest award in Scouting, were made to a Scout and a Cub who lost their lives trying to save other persons from drowning.

Bronze Crosses were awarded to Scout David Kruse, 15, of Gaspe, Que., and Cub Wayne Prescott, 10, of Pembroke. Scout Kruse lost his life attempting to rescue another boy from drowning at Halimand Beach, in the Bay of Gaspe.

Cub Prescott was drowned when he went to the assistance of a small girl who slipped, while swimming, into a pot hole in the Indian River near Pembroke.

Base Metals Climb On Stock Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP). — Base metals climbed slowly today in early afternoon stock market dealings but other sections made little headway.

Trading opened briskly and continued steadily until about noon when activity eased. Leading industrials traded slowly but a growing list of penny golds, oils and metals attracted speculative interest. Volume for the first three hours was 1,683,000 shares.

Papers, utilities and liquors formed industrials' strongest sections. Agricultures, steels, refining oils and textiles held gains and losses in balance but foods, manufacturing companies and miscellaneous issues weakened.

In base metals, Consolidated Smelters, Hudson Bay, International Nickel, Noranda, Normetal, Steep Rock and United Keno Hill posted gains ranging to $1. East Rim, Eureka, Quebec Copper and Yale Lead added pennies.

Western oil advances ranged from pennies to about 50 cents. Anglo-Canadian, Canadian Williston, Central Explorers, General Petroleum A, Gridoil, Model Oil and Trans Empire were among the strongest gainers.

Senior golds were mixed but secondary issues posted a majority of penny gains.

Lyons Sentenced To Five Years

KINGSTON, Feb. 22 (CP) — Alfan Vernon Lyons, on trial for the butcher-knife slaying of his wife, was sentenced Thursday to five years in jail on a manslaughter charge.

The 33-year-old Lyons brought his trial to an unexpected halt Thursday by pleading innocent of murder but guilty of manslaughter in the November death of his 31-year-old wife.

His counsel, Arthur Martin, entered the plea and Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney did not object. Mr. Justice J. M. King then advised the jury to return a manslaughter verdict which they did without even leaving the box.

The stolid calm that Lyons had shown throughout the three-day trial failed him as his counsel pleaded for leniency. He burst into tears and wept silently.

The courtroom was jammed Thursday. Spectators stood three and four deep along the walls.

The crown completed its case Thursday and no defence witnesses were called. Lyons' counsel submitted that the prosecution's case had established "provocation" for the Nov. 10 attack. He said Lyons had acted "without too much thought" after his wife had bitten his thumb during an argument.

Kitchener Teachers Ask Federation Act

KITCHENER, Feb. 22 — (CP) —Kitchener school teachers, unable to reach salary agreements with the Public School Board, have turned their requests over to the Ontario Teachers Federation.

Frank Hoodle, head of the School Relations Committee, said the board has been meeting with representatives of the teachers since last December without result.

One of the main issues of dispute is an allowance for instructors with university degrees. The teachers asked for $400. The board offered $200, an increase of $100 over last year's payment.

The board also refused a request that the maximum salary for regular teachers be raised $500 and $900 for specialists.

Good Skiing Expected Over Weekend

Ski enthusiasts, young and old, plan to make the most of the good skiing conditions that exist throughout the Peterborough district. A full weekend program has been planned for both Kemp's and Bethany slopes.

The main weekend event will be the open house Saturday at Bethany with the junior ski school members the extra special guests. This big day was originally planned for last weekend but was postponed.

The ski train, the first operated out of Peterborough to Bethany in some years, will leave the C.P.R. station at 10:10 a.m. returning from Bethany at 4:30 p.m. The skiers will have about three full hours of skiing.

Free Tow

All conveniences, tow and hill, will be free to the skiers who will pay only for the train trip. For the children the ski club has arranged for free hot drinks and milk, both donated by Peterborough companies.

Ski club officials emphasize that skiers under 10 years old must be accompanied by an adult. The older children will be chaperoned by 25 senior ski club members.

For the younger skiers the day will present the opportunity to practice their downhill and slalom before the junior ski school championship next Saturday at Kemp's hill. The club has arranged a 1,000-foot giant slalom course which includes a few steep downhill grades.

Snow conditions at both hills were described as good for the weekend. On Thursday night the skiers used the Kemp's hill slope for three hours skiing which was excellent on four inches of old snow and three of new. There is the same amount of snow at Bethany.

With fresh snow reported in most Ontario centres, the outlook for improved skiing this weekend is bright. Haileybury, Huntsville and Orangeville are listed as excellent while Cobourg is very good. Dagmar, Flesherton and Sundridge are good with Collingwood from fair to good.

Bad Sand Storm

CAIRO, Feb. 22 (Reuters)—A dreaded "Khamseen"—gale-force winds sweeping blinding, choking clouds of sand off the desert—blew across the Nile delta area of Egypt overnight. In the Suez canal zone the sandstorm derailed a British army railway car at an ordnance base between Ismailia and Fayid.

Cancer Society Variety Show Features Top Talent Sunday

A variety show featuring internationally-known singers, acrobats and comedy teams will open the Canadian Cancer Society's annual financial campaign in Peterborough and district Sunday night at the Brock St. Arena.

The Peterborough campaign sponsors, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, have arranged the program as one of three main steps in raising the $8,815 objective in the city and county. Other projects include a Lights On campaign in Peterborough and a canvass of county schools.

Mayor Hugh Waddell will officially open the campagin Sunday night at the show and then the program will be introduced by master of ceremonies Del Crary.

Bob Gimby

Probably the best-known entertainer will be Toronto orchestra leader, Bib Gimby. He is known for his trumpet playing and singing with Bert Pearl's Happy Gang over the CBC network. Gimby has also made several tours through the Peterborough district with his orchestra and is noted for his trumpet stylings.

Besides Gimby, there will be CBC singing stars, Vi Emerson and Albert Marsden, baritone singer who frequently appears with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra as well as accordionist and singer, Nancy McCaig.

On the international level there will be the Keppo Family a Swedish acrobatic troupe, and comedy team, Authors and Swenson, from the Toodles Weaver television show from New York City.

Combat Cancer

The proceeds from the variety show will be used to combat the spread of cancer which although least prevalent among children, took a number of children's lives last year.

The society reports that leukemia, a malignant growth of white cells in the blood, is the most frequent type of cancer among children. This caused may deaths of boys and girls in 1951.

The financial campaign next week will help research provide a method of controlling leukemia. Already cancer is now the target of efforts of biologists, chemists and physicists and the Cancer Society has allotted thousands of dollars to their work.

Plan To Lift Oleo Ban Strikes Snag

Manitoba Members Battle Suggestion To Allow Coloring

By The Canadian Press

A private member's bill to lift the ban on coloring of margarine has run into tough sledding in the Manitoba legislature.

So far, 17 members have spoken against it and only nine in favor. Members have been deluged with telegrams asking them not to vote for the bill. Debate on its second reading has been adjourned.

Wants Share

Russell Cunningham (C.C.R., Breton East) complained in the Legislature at Halifax that the West is collecting money that rightfully belongs to the East. In a plea for more federal aid to education, he said Canada's four original provinces—Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick—put up the money when the land including Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia was bought from the Hudson's Bay Company.

Under the Dominion Lands Act of 1872, portions of federal land were allocated for public schools in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. Later the lands were sold and the proceeds invested in government security. Mr. Cunningham said the interest was divided among the three Western provinces, leaving the original purchasers out in the cold. He said the payments to the Western provinces constituted federal aid to education.

Dieppe Veteran To Die For Murders

VALLEYFIELD, Que., Feb. 22 (CP). — A 31-year-old veteran of the 1942 Dieppe raid is under sentence of death today for kicking and slashing his aged grandmother to death last July.

Alcide Martin, a resident of St. Henri de Maschouche, Que., did not flinch Thursday when he heard Mr. Justice Edouard Tellier sentence him to be hanged May 2 for the slaying of Mrs. Anthime Allan, 66, at her home near Ormstown, Que.

Martin also was charged with the slayings of Mrs. Allan's second husband, 76, and a neighbor, Narcisse Cusson, 72.

Defence lawyer Paul Aubut has not yet announced whether he will appeal the verdict and sentence.

The triple slaying first came to light when Martin gave himself up to the police, saying: "A terrible thing has happened. I quarrelled with my grandmother. There is a dead person. Don't ask me more."

Bodies In Shed

Investigating officers discovered the bruised and battered bodies of the three elderly persons in a shed at the rear of the Allan home.

The jury was out two hours and 15 minutes before reaching a verdict. Asked if he had anything to say before sentence was pronounced, Martin answered steadily: "I have nothing to say, sir."

Martin, according to evidence at the trial, had a number of beers the day he visited his grandparents.

He became engaged in an argument with his grandfather and struck him. Mrs. Allan, rushing to her husband's aid, was brutally stabbed and beaten, as was Cusson, the neighbor who came to the aged couple's assistance.

Rev. F. Wootton Former Minister Of Trinity Dies

COBOURG, Feb. 22 (ENS). — Former minister of Trinity United Church, Peterborough, Rev. F. M. Wootton died at his home Wednesday in Colborne at the age of 78. He was active in church work right up to his death, and at the time of his sudden passing he was preparing to attend a presbytery meeting. Prominent in the work of the United Church, he had served as president in turn of the London Conference, Hamilton Conference and Bay of Quinte Conference. In Colborne he assisted the Rev. Redvers Brown in his pastorate.

Born in England, he came with his parents to the United States while a young boy, and at 12 moved to St. Thomas where he resided with an uncle. He went west where he was educated in Winnipeg, graduating from Wesleyan University as a minister of the Methodist Church. He served in turn at Murrillo, Ont., Winnipeg, Indian Head, Sask., Moosejaw, Stratford, Galt, Hamilton, Brantford, Brockville and Picton, and then went to Peterborough where he completed his regular ministry. However, he was active later in the organization of Northminster Church in Oshawa, before returning to Picton. He also lived for two years in Cobourg, and finally took up residence in Colborne. His first wife, Harriet Louise Frost, died while he was in Colborne, and four years ago he married Phyllis Hinton of Oshawa, who survives.

Also surviving are a son, Alfred Wootton, Whitby, and four daughters, Mrs. C. H. Sifton of Cobourg, Mrs. G. Lush of Hamilton, Mrs. F. J. Mahaffy of Montreal and Mrs. Clelan Blakey of Picton.

The funeral was today, with interment at Picton.

Tolerance Requires Brains

This is Brotherhood Week, a week when people of good-will on this continent make a special effort to call attention to aims of the Council of Christians and Jews "to promote justice, amity, understanding and co-operation among Protestants, Catholics and Jews."

* * *

Like any high and great ideal—like peace itself—brotherhood, unity and toleration cannot be achieved by merely wishing them. Nor can they be brought about by people who do not understand or bother to think what they mean. Toleration requires understanding; understanding requires the brains to understand. In general the most tolerant people are people with brains and the education to know how to use them.

* * *

A person who has merely a soft heart and a pious belief that it is a good thing to be tolerant cannot really be tolerant. That person is putty. No matter how soft the heart and affable the belief, he and his kind will never bring peace to the earth, unity to nations, brotherhood to men and toleration to their relations and attitude. They do not know the meanings of the words, if they lack the brains to understand, or the mental power to reason, or the experience on which to base thought. To be tolerant requires sterner fibre than a soft heart. It is good thinking, rather than good intentions, which create the conditions in which tolerance can be nurtured. A soft heart does not compensate for a soft head in such high and weighty matters.

* * *

The people of Israel understand the nature of tolerance, because they have known intolerance. They have lately demonstrated through their Parliament that they have the capacity—the brains—to be tolerant. Last month by a narrow majority of 61 to 50, the members of the Knesset (the Israeli Parliament) empowered the Government to enter into negotiations for reparations with the West German Federal Republic. This set the stage of one of the strangest, most delicate and heart-searching dramas in diplomatic history.

* * *

Since Israel became a nation (chiefly of refugees from German anti-Semitic horrors) it has had no relations or contracts of any kind with the West German Republic. The mass-murder of the Jews, committed under Hitler by the recognized German Government without open resistance or remonstrance from the German people, left raw scars in the souls of the survivors. In their new country they had, until last month, completely ignored the existence of Germany.

* * *

Chancellor Adenauer of West Germany took the initiative last September, to establish contact with Israel by a tactful and statesmanlike offer "jointly with representatives of Jewry and the States of Israel . . . to bring about a solution of the material reparation problem in order to facilitate the way to a spiritual purging of unheard-of suffering."

* * *

He did not make conditions, such as the establishment of diplomatic relations between Israel and Germany. He offered something without demanding anything in return. He proposed to make good those material things that can be made good (reparations for property losses which the Jews suffered) and did not pretend that reparation could be made for the irreparable—the loss of life, the suffering, the torture.

* * *

By agreeing to have any dealings with Germany at all, even if those dealings consist only in accepting material reparation for economic relief, Israeli leaders have given a poignant demonstration of deepest tolerance. If they did not have the heart to do it, they had the brains.

Was The Past Really So Quiet?

It is a common failing to idealize the past, imagining it as a leisured time when people lived more happily and wisely than they do now. This idealization takes many forms; now that physicians recommend more rest and a slower pace of life for people who wish to avoid heart ailments there are plenty of writers who are ready to assert that in our grandfathers' time everybody lived more slowly and got more pleasure out of life. Statistical records cannot tell us how much our grandfathers enjoyed life, but they can and do tell us that our grandfathers did not live, upon the average, as long as we do now. Our grandfathers may have been more leisurely than we, but they ate a worse diet, and they ate more of it; they neglected their teeth; they wore tight shoes. What is more, many of them died of apoplexy, usually brought on by a fit of bad temper about politics, religion or some other matter on which they held intemperate opinions. Apoplexy is much rarer today.

Our valued contemporary, the Windsor Star, recently indulged itself in a regretful editorial about the disappearance of the "lounge"—meaning one of those sofas with a hump at one end; "usually they were placed in the kitchen, near the stove," says the Star, and suggests that it was upon this piece of furniture that grandfather took frequent snoozes.

We do not wish to seem cranky and uncongenial, but this picture confuses us. How could a man sleep in a kitchen, with people banging, chopping, mincing, ironing, throwing wood into the stove, receiving groceries from the delivery boy, and otherwise carrying on a normal kitchen life about him? A kitchen is the noisiest place in any house, and in the days before cheap electric power it was noisier than it is now. And may we enquire what a man whose chief living room was his kitchen was doing having a mid-day snooze? The long lunch-hour was never common in such circles, and on farms snoozes in the kitchen have never been encouraged. We think that the Star is dreaming of a paradise lost which never existed except in its own imagination.

We have no objection to the present, as a time to live in. People who find it disagreeable would have found much to displease them in any past era of which we have ever heard.

Why Not Drop It Altogether?

The Burns Federation is grieved because Auld Lang Syne is so often sung incorrectly. We understand their feelings. It is irritating to hear verses for which one has a particular affection mangled by people who do not care enough about them to learn them in their proper form. We suffer this way when Ben Jonson's lovely ode To Celia (called by careless songsters Drink to me only) is rendered with emendations which would make Jonson whirl in his grave like a turbine. This is what the Burns Federation says in its official paper, the Burns Chronicle:

"The song that everybody sings is the song that no one knows . . . although it is the world's greatest song of friendship. 'Auld Lang Syne' has never succeeded in establishing its own words correctly.

"Millions of gatherings have taken up its strains in an overflow of warm-heartedness, but most of them have made the welkin ring with garbled lines, phrases Burns never wrote, variations that neither scholarship nor taste approves.

"Trusty 'friens' still supplant trusty 'fieres'; 'cups o' kindness' still battle for position with 'gudewilly waughts'. The lovely, lingering last line of verse and chorus—'For auld lang syne'—is still ousted by the breathless scurry of 'For the days of auld lang syne'. Amity is still left gasping and numb of wrist by the final and unauthorized break-neck repetition of the chorus.

Our suggestion is that Auld Lang Syne be given a rest. Sung incorrectly, and in what all sorts of singers regard as humorous Scottish accents, it gives little pleasure to the judicious, and the hand-wrenching which the Burns Chronicle deplores is a sweaty bore. Burns verses enjoy a popularity so vast that it has become unthinking; when that happens, it is best to lay them away for a while, until they regain their freshness.

Oooh! Treeing Communist Coons

We reprint the following Canadian Press despatch from Toronto, dated February 20th:

"Kenneth Clark, of Kingston, president of the Ontario Federation of Hunting and Anglers, suggested Tuesday night that tree farming might forestall Communist infiltration north of Toronto. He told the Agricultural Institute of Canada that physical, moral and mental degeneracy in economically-depressed areas could be remedied by improving the area economically with reforestation measures."

How ineffably foolish can speakers become?

NOTES AND COMMENT

A bitter comment from Italy is that "a European is a man who, for fear of becoming a Russian, is gradually becoming an American."

The net gain was zero. We are back on page one, paragraph one. This is where we came in.—Rear Adm. R. E. Libby, at a recent Korean truce talk.

The British Government has decided to cut down the number of official press agents. But with Churchill, they don't need them.

A California evangelist says that 10,000 people have told him that they want to go to Heaven. And presumably he is making a very good thing out of booking passages for them.

Mr. Churchill is a big man to transport across the Atlantic and back again. His boat trips last month, together with Mr. Anthony Eden's, cost £1,752—$5,000. Yet the Labour Party is bothered because the British taxpayers are not paying the bill; that he got the ride free from the Cunard company!

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: Has the Queen Mother Elizabeth become a commoner again? She is not of royal birth.

ANSWER: No; and she never has been a commoner. She was the daughter of the Earl and Countess of Strathmore, and called The Lady Elizabeth Bowes-Lyon before her marriage, ranking thus as a Lord. A commoner is anybody below the rank of a Baron, i.e. who is not a Peer. Thus a Knight is a commoner, but a Baron (like Lord Tweedsmuir) is not. There are three ranking classes: royalty, nobility and commoner.

It is a settled rule that a wife takes the status of her husband. Thus when Queen Elizabeth married H.R.H. the then Duke of York, she became Her Royal Highness the Duchess of York, with the status of Princess. She thus moved from nobility to royalty and there remains.

On his marriage the Duke of Edinburgh was created, by the King, a Prince of the realm. (He had been a Prince of Greece, but renounced the title.) This creation was necessary because it is not a settled rule that a husband takes the rank of his wife. Thus you will find in England a Lady Mary Grey daughter of an Earl married to a Mr. John Smith. He remains Mr. Smith, she keeps her title. But if Lord John Grey marries Miss Mary Smith, she becomes Lady Grey.

The only room for argument that the Queen was a commoner lies in the fact that her title before marriage was a courtesy one, by reason of her being the daughter of an Earl. Nevertheless she belonged to a noble family, ranking as a peeress, even though she was not a peeress in her own right.

◇ ◇ ◇

DEAR ALPHA: Beside pushing buttons at Exhibitions and acting as Leader of the Idle Rich, has the Governor General any duties that actually are of benefit to Canada as a whole?

ANSWER: It seems to me that rich Canadians like Mr. Massey are far from idle: I challenge you to get through as much and important work as Mr. Massey has done in his career. Viscount Alexander was neither idle nor rich; he comes from a relatively poor Irish family of the nobility. A man does not become a Field Marshal without brains and hard work.

The Governor General's formal duties are to sign all Acts of Parliament, to preside at its opening and closing, and to personally advise the Sovereign about Canadian affairs. His informal duties are multitudinous, exacting and strenuous. The kind of buttons he has to push are far more difficult to operate than the buttons a machinst or most business men push.

If you have an aversion for Governors-General, why don't you migrate to a Republic?

◇ ◇ ◇

SIR: Is it St. James' Palace or St. James's Palace?

ANSWER: St. James's. That is the usage in England, and the grammarians' rule is: To form the possessive singular of a word ending in 's' add only an apostrophe, unless the word has only one syllable, then add the usual apostrophe and 's'. Hence; St. James's Park, Keats's odes, but St. Thomas' Choir.

◇ ◇ ◇

TWO WEEKS AGO a reader inquired about the authorship and complete version of a set of children's verses beginning:—

"Two bears lived in a hollow tree
And they never heard of you or me
Or the elephant or the kangaroo
And with grown-up folk they had nought to do".

Another reader of this column has kindly brought my attention to a series of children's books about the Roosevelt Bears, by Seymour Eaton, and lent me three of them. These must be the source of the verses about the two bears who lived in a hollow tree, but I cannot find the exact lines in any of them. I suspect my questioning reader's quoted lines may have been from the first story in the first book, of which, in the copy lent to me, the first five pages are missing.

That introductory story to "The Roosevelt Bears and their Travels and Adventures" tells that

"Two Roosevelt Bears had a home out West
In a big ravine near a mountain crest.
Their home was high and deep and wide,
An elegant place for bears to hide
The things they picked up on the mountain side.
They were well supplied with hats and boots
And leather coats and cowboy suits,
And pots and pans and whips and strings
And guns and horns and a hundred things
Lost on the trial by hunters bold
When driven home by the winter's cold".

Their names were Teddy B and Teddy G not Big Bully Woolly and Huckleberry Mary.

"The B for black or brown you see
Or bright or bold or brave or boss:
He was always kind and seldom cross.
The grey bear's name was Teddy-G
The G for grizzly or gray or gay, for he
Was as full of fun as a bear can be"

In the first book (published about 1905 by Edward Stern & Co., Philadelphia, and at the same time in Toronto by William Briggs), the two bears make their way from the western cave to New York city, visiting places of historic interest and seeing famous people. They end up at Madison Square Garden.

Book II (each has about 175 pages, with copious illustrations) is "More About The Roosevelt Bears". It continues with them from New York. They visit West Point, play baseball, travel around the Atlantic seaboard states, get a degree at Harvard and meet the President in Washington.

The Roosevelt Bear books may have had some indirect political purpose, to popularize Republican "Teddy" Roosevelt (President of the U.S.A. from 1901 to 1909); more likely, they are a reflection of his popularity and household name.

In Book III Teddy-B and Teddy-G go abroad. The various chapters are headed "The Bears on the Atlantic", "The Bears in Ireland", "The Bears in London Tower", in Switzerland, Rome etc. The chapters run as continuous narrative. At Stratford-on-Avon

"It was six at night when they got within
The ancient wall of Shakespeare Inn
And to their room on the second floor
With 'Hamlet' painted on the door.
But when they saw the happy way
That rooms are named, each for a play,
Said Teddy-B "Not this for me:
Put me to sleep in 'Richard Three'
Where I can dream of ghosts and worse
And cry my kingdom for a horse".

As some of the samples quoted above show, the meter is not always secure, nor the rhymes happy, but it is amusing children's doggerel, and parents might have thought it edifying that youngsters could get whiffs of geography, literature, national customs and history from rhymes about two bears. To keep it interesting the pair fall in and out of trouble as they travel about.

In Book III (1907) they end their travels abroad by way of Canada. Seymour Eaton is a little lame and dull in Canada:

"They reached Toronto the following day
Where they were escorted to the Bay
By the Queen's-Own Band and Grenadiers,
While boys and girls with songs and cheers
And waving flags lined Yonge and King
And made the old town fairly ring".

They skated in Toronto, tobogganed in Montreal, paid their respects to the "Governor" in Ottawa, and bowed out of Canada at Winnipeg

"Where a day or so
They stopped to see the city grow"

In Book IV, published probably in 1908, Teddy-B and Teddy-G turn detective and solve problems for Bo-Peep (help her track down her sheep), the Pied Piper, etc.

The books must have been very popular with children and parents, and therefore may have had imitators, which could account for the variant about whose names were Big Bully Woolly and Huckleberry Mary. Teddy-B and Teddy-G lived originally in a cave.

"Two bears lived in a hollow tree"

FOR THE RECORD: In their laudable efforts to raise money, the Boy Scouts held another paper drive this week. I do not know what the financial results were; the physical were very obvious. The city streets looked as if a dozen celebrities had come into town the same night and received a ticker-tape welcome, only that the showerers had forgotten to rip the paper into small pieces. Next morning newspaper pages, whole newspapers and magazines, as well as scraps of them littered the streets, sidewalks and lawns. It seems that many householders did not tie their bundles, the collecting trucks were open, the loaders wide-aimed and the collection generally haphazard. Oh well, 'twas in a good cause.

Letters To The Editor

COMMENDS EXAMINER

Sir: I have taken your very fine paper for a number of years. And find it very interesting and valuable. I also take Toronto Globe and Mail, and many times pick up the Toronto Telegram so have a good chance to compare same.

I heartily congratulate you on your article. Toronto newspapers advising the public of our weather conditions east of that city as for instance as you mentioned if they have a heavy fall of snow or storm of any kind around that district its southern Ontario is blanketed with snow etc. They do sometimes touch as far as London, Ont., to the west but east as far as Peterborough never mentioned where we have far different weather many times from what they have in districts they mention, Hamilton, Guelph, London.

I was also very much insterested in the splendid write-up you gave Fred Marshall, it certainly pleased many of his earlier friends who knew him as a boy and young man. He was always a gentleman.

Thanks,

A READER.

WHO IS MY BROTHER?

Sir: This week has been chosen by some people and termed Brotherhood Week. Just how far is this feeling supopsed to go, and who are to be accepted into and who are to be rejected? From my early childhood I considered the Y.M.C.A. as the nearest approach to the fulfillment of this state and have ever wished to see in spite of many misgivings. I can recall those early school days along with pals, "who have gone to premature graves", how we sat in the Y.M.C.A. reading room on Saturday mornings perusing the many periodicals emblazoned with pictures of German Army's might, also pictures of German both men and women seemingly as interested as we in Christian work. But others "not all German" with insidious power prevailed and we had to fight against these same people in the name of humanity, not Christianity, although churches proclaimed it our bounden duty to fight. On January 25th we commemorated the birth of one of the greatest advocates of the brotherhood of man who wrote:

Oh wud some power the gift tae gee us
Tae see oursel's as ithers see us,
It wud frae mony a blunder free us
An foolish notions.

Again he wrote:

When man tae man the world o'er
'll brithers be fur aw that.

Who and what keeps people apart? It has long been the custom in churches to pray for those in high places and in authority, seemingly this has done little good. Then there is false teachings, false values, apathy, self-sufficiency, greed, jealously and hypocrisy. Where does brotherhood come in? Billions of dollars spent on preparations for war against who and what? Brotherhood of man while depriving even our own the opportunity to work and live in an honest way as honest people.

Early in 1915 in an address I said if Germany had prepared as well for the kingdom of heaven as she had for war, what a difference it would make to this world, and they would not be doomed to failure. So again I say the same of the nations we know are making the same colossal mistake. Perhaps they think the scriptures' reference to the sword has no bearing on atomic bombs, so are above condemnation.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Lord openeth the eyes of the blind: the Lord raiseth them that are bowed down: the Lord loveth the righteous . . . The Lord shall reign for ever, even thy God, O Zion, unto all generations. Praise ye the Lord. (Ps. 146: 8, 10.)

◇ ◇ ◇

Thus saith God the Lord, he that created the heavens, and stretched them out; he that spread forth the earth, and that which cometh out of it; he that giveth breath unto the people upon it, and spirit to them that walk therein: I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles; to open the blind eyes, to bring out the prisoners from the prison, and them that sit in darkness out of the prison house. (Isa. 42: 5-7.)

◇ ◇ ◇

And when Jesus departed thence, two blind men followed him, crying, and saying, Thou son of David, have mercy on us. And when he was come into the house, the blind men came to him: and Jesus saith unto them, Believe ye that I am able to do this. They said unto him, Yea, Lord. Then touched he their eyes, saying, According to your faith be it unto you. And their eyes were opened; and Jesus straitly charged them, saying, See that no man know it. But they, when they were departed, spread abroad his fame in all that country . . .

And Jesus went about all the cities and villages, teaching in their synagogues, and preaching the gospel of the kingdom, and healing every sickness and every disease among the people. (Matt. 9: 27-31, 35.)

Again—Moose Slaughter?

(Sudbury Star)

Northern Ontario sportsmen will no doubt be delighted to hear that the North is once again swarming with moose—or at least this is the impression to be gained from reports from North Bay.

The Northern Outfitters' Association is asking the Ontario government for a "controlled" moose-hunting season in all but two areas in the North, which could indicate that the outfitters have established the number of moose waiting to be slaughtered by guns from south of the border.

No one would suggest that the outfitters are more interested in tourist dollars than they are in the conservation of our wildlife, and it is possible, of course, that if the moose were not slaughtered by hunters' guns they would become the victims of ticks or some parasitic disease.

There was a great deal of talk some time ago about taking a census of the moose. There was also talk to the effect that when a census-taker would see the same moose three times he would jot down "sighted three moose".

If conservation is to mean something more than a platitude, the Ontario government might establish what has happened to the great numbers of moose that used to populate the Sudbury district, before exposing the remaining lords of the forests to imported hunters.

INTERLUDE

Peterborough Boys Win To Rub Out Oshawa In Provincial Playdowns

Three local minor hockey teams came through with impressive victories over Oshawa here last night before a fair-sized crowd to erase the Motor City squads and advance into the second round of provincial playdowns. They were in the tail end of two-game O.M.H.A. series, and they all won on local ice. Outboard Marines juveniles, Martin-Hewitt midgets and St. Peter's bantams will now face the Belleville-Kingston victors in the next round next week.

After winning the opener 4-3 in Oshawa, Pot Doherty's St. Peter's bantams took a 2-1 verdict here last evening in the first of the night's triple-header to sweep their round by 6-4. Murphy scored first from Stewart, but Brodie tied it up from Muir and Payne in the first stanza. Murphy clinched matters with a nifty solo in the second heat and the Saints then threw up a stonewall defence to hold off Oshawa the rest of the route. St. Peter's drew four of the six penalties in this smart and hard-fought playoff number. All the winners turned in a dandy chore in the triumph.

The teams:

Oshawa: Milnick, Barnoski, Wood, Muir, Wilson, Payne, Vaughan, Tureski, Gremond, McMahon, Sutton, Humphries, Knox, Price.

St. Peter's: Hickson, English, Murphy, Scharfe, Stewart, Mahoney, Naish, Baker, Pace, Atkinson, Coombes, Douglas, Forestell, Chesney.

Finished Strong

Moon Wootton's classy Martin-Hewitt Midgets finished strong in racking up their 6-1 decision to take the round 9-3. Heffernan got the only goal of the first frame as Godfrey and Floyd teamed up with him. Neither side could dent the hemp in hard going through the middle chukker. The locals drove for five in a row in the third, Gardner scoring a pair, Godfrey, Brooks and Strickland getting the others. Kane, McFadden, Gardner, Floyd, Brooks and Heffernan each earned an assist in this heat as the home midgets dished up some grand passing to go right in on the opposing goalie. Oshawa's final goals in the third were all by Chasczewski, who came up with a stellar performance in a losing cause. Each team drew eight penalties in rather rugged stepping, Oldfield getting a misconduct in the third.

Oshawa: Knight, Steffen, Chasczewski, Grant, Rahn, Fenton, McIlwaine, Oldfield, Wallace, Mallow, Nickols, Puckalski, Taillon, Thompson, Collins.

Martin-Hewitt: Masterson, Blodgett, Parry, Kane, Gardner, Strickland, Brooks, Roberts, Stewart, Heffernan, Godfrey, Chambers, Floyd, McFadden.

Great Comeback

Coach Bert Hill's juvenile Marines staged a great comeback in a game that lasted till nearly one o'clock before winning out in overtime on Dodd's goal to take the round 7-6. It was a thriller and many fans stayed to the finish. Marines struck savagely at the start for four goals, two by Frizzelle from Kearns, and one each by Pammett and Corbett, with Doris in on two, Jones and McGillen also helping once each. There was no score in the tight middle session and Jammett got one early in the third from Doris. With Corbett off for a penalty and Delahaye temporarily hurt on a bang into the post, Oshawa scored two, Hughes from Boneham on the first, and then Laton from Dykstra and Burr. They added another shortly to sew it up, Scero from Zadic and Burr. Early in overtime, Dodd got through with Frizzelle and Jones to sink the winner and draw a big hand. Oshawa drew nine of the 14 penalties, but Marines drew three in overtime to their two.

Oshawa: Courtney, Johnston, Dykstra, Kellar, Laton, Brodie, Boneham, Woodnisky, Hughes, Scero, Fisher, Zadic, Burr, Rorabeck.

Marines: Delahaye, McGillen, Byrne, Kearns, Frizzelle, Dodd, Corbett, Spencer, Doris, McGrath, Pammett, Cupoli, McCormick, Jones.

Referees: Eakin and Romhanyi.

Port Perry Up Two Points Against Saints

St. Peter's High School juniors, group winners with P.C.V.S. Junior B and Lindsay Collegiate, started down the C.O.S.S.A. trail Thursday night for the first time in the school's history. The occasion was not too successful, as the Port Perry juniors won the first game of the points-to-count series 31-29.

This year the smaller high schools of the C.O.S.S.A. district are playing a B class, similar to football. These schools have gradually droped out of competition in the last five years when consistently beaten by large schools. The move for the B class is to encourage the small schools to enter teams again.

From indications of schedule play, the Saints Thursday night were well off their game. For brief periods in the first half and last quarter they easily overpowered the Port Perry cagers with quick, neat passing plays which ended in scores. But the remainder of the time they passed poorly, seemed to be playing half zone and half man-to-man defence, and could not hit the hoop.

Port Perry was in the game only in the third quarter and for parts of the fourth. Although they have a slight edge in height, they are slower moving and poor shots.

Saints Drove

After a dismal first quarter which ended 3-2, the Saints with Doug Galvin leading the way opened up play with quick breaks jarring Port Perry's defence. Meanwhile the Ports' Dobson worked in close for baskets to help them stay close, 13-11 at the half.

The Port Perry quintet switched from a slow methodical game to zone defence with a fast break in the third, featuring Owen, a tall stringy player with one-hand shots. Before the Saints could stop the surge, the Ports took a 22-17 lead at three-quarter.

The Ports kept packing away in the fourth and once built the lead up to 11 points. Then the Saints returned to form, Galvin again the producer. Within two minutes they nearly wiped away the deficit and took the lead, but the time ran out.

Thirty-six personal fouls were handed out for a series of minor infractions which occurred mostly when the score was close. Calls were made for tripping, charging, chopping and holding.

The Saints suffered from fouls, losing star guard Simmons in the third quarter, and then Legros, Galvin's scoring partner, in the fourth. Galvin took his time with plays in the fourth, trying to keep out of rough play, having four personal fouls. Port Perry lost Drake through fouls and had Peel on the verge with four fouls.

Galvin was easily the outstanding player on the fourth, especially in the fourth quarter when he was grabbing rebounds at both backboards and went on a scoring spree. He whipped home 18 points for the Saints. Port Perry's best were Dobson with 11 and Owen with nine.

The lineups:

St. Peter's 29 — Legros 2, Galvin 18, Board 2, O'Rourke, Ryan 4, Simmons, Finn, McGillen 1, Quinlan 2, McTeague, Killen.

Port Perry 31—Peel 2, Owen 9, Dobson 11, Drake, Lawrence 3, Hadden 4, Warriner 2.

ELEGANT ELMER—Canadiens' Elmer Lach, now in his 12th season with Montreal's N.H.L. team, will be honored by the Canadiens' fans on March 8. Elmer needs only three points to break the all-time record of 548 points established by Bill Cowley, a former Bruin, in 13 seasons.

Doug Mowry of St. Catharines—he used to catch for the Petes—writes to a friend here that he's taking five young ballsters to the Brooklyn Dodgers' training camp at Florida early next month. One of them is George Brabin, Petes' left-fielder last summer, and top hitter in the Viaduct League. George goes to Vero Beach as a free agent to make any deal he can in minor pro ball ranks. Cec. Bint of Oshawa put Doug onto Brabin last autumn. Detroit Tigers wanted to get a look at him in amateur ranks this coming spring, but George is taking the trip south to see what's what. Hasn't been playing lately with the Eagles, in case of puck injuries hurting his ball chances.

Two girls' basketball games at the Y.W., starting at eight, tonight: Black's vs. Nurses in loop play, and Port Hope vs. Neill's in an exhibition. The Feb. 15 postponement will be staged Feb. 29, with league semi-finals the following week. L.O.B.A. team begins Tuesday. At the Collegiate this e'en, three boys' games are billed, beginning at six. That'll be St. Peter's vs. P.C.V.S. junior "B" team in league play. Then, Oshawa Central and P.C.V.S. junior "A" squads tangle and the locals must win or they've had it. Nightcap has Central of Oshawa vs. Bev Goulding's senior "A" P.C.V.S. pack in group finals, the locals being down three points. All important hoop melees.

Juniors Tied On Series

That 7-5 win for Oddfellows in Belleville the other p.m. sure perked them up. They're square now with Hawklets at a win each in the O.H.A. junior "B" group semi-final sawoffs. Third one is here tonight, and it should fill the place. Some really sizzling junior playoff action assured as these husky young clubs fight fiercely for the odd game and an edge in the series. Fourth fray will be here next Wednesday and then they wrap it up in Bella Villa, if it goes the full five games. Johnny Godfrey's Triple Links will certainly shoot the works on home ice in a desperate attempt to take the lead. Hawklets are plenty worried now with the next two here. Rates a record crowd.

Three points separate Eagles and Petes in their senior "B" standing, and that could be whittled to half a game this Saturday night if Eagles should win. Or Petes could almost clinch top spot if they take it. Yeah, these old ice enemies tangle again here as the schedule nears the finish. Eagles have been hotter than halfway through a furnace lately, downing Petes, Kingston and Belleville in recent starts, but Petes still lead 'em in the group race. So, it's pretty much of a tossup, and don't bet too much on the outcome. You can bank on another swell scrap, regardless of which side picks up the most marbles. This postponement from Feb. 15 should pack the place tomorrow.

Minor Puckists Victors

Our three representatives of the Peterborough Minor Hockey Association came through in swell style at Civic Arena last night to erase Oshawa in the first O.M.H.A. playdown rounds and advance into the next provincial series. St. Peter's bantams, Martin-Hewitt midgets and Outboard Marines juveniles dished up dandy hockey against good opposition to wrap up their two-game series. Marines had lost the first tilt 3-1 and had to be in top form to come from behind and win in convincing manner. They now meet the Belleville-Kingston victors and the Quinte juves won out o'er the K's, while Kingston bantams and midgets took two wins against their Belleville rivals. The P.M.H.A. has done a big job for minor hockey here in recent years and it's starting to pay off nicely.

So Hans Hermann was stabbed night before last in London, eh? 'Twas in a tag team match in the Western Ontario city and the towering Teuton had fans so infuriated that they mobbed him after the bout. Six cops had to break it up, but someone used a knife or a piece of glass to rip the big German near the kidney ere he escaped to his dressing room. They also tore Referee Bunny Dunlop's trousers partly off before he got out of the mess. However, Hermann wasn't too seriously hurt—he had grappled here earlier in the week—and was able to go against Layton in Toronto last evening, being disqualified in that bout. These guys sure can arouse customer hatred in a hurry to rabid heights.

Out-Of-Town Rinks Take Curling Awards

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP). — Two veteran out-of-town rinks have carried off their first major awards at the 25th annual Ontario bonspiel.

Lou E. Ross's Agincourt crew—took the prized Royal York trophy Thursday night in a tight match with Frank Avery of Toronto Curling Club. At the end of the ninth end Ross's rink led by a scant two points at 10-8 but they picked up two more in the 10th and 12th while Avery posted a single in the 11th to finish 12-9.

The Henry Birks Trophy went to Dr. J. F. Brock of Oshawa with a 14-5 triumph over D. P. Douglas of Toronto Civil Service. The Oshawa rink was led by W. F. Mercer with W. R. Strike second and Dr. A. W. Harding, vice.

Startling Display

The score stood tied at 5-5 at the end of the sixth and as Dr. Brock's stonemen broke away in a startling display of skill which earned them nine points and left Douglas scoreless in the final four ends. The Civil Service four conceded the match at the finish of the 10th end.

Mel Cunnington, 1951 winner of the Seagram Trophy, appeared to be skipping his Toronto rink to another 'spiel triumph as he moved into the finals today for the Seiberling Trophy.

He edged T. S. Graham another Toronto skip, 12-10 to line up against Kingston's C. E. Wharrie who topped Percy Power of Detroit, Ontario Curling Association president, 13-8.

CURLING NOTES

By HERB MARTIN

The main topic of conversation at the curling rink these days is the MacDonald-Brier bonspiel. The air is full of it and the curlers are full of it. It's the first time these provincial honors have come our way and we are justly proud.

When the boys, headed by Dr. J. Ralph Clark, begin play in Winnipeg on March 3 we feel sure that friends who follow our winter sport will be listening to the nation-wide broadcast. When the commentator announces that the Ontario lead has done this or that it would be nice to know who is who on this famous rink. So today we will give a quick rundown of the rink personnel:

Burritt Harrison—Lead

Burritt was born just outside the city but has lived practically all his life in the city. He attended the city public schools and the collegiate. He is married and is an employee at the C.G.E. He has done all his curling in Peterborough and this is his eighth year at the game. He has been a very successful curler having last year skipped the rink that won the Ontario Colts competition.

Ken Bissett—Second

Ken came to Peterborough about 11 years ago from Trossocks, Sask. He began his curling "away out west" and has taken part in all the major western bonspiels. He has been curling close to 25 years. He is married and is also employed at the C.G.E. Of a quiet disposition he can nevertheless toss a wicked shot. He will give a good account of himself.

Vic Brown—Vice-Skip

Vic is also another westerner, having come from Goodwater, Sask. about 15 years ago. He played a little before coming east but most of his curling has been right here in Peterborough. He has played on the Colts rink and this year was one of the District Cup skips. He is married and like his brother-in-law, Ken Bissett, is employed at the C.G.E. He can play any kind of a shot he is asked to do and plays them well. The tougher the going the better he likes it.

Dr. Ralph Clark—Skip

Ralph has come a long way since he first joined our club as a junior away back in 1928-29. We remember when he skipped the boys to win the junior tankard in 1932. He was raised here and attended the public schools and the collegiate and then in 1939 he graduated in medicine from Queen's.

Over the years he has gained vast experience. He has skipped our tankard entry on more than one occasion and he has won many trophies—the latest being the beautiful sterling silver Seagram Trophy from Quebec City. He is married and is well known for his medical ability. He is a steady player and a heady one. With those other three ahead of him he should go a long way in this curling classic.

Brazil To Tackle Hans Hermann

Hans Hermann, boasting two easy victories over Bill Stack and Warren Bockwinkle, had his demands for a main bout accepted. The hated German grappler has been matched with the sensational colored giant, Bobo Brazil. This pair will be in the feature bout at the Brock next Tuesday.

Hermann is by far the most despised wrestler to ever appear here. His ruthless tactics and strutting manner really rifles the fans. Brazil, on the other hand, is very popular. He is a clean, fast, scientific matman, who can be rugged when it is necessary, and seems an ideal choice to test the ability of the haughty Hermann.

The Teuton will find Brazil a different proposition than his other two opponents as the colored boy's head butts has stopped the best of them.

Fred Atkins, the Australian hard rock, takes on a newcomer, Ray Clarke, in the semi-final. Clarke has quite a reputation in mat circles and should give Atkins some real opposition.

Jim (the Bull) Wright, who made a good impression in his only start here, tangles with Pat Flanagan in the opener.

Russia Asks IIHF Affiliation

OSLO, Feb. 22 (CP).—Russia has formally applied for membership in the International Ice Hockey Federation and its acceptance into the world governing body of the amateur hockey is expected within six weeks, it was announced today.

The Russians signed a document agreeing to abide by all I.I.H.F. statutes and regulations. Soviet membership in the Federation will pave the way for Russian participation in future Olympic and international hockey tournaments. A mail vote of the member countries of the I.I.H.F. will be held shortly.

Dr. Fritz Kraatz of Zurich, Switzerland, president of the Federation, said he expected most of the affiliated members would support the Reds' request.

Russia applied for membership last month but was turned down when its application did not contain all the information required by the I.I.H.F., particularly in regards to the Soviet association's statutes. This now has been straightened out.

P. of W. Victorious

Prince of Wales downed Confederation 3-2 in their Public School Hockey League semi-final playoff yesterday in the Arena. In a fast, close and rather rugged encounter, McFadden came up with two goals for the winners, Playford getting the other, and Robinson and Jay each having an assist. Casey and Moore were the scorers for the losers, Kimball helping on one. It was nip-and-tuck most of the way. The winners drew four of the six penalties. Teams:

Prince of Wales — Smillie, Doughty, White, Shaw, Murphy, Jay Robinson, Playford, Morley, Parker, McFadden, Barrie, Butler.

Confed. — Outwater, Woods, Patterson, Kimball, Casey, Moore, Moffat, Warner, Nichols, Copping, Pulkinghorn.

Referee—D. Lawless.

Last Night's Stars

By The Canadian Press.

Dickie Moore, Montreal, whose two goals enabled the Canadiens to play to a 3-3 tie with Boston Bruins.

Bill Mosienko, Chicago, who scored twice and picked up an assist as the Black Hawks routed Toronto Maple Leafs 5-1.

Atom-Eating Cattle Teach Scientists Secrets

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 — (CP)— Scientists, trying hard to uncover animal life secrets to help human knowledge, are feeding atoms to cows to find out how their mysterious "beer-vat" stomachs work.

They're feeding radio active sulphur molecules to sheep in an endeavor to find ways to grow cheaper wool.

Geiger counters to follow the atom's trail are being used as the scientists, following Canada's policy of applying the atom to peace-time projects, pursue the atom animal project at Canada's central experimental farm on the western outskirts of Ottawa.

Dr. B. D. Migicovsky of Winnipeg one of a group of scientists in the project, said today sheep, chickens and cattle are all taking part in the scheme to cull secrets from mother nature.

"Sometimes we inject radiostopes, a by-product of the Chalk River atomic development, into the animal's body," said Dr. Migicovsky. "Other times we feed the animal on a diet of isotopes mixed with regular feed. Projects are going on all the time. The radiostopes in the animal's body are harmless.

Study Metabolism

"Our object is to study the metabolism of mineral elements and the mode of action of vitamin D."

In layman's language that means, roughly, that the technicians are checking, for example, on how calcium gets into various parts of the body to make bone structure. They want to see how vitamin D goes about preventing rickets.

Scientists, added Dr. Migicovsky still don't know too much about the cow's stomach. They don't know, for instance, the complete process of fermentation in one of the four stomachs called the remen, where the cow turns grass into flesh-making matter.

Scientists also know that the wool on sheep contain a quantity of sulphur. By feeding the sheep a diet of radio active sulphur molecules, the scientists are trying to find out if it is the sulphur in the diet that is helping the wool growth.

Liberal Party Row Splits B.C. Coalition

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 22 (CP). —Opposition Leader Herbert Anscomb contended in the Legislature Thursday that Premier Johnson broke the Coalition Government because "He had a very extensive row in his own party."

Coalition broke up Jan. 18 when Jremier Johnson demanded the resignation of then Finance Minister Anscomb, co-chief in coalition and P.C. leader.

Mr. Anscomb said: "He (the premier) was faced with a convention ahead of him and he knew if he had any hope at all of remaining supreme at that convention that he must break the coalition because sections of his party were dominant on that point."

Tax Deal

Referring to the Dominion-Provincial taxation deal, Mr. Anscomb said: "I wonder if it was not the unpardonable sin of a Conservative being successful where a Liberal had failed."

The P.C. leader said he had informed Premier Johnson before Jan. 15 of the new terms of the Dominion - Provincial taxation agreement.

The premier fired the finance minister three days later for what he said was Mr. Anscomb's premature release to the press of details of the agreement before it had been placed before the cabinet.

Mr. Anscomb announced the same day that he would take the 11 P.C.'s in the Coalition Government into opposition and said his instructions contained no mention of making a statement on the agreement before conferring with the cabinet.

2 French Plays Wins Praise

MONTREAL, Feb. 22—(CP)— Two French plays, by Montreal and Sherbrooke, Que., theatrical companies, were staged Thursday night at the western Quebec Regional Drama festival.

"Dieppe," by Canadian dramatist, Marc Pilon, was presented by Le Trait D'Union of Montreal, under the direction of Henri Norbert.

Adjudicator Henri LeFevre found it "realistic drama, true to its wartime setting." He praised its highly-professional performance and the imaginative and resourceful set by Claude Dupuis.

The Sherbrooke group, Le Cercle Theatral, was seen in "La Maison Du Printemps" (The House of Spring), a lyric comedy by Fernand Milhaud.

Mme. Rene LeClaire, who directed, was complimented along with her players for showing "good talent" and keeping interest in "a slight work for all its romantic qualities."

2 Fliers Killed

WINNIPEG, Feb. 22 — (CP) — Names of two flying students who were killed Wednesday in the crash of a Harvard training plane near Westbourne, Man., were announced Thursday by the R.C.A.F. They were: PO. James Hugh Wood, of Parry Sound, Ont., and PO. John Marshall Simmons, of St. Petersburg, Fla.

Says Sumerian Invented Scale

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP)—Prof. Fritz M. Heichelheim of the University of Toronto said Thursday he is convinced that an imaginative musician who plucked his harp in Southern Mesopotamia 4,500 years ago invented the first written musical scale and unwittingly gave the world its alphabet.

His theory was given an interview, published as a copyright story in The Globe and Mail. Briefly, it is this:

Between 3,000 and 2,000 B.C. the Sumerian invented a musical notation system of 21 signs, the first system devised to put music into writing. There were 21 signs because the harp of that time had a scale of 21 notes.

The Sumerian chose the signs out of the cuneiform script of the day, which had hundreds of symbols but no alphabet. The 21 notes, comparable to today's dohre-mi sequence could have the meaning of syllables and eventually were translated into language symbols, retaining the scale sequence which gave the alphabet its order.

A paper by Dr. Heichelheim on his theory has just been published in Milan in the Italian archaeological journal Epigraphica.

COTC Students To Train In Germany

OTTAWA, Feb. 22 (CP).—In an unprecedented officer training program, the Canadian Army will send 74 university undergraduates to Europe next summer to train with the 47th Canadian Infantry Brigade.

Announcing the program on Thursday, the army said those selected will be drawn from three-year students about to undergo the third practical phase of the officers' training. Quotas will be allotted to army commands to permit as wide a representation as possible.

Factors affecting selection will include the cadet's military future reports on his training and study, both academic and in the second practical phase of C.O.T.C. instruction and the recommendation of the commanding officer of his university contingent.

The cadets selected will concentrate at Longue Pointe, Montreal, for movement overseas by ship. Tentative sailing dates have been listed for May 5, May 19, June 2 and June 30. Steps will be taken to return them to Canada in sufficient time for fall university registrations.

In Europe, the cadets will be attached to various Canadian Army units now training in Germany, and have an opportunity of serving with Atlantic pact forces in Europe.

"This will be a beneficial and broadening experience which should do much to foster a better understanding of the problems, military, political and economic, which confront the peoples of Europe," the army announcement said.

McGill Enrolment Showing Decrease

MONTREAL, Feb. 22—(CP)— McGill University Thursday reported enrolment for the current academic year of 6,820, a decrease of 532 from last year.

A spokesman said the drop was mainly due to graduation of veteran students who in the first few years after the Second World War, sent enrolment to record heights.

This year 979 Second World War veterans are enrolled, compared with 1,699 the preceding year.

Black Hawks Do It Again Club Leafs 5-1, Canadiens Bruins Tie 3-3

By CRAIG SWAYZE, Canadian Press Staff Writer

Way back when it counted, Chicago Black Hawks couldn't seem to come up with a win no matter how hard they tried. Stumbling along the bottom of the National Hockey League standings, they sank deeper and deeper into the cellar. Attendance—not strong to begin with—began falling off worse than ever. The front office was worried and coach Ebbie Goodfellow vainly shifted his bruised and apathetic lines in an effort to come up with a winning combination.

The club lost rookie Fred Hucul with a mysterious leg ailment. Then star centreman Doug Bentley announced his retirement and returned to his Saskatchewan farm. Next, the Hawks' best defenceman, big Jack Stewart, told manager Bill Tobin he was through. Sunday afternoon games were scheduled in an effort to combat the lure of evening television shows which were exposing empty tiers in the 20,000-fan Chicago stadium.

Then, just as mysteriously as they had failed to win, the Hawks began to show some life. Some of their junior farmhands were given a tryout. Hucul returned, his strange illness gone. The team began winning games. Clubs that had found the Hawks easy pickings earlier in the season, became embarrassed losers.

Chicago, 41 points off the pace set by the league-leading Detroit Red Wings, were assuming the role of spoilers.

The Hawks did it again Thursday night. For the third time in as many games, Toronto Maple Leafs failed to click against the tail-end club. Chicago clubbed them 5-1 before 9,614 delighted fans.

Lose Second Place

The loss cost Leafs sole possession of second place as the Montreal Canadiens scored twice in the third period to gain a 3-3 tie with Boston Bruins. The win moved the Habs into a deadlock with the Leafs, 15 points behind the Red Wings.

Chicago took little time to warm up to their task, holding an unprecedented 3-0 first period lead before going on to hold a 4-1 edge at the finish of the middle session. Another goal in the final stanza heaped added insult on the discouraged Leafs.

Bill Mosienko tallied twice for the winners, once in the first period and once in the final. Pete Horeck, Fred Hucul and Al Dewsbury scored the other Chicago goals while Tod Sloan spoiled Harry Lumley's shutout with the Leafs' lone marker near the end of the second period.

Twelve penalties were handed out by referee Red Storey, four of them majors and two misconduct sentences. Hugh Bolton and Bill Juzda of the Leafs and Fred Hucul and Lee Fogolin of the Hawks drew five minutes each for fighting. The misconducts went to Juzda and Clare Raglan for a penalty box set-to.

Gain Deadlock

In Montreal, the Bruins took a 2-1 first period lead and lengthened it to 3-1 by the finish of the second. Final period goals by Paul Meger and Dickie Moore gave the Canadiens their 3-3 deadlock.

Rookie Real Chevrefils gave Boston their lead after only 36 seconds of play and Dunc Fisher made it 2-0. Moore scored an earlier goal for the Habs' first marker just before the period ended.

Ed Kryzanowski put the Bruins into their 3-1 middle session lead before the Montrealer's rallied in the final stanza to gain the tie.

New Attempt Made To Cut ORFU Prestige

By WILFRED GRUSON.

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP). — The Ontario Rugby Football Union, once a power in senior football and always a staunch supporter of the Canadian Rugby Union, today faced a new attempt to rob it of its last bit of prestige.

At the annual meeting of the C.R.U., some delegates are expected to urge elimination of the eastern Canada final between the O.R.F.U. champions and the Big Four winner.

In the post-war years the once-potent O.R.F.U., which has been content not to become out-and-out professional, has been forced to take a back seat to the wealthy Big Four and Western Canada leagues.

The eastern Canada final, with the O.R.F.U., no longer a match for the Big Four champions, has gradually lost its appeal and Myer Insky of Montreal, retiring C.R.U. president, said Thursday night it no longer should be held.

Suggests Grant

He said the O.R.F.U. only went through with the game for the money it obtains from it. He understood this attitude and because of the large part the O.R.F.U. had taken in promoting football for so many years he would suggest to the C.R.U. that some method be found to pay a grant to the league providing it could forgo the final.

Insky admitted that strong opposition could be expected from the O.R.F.U. which always has been proud of the fact that it has won an impressive number of Grey Cups in the past and still has a chance, however, remote, that one of its teams can do it again.

The subject of the eastern Canada final will come up at a closed meeting of the C.R.U. executive today and before an open general meeting Saturday. The sessions began Thursday night when the rules committee met to draw up rule changes, which will not be released until presented to the general meeting.

A proposal by the Big Four Union for a two-game Grey Cup final will get a full airing at Saturday's session. It has little chance of being passed since the Western Canada Conference is opposed to any change.

A. U. Chipman of Winnipeg, who will succeed Insky as president, said the west's major league will vote against it because it is convinced that a two-game series will make the final a less attractive spectacle.

2-A-Day Mail Not In Sight

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP)—Hon. Alcide Cote, newly appointed postmaster-general, said Thursday no immediate consideration is being given to restoring two-a-day mail deliveries, though it is something he plans to look into.

He told reporters he naturally is in the process of learning all he can about his new department, and that the question of mail deliveries is one of a number of problems he plans to study.

Other postal authorities said it would be some time before the department could get two mail deliveries a day back into operation, if the government decided to restore that service. New staffs must be hired and the whole house-to-house delivery system re-organized.

The government dropped two-a-day deliveries a year ago as an economy measure.

Acquitted of Murder

CALGARY, Feb. 22—(CP)—A six-man jury Thursday acquitted Mrs. Gwedolyn Dreher, 26, on a charge of murdering her 28-year-old former fiance, Clarence M. Franklin. Mrs. Dreher, wife of Calgary Police Constable W. L. Dreher, had been on trial since Feb. 11. Franklin was shot in the Dreher's suite last Nov. 30.

Field Crop Value

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP)—The gross value of Canada's 1951 principal field crops was estimated by the Bureau of Statistics Thursday at a record $1,977,105,000—an increase of more than $100,000,000 over the preliminary estimate of $1,896,000,000. It also was about $100,000,000 higher than the previous record of $1,854,500,000 for Canadian farm field-crop production in 1950.

Won't Train In U.S.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (Reuters)—The United States Defence Department and the army have no plans at present to bring German officers to the U.S. for military training, a spokesman said Thursday. But he conceded that the U.S. Military Command in Europe could have such plans under consideration.

Hangman's Tree Stands Before U.K. Rest Camp

By MICHAEL RAMSDEN

INCHON, Korea, Feb. 22—(Reuters)—A hangman's tree stands in front of a house in the British rest camp here, stark memorial to an atrocity.

But the 2,500 Commonwealth soldiers who have passed through to lose their batle fatigue are more interested in a cup of tea in bed in the morning, hot showers, fishing through the ice and playing football.

Chinese Communist soldiers last year dragged four wounded U.S. soldiers and a Korean doctor out of the house to bayonet and shoot them beneath the tree.

They hanged the doctor from a branch above the bodies.

UN infantrymen found evidence of the atrocity later as they pursued the retreating Communist forces.

Never Mentioned

Today, the tree is in a camp where 200 British and Commonwealth troops live. One man in the camp knows its story, but he never mentions it.

The reason Capt. Robert Jenkins keeps the secret is that the men in the camp are battle veterans, there to relax and to forget war.

Jenkins is commanding officer of the First Commonealth Division rest centre. Troops come here from the foxholes and bunkers for five days of complete rest. Discipline is eased and the men can sleep or lie on their beds all day. They do not have to shave or parade. And they get "a good cuppa" in bed every morning.

The site was formerly a luxury resort for high-ranking officers of the Japanese occupation force in Korea.

Bombing and shelling from the sea by UN planes and ships demolished the original buildings. Men in the camp now live in comfortable winterized tents.

There are recreation rooms, a good library and reading room, a brightly decorated dining room and theatre, a barber's shop and the tavern.

The camp's latest acquisitions are two members of the Women's Voluntary Service, the first British service women stationed in Korea. They have already begun to add some feminine touches.

All Patients Just Same To Studio Doctor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 22—(AP)—It could be Lana Turner's hangnail or the sprained ankle of a janitor. All patients are the same to Dr. Helen Jones.

Dr. Jones is the studio physician at MGM and she is perhaps the only person on the lot who doesn't observe the star system.

"Each patient gets the same kind of care from me", she remarked. "When I took the job, I didn't expect to last six weeks. I liked to go to the movies sometimes, but show business and its stars meant nothing to me. I saw no reason why I should treat any patient differently, just because he was a movie star."

Worked Fine

Dr. Jones has surprised herself by lasting 15 years at the studio, she recalled her "first name" patient — a well-known comedian who had scratched his shoulder in a bathing scene.

"He was admiring himself in the hospital mirror," she remembered. "I had to remind him that I was the one to do the examining, not him. I have since had to have that mirror painted over, because of the actor patients."

Dr. Jones recently performed a dual function, adding to her regular duties the technical advising on "The Girl In White." In the picture, June Allyson plays the role of Dr. Emily Dunning Barringer, New York ambulance surgeon.

Civic Hospital Asks City For $223,026 For 1952

City council is being asked for a grant of $223,026.94 to balance the Civic Hospital's 1952 budget which falls just short of the million dollar mark. The grant which is $121,610.74 higher than the city's 1951 contribution toward operating expenses, is needed to close the gap between revenue and expenditure, estimated at $986,844.96 for the year.

Based on assessment, the value of a mill in Peterborough is about $40,000. If council grants the amount requested, it will mean a boost of nearly three mills in the 1952 tax rate.

Alderman Doug Miller told the board that home-owners are already paying between $50 and $60 in taxes toward hospital deficits, plus what they have to pay if they are unfortunate enough to have to be admitted to hospital.

Approve Budget

At its February meeting Thursday night, the hospital board approved the budget submitted by its finance committee. The city council was also requested to pay the 1951 operating deficit of $40,033.05 immediately.

The budget figures are based on the 1951 average of 176.5 patients per day, or 68.5 occupancy.

Until council passes its own budget, the board is asking for an interim grant of $18,000 for January and also for February and for each succeeding month until the burget is approved.

T. T. Rodger, chairman of the finance committee said that the amount requested from the city was "roughtly $5.50 per capita. This is relatively little for the value the citizens are receiving from having a hospital of this size, quality and efficiency in the community," said Mr. Rodger.

Salary Increases

"The biggest factor in our budget is salary increases of $98,000 which was inescapable. We were forced into it," added Mr. Rodger.

"Plus a loss of close to $60,000 on indigent patients," interjected John R. Marshall, and Mr. Rodger went on to say that the board would only be receiving about $183,000 from the city taking into consideration the loss on indigent patients from the city.

The estimated operating expenses for 1952 are only $105,287.55 above what it cost to run the hospital in 1951. The budget estimates show increases for all categories of expenses, but the committee stated that the increases "are for the most part unavoidable. They were arrived at after careful scrutiny of their

Teacher Beaten, Will Investigate

PORT HOPE, Feb. 22.—Full investigation will be made Monday night into the assualt Wednesday on a male schoolteacher in Port Hope. The teacher was attacked by one of his pupils, a boy.

A misunderstanding in school work, it was said, brought on the incident. The teacher was badly beaten about the face and mouth, and asked for an investigation.

On Thursday the teacher expressed the opinion that the occurrence should be made public, as he felt school authorities should secure some sort of protection for teachers against such happenings.

Some sources have said drastic measures will be taken by the board at the Monday night meeting.

REPRESENTING A NORTH CAVAN grgup favoring a split with the Peterborough Area High School Board, 25 ratepayers toured Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School to see where the money went that they paid for educating their children. Reports after the tour were that the group was much impressed by the calibre of teachers and equipment at the school. Shown in the LEFT photo are Percy Stewart and Aubrey Bland of Mount Pleasant watching Chane Carter studying a voltmeter in the electrical shop. 119 City Women Collect To Help Community Fund

In approximately 10 days 119 women will go to work in Peterborough soliciting funds for the 1952 Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign.

Objective $5,000.

These workers make up the Women's Division of the campaign and are under the chairmanship of Mrs. J. P. Watts. This division is one of the four divisions operating within the campaign which are shooting at a total objective of $85,000.

The Women's Division campaign takes the form of a house-to-house canvass with workers contacting citizens, who would otherwise not be given an opportunity to contribute to the fund.

All Volunteers.

Every worker is a volunteer, who will be spending two weeks, March 3-14 calling at homes in a specified district. A master plan has been drawn in which the city has been divided into six sections. North Cavan Ratepayers Inspect Collegiate To See Where Money Goes

North Cavan ratepayers, representing a group who have discussed secession from the Peterborough Area High School Board, took a tour through the collegiate Thursday afternoon. After touring the academic side of the school, the 25 visitors went through the vocational department, visiting the shops and commercial classrooms.

The ratepayers have been protesting the high cost of education, and planned to split with the Peterborough board, switching their affiliation to the Millbrook high school district.

Answer Questions

Making the visit with them and answering their questions were board secretary John Kitney, B. W. Switzer, head of the vocational department, and Bruce Sargent. It was Mr. Switzer who suggested the trip.

The three "guides" said later that they felt the trip had been a real education for the North Cavan group. Reasons for the cost of education would be more apparent to them, it was felt.

The visitors were impressed by the "high calibre of the teachers and the equipment in the school," they said.

The trip was undertaken, they said, not so much in the spirit of winning over the North Cavan ratepayers, but more to explain the reasons for the expense of education.

No Usual Grants No Civic Surplus

"If the customary grants from the city and county had been received, the Civic Hospital would have had an operating surplus of $2,500 for the month of January," treasurer T. T. Rodger told the Board of Governors Thursday night.

Neither the city nor the county bring down their budgets until March and without the assistance of grants, the hospital ended the month with a deficit of approximately $17,163,31.

The financial statement for the month shows an operating deficit of only $12,568.32 but a footnote states that salaries are only included up to January 28, and that the balance for the remaining three days is estimated at $4,495. bringing the deficit up to $17,163.-31.

Patients' Revenue

Net patient revenue, after the usual three per cent allowance for doubtful accounts is up $8,-383.22 over January of last year.

Total revenue from all sources was up $10,290.68 in January this year from January 1951.

Expenses also increased by $4,-734.29, as compared with January of last year. Increases in salaries accounted for $2,320.15 of this increase in expenditures over the first month of 1951.

The number of patients treated during January was 669, 45 more than were treated during December, but two less than the 1951 average of 671 per month.

Skids On Ice, Car Smashes Into Tree

Driving west on Hunter St., Thursday night, Clinton Stockdale, Smith township, skidded on the slippery street surface and ran into a tree on the southwest corner of the Rubidge St., intersection.

He told police that as he approached the intersection, a southbound car did not stop for the sign until it was well into the intersection. In attempting to avoid the other car, Stockdale said he slid into the tree, causing an estimated $200 damage to the front end of his car.

Shortt-Sighted

A hasty flight to Peterborough by Mrs. Albert Shortt, Belleville, in answer to a telegram that her sister was sick, gave her husband quite a shock. He came home to find his wife and children gone. There was no note and he was unable to find out what had happened to his family. Mrs. Shortt had not had time to leave a note, but thought that if she left the telegram behind, that would tell her husband what was happening. When she arrived in Peterborough, she found the telegram in her purse.

School Supplies Expected To Cost $24,800

Estimates for the supervision committee of the Board of Education are $24,800 for 1952. This is $2,010 more than last year's estimates and $3,549 more than the actual expenditure.

These estimates are only tentative and they must still be approved by the Board before the budget is finally drawn up for the year.

Following is a list of 1952 estimates compared with 1951 disbursements:

Public Schools	$12,925 and 11,406
Col. Academic	$8,275 and $6,870
Col. Voc.	$8,275 and $2,976

$800 For Kenner

Collegiate estimates include $800 for school supplies, printing and stationery in the new Kenner Collegiate.

In the public school accounts the estimates are boosted slightly. New maps and record players must be purchased; an amount set aside to cover any change in the provincial text-book grant; $200 more for supplementary reading books; more money for manual training because of larger classes and higher cost of lumber; an extra Grade XIII scholarship.

No piano will be bought this year so the music appropriation is lowered.

Largest items in the public schools account: school supplies $3,200; pupils' supplies (blank books, paper, pencils, etc.) $2,500; library and supplementary reading $2,000; and manual training and woodworking $1,600.

In 1951 the school supplies account for collegiate academic and vocational accounts was overspent. So this year the estimates are up—$4,750 compared with an actual expenditure in 1951 of $3,631. The 1951 estimate was $3,100.

Here is a breakdown of school supplies: books for classroom use $500; general stationery $2,500; projector $500, film strips etc. $100, miscellaneous $100, office typewriter $100, record player and adding machine $200. Total $4,750.

In the vocational library account $100 of the $350 is for books and magazines for the vocational department. Cost of books bought for the general library is divided 2-3 academic and 1-3 vocational.

Art Materials

Art estimates have been increased slightly to cover the cost of more expensive materials and for purchase of a small kiln.

Because of an under-estimate in 1951, caused by bus rent and car allowances for instructors, the 1952 estimates have been increased for physical training.

Printing and stationery are also up. The academic estimate of $1,150 includes $300 for Kenner Collegiate. The vocational estimate of $600 is $19 less than the 1951 expenditure.

Major Jack Peterson To Leave For Home

Major Jack Peterson, one-time reporter of the Examiner, who left the mayor's chair in St. Thomas to serve in Korea is coming home soon.

He wrote from Korea that he expects to be in St. Thomas in two weeks. At present second in command of the Royal Canadian Regiment in Korea, he will command the advance party leaving Korea for Canada early in March.

City Firemen Protest C-O-L Cuts

Cheques Smaller As Bonus Lowered; Say Contract Stands

City employees of the Fire Department saved themselves this morning an item of twenty cents, the cost of mailing another registered letter to the council protesting again the clip in their pay cheques which they received today.

One of the members of their Association told the Examiner: "We sent them our first protest on Feb. 8, and we registered the letter to make certain they would get it. So, with that one in their possession, we didn't think it necessary to repeat it today."

Firemen contend that, by the authority which enables them to enter into agreements with the city council, their 1951 agreement carries in its effect into 1952 or until a new working agreement has been arranged and signed.

Ignored Provision

The Association protests that the city council has ignored this provision which the men regard as a right to which the council gave its full extent.

They say that their cost of living allowance has been reduced from the last year level, instead of being increased.

Just for example, it is said, this cost of living arrangement amounted in the case of a first-class fireman, and to all the others, to 17% of his salary. They have been contending that it should move up to 19%.

"Instead of that they have cut us back to 14%," the fire fighter said.

Many Dissatisfied

"Our men are dissatisfied, so are the policemen, as reported, and so are various other employees of the city. The council has simply refused to bargain with us, but our protest still stands. Our bargaining committee and the rest of the men have thought it looked strange that the Examiner was not publishing anything of this matter and its details."

On that point, and briefly, the members of the Fire Fighters' Association may be informed that times have changed in the methods of the city council.

The Association's representatives should recall the procedure of a few years ago when their presentations to the council on matters financial were heard by the finance committee.

In the last few years, the council itself, or otherwise, has devised another process of interview. They have a salary committee composed of five members. On the other hand the finance committee is composed of all the members of the council.

What the firemen recall is the former practice of all the members of council hearing and dealing with salaries of that department. And the press was free to attend those finance committee meetings.

But, it is probably a fact that the press has never attended any meeting of the salary committee, although the self same affairs were formerly discussed by the finance committee, and were reported from their meetings, without any resulting frictions.

Notices of meetings of the salary committee are never sent out, at least not to the Examiner; but notices of meetings of the standing committees are received through the mail.

That is the difference the members of the Fire Fighters' Association have noticed.

MAYOR'S PROCLAMATION

I have pleasure in proclaiming the week commencing Sunday, February 24th, as "Victorian Order of Nurses for Canada Week" in the City of Peterborough, marking 55 years of valuable service to Canadians.

The nurses of the V.O.N. pride themselves on never refusing a call to attend the sick in their homes. Charity cases are just one phase of their work, as they minister to the needs of both the rich and the poor, regardless of colour, race, or creed. Operating 108 branches across the country, the V.O.N. last year cared for 135,180 patients, making almost one million visits.

In urging your support for this National V.O.N. Week, I hope that everyone will realize that the local branch of the V.O.N. is a valuable asset to our city, and that its services are available to all of us.

HUGH F. WADDELL,
Mayor.

Sees Canada Able To Meet Newsprint Needs

NEW YORK, Fe... (CP)—Canadian mills in time will be able to meet the increasing world demand for newsprint because the limits of expansion of the industry have not been reached, R. M. Fowler, president of the Newsprint Association of Canada, said today.

Fowler told the annual meeting of the American Paper and Pulp Association that through machine speed-up and improvement the Canadian newsprint industry could go on expanding at least until 1960 and could yield 944,000 tons of extra capacity.

"I think this shows conclusively," he said, "that if the United States and other countries throughout the world wish to use more newsprint, and if they choose and are able to buy from Canada, they will in due course be able to obtain it."

Regarding pulp, Fowler said that in an emergency North America could be "reasonably self-sufficient." For every log of Canadian wood going into newsprint, another log goes into other paper and pulp products.

Just Reversed

The U.S. consumed 2,000,000 tons more pulp than she produced, and Canada produced about 2,250,000 tons more pulp than she consumed.

"The two countries taken together had an almost exact balance between production and consumption—there was, in fact, a 250,000-ton surplus," Fowler said.

Indications are that new investment in pulp and paper mills and facilities in Canada will exceed $600,000,000 between 1950 and 1955, he said.

In dollar terms this is a rate of investment 79 per cent greater than the growth of the industry between 1946 and 1950 and in volume terms it is about 35 per cent greater than in that period.

The industry was capitalized at about $750,000,000 in 1945, at more than $1,000,000,000 in 1950 and if present plans materialize the capital value will be about $1,750,000,000 by 1955.

BEAMING DUO—Movie queen Elizabeth Taylor clasps hands with her husband-to-be, Michael Wilding, shortly after arriving at a London airport. The 19-year-old star and the British actor, 41, were married Thursday. It will be the second trip to the altar for each of them.

SARNIA, Feb. 22 (CP)—Jerome Meneray, 17, of Lions Head, was convicted Thursday of careless driving by a Supreme Court jury. He will be sentenced today by Mr. Justice D. P. J. Kelly.

Meneray was charged with manslaughter in an accident December 6 at a highway intersection 19 miles east of Sarnia when Ptes. Robert Plumb and Clifford Helm, of the Princess Pats, were killed. Meneray's car collided with a truck driven by E. W. Bowern, of London.

Toronto Island Conditions Said Bad

TORONTO, Feb. 22—(CP)—Parks Commissioner Walter J. Love said Thursday that if conditions on Toronto Island in Toronto Harbor became worse, the city may be forced to move many of the 3,100 year-round residents off the island.

Temperance Group To Meet With Frost

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP)—The Ontario Temperance Federation will meet Premier Frost next Wednesday to discuss recommendations regarding liquor legislation, it was announced Thursday.

The Rev. Allen Ferry of Toronto, a United Church minister, said the temperance movement has lost its fire and vigor.

"If this represents the temperance forces in Ontario, then God help us" he declared. "The plain fact we have to face is that more people are drinking more all the time."

Gordon A. Shewfelt of Toronto was re-elected president.

Suggest Moving U.K. Industries To Other Lands

By The Canadian Press

British Columbians this week learned of a plan aimed at moving many of Britain's industries and skilled manpower to other Commonwealth countries

It is sponsored by the newly-formed Migration Council of Britain and calls for the transfer of industries now concentrated in the over-populated "target area" of the United Kingdom to Canada, Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and Southern Rhodesia.

James W. Meldrum, an executive member of the Council, has been in Vancouver and Victoria outlining the plan to business men.

It was first broached in London by economist Sir Norman Angell and today numbers among its sponsors leading industrialists and business men of England.

"We're working to free the chains, so the industries can move out here, and give you the trade and the population you want," said Mr. Meldrum.

Could Be Moved

Steel works, woollen mills, plastics factories and assembly plants could be moved.

"Whatever you need here, Britain has it," the Council's representative said.

"Get the people to the food and the workers to the source of raw material—that's the 20th century pattern."

The Council proposes that the Commonwealth prime ministers call a conference to discuss distribution of industry and manpower.

Mr. Meldrum said in an interview that the way to liquidate Britain's debt was to invest its industries and skilled manpower in countries like Canada, capable of their development.

He explained that it wouldn't be a lock-stock-and-barrel movement of industries.

Most industries would be moved simply by bringing out the capital to start them. Skilled tradesmen would follow in just the numbers Canada could absorb.

Say Layman's Role Important To Church

BUFFALO, N.Y., Feb. 22 (CP) —The importance of the layman's part in the Christian life was emphasized Thursday by the Very Rev. William Barclay of Toronto, president of the Canadian Council of Churches, when he welcomed delegates to a lay conference.

Dr. Barclay welcomed the delegates to the North American Conference on the Christian and his daily work as "laymen who have come here to look afresh at the significance of their various vocations, especially as they appear in the eyes of loyal churchmen."

The four-day conference was convened by the National and the Canadian Council of Churches.

The conference was a direct result of a growing interest of participation of laymen in the affairs of Protestant churches expressed at the world council at Amsterdam four years ago.

Commit Youth On Murder Count

TORONTO, Feb. 22 (CP)—The story of a youth who sought in vain to marry his pregnant girl friend while he was in reformatory, then found upon his release that the girl by then had married someone else was told in court Thursday.

George Kelly, 21, was committed for trial on charges of murder and wounding in connection with the death of 21-year-old John Nichols, who married the girl. Evidence was that Nichols was stabbed Dec. 23 and died in hospital a month later.

The girl's father, Ernest Waller, testified that Kelly had gone out with his daughter for three years before getting into trouble with the police and being sent to Brampton Reformatory. Kelly learned the girl was going to have a baby but he was refused permission to marry her.

By the time Kelly was released, the girl was Nichols' wife.

Federation Dinner At Norwood Largely Attended — Third East Peterborough Dinner At Warsaw Next Wednesday Evening — Holstein Producers Announce April Banquet — Maple Breeders Meet Here March 6 At 8 p.m. — Quinte Breeders Report 6% Increase

The first dinner meeting of the Federation of Agriculture at Norwood Wednesday evening was another East Peterborough success, enlarging the recent assembly at Westwood. Third of the series will be at Warsaw next Wednesday night.

Henry Sharpe, new president of the county Federation, was chairman, and with him at the head table were Mrs. Sharpe, Warden R. R. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, Rev. H. K. Wright, minister of Norwood United Church which provided hospitable atmosphere for the dinner; Reeve Rorke Ferguson, Harold Lewis, Federation fieldman, and Mrs. Lewis; John Kitney, Federation secretary; V. S. Milburn, Toronto, secretary of the Ontario Federation; Mr. G. A. Brethen and Frank Paterson, agricultural representative.

Mr. Paterson was called up to make the general introductions, and Mr. Milburn was introduced by Mr. Brethen. From his broad experience of years in helping to build up the Federation of Agriculture and commodity groups, Mr. Milburn spoke about the importance of organization within the ranks of agriculture on the basis of the local community all the way up to national and international relationships. He congratulated the East Peterborough people on their enterprise as indicated by the largely attended meeting, by their active Forum groups and by the developing interest among the juniors.

Rev. Mr. Wright in his words of welcome mentioned the name of Mr. Lawrence Kerr of the Chatham area as a selfmade farmer who was prominent in agricultural affairs of the province and Dominion. He said Mr. Kerr, with all the demands on his time imposed by his farming operations was one of his helpful church members there, and made opportunity to assist in promoting farms affairs of Kent county.

Mr. Milburn referred in his address to marketing problems that were pressing upon farmers, and mentioned especially particulars of the poultry marketing scheme that is now being projected.

✦ ✦ ✦

ROLE OF CLUB LEADERS

Club leaders should look upon their club members as future farmers, not simply as boys and girls preparing a calf or gilt or a plot of wheat, said Keith Riddell, agricultural representative in Elgin County, at day's leadership meeting in St. Thomas.

Leaders were performing an important part in helping to guide rural young people through the years between school days and early stage of adulthood. Those who continued in clubs from year to year should be provided with widening interests. If it were a grain club, the leaders might arrange to broaden it for the inclusion of the study of soils.

Mr. Riddell said the Ontario Department of Agriculture wished to encourage this gradual widening of horizons for club members. The boy or girl beginning with a calf should bei nspired with an ambition to develop it into a small herd.

Perseverance of club members was also stressed by Mr. Riddell. Completion of a season's project was important not only in itself, but also for reflexive effect on personality in seeing a thing through, and also in the matter of loyalty to the club.

"Every boy and girl should have an ideal in club work, and should not be out simply to beat the other fellow and win the high honors."

✦ ✦ ✦

Miss Saracuse's interest in Junior work was aroused nine years ago when she joined the Girls' Home Making Club. With her interest and ability she graduated to club leader. Her activities in county organization led to her appointment to a county director and then to the provincial executive. Miss Saracuse is an authority on Junior Farmer work and with her sincere and pleasant manner the Durham Junior Farmers are in for a real treat.

Mr. Oakley Carley of Cavan who is especially interested in the problems of rural young folk will give an outline of his experience with folk schools. A special recreational program has been arranged to be concluded with lunch.

✦ ✦ ✦

NORTHUMBERLAND FEDERATION

Northumberland Federation and its poultry committee are arranging a meeting for Feb. 28 at Brighton. The poultry marketing plan will be explained by a special speaker.

Delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Federation reviewed its affairs in reports at the county session Feb. 13 in the office of Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative, Brighton. They were Mrs. M. W. Woods of Warkworth; Howard Evans, Warkworth and Harry Doxtator, Dartford. Mr. Earle Drope presided.

From his impressions, Mr. Doxtator said 1952 looked like a period of squeeze for farmers. Prices were stationary or declining on the one side, and cost of production was rising on the other.

The dollar was no longer a reliable yardstick to measure value. In 1901, Mr. Doxtator said, an average Canadian worked 21 minutes to pay for a quart of milk. Today, it takes him only twelve minutes.

WATCH "IN-AND-OUTERS"

The following is a letter quoted from the Advocate-Countryman: "It is just about two years ago that we wrote to the Practical Discussions Page saying how foolish we thought those farmers were who were not buying the usual lot of chickens that spring. Egg prices were very low, so many people were quitting chickens.

"We proved to be 100 per cent right. We never made as much money out of hens as we did this past year. Eggs were very high and feed correspondingly low. Nearly everyone made money from hens in 1951. The chickens that were purchased when egg prices were low in 1950 laid eggs when prices were high in 1951. Then when egg prices were high in 1951 too many people bought chickens. Now there are more eggs than the markets can handle and prices are low again. Are we all set for another low hatch this year and high egg prices again in 1953? Will history repeat?

"Father always said that cheap seed in the spring made dear potatoes in the fall but that if seed was very dear, look out for the tubers selling below a dollar a bag next year. That has certainly proven true the last couple of years. Potatoes were so cheap last spring we did not plant enough but this year watch us plan too many. Rotatoes are dear, so seem profitable to grow, with the result that more people will grow them and others will plant larger acreages. It seems we never can learn.

"I suppose there are some excuses for the Western farmer and the Annapolis Valley orchard men. The former has a lot of low grade grain for which he has no market except through pigs and chickens, while the latter has lost the English apple market so has to turn to other means of revenue. He is not going to think much of the chicken business in 1952. The Westerner can take it the best because he has the advantage in much lower feed bills.

"It has been said that the good farmer must watch and study markets so that he can market his product to best advantage. We think it is just as important that he study human nature so that he can gauge what all the in-and-outers in his business are going to do."

QUINTE UNIT MEETINGS

E. Lindsay Anderson was elected president of the Campbellford branch of the Quinte District Cattle Breeding Association last week.

Vice-president is W. A. Petherick; secretary-treasurer Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative in Northumberland. The technician is Walter Elliott. Breeders were present from all parts of the district. Thirty-seven new members were added to the Campbellford section of the Belleville unit last year, increasing their number to nearly 150. There are four branches in Northumberland, Brighton, Grafton, Harwood and Campbellford. The counties centering around the Belleville unit are: Frontenac, Lennox, Addington, Prince Edward, Hastings, Northumberland and Durham.

Breeders in that area were supplied with 19,600 services last year, an increase of 65 per cent over the total of 12,500 in 1950. Campbellford section received 1,397 in 1951.

The Belleville unit added Shorthorns to their stud stock last year, and arranged with Maple breeding unit for semen supply for Ayrshire, Jersey and Guernsey herds. At present there are only 600 head of these breeds in the Quinte district. Directors would require at least 1,000 to warrant purchase sires for the Belleville barn.

Speakers at Campbellford were Dr. J. M. McLean, head of the unit, and Harold Hancock, herdsman.

At Grafton, technician Keith Gardiner, reported a very satisfactory year with the numbers of services moved up from 1,161 to 1,586 this year. Stanley Macklin was reappointed, chairman with D. C. Hoskin, deputy.

At Brighton, in the evening of Thursday 14, there was a large attendance with Douglas Turney and Douglas Fox re-elected as officers. This unit in charge of William Potts had the second largest increase last year.

The series was close at the Harwood meeting where Earle Drope and James Webb were named officers. Ellis Isaac reported good satisfaction with the Shorthorn sires. He had the largest number of new members. Dr. McLean and Harold Hancock of the unit were speakers.

Twelve-year-old Alex McKinney, Brampton, Ont., was the winner of the Junior Judging Competition held in connection with the selection of the All-Canadian show Holsteins. He had a perfect score of 150 points. Second only to Alex and top girl was 15-year-old Bessie Norton, Lansdowne, Ont. with 146 points. Alex is a first year member of the Brampton Calf Club and Bessie has for four years been a member of the Lansdowne Calf Club. 631 boys and girls from calf clubs throughout Canada took part.

Forums Agree On Effect Of Rail Costs

Central Smith and Coldsprings Forums will be guests of Stewart Hall Forum at Wallace Point Hall for review night Monday Feb. 25.

Westwood Forum's proposal for a joint Pot Luck Supper has been accepted by the other Asphodel groups. It will be held at Westwood Monday at 7 p.m. Donegal, Daisy D. Cottesloe and Killarney are the four others which quickly agreed to that suggestion.

Forums this week were virtually unanimouos in finding that railway transportations affects farming expenses and costs.

Thirty-six members of Pine Grove at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Abbott tersely wrote in their verdict: "The increased freight rates add to the cost of production and lowers net farm income." As to the question of what means might be adopted to lower transportation costs, they said: "No suggestions except truck your own."

Mrs. Everett Tully led the discussion at the home of Mrs. Clarence Hancock, where Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss was secretary, reflecting the interest of the women of that group. Sixteen members attended. Their report was: "We are in the competitive area; most transportation is by truck, and rates are cheaper. We are nearer large markets, and the haul is shorter."

As to suggestions: "The construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway ought to lower rates in the east." "We don't believe it would be possible to lower rates in this area; with increase in labor costs, etc., we do not think that prices at present could be lowered."

Nineteen members at Coldsprings said: "Put all forms of transportation under one authority."

Twenty-six at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Rose, Stewart Hall, said effects of transportation were plain in the cost of coal, "and will increase the price of any commodity we as consumers have to buy, that is goods carried by rail, — coal, meat, commercial feeds, concentrates, farm machinery, western grain, etc."

Central Smith said: "Farmers in our Forum are not familiar with freight rates, as they are more or less hidden, but we do know that prices of machinery and repairs on account of freight rates are certainly increased." Eight attended the meeting at the home of the Rev. W. Leaton and Mrs. Leaton. Milton Clark was discussion leader.

Westwood Forum reported: "This topic provoked the least discussion of any subject yet on the program. It was agreed the place at which our farmers felt cost of transportation most was in the increased cost of feeds and delivery charges on machinery; trucking rates for milk to Toronto have also gone up recently."

This was evidently written with a smile by the secretary, Mrs. W. W. Graham: "A suggestion that milk might be picked up in tank cars by hose lines straight from a farm tank cooler, and thus lessen handling and cut down on time and equipment charges, was offered by one of our optimists". Fifteen members were present at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Brackenridge.

Donegal Forum with 30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Beggs declared that high transportation costs affected the marketing of eggs, cattle and hogs; and delivery of feed grain from the west, and farm machinery. They suggested organized trucking; selling at community sales to avoid long distance charges, and "always ship full loads".

Dr. Patterson Quotes Hog Production Survey

Pertinent to the action of the federal government in pegging the price of Grade A dressed hogs at $26 per cwt., are the figures recently quoted by Dr. E. L. Patterson, of the Economics Branch of the Ontario Department of Agriculture.

His estimates of cost of hog production are based on records kept by two producers in each county of the province. They have been quoted annually for some years at the winter meetings of the Peterborough Hog Producers.

Those selected farmers were provided with forms tabulating the elements and factors of cost, and the producer was required to keep his records on that basis.

The purpose of this bookkeeping was to obtain information for hog producers generally, and especially to eliminate mere guessing at costs of production. As might be expected, there was some spread between the figures of these recording produecrs, because feeding and other incidental practice is different.

But, from the statements they supplied the Department, the economics branch could arrive at an average for the entire group of these representative producers.

From those selected production sources it was stated by Dr. Patterson that the cost of maintaining a brood sow for 12 months was around $158. Average production of pigs per sow for the year was 15, which brought the average cost of producing each pig to $10. The average weaning weight for all litters in the test was 27 pounds. This production cost covered labor, depreciation, interest, disease, herd size maintenance and other incidentals up to the time of weaning.

To bring the average weanling pig to 200 lbs. live weight required 697 lbs. of feed. At $4.10 per cwt., that amounted to $28.57.

This same production survey indicated labor cost of $3.74, depreciation on buildings, equipment, etc., $2.43, share of taxes 50c, or a total of $45.83 for the cost of turning out a 200-lb. hog.

From the figures kept and supplied by the producers who undertook this detail of financing for the provincial department, Dr. Patterson said that this total cost could be taken as a fair estimate. He emphasized the point that the farmers selected for this gathering of cost information were better than average.

The $26 floor price on a 200 pound hog would realize $39 on the basis of dressing at 150 pounds.

As a matter of arithmetic the farmer can easily see the difference between the $39 and the $45.83 cited by Dr. Patterson.

Accepting these figures, the difference would be $6.83 less than the cost of production. Trucking cost would have to be added.

Members of Peterborough producers' association know that cost statements have been provided for some years, and they were not disputed as a fair guide. Copies of the compiled cost statement were distributed among the farmers attending the anual meeting "to take home and study" as Dick Graham, of the Ontario Department advised them on one occasion.

Recent demands of producers have sought $28 per cwt. at Winnipeg as the suport level, and an Ottawa explanation affirmed that this would mean 29½ cents a pound at Toronto and Montreal.

HOLSTEIN DINNER

Stanley Wood informed The Examiner yesterday that the annual dinner of Peterborough Holstein Breeders' Club will be held at Club Aragon on Thursday, April 17.

"Details are not arranged to any extent yet," Mr. Wood said, "but we would like the public to know our date, and we hope that many of our farmers will keep it with us that night."

Beef Catte Withstand Winter At Kapuskasing

Motorists who notice Dave Kerr's increasing herd of Herefords at his farm in Smith on the Peterborough-Lindsay Highway taking the air in winter would hardly be surprised as laymen at the ability of beef animals to thrive in rigorous weather farther north.

Mrs. L. A. Charette of the Experimental Station at Kapuskasing, Ont., says "Beef cattle can be wintered successfully in inexpensive quarters and on roughage alone under vigorous climatic conditions".

John Stuart's Old Orchard white face animals were much afield through cold days, and some of that herd can be found today at the Kerr place.

Cold temperatures seem to have little effect on beef cattle that are accustomed to such conditions. However, it is wise to have some protection from winds. Mr. Charette reports that cows are kept loose in an open log shed at the Kapuskasing station. The building is a simple structure measuring 60 ft. by 30 ft. It is divided into two equal size pens; one for storing bedding and the other to be used as a loafing pen.

On the south side there is a double window, and a six-foot door which is left open at all times. The cattle are allowed to go in and out at will. An important requirement to be adhered to closely is that the shelter be kept dry. The practice followed is to change the bedding once a week. The cows can be kept clean very easily if enough bedding is used.

The cattle are fed outside in feed racks that are placed approximately 15 feet from the barn. These racks are constructed in such a manner that the hay can be pushed from the mow to the racks on a cat-walk connecting the two units. The herd is fed twice daily what it will consume of a timothey-clover hay mixture. It is not customary to feed grain to these animals at any time. When cattle are in good condition in the fall, hay alone and free access to a mineral mixture will keep them in good flesh until the pasture season.

Supplying water may present some difficulties on many farms. However, where electricity is available, a 5-gallon trough, inside the pen, equipped with a 300-watt electric immersion heater prevents the water from freezing. This will provide a constant supply of water. When an immersion heater is used a false bottom must be placed in the trough above the heater to prevent the cattle from drinking all of the water, exposing the heater, and causing overheating.

The beef herd at Kapuskasing is taken off pasture in the latter part of October at which time the calves are weaned. Calving takes place in the open barn during March and April. Calves are born during a period when temperatures may drop as low as 35 deg. Fahr. below zero. These extremes do not bother the young stock as much as is generally believed. In the last fifteen years a few calves have been lost accidentally but no death could be attributed to cold weather.

The Birdsall Herefords down in Asphodel get little pampering in their winter way of life, and there are other beef cattle in this district that are evidently a hardy lot.

Bethany Mourns 'Good Neighbor'

BETHANY, Feb. 22 (ENS). — The entire community mourned the passing of Mrs. Margaret McKinley, aged 85, as the large attendance showed at her funeral service here on Wednesday. Mrs. McKinley, the former Margaret Sutton, was born in the Fleetwood district north of Bethany. After her marriage to John Henry McKinley she continued to reside in their farm home, taking a particularly active part in the work of Fleetwood Methodist church and all community affairs.

She was widely known for her good neighborly qualities; highly respected and loved by all who knew her. It is about 25 years since she moved into Bethany village where she continued actively in the Bethany United church and village affairs as long as advancing years and failing health permitted. Last Thursday she became seriously ill and died on Sunday morning.

The funeral was held from her late residence on Wednesday with the Rev. James Hampson in charge of the service, taking as his text "In My Father's house are many mansions; if it were not so, I would not have told you. I go to prepare a place for you." The Rev. J. Wasson of Toronto assisted.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery.

Immediately surviving are her sorrowing family of two sons, Harold of Detroit, Mich., Laverne, R.R. 2, Bethany; three daughters, Miss Rena McKinley at Bethany; Mrs. Maxwell Ross (Alice), and Mrs. William Stringer (Gladys), both of Toronto; and two granddaughters, Miss Mary Lou Ross, Toronto and Miss Ruth McKinley, R.R. 2, Bethany.

Her husband, John Henry McKinley, predeceased her a number of years ago.

The pallbearers were: J. C. Cummiskey, Claire Staples of Bethany; Harry Sutton, Bowmanville; Wellington Sutton, Peterborough; Allan Graham and Alex McMaster, both of Toronto.

Bearing flowers were: Lloyd Staples, Victor Jackson, Bert Longworth, Elsworth Beacock, Clarence Page, Bruce McGill, Lawrence Staples, Allan Beer, Edgar Beer, Cecil Timms, Thomas Staples, Ralph Rowan, Walter Neals, Reg. Edmunds, Bruce Ryley, Harry Jones, Preston Neals, Lewis Staples, Joseph Staples, Mervin Sutton, Leo Murphy, Samuel Clements, R. Pope.

Warriors, Capitals Play To 2-2 Tie

By The Canadian Press.

Syracuse Warriors finally have joined the "tie department."

Syracuse, after playing 59 American Hockey League games to a decision, came up with its first deadlock of the season Thursday night with a 2-2 standoff against Indianapolis Capitols.

The Warriors had no opportunity to play sudden death overtime as they had to catch a train.

Indianapolis jumped off to a 2-0 lead in the first period on goals by Earl Reibel and veteran Ed Bruneteau. The Warriors tied it up in the second period on markers by Kelly Burnett and Billy Gooden.

Goalies Gordie Bell of Syracuse and young Glenn Hall of Indianapolis performed brilliantly.

No General Election Before 1953 If Redistribution Attempted

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Feb. 21 (CP). — A committee likely will be established at the forthcoming session of parliament to study redistribution of representation in the Commons on the basis of the 1951 census.

Formation of the committee may be forecast in the speech from the throne to be read at the opening of the session Feb. 28.

If the redistribution is undertaken at this session it probably will mean that no general federal election will be held before 1953 or early 1954. Life of the present parliament expires Aug. 25, 1954.

Unless the basis of allocating seats is changed, Saskatchewan will lose five of its 20 seats in the Commons. Manitoba will lose two seats and Nova Scotia one. British Columbia will gain four, and Ontario and Quebec two each. Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, Alberta and Yukon will remain unchanged.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner, M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, and John Diefenbaker, prominent Progressive Conservative, are among Saskatchewan representatives who may have to seek new seats.

On the basis of the 1951 census figures this is how the 262 seats in the Commons will be divided in the next parliament, with existing representation in brackets: Newfoundland seven (seven); Prince Edward Island four (four); Nova Scotia 12 (13); New Brunswick 10 (10); Quebec 75 (73); Ontario 85 (83); Manitoba 14 (16); Saskatchewan 15 (20); Alberta 17 (17); British Columbia 22 (18); Yukon one (one).

Commons Standing

This is the present standing in the Commons:

Liberals 184; Progressive Conservatives 45; C. C. F. 13; Social Credit 10; Independent four; Independent Liberal two; vacant four; total 262.

Representation in the Senate is fixed by the British North America Act and will not be affected by the redistribution. Seats in the 102-member upper chamber are divided as follows:

Newfoundland six; Prince Edward Island four; Nova Scotia 10; New Brunswick 10; Quebec 24; Manitoba six; Saskatchewan six; Alberta six and British Columbia six. The Liberals hold 77 of the seats and the Progressive Conservatives eight. There are 17 vacancies—six in Quebec, four in Ontario, four in New Brunswick, and one each in British Columbia, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba.

The formula for distribution of seats in the Commons is set out in the British North America Act. It requires that a redistribution be made after each decennial census. The last redistribution, delayed because of the war, was made in 1947 and took effect in the general election of 1949.

The population of most of the country is used to find the appropriate representation for each province. Yukon is guaranteed a seat, although it has a small population. The formula also states that no province may have fewer members in the Commons than it has Senators.

Prince Edward Island, on the basis of population, would be entitled to two members in the Commons. However, since the island has four Senate seats, it retains four seats in the Commons as well.

For purposes of fixing representation in the other provinces, the population of Prince Edward Island, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories and the number of their seats in the Commons are subtracted from the figures for the country as a whole.

Over 14,000,000

The census figure for the total population was 14,009,429. With the populations of Prince Edward Island, the Yukon and the Northwest Territories subtracted from the total, the remainder is 13,885,900. That figure divided by 257 seats—262 less four for P.E.I. and one for the Yukon-Northwest Territories—gives the number of seats to which each province is entitled in the commons.

A straight division shows that Ontario is entitled to 85 seats, Quebec 75, Nova Scotia 11, New Brunswick nine, CManitoba 14, Saskatchewan 15, Alberta 17, British Columbia 21 and Newfoundland six. These seats added to four for P.E.I. and one for the Yukon-N.W.T. would bring representation in the Commons to 258.

In order to bring the representation up to the required 262, additional seats are given to provinces with the highest remainders following the division.

For instance, the quotient of 54,031 divides 11 times in Nova Scotia's population of 642,584 and leaves a remainder of 48,243. That remainder is large enough to give the province another seat. British Columbia, Newfoundland and New Brunswick also qualify for a seat each on the basis of their remainders.

Saskatchewan was only province to show a decrease in population in 1951. Its population at 831,728 was 64,264 lower than in 1941. Newfoundland, which joined confederation in 1949, had a population of 361,416 in 1951.

The population of the other provinces with the amount of the increase from 1941 in brackets:

Prince Edward Island 98,429 (3,382); Nova Scotia 642,584 (64,622); New Brunswick 515,697 (58,296); Quebec 4,055,681 (723,799); Ontario 4,597,542 (809,887); Manitoba 776,541 (46,797); Alberta 939,501 (143,332); British Columbia 1,165,210 (347,349); Yukon 9,096 (4,182); Northwest Territories 16,004 (3,976).

Doris Top Scorer

Doris led the juvenile Oddfellows of the P.M.H.A. in scoring this season with 10 goals and 13 assists for 23 points, according to Manager Jim Foskett's tallying. Cupoli was next with 14 and one for 15 points, as Hope had five and eight for 13. White had three and four for seven, Jones, Chapman and Ferren each having four points, and Cullen and Scott three apiece.

Here And There In Sports

By The Canadian Press

The Liberty Broadcasting System announced Thursday it had filed a $12,000,000 anti-trust suit against 13 major league baseball clubs and the presidents of the American and National Leagues.

Gordon McLendon, president, said that Liberty was being forced to discontinue its game-of-the-day broadcasts for 1952 because it had been denied access to the parks of the 13 clubs despite a higher offer for broadcast rights than any other broadcaster.

Liberty, he said, has sustained losses of profits and suffered damages in excess of $4,000,000 and is asking treble damages in accordance with provisions of anti-trust laws. Liberty claims to be the second largest radio network in number of stations served.

Georgie Campbell, 6d, one of Canada's all-time soccer greats, died Thursday at Toronto. After starring as a junior for Renfrew Victorias in Scotland, he came to Canada in his late teens and played for Toronto Thistles from 1906 to 1911. He captained the Toronto Scottish when they won the Dominion championship in 1921.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers Thursday announced the signing of import tackle Dick Huffman for the 1952 Western Inter-Provincial Football Union season.

The New York Giants announced Thursday that pitcher Sal Maglie, one of the club's most obstinate holdouts in several years, had come to terms for a reported pay boost to $36,000. Maglie piled up 23 victories against six losses as the Giants surged to the 1951 National League flag.

Soviet newspapers Thursday charged Canadian and United States Olympic hockey teams with scandalous conduct. Articles in major papers claimed the Americans turned their game against Switzerland at Oslo Wednesday into a free-for-all fight.

The stories said the Americans beat up their opponents, tripped them and made fun of them whenever the Americans scored a goal.

Contestants Have To Hustle To Compete With Norwegians

By JACK SULLIVAN.

OSLO, Feb. 22 (CP).—The 1952 Olympic winter games are moving toward their close and today those countries with a slight hope of approaching or overhauling Norway for team honors found themselves running short not only of points but events in which to score them.

In the unofficial standing Norway was on top with 101 points. The United States was second with 73½ and Austria third with 56. There are only six more events on the program.

Canada was never expected to cut in for a big share of points. Two were picked up Thursday night when Peter Firstbrook placed fifth in the men's figure skating comppetition, won by the United States' Dick Button to the surprise of nobody.

That made Canada's total 6½, which is bound to be increased Sunday when the hockey tournament ends. If Canada doesn't take the 10 points accruing unofficially to the winners, there'll be a lot of disappointed Canadians here in Oslo—and at home too.

The draw in the round-robin series sent Canada against Sweden tonight—the team that showed both hockey brains and brawn in polishing off the United States 4-2 Thursday night.

The Canadians—the Mercurys from Edmonton—had an easy time, easier than many here thought—in defeating Switzerland 11-2.

No Body-checks

The Swiss had lost only one game in four starts—and that to the United States—before they met the Canadians. The Edmonton boys quickly went into the lead and hardly tossed a body-check all night. They led 9-0 after two periods and then eased up. Playing-manager Frank Sullivan had three goals and Billy Gibson and Engelbert Miller two each.

Against the United States, the Swedes soon showed they know their hockey. They had team play up front and a sturdy defence. They took a 1-0 lead late in the first period and that's where the score remained until they ran in two more goals in the third before the Americans got going and counted on Ken Yackel's goal. But the Swedes popped in another and Cliff Harrison's goal later for the Americans didn't worry the Swedes.

Dick Button, the Harvard student from Engelwood, N. J., wound up his figure skating display with a brilliant performance in the free-skating part of the competition. Helmutt Seibt of Austria, European champion, was second, far back of Button in the scoring. Jimmy Grogan of Colorado Springs, Colo., was fourth and Hayes Jenkins of Akron, O., beat out Firstbrook for fifth place. Firstbrook was scored fourth after the compulsory figures were skated a few days ago.

The four-man bobsleds finished their competition today. The German crew, led by Andrea Ostler who drove the two-man German sled to victory earlier in the games, went into the final two heats today with a slight time margin over the United States sled driven by Stan Benham.

Canada went back into the figure skating competitions again. This time the pairs championship is on the program. Norris Bowden and Frances Dafoe of Toronto were Canada's entrants.

The experts believe the championship rests between Paul and Ria Falk of Germany, current world champions, and Karol and Peter Kennedy, brother-and-sister team from Seattle, Wash., who lost to the Falks—husband and wife—in the world title event last year at Milan, Italy.

Bancroft Beaten

BANCROFT, Feb. 22 (ENS). — Both Bancroft bantam teams went down to defeat when the Rovers lost a 6 to 1 game to Coe Hill and the Trappers tied Apsley Aces 9 to 9, but lost the semi-final round of the North Hastings bantam championship by a total of 14 to 15 in Bancroft on Tuesday night.

In the first of the double-header Murray McCormack was a one-man scoring machine who practically won the series single-handed. During the first game at Apsley, Murray scored five of his team's six goals when they won from the Trappers by 6 to 5, and in this affair he scored eight of the nine Apsley goals.

With jet-propelled speed, Murray, one of the few kids who have skates, body and stick synchronized, went from end to end and drilled shoulder high shots, both forehand and backhand, past Gallagher. With two minutes to go in the third frame he soloed to tie matters and repeated this act in the overtime period.

Harry Reynolds obtained Apsley's other goal while Bob Leedy with four, Bob Delyea with three and Elwood Retty with two scored for the Trappers.

Coe Hill proved to be too strong for the Rovers. Murray Crosby notched four, Terry Sprackett and Gerald Parks one each, while Bob Blatherwick picked up the lone counter for the Rovers.

Apsley Aces are now in the finals for the Wiggins trophy and Coe Hill and the Rovers have to play another game in their two-game goals-to-count series.

Hastings Boys Out

HASTINGS, Feb. 22 — (ENS). —Hastings juveniles followed in the footsteps of the bantams last night at Hastings, as they dropped out of the O.M.H.A. playdowns at the hands of Little Britain. In the first game played at Little Britain, a weakened Hastings crew were whipped 11-4, while the second fray wound up in a deadlock 8-8.

It was a hard, fast game, and it was the big line of both teams that did the scoring — Morrow, Stevenson and Forde for Hastings and R. Reid, E. Chidley and R. Teel for Little Britain.

Hastings held a 3-2 lead at the end of the first 20 minutes, but bogged down in the second, and Little Britain banged in three to take a 5-3 lead. However, the third period was less than two minutes old when the locals again put on the pressure and rapped in three goals, but that drive seemed to take the steam out of them.

Montgomery in goal for the locals showed up well and stopped some point-blank shots that were labelled, while Fisher, Crowley, and Condon went best on defence. In the second period Morrow and Chidley drew majors for scrapping and for a few minutes a donnybrook threatened, but Referees Legget and Scriver kept it well in hand.

Hastings: Goal, D. Montgomery; defence, W. Fisher, D. Crowley; centre, Jim Morrow; wings, P. Stevenson, K. Forde, alternates, B. McMillan, D. Radford, B. Orr, E. Post, D. Fisher, D. Condon, R. Wilson.

Little Britain: Goal, J. Cornish; defence, R. Moore, D. Heatlie, R. Reed, E. Chidley, R. Teel, J. Miller, H. Sweetman, H. Towning, G. Teel, G. Goodhand, A. Oliver, L. Hall, C. Sweetman.

Two Yorks Have Most People Report Shows

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP)—The Ontario constituencies of York East and York West are the most densely populated of Canada's single-member Federal electoral districts.

The Bureau of Statistics, in a report Thursday on the population of Federal electoral districts, said that York East, with 159,652 people, has the largest population among one-member ridings. York West is next with 126,420 and Welland third with 123,233 persons.

The report, based on the 1951 census, contained no comparative figures.

Action may be taken soon to reduce the size of the York constituencies. A committee likely will be established at the forthcoming session of parliament to study redistribution of representation in the Commons on the basis of the 1951 census.

Unless the basis for allocating seats is changed, this is how the 262 seats in the Commons will be divided in the next parliament, with existing representation in brackets:

Newfoundland seven (seven); Prince Edward Island four (four); Nova Scota 12 (13); New Brunswick 10 (10); Quebec 75 (73); Ontario 85 (83); Manitoba 14 (16); Saskatchewan 15 (20); Alberta 17 (17); British Columbia 22 (18); Yukon and Northwest Territories one (one).

Some Speculation

There has been speculation that one of the two extra seats going to Ontario will be given to the York districts. Something may also be done to reduce the size of Welland constituency which has a population of 123,000 compared with one of 24,000 in the neighboring riding of Haldimand.

Ottawa, on the basis of population, would be entitled to four instead of three seats. This might be done by amalgamating the nearby rural ridings of Glengarry and Prescott.

One of the two additional seats going to Quebec may be given to Montreal. The constituency of Mount Royal is the province's largest constituency, with a population of 115,284.

Disclaims Support

NEW YORK, Feb. 22—(AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur issued a statement Thursday night disclaiming any support of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's "candidacy for political office." The statement was issued after Newsweek Magazine had said that MacArthur favored Ohio Senator Robert A. Taft for the Republican presidential nomination but would support Harold E. Stassen or Eisenhower if either defeats Taft.

Approve Settlement

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 22 (AP)—Court approval was given Thursday to a $26,750 settlement by the estate of Wallace Beery in the suit of Mrs. Gloria Schumm, 36, who contended that the late screen actor was the father of her four-year-old son, Jehann.

SHE LIKES "TURKEY"—Little Ayla, a Korean refugee, really appreciates Turkey, particularly members of the 25th Division's Turkish unit in Korea. She stands with her new "father," Sgt. Baha Gugench, in the chow line with other members of the unit which adopted her.

Britain Urges Drastic Change On Import Tax

LONDON, Feb. 22 (Reuters).—A Government committee Thursday recommended a drastic change in Britain's sales tax to remove discrimination against imports.

In a report to Parliament the committee said that goods produced in Britain should not enjoy special tax exemption. Instead, purchase tax should be charged on all goods costing more than a certain fixed price in each commodity—whether British-made or imported.

The committee heard vigorous protests against the existing system by representatives of the French and Swiss Governments and by trade delegations from Canada, Italy and France.

These representatives objected to the utility scheme—designed in wartime to keep down British living costs by producing simple colthes, footwear and furniture, exempt from tax. Imports are not exempt.

Hence some foreign imports have cost twice as much as identical British goods exempt from both import duty and purchase tax.

More Women Than Men Living In Canada Now

OTTAWA, Feb. 22—(CP)—Canada is slowly becoming a women's country. In Quebec, for instance, there now are more females than males.

The Bureau of Statistics, making a further analysis of the 1951 census, reported today that the number of females in Canada has climbed by 1,314,437 in the last 10 years. Men boosted their total by only 1,153,873.

Canada's population is 14,009,429, compared with 10,542,119 in 1949.

In Quebec, the females have assumed command. There are 2,033,554 there, compared with 2,022,127 males.

For every 100 females in 1941, there were 105 males. Now it's going to be a little tougher to get a man. The ration is 102.4 males to every 100 females.

Lead Cut Down

Even in Alberta, the traditional stronghold of men, males are ahead by only 44,883 compared with 56,747 in 1941.

Here are the provincial numbers of males and females, respectively, with 1941 figures in brackets:

Prince Edward Island: 50,218—48,211 (49,228 — 45,819); Nova Scotia: 324,955—317,629 (296,044—281,918); New Brunswick: 259,211—256,486 (234,097—223,304); Quebec: 2,022,127—2,033,554 (1,672,982—1,658,900); Ontario: 2,314,170—2,288,372 (1,921,201—1,866,454); Manitoba: 394,818—381,723 (378,079)—351,665)— Saskatchewan: 434,568—397,160 (477,563—418,429); Alberta: 492,192—447,309 (426,458 — 369,711); British Columbia: 596,961—568,249 (435,031—382,830); Yukon and Northwest Territories: 14,510—10,590 (9,853 — 7,089); Newfoundland: 185,143—176,273 (figures for 1941 not available).

Want Stricter Fishing Laws

TORONTO, Feb. 22—(CP) — Measures to cut down on the use of aircraft for illegal fishing and hunting, coupled with a control on the safety standards in the use of aircraft by sportsmen, will be considered by the Ontario Legislature, Thursday's Speech from the Throne indicated.

The Ontario Lands Department is of the opinion that many Canadians and Americans are making illegal and unwise use of planes in hunting wild game.

Details of the legislation have not yet been worked out.

While air travel comes under the jurisdiction of the Federal Transport Department, officials of the Lands Department are reported to hold the view that some provincial control must be exercised over aircraft going to Ontario's northern lakes.

A few years ago a plane overloaded with what were said to be illegal fish crashed during a take-off. More recently, hockey player Bill Barilko vanished on a flying fishing trip to the James Bay area.

The department is also reported to be worried about the difficulties of checking sportsmen who fly across the border land at points where there are no customs stations and return home without reporting to customs.

Talk On Styles Delights Lions' Ladies' Club

The Lions Ladies' Club of Peterborough had the pleasure of hearing Mrs. Lyda Telford at their dinner meeting at the Empress Hotel Tuesday evening. Mrs. Telford was introduced by Mrs. J. Laidlaw, and her subject was "Styles, and what goes into the making of a new style".

The ladies were told that the heartbreak and the loss of time and money in creating a style was unbelievable, and that its success hangs by a thread at all times. However, a most encouraging word was that Canadian women refuse to be dictated to and will wear just the styles becoming to them.

Mrs. Telford said that in England where garments are scarce and so expensive, a great deal of time and thought is put into the purchase of a new suit or dress. The new garment is then loved by the owner and is studied to find out the best way it can be worn for different occasions. "Perhaps the addition of a pin or scarf will make every difference". She urged that a great deal of thought be put into the purchase of a gown so that it will tone in with accessories and not be a misfit.

Mrs. B. LaBranche thanked Mrs. Telford for a most delightful talk.

Tickets were distributed on the draw for a man's or woman's spring outfit. The draw is to take place the Monday before Easter, so that some lucky person will have a complete new outfit for the Easter parade. Proceeds of the draw will be for welfare work. The Lions ladies are finding they get a great deal of joy and satisfaction out of helping those less fortunate than themselves.

Rev. M. P. Poole Challenges YW Live Up To Motto

Guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Y.W.C.A. Thursday evening was the Rev. Maurice P. Poole, rector of All Saints' Anglican Church. His talk befitted brotherhood week and also the Y.W.C.A. containing a challenge to live up to the purpose of the association: "To build a fellowship of women and girls devoted to the task of realizing in common life those ideals of personal and social living to which they are committed by faith as Christians. In this endeavour to seek to understand Jesus, to share His love for all people, and to grow in the knowledge and love of God."

Said Mr. Poole: "Please do not overlook the spiritual side. It is essential to the development of a young lady or woman."

He compared the Y.W.C.A. to a bridge spanning such deep gorges as the "color chasm"—one of the greatest, he said, and the "culture chasm"—"each one can find her niche in life in this building. There is also the gap in many lonely hearts that is bridged," he added. "Share God's love for all people, forming the bridge between man and man. There is no brotherhood without God."

"Jesus Christ is the great bridge, safe, sure and everlasting" said Mr. Poole. "Are the roots of this Y firmly grounded in Him? If not, your work of bridging will not last."

He urged an endeavor to understand Jesus—the bridge between God and man. "Sin has put us out of touch with God" he said. "We have committed Adam's sin of seeking the knowledge of God and we now have the atomic weapons and power. Some people are putting their trust in wealth, pleasure and education and even in their own moral standards."

Pointing to the word "Christian" in the Association name, Mr. Poole reminded members "You stand for Someone."

The rector was introduced by Mrs. T. Cook and was thanked by Mrs. H. T. Rehill, through presiding president Mrs. T. J. Carley.

Greetings from the city council were brought to the meeting by Mayor Hugh Waddell.

St. Joseph's Aux. Members Ready For Busy Season

First meeting of the new executive of St. Joseph's Hospital Ladies' Auxiliary was held on Thursday evening in the nurses' residence. President Mrs. B. Monaghan welcomed all present and in particular the newly elected officers, saying in part "Will all members lend themselves generously in caring for the house of the sick and all those responsible for them?"

The main objective of the Auxiliary for the coming year is cafeteria equipment.

Mrs. N. McConkey, convener of ways and means, reported the first endeavour will be planning for a successful "violet day." Preparation is to begin immediately.

The president referred to the splendid work of the I.O.D.E. in visiting the hospital twice a month bringing to each patient cheer in the form of fruit and candy.

Mrs. R. Paquette, sewing convener, reported 269 articles made by her committee since January 1st. Public relations convener Mrs. J. V. Gallivan reported her committee busy planning for contracts of interest.

Mrs. Joseph Paquette, in charge of city membership, has completed her itinerary for the membership drive. She and Mrs. D. Driscoll, rural membership convener, wish the captains to cover their districts and have returns in by March 15th. The rural convener reported plans for the area completed and the drive ready to start.

It was unanimously agreed to hold monthly meetings on the third Thursday evening as heretofore. Corresponding secretary Miss Agnes Grant read an invitation to attend the V.O.N. annual meeting and the president and recording secretary Mrs. Hurley were appointed to attend.

Conveners of the various committees of the Auxiliary have been appointed as follows:

City membership, Mrs. Joseph Paquette; rural membership, Mrs. D. Driscoll; Immaculate Conception, Mrs. R. Tate; Sacred Heart, Mrs. R. McCabe; St. John's, Mrs. A. Laton, Mrs. N. Laton and Mrs. F. Lucas; St. Alphonsus, Mrs. A. E. Cauley; public relations, Mrs. J. V. Gallivan; ways and means, Mrs. N. McConkey; visiting, Mrs. Gilmore; library, Miss B. Malane and Mrs. W. J. Hickey; sewing, Mrs. R. Paquette; nurses in training, Mrs. G. Poole; St. Joseph's cupboard, Mrs. Frank Hickey; publicity, Mrs. F. J. Lynch; tuck shoppe, Misses M. and L. Flynn; flowers and decorations, Mrs. J. J. Crowley.

Following adjournment of the meeting the Sisters served lunch.

Senior School Plan Prepared

TORONTO, Feb. 22 — (CP) — The Board of Education Thursday night directed board officials to prepare a new area-by-area plan for establishing senior schools in Toronto.

The vote was 16-2. Parents attending the meeting in opposition to the senior school plan applauded the two trustees who voted against the move.

Senior schools, established in some Ontario centres, take in grades 7 and 8.

Toronto's board didn't actually commit itself to three-level preuniversity education. Preparation of the plan may take some time and then it has to be considered again.

Trustee Percy Might, a public school principal for 40 years, said he opposed the idea even on educational grounds. The cost would be three times the estimate and curriculum would be overspecialized.

Trustee Albert Cranham said he visited Hamilton to see how senior schools were working out. They have become so popular there that a seventh is under construction.

Civic Affairs Gr. Studies Dr. Faludi's Plan

The women's study group on Civic Affairs met in the City Hall Thursday evening, with the president, Miss M. McCulloch, in charge.

At conclusion of the regular business, Mrs. J. E. Watters gave an account of the annual dinner meeting of the Y.W.C.A. which she attended previously.

Observers' reports, covering meetings of the City Council were read by Miss M. Grady, Mrs. V. R. Henry, Miss M. McIntosh and Mrs. G. B. Lathanque. The February Board of Education meeting was attended by Mrs. J. A. Nornabell.

Balance of the evening was devoted to a study of maps and data as presented by Dr. Faludi's plans for this city and an animated discussion followed. Several of the pertinent questions which arose were capably answered by Mrs. J. Low, who was a member of the original Town Planning Board. Further investigation of this plan is set for a later date.

In March there will be a panel discussion of group members on the subject of industries, entitled "Should Peterborough Grow?" Visitors will be welcome.

LCW 39 Years Old At Thurs. Meeting Recall Founding

Local Council of Women met Thursday afternoon just exactly 39 years after the first organized meeting in Peterborough, February 21st, 1913. President Mrs. W. Steinkraus suggested that there be a celebration on the 40th anniversary in tribute to past presidents. She remarked that this Council had participated in a great many worthwhile efforts in that time.

A few moments of silent prayer were observed in memory of the late King George VI, followed by the singing of the national anthem.

Mrs. A. W. Nelson reported thoroughly on the meeting of Provincial Council at Toronto in November, mentioning the tribute paid to Mrs. E. Wand of Peterborough for her work as archivist. Mrs. Steinkraus reported on a recent meeting of National Council executive at Toronto, and mentioned the regret that had been expressed in the loss to Canada of Lady Alexander. To maintain for her a tie with Canada, which it is believed she truly loved, an honorary life membership in the National Council was presented. It was also arranged that flowers from the Council be presented to her by a member at Halifax.

Mrs. Steinkraus recalled that the Council of Women was founded in Canada by Lady Aberdeen, wife of a Governor General. She expressed her personal opinion that Canada will lose something worthwhile in not having an Englishman as the Queen's representative here. A recommendation to this effect had been drafted by National Council but could not reach the government before the appointment of the Hon. Vincent Massey, she said.

Figures on the past and anticipated immigration to Canada were reported and Mrs. Steinkraus asked the help of members in making newcomers feel welcome in the community.

It was decided that the telephone convener will this year contact a representative rather than the president of affiliated organizations. It is hoped to receive new affiliations this year and tentative plans were made for a campaign.

Mrs. Louis Zachs was appointed to a resolution committee with the chairman of laws so that her legal advice might be secured in drafting resolutions. Mrs. D. Miller was appointed the chairman of child and family welfare.

Favors and prizes are being secured for the children's fashion show of Thursday evening, March 6th, at the Brock Ballroom. There will be 50 children in the show which is being organized by Mrs. Allan B. Collis. Mrs. F. Merrett is in charge of the tea arrangements.

Club Appoints New Committees

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 22 — (ENS)—The Business and Professional Women met on Tuesday evening in the council chambers. Two minutes silence was observed in memory of the late King George VI.

The president, Jean Morrison, read an amendment to the constitution which allows former business and professional women to become associate members and take part in all club activities, without a vote. She also explained ways the club can benefit members.

Meetings in future will be held on the first Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be a dinner meeting, at which Mrs. Pewtress, acting regional advisor to the club will be the guest speaker.

Chairmen and committees were named as follows: Membership, Barbara Smith, Donna Carswell; program, Helen Gorman, Orpha Clegg; ways, means and publicity, Eve Spencer, Helen Hall, Mamie Winstanley; international, Kathleen Ferris, Kathleen O'Shaughnessy; buletin, Jean Aryhart and Marie Crossen.

Telegrams of congratulations to the new club were received from the Cobourg club and the Toronto, Leamington, London clubs, as well as two from Nova Scotia.

STATELY MEASURE

Long popular in Europe, the waltz was introduced to North America early in the 19th century.

YW Board's Stream-Lining Allows Two-Hr. Meeting

A stream-lined annual meeting of the Peterborough Y.W.C.A. took place Thursday evening, following a tasty fowl dinner served to more than 100 board and committee members who were representative of the leading organizations of this city. Reports which might have taken up considerable time in the reading had been printed on slips and attached to the programs at each cover. These will serve as permanent records and provide details on the highlights mentioned in an all-embracing summary of the year's work prepared by the president.

Mrs. T. J. Carley, who has fulfilled the three year term of presidency, will retire after this meeting. Speaking in appreciation of her work Mrs. N. C. Truner said: "It takes a woman of special calibre to be president of this organization," and pointed to the ways in which Mrs. Carley, a forthright woman, had exhibited the necessary qualities. She then presented a bouquet of flowers as token of the feeling of her associates.

It was mentioned that Miss Caroline Littlefield, who has been 30 years with the Y health education department, will be retiring this year.

Corsages were presented by the Members' Council to Mrs. Carley, Miss Littlefield and Miss Leta Brownscombe, executive director.

Mrs. Carley commended the board members, the executive and the committee members and volunteer workers for their unselfish efforts. She also thanked the staff, professional and office, for working hard to make this Y outstanding among those of comparable size across Canada.

Modest Deficit

The financial report showed a modest deficit on the year of $522.69, due to the sum of $13,500 being received from Community Chest. A deficit existing in the food service department was not included, this amount being carried in a capital account until it can be paid off from profits of the cafeteria.

It was stated that there will be some large expense in building repairs in the near future.

The Y depends on the Community Chest Fund for income to cover any service for which fees cannot be charged and to help with department deficits which insufficient fees would make participation impossible for the individual.

Eight New Members

Eight new members were nominated to serve on the board of directors: Mrs. J. Watters, Mrs. D. Whyte, Mrs. S. Cann and Mrs. W. A. Richardson for three year terms; Mrs. Cameron Craig for two years; Mrs. D. Wood and Mrs. J. Nicholls for one year.

These ladies will fill vacancies caused by retirements for a variety of reasons by Mrs. B. Meyers, Mrs. E. Yelland, Mrs. M. McIntosh, Mrs. R. J. Allen, Miss Marion Pogue, Mrs. R. Paige Rowell and Mrs. C. K. Hurst. The president specially mentioned Mrs. Yelland's interest as camp convener, Miss McIntosh's fostering of the group now known as the Study Group on Civic Affairs, Mrs. Hurst's work on program committee, and Mrs. Paige Rowell as past president and personnel convener.

Re-elected for three-year terms are Mrs. F. M. Somerville, Mrs. H. T. Rehill, Mrs. W. J. Hardill, Mrs. J. Lewis and Mrs. T. Cook.

This meeting, including dinner, courtesy speeches, president's report, guest speaker and reports was completed within two hours.

CRANBERRY SOURCE

A large percentage of Canadian cranberries comes from the Berwick and Aylesford districts of Nova Scotia.

DOROTHY DIX

Young Man Should Avoid Older Woman's Attentions

DEAR MISS DIX: Mine is an office problem. I am a young man of 24, and there is a lady of 34 in our office who is married and has three children. She seems to go out of her way to talk to me and tell me I'm cute. She has a younger sister, whom I have never met, but whose picture I have seen. She is a nice-looking girl and I would like to meet her. I am wondering if this lady is just kidding me to pass the time, or if perhaps she is trying to arrange a meeting between her sister and me. People in the office are beginning to talk about the amount of time she spends talking to me, and I am uncertain how to react.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The lady sounds like bad medicine to me and I advise you to avoid her as much as possible. If she would like you to meet her sister, it would be very easy to invite you to her house some evening.

If you and the lady continue to spend so much time talking at business, be assured office gossip will grow to unpleasant proportions.

✧ ✧ ✧

Domineering Brother

DEAR MISS DIX: Several weeks ago I met a very nice boy from a prominent family. We had about three dates, and then he brought me home from a date about an hour later than I was supposed to be in. The delay couldn't be helped. My brother, who is four years older than I, beat me on my legs until I could not walk on them. He told me if I ever went out with this boy again he would do it again. I am 18, this boy is 22, and my mother likes him, but to appease her precious son she won't allow me to go out with him. She will, however, let me correspond with him. He's in the service. We love each other very much; in fact, he has asked me to marry him, but my family threatens to disown me if I do—all because of my brother's objections. I think I'm old enough to live my own life.

C. J. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If your brother's dislike of your boy friend is purely a personal matter, your family is very unfair to listen to him. Brother, in fact, sounds like a psychiatric case. No brother has the right to usurp a parent's privilege of punishment—even if justified. I do think your acquaintance has been of too short a duration for an early wedding, but if you continue the friendship for another year and still feel the same way about your boy friend, you would be justified in marrying him against your brother's wishes. Be sure, however, that your family's objections are not based on serious faults in the young man.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 14 and interested in a boy three years older. He has never asked me to go out with him, but has kissed me several times. Our Senior Ball is coming up and I am afraid to ask my mother's permission to go out with this boy.

FLORENCE B.

ANSWER: If your would-be boy friend is interested only in kissing and not in taking you out, he's not a very reliable person for an escort.

Describe the situation to your mother, as you did to me, and abide by her advice. There's no reason for you to be afraid of her. Even though mom's decisions may not always be in accordance with your desires, remember she has your best interests and future at heart, and is only acting as she thinks right for you. So much trouble would be avoided if girls only had more confidence in their mothers—and mothers put a little more effort into winning it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a heartbroken mother. A year ago I inherited a small sum of money. My son, who is married and has a family, has completely disowned me as a mother because I didn't give it to him. I love my grandchildren dearly and am sick over the fact that they don't come to see me. I have always been good to my son and his family.

MRS. C. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: If your son is so money-mad that he would take this small pittance from you, you had better resign yourself to doing without him. Once he has the money, he'll have no further use for you anyway, and you'll have to shift alone—penniless.

It's a tragic thing when a child can be so cruel to a parent, and you can only pray that God will send him light to see the error of his ways.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My 24-year-old sister is very much in love with a divorced man who has two children. Though the youngsters live with their mother, he supports them, and is not in a position to remarry and support a second wife. My parents are opposed to the marriage even if he should be able to support my sister. This affair is now much more serious than my parents suspect. Should I tell them?

P. A.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your parents are certainly justified in their objections. The insecurity which faces your sister if she becomes more involved with this man is no recommendation for marrige. Of course at 24 she should be old enough to know right from wrong, and act accordingly, but sometimes that wisdom is withheld from those much older than she. I doubt if your parents would have much influence on the girl, even if they knew the seriousness of the situation. Sometimes a sister can do more; why not talk to her yourself, and point out the danger in which she is placing herself?

STYLE LEADING FURRIERS

THE PLACE OF PRINTS in spring fashion is an important one. Generally, the spring print is small, neat and subdued. Colors are co-ordinated, not clashed. Thus, taupe, grey, black and white may be combined in a pattern that's fairly large but that gets an harmonious effect. A pure silk shantung afternoon dress (right) has a beige background for a tiny, navy whirlpool scattered print. Cardigan front runs from neck to hemline and is edged in the same navy blue shantung used for the cap sleeves. A full skirt is given a smooth hipline through use of pintuck pleats. Larger print (left) appears in a coat-and-dress ensemble from this same house. Here, pure silk is printed in taupe, grey, black, and white. Dress has short sleeves and square neckline with bow at one side. Skirt is traight. Matching coat has roll collar and three-quarter sleeves. It's completely lined in taupe changeable taffeta and horsehair. The very full skirt has stitched pleats.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Canada, Cheese Producing Country Not Known For Its Cheese-Eaters

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Britain's shortage of dollars inevitably will mean a cut in her 1952 imports. It already has been hinted that her cheese contract with Canada may be the first to go.

Last year Ontario cheese producers sold the United Kingdom about 25,000,000 pounds of cheddar. Canada's total cheese production for the year was 258,000,000 pounds.

Undoubtedly cheese manufacturers would be unhappy about any loss of export markets, but housewives might benefit through lower prices. At present Canadian cheese sells for 50 cents and up, according to age and variety.

Canada, a cheese-producing land, never has been known as a country of cheese-eaters. Yet cheese is one of the most health-giving foods on the market.

Cheese in muffins, even in salads and desserts, is recommended by the Dominion Department of Agriculture in "Cheese Dishes," a booklet issued by the department's consumer section.

The pamphlet also lists the varieties of cheese manufactured in Canada. Did you know Camembert, Edam, Gouda, Oka, Roquefort and Limburger are all manufactured in this country.

Cheese muffins: 1¾ cups sifted all-purpose flour; three teaspoons baking-powder; one-half teaspoon salt; two-thirds cup grated cheese; one egg; one cup milk or tomato juice; two tablespoons melted shortening.

Mix and sift flour, baking-powder and salt. Add cheese. Beat egg and milk. Make a depression in flour mixture, pour in egg and milk mixture; add melted shortening. Stir only enough to combine. Fill greased muffin tins two-thirds full. Sprinkle with additional grated cheese. Bake in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) 20 to 25 minutes. Yield: one dozen medium-sized muffins.

Macaroni and cheese salad: Two cups cooked macaroni, three-quarter inch pieces; three verters cup grated cheese; three hard-cooked eggs (chopped); one cup diced celery; one chopped green pepper; one chopped red pepper; one tablespoon finely chopped onion; salt to taste; mayonnaise.

Combine ingredients and toss lightly with sufficient mayonnaise to moisten. Serve on crisp lettuce. Yield: six servings.

Also With Fruit

Fruit Perfection: One teaspoon gelatine, one tablespoon cold water; one four-ounce package cream cheese; one-half cup salad dressing; dash of salt; one tablespoon sugar; one cup whipping cream; two cups diced fruit (drained).

Soak gelatine in cold water for five minutes. Dissolve over hot water. Mash cheese with fork and beat until smooth. Beat in salad dressing. Add dissolved gelatine, salt and sugar. Whip cream and fold into cheese mixture. Add fruit. Pour into moulds and chill or freeze until firm. Serve on crisp lettuce. Yield: six to eight servings.

Experts at Kitchener, Ont., situated in the heart of Canada's cheese-producing area, claim that decayed whey remaihing in the curd is what puts the "smell" in Limburger. Nearly all the whey is pressed out of the cheddar. Only a small amount is removed from Limburger.

What's Right?

You are having a tea for an out-of-town guest.

WRONG: Ask the guest of honor to pour.

RIGHT: Ask some other friend to pour so that the guest of honor can talk to the guests who have come to meet her.

Mary Moore Offers Recipe For Crumpets

QUESTION: I wonder if you have a recipe . . . for Crumpets? A. M. B.

ANSWER: Sure do.

Crumpets (yeast)

One-quarter cup grated cooked potato, 2 cups boiling water, 2 yeast cakes, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 cups bread flour. In measuring the potato pack it in the cup. Let water cool to lukewarm, add yeast and potato and stir to dissolve yeast, add flour and salt and beat 2 minutes. Let rise 3 times for 30 minutes each at about normal room temperature—70 deg. F. After each rising beat 3 or 4 minutes. The beating makes the large holes characteristic of the crumpet. After last beating bake at once on hot griddle with rings on (3½-inch rings are used and can only be bought at large hardware stores). A good substitute is jar rings. Griddle must be well seasoned; if not it must be lightly greased. Pour batter into rings one-third inch deep. A crumpet should not be thick. Bake about 20 minutes. This is called baking because it is on top of the stove and the theory is no fat is used. Do not turn. Let cool. To use, toast and serve hot with butter.

QUESTION: These recipes were in your column in December I think . . . (1) was a drop cookie. It had walnuts, cocoanut, egg and sugar. It made 2 dozen and you advised making a double batch. (2) had bottom part of flour, butter and sugar worked together and filling on top . . . of dates and nuts (3) had breadcrumbs in it . . . (4) was pecan squares . . . I know that is a lot to ask . . . but the recipes all turned out well.—Mrs. W. R. M.

ANSWER: I made, ate, drank and slept cookies all during November so I hope I am guessing right with the following:

Nut Drop Cookies

One cup soft shortening, 2 cups, well-packed, brown sugar, 2 eggs, ½ cup buttermilk or sour milk, 3½ cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon each soda and salt, 1 cup moist shredded cocoanut, walnut or pecan halves. Cream together shortening and sugar and beat in the eggs. Stir in sour milk. Sift together flour, soda and salt, and stir in. Stir in cocoanut. Chill dough. Drop by teaspoonfuls, 2 inches apart, on greased cookie sheet, peaking up each cookie, then on this peak lightly press half nut. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. about 8 or 10 minutes.

Pecan Squares

(These have a shortening, flour and sugar base. These could fit your description of Nos. 2 and 4 cookies.)

One-half cup shortening at room temperature, ¼ cup icing sugar, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 2 eggs, 1½ cups brown sugar, well-packed, 2 tablespoons all-purpose flour, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup chopped pecans (or walnuts or almonds), ½ cup moist shredded cocoanut. Cream shortening until creamy, then stir into it the icing sugar and cake flour. Spread in 2 greased pans 8 x 8 x 2 inches. Spread with a batter made with remaining ingredients: Beat eggs light and gradually beat in brown sugar. Sift together the flour and baking powder and add. Mix until smooth and stir in nuts and cocoanuts. Spread this over first mixture in pans. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 30 or 35 minutes. Cut in squares in pan, while still warm.

Here is the crumb cookie but I do not remember giving it to you at Christmas time.

Crumb Cookies

One-half cup shortening, 1 cup sugar, 1 beaten egg, 1 cup cold water, 2½ cups flour sifted, 1 teaspoon each soda, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg, 2½ cups dry cake, cookie or bread crumbs, 1 cup raisins. Combine dry ingredients except crumbs. Cream shortening, then cream in the sugar, and beaten egg. Add dry ingredients alternately with the water. Add crumbs and raisins last. Drop and bake on greased cookie sheet at

6—In Memoriam

DODD—In loving memory of a dear daughter and sister, Arlene, who passed away Feb. 22, 1964.
A little lamb, too sweet and pure,
Upon this earth to roam;
An angel came
And took our dear child home.
—Ever remembered by Mother, Dad, Wayne, Sharon and Gary.

HAMILTON—In memory of our dear father, William Hamilton, who passed away Feb. 22, 1948.
—Lovingly remembered by daughters Minnie and Elizabeth.

TINNEY—In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Rufus Tinney, who fell asleep Feb. 22, 1947.
Time may time heals all sorrows,
And helps us to forget,
But time so far has only proved
How much we miss you yet.
God gave us strength to fight it,
And courage to bear the blow,
But what it meant to lose you
No one will ever know.
—Ever remembered by wife, son and daughter-in-law of Toronto.

Priest Describes Great Suffering

HONG KONG, Feb. 22 (Reuters) — A haggard, 70-year-old Belgian Roman Catholic missionary staggered across the border from Communist China recently to tell a story of suffering in a "Black Hole of Calcutta" prison, church sources said here today.

He was jailed 10 months in a tiny cell often so packed with prisoners he slept leaning upright against the walls or in the jam of bodies.

His limbs were so wasted by the ordeal he had to be held up 2½ hours by fellow priests while a Communist "mob trial" threw accusation at him before ordering him expelled from the country.

He is the Rev. Florent Ver Eecke, a veteran of 44 years' mission work in inner Mongolia.

He arrived in Hong Kong February 1 with five other expelled Belgian missionaries.

The Roman Catholic sources said the only charge against Father Ver Eecke was that he had organized and directed the Roman Catholic Legion of Mary, which the Communists have outlawed as "anti-revolutionary."

They added that he was arrested March 3, 1951, for failure to pay taxes levied on church property.

particular need and urgency in the proper upkeep and conduct of the hospital during the current year."

More Income

In addition to the increased city grant, it is estimated that other sources of revenue will provide $23,709.94 more income than in 1951. Patient revenue is expected to be $15,342.94 higher this year, and sundry revenues will show an estimated increase of $8,366.92 over last year.

Questioned by Alderman Miller if the committee had gone into all the hospital operations "to find means of economizing and trimming expenses to the bone," Mr. Rodger replied, "We spent a number of days discussing information with the various department heads.

"If our expectations are realized, we should reach the end of the year with a reasonable profit rather than a deficit. I would not like to be held to that as a prediction. We would be only pretending if we expect to come out exactly as estimated on December 31," he said.

Pointing out that it is easier for the city to make sure it balances its budget, because "the city doesn't knowingly take on bad debts," Mr. Rodger said. "The ramifications of a hospital economy are so wide, we arrive at situations no other business would tolerate."

Conservative Estimate

Mr. Rodger said that based on the month of January the estimated increase of more than $15,000 in patient revenue was "a very conservative estimate. During 1951, there was a dull period in the operating room. We only had a small staff and many operations were curtailed. If it is fully used, the increase in the number of patients will provide additional revenue," he said.

Thanks County

Mr. Marshall complimented the County Council for paying the full cost to the hospital for its indigent patients. The budget includes a grant of $15,785 from the county for indigent patients from the county during the year. "The county is carrying its full load of patient maintenance," said Mr. Marshall, and expressed the hope that the County Council would continue the practice it had established during the last two years of making up the loss to the hospital on indigent patients from Peterborough County.

An expected grant of $12,240 from the county to cover the charge of $1 to the county per day for each county patient is also included in the budget estimates of revenue.

Mr. Marshall said there is a possibility the Provincial Government may pay a grant of $20 to the hospital for each nurse-in-training. With approximately 90 students in the school of nursing, this would mean an increase in revenue of $18,000.

If any additional revenue is received during the year from new Government grants, or other sources, the board agreed that the amount requested from the city would be reduced accordingly. However, this could not be repaid until 1953, and Council will have to budget according to what it intends to grant the hospital this year in order to strike the 1952 tax rate.

375 deg. Fahr. for about 10 minutes. Three-quarters or 1 cup margarine or butter may be used if shorter cookies are desired; reduce water if more shortening is used, to ½ to ¾ cup.

QUESTION: I read your column every day and find it very interesting. I read the letter on turnips yesterday. If one is not fond of the strong flavor of turnips I will tell how we do it. Put a piece of stewing beef on to boil (but do not add as much water as you would if you were making soup). When it is half done add turnips, potatoes—about 50 per cent potatoes, and 25 per cent turnip. Boil all together. When done take out meat, pour off excess liquid, save it, mash turnips and potatoes, keep adding liquid, as you would milk. If you think it is too thin, brown butter in pan with 1 or 2 tablespoons flour and add more of the meat liquid, then pour back into the potato and turnip mixture. If any is left it can be warmed up in a pan with a little added butter. We also boil beef with our sauerkraut as some of family found pork hard to digest. We are not English — this recipe comes from one grandmother who came from Germany. Mrs. F. R.

ANSWER: It is good. I tried it and I like turnips. I have another idea which is new to me. If you ever splurge and have beefsteak (or any other thing like meat cakes or lamb chops) broil them —but under them to catch the drippings spread the pan full of cooked turnip dice. Wonderful. Thanks for sharing your recipe.

OBITUARIES

MRS. MINA MORTON

MILLBROOK, Feb. 22 (ENS)—Operator of a rest home in Millbrook for more than 40 years, Mrs. Mina Morton, 74, died Thursday night in a Peterborough hospital. She was the widow of Lewis Morton.

Active in church work during her youth, Mrs. Morton had been president of the A.Y.P.A. of St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Millbrook, and later was a member of the Woman's Association. For many years she taught Sunday school.

Born in Cavan township, she was a daughter of the late James O'Hara and Agnes McKnight. She and her husband lived on the ninth concession of Cavan for several years, and then moved to Millbrook, where she has lived for the past 40 years.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Irma McMahon, Millbrook, and Mrs. Leonard Henderson (Geraldine), Peterborough. There are two sisters, Mrs. Sarah Bell and Miss Mary O'Hara, both of Peterborough. Two brothers, William and James, predeceased Mrs. Morton.

Funeral service will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in St. Thomas' Church, conducted by the Rev. A. A. Chote. Burial will be in St. John's Cemetery, Ida.

JOHN ALLAN CURTAIN

John Allan Curtain, five-year-old son of William Allan Curtain and the former Kathleen Kelly, 55 Edgewater Blvd., died Thursday in the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto, after suffering from a chronic illness.

The boy was in the Toronto hospital for approximately two weeks.

He is survived by his parents, one sister, Renee, 11, and one brother, Stephen, 4.

The funeral will be held from the Comstock funeral home Saturday at 2 p.m. The Rev. B. S. Morwood of Mark St. United Church will conduct the service. Burial will be in Little Lake cemetery.

Dollar Unchanged

MONTREAL, Feb. 22 — (CP) — The United States dollar today opened at 1/32 of one per cent premium to the Canadian dollar, unchanged from Thursday's close. That is, it took $1.00 1/32 Canadian to buy $1 American.

The pound sterling was $2.78¼, also unchanged.

Sleeping Sitter

CALGARY (CP).—Police spotted a two-year-old girl on the streets at 2 a.m. They located the infant's home nearby, where they found the baby-sitter was fast asleep. While the baby sitter was summarily reprimanded, the child was returned to her crib.

"Country Kids" Entertain Large Audience

How a couple of city sharpies got out-slickered by yokels from Joggins Junction. The upright, struggling young lawyer getting the girl in the end, despite Mama's initial disapproval. Romance. Romance. And everybody lived hapily ever after.

That in a nutshell is the three-act comedy "A Pair of Country Kids" that played Thursday night —and will be playing again tonight—at Wesley Hall in St. James' Church.

Some 250 spectators chuckled their way through the three acts Thursday night. A sellout is expected tonight.

The play is being staged by the combined efforts of the Ever Awake Women's Bible Class and the Young Men's Bible Class, both of St. James' Church. Proceeds go for Sunday School work.

All three acts take place in the foyer of Joggins Junction hotel. The village is burlesque rural, remote enough in the sleepy countryside for New York to seem a semi-mythical city, inhabited by "city slickers."

Hotel To Sell

The widowed proprietress, Mrs. Sarah Starr (Ella Callan), wants to sell her hotel if she can get a good price, and then retire. Her pretty young daughter April (Helen Nurse) thinks it's a good idea and she has enlisted the help of her fiancee, Philip West (the poor but honest young lawyer), who arranges for a realtor to come and look the place over.

After his arrival the realtor finds oil on the property. That leaves lots of scope for plot complications.

Will the widow get a fair price? Will the young lawyer, temporarily duped by the realtor, wake up in time and advise his prospective mother-in-law to get a good price? It's all very interesting, and it runs for about two hours.

Much of the comedy is provided by the manoeuvring of an aging widow and an equally aging spinster—both boarders at the hotel —to land a mysterious young man from New York. The catch is that the young man is a cad. He is after their money not their middle-aged charms.

Left In Lurch

Temporarily left in the lurch is a lumbago-bent horse doctor who divides his time between mooning over the unappreciative spinster and moaning over the demise of the horse and the advent of the Model-T.

Further comedy is provided by the bucolic spooning of a young handyman (Hi) Hawkins and a hotel maid. They are the "country kids" who blunder along but finally best the boys from the big city.

Daisey Bailey, playing the man-hunting spinster Lucindy Appleby, and her competitor the widow, played by Ethel Monks, squeezed out all the laughs inherent in their characterizations.

Walter Baldry as wisecracking hayseed (Hi) Hawkins was tops also.

The cast of characters: Mrs. Sarah Starr, Ella Callan; April Starr, Helen Nurse; (Sis) Spooner, Verna Rolufs; Lucindy Appleby, Daisy Bailey; Susan Grimes, Ethel Monks; (Hi) Hawkins, Walter Baldry; Ambrose Sneggins, the horse-doctor, Tom Busby; Philip West, the lawyer Garnet Towns; Arthur Roberts the realtor Bob Pirie; and Albert Roomer the confidence man Clare Jones.

Norman McMurchy was master of ceremonies director of the play and designer of the set. The assitant director was Mrs. Clare Jones.

Entertainment was provided between acts by the Liftlock City Four (barbershop quartette) and Mrs. Henry Turner who gave two recitations.

Need To Be Careful

CANBERRA, Feb. 22 (Reuters) External Affairs Minister Richard Casey said today "N.A.T.O. is undoubtedly the most important bulwark of resistance against world Communism but countries like Australia must take care to ensure their interests are not inadvertently overlooked." He added "there is some risk of a state of affairs in which some members of the Commonwealth may be in closer and quicker touch with N.A.T.O. members than with other members of the Commonwealth."

Laval Planning Drastic Changes To Keep Pace

By BERNARD DUFRESNE

QUEBEC, Feb. 22 (CP).—Laval University, oldest seat of French learning in North America, is giving more importance than ever to science as it completes its 100th year of slow-changing academic life.

The Roman Catholic university's growing interest in training scientists, due to industrial expansion in Quebec, is a fairly recent departure from its traditional emphasis on the humanities.

Laval has started on a $100,000,000 "university city" project on the western outskirts of this ancient fortress city to replace its campus-less cluster of old grey buildings on the Upper Town ramparts.

The year-long centenary celebrations include several symposiums to be attended by a dozen foreign scientists who will review French Canada's research in evolution, conservation of natural resources, secondary education, the effects of industrialization in Quebec and other topics.

Honor Three Graduates

Today, Laval will honor three of its most famous graduates, Prime Minister St. Laurent, James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto and Mr. Justice Gerard Lacroix of Quebec, with honorary degrees.

A music contest for French-speaking composers has been organized and more than 50 national and international organizations will hold conventions here in connection with the centenary.

Overriding influence at Laval is Roman Catholic Church doctrine which backgrounds every course from evolution to social problems. The university considers theology to be the link between all other phases of knowledge.

Msgr. A. M. Parent, vice-rector, said in an interview: "A university is incomplete unless it has a faculty of theology."

Professors start lectures with a short prayer. About 20 per cent. of the 600 professors are clerical members of the church.

In the faculty of social sciences solutions to economic and social problems are based on the social doctrine of the church. The doctrine includes such views as labor's participation in management and profits of industry.

When Laval obtained its royal university charter in 1852, it had four faculties: theology, medicine, law and arts.

Now, there are six more faculties—philosophy, letters, science, agriculture, social science and forestry and land-surveying—in addition to 10 affiliated schools and institutes.

NO COMMENT — Joseph D. Nunan, Jr., former Internal Revenue Commissioner, refuses to comment on allegations made against him as he leaves his Douglaston, L.I., home. Nunan and three other former tax officials were named as figures in the tax scandal.

496 Viet Minhs Killed By French

HANOI, Indo-China, Feb. 22 (Reuters). — French troops supported by planes and artillery have killed 496 Communist Viet Minh rebels and taken more than 500 prisoners in a five-day counter-attack in the Tonkin Delta rice-field area, it was announced Thursday.

Gen. Gonzales de Linares issued a communique saying the battle brought to an end the first phase of a campaign aimed at driving the Communists out of the Delta region.

The rebels, who infiltrated into the area earlier, were trapped about 50 miles southeast of here when two converging columns of French troops surrounded them.

NATO Drafts Master Plan

LISBON, Feb. 23. (AP)—The Atlantic Allies lay down today a carefully drawn plan to tap western taxpayers for $300,000,000,000 for anti-Communist arms—a sum they believe can be be scraped up without bringing economic ruin. The cost will be spread over the three years ending with 1954 and is equal to $750 apiece for each of the 400,000,000 people in the 12 original Atlantic Pact coun-tries. The council of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, under chairmanship of Canada's External Affairs Minister, L. B. Pearson, is expected to give final endorsement to the plan today.

Months of intense study by economic experts—the so-called 12 wise men—went into its preparation. All the governments involved were consulted repeatedly.

Difficult Step

The plan forms an economic tightrope for many of the hard-up European countries. Many had to increase their arms spending, and the 1954 armament goals were reduced slightly, to make ends meet under the plan.

It set down ways and means to finance an army that is meant to include 30 front-line divisions and 20 in immediate reserve by the end of 1952, with planned expansion to some 88 divisions by the end of 1954.

Included in the plan is a network of airbases reaching from the Arctic to the equator, communications, ships, tanks, guns, ammunition, uniforms, barracks and the like.

The plan also provides:

N.A.T.O. governments must put airfield construction ahead of many other budgetary items to make sure the nearly 200 air bases

Expect Experts To Urge C.N.R. Enter Truck Trade

OTTAWA, Feb. 23. (CP)—The government-owned C.N.R. may soon move into the highway transport business on a big scale. The company, it was learned here, has a committee of experts at work studying the railway's No. 1 problem of highway competition. A probable committee recommendation is that the C.N.R.'s best way of beating the competition is to get into the bus-truck trade fully itself.

Bus and truck competitors have been making such inroads into railway revenues in recent years that the situation has come to be regarded by authorities as Canada's prime railway problem. The road operators — freight trucks, chiefly—are cutting in on many millions of dollars a year of what used to be rail revenue.

What hits hardest at the railways is that the trucks are spooning off the cream of the business—the so-called "high-rated" traffic. This consists of relatively expensive articles that can absorb high freight rates.

Losing Out

The railways have been losing out on this type of business, largely because the trucks are better equipped for fast handling of small quantities for short hauls. The railways are left with the bulk business on heavier and cheaper products.

One aspect of the problem is that it has forced the railways, in an attempt to hang onto their business, to depress their rates in areas where road competition is concentrated. These are largely Ontario and Quebec. The inevitable result has been that freight rates in other regions—notably the West—have to be made higher to make up for revenue deficiencies elsewhere.

Third Trenton Plane Down

TRENTON, Feb. 23 — For the second time in three days a Mustang fighter aircraft from the Air Armament School here crash-landed. A few minutes before 11 o'clock Friday morning FO. W. L. Dobbin, a staff instructor, hastily brought his plane down on the frozen surface of the Bay of Quinte, five miles southeast of Trenton, near Carrying Place, after his engine stalled.

Dobbin was engaged on a bombing exercise. The pilot was uninjured, but the belly of the aircraft caved in from the impact of the wheels, uplanding, and two propeller blades were crumped. The plane tipped up on its nose after skidding across the ice for 1,000 yards.

Ambulances from the R.C.A.F. station were directed to the scene by low-flying aircraft which were in radio communication with them.

An immediate investigation was ordered. This is the third Mustang which has been forced down in recent weeks. Air Force authorities, however, discredit the possibility of sabotage in any of the crashes.

Canada Not Very Hopeful Of U.S. Action On Seaway

OTTAWA, Feb. 23—(CP)—The Canadian government is not putting much hope in action by the United States Congress on the St. Lawrence Seaway project this year.

Despite the fact a Senate committee opens Seaway hearings at Washington Monday, authorities here say they will be greatly surprised if Congress authorizes a joint U.S.-Canada development at this session.

Plans are going ahead for the building of all-Canadian navigation facilities and for a reference to the International Joint Commission to get authorization for Ontario and some U.S. agency to establish a 2,200,000-horsepower hydro plant on the river.

Parliament last year authorized the all-Canadian canal job, to cost between $250,000,000 and $300,000,000. It also ratified an agreement between the Federal and Ontario governments giving the province the power rights.

The agreement is drawn up in the expectation of an all-Canadian canal system through the river and up into Lake Erie. It would be revised if Congress should surprise officials here and pass legislation this year to have the United States share directly in the project.

Without Congressional action, the procedure to be followed indicates the big project won't get started until at least the spring of 1953.

First thing to be settled is a dispute between Federal and New York State authorities over who gets the U.S. share of the hydro power. After that, it will take a few weeks for Ontario and the U.S. agency to get their application ready for the International Joint Commission, which controls the use of boundary waters.

A Federal committee now is at work helping Ontario prepare its case.

Ontario Has Several Plans For Housing

Frost Said Favoring Buy-As-You-Rent Building Scheme

TORONTO, Feb. 23. (CP)—The Ontario Government plans to make a many-sided attack on the housing shortage. Members of the Ontario Legislature were told on the opening day of the session, Thursday, that the government intends to act "in several ways" to stimulate house-building. Premier Frost Friday met reporters who sought a definte outline of what the government proposes to do.

Mr. Frost gave no concrete plan but said he is in favor of a buy-as-you-rent scheme, under which tenants could gain eventual ownership of their dwellings. He also indicated that several other plans have been discussed at recent meetings of federal and provincial housing officials.

The chief aim of every plan should be to encourage more house building. "The more housing that can be built, the less pressure there will be on rents," the Premier said.

Criticizes Restrictions

He took the occasion for further criticism of federal credit restrictions which, he said, were chiefly responsible for high down payments above the reach of many prospective home-buyers and consequently responsible for a falling-off in new building.

The session's second day Friday saw the house business get under way with the introduction of 11 minor bills by the government, amending or re-drafting present statutes.

More government bills will be introduced Monday and the throne speech debate will begin Tuesday when a new Progressive Conservative member, John Robarts of London, will make the formal motion for an address in reply to the speech from the throne. He will be seconded by John Root (PC-Wellington North).

A striking committee to organize the session's standing committees was set up and the standing committees, which examine the operation of government departments, will likely be formed early next week. Premier Frost announced two additions to the usual list of committees. These will be devoted to health and to travel and publicity.

Introduces Nine Bills

Nine of Friday's 11 government bills were introduced by Attorney-General Porter.

Among other things they will establish a five-day work week in Division and Surrogate courts and registry offices, increase certain registry office fees and put a ceiling on the income of justices of the peace who receives a salary for duties in magistrates' courts in addition to fees as justices of the peace.

Education Minister Dunlop, named to the cabinet before last November's election, introduced a bill under which school boards will have power to send slow-learning children from auxiliary classes to industrial schools, if they are capable of advancing. The bill is an amendment to the Vocational Education Act.

Talks On Suez Begin In Week

CAIRO, Egypt, Feb. 23 (Reuters)—Prime Minister Aly Maher Pasha told reporters today that negotiations with Britain are expected to start in Cairo next week, to settle the long dispute over control of the Suez Canal and the Sudan.

Negiotiations collapsed soon after Egypt scrapped her treaty with Britain last October signalling the start of the smouldering friction between British troops and Egyptian guerrillas in the canal zone.

There have been rising hopes of early truce talks ever since the bloody Cairo riots of Jan. 26 prompted King Farouk to dismiss the government of Nahas Pasha and place Maher's administration in power.

France In Bad Way

PARIS, Feb. 23. (AP) — France's financial position is far worse than admitted by the cabinet, and the country probably will have an 800,000,000,000 francs ($2,300,000,000) budget deficit, a French senator said today. Marcel Pellenc, member of the Upper House of Parliament, said in a published article the cabinet is overestimating receipts and under-estimating expenditures for 1952.

Plan To Send Helicopter For Sick Girl

POINT SAPIN, N.B., Feb. 23—(CP)—A four-man helicopter received last-minute checkups at Greenwood, N.S., early today, in preparation for a flight to Chatham, N.B., where it will prepare for a hop to this isolated fishing hamlet to remove a seriously-ill young girl to hospital.

A three-man para-rescue unit that dropped into this snowbound northeast coastal village Thursday to aid eight-year-old Marie Mazerolle, stood shifts during the night in a vigil at the side of the young patient, suffering a ruptured appendix.

Capt. James Gilbert, of the Army Medical Corps, reported Friday night she was conscious and that an abcess was beginning to form around the rupture, achieving the hoped-for localization.

Emergency Measures

Capt. Gilbert, a Second World War veteran of a British parachute division parachuted down near the Mazerolle home with medical supplies when snow-clogged roads cut off medical aid. He had been headed for Camp Borden, Ont., by train when the R.C.A.F. intercepted him at Newcastle, N.B.

Cpl. T. R. Roycraft, of Edmonton, and Sgt. Stan Hopkins, Peace River, Alberta, made the drop with him in a 35-mile wind.

The men jumped at dusk, "side-slipping" their chutes to keep from drifting into the menacing Atlantic.

The jump was necessitated when the air force reported it had no helicopters with sufficient range to reach Point Sapin and there was no area for an othodox landing.

Coalition Government Resigns In Indo-China

JAKARTA, Indonesia, Feb. 23 (AP).—Premier Soekiman's 10-month-old coalition government resigned to President Soekarno today.

The resignation of the young republic's third government in its 26 months of independence became inevitable after Soekiman's own party, the Moslem Masjumi, decided Friday night to withdraw its support over the burning issue of accepting American aid.
